Two years ago we made the same trip and when within half a mile of the cemetery, we were warned of places in the road that were impassable except on horseback or on foot, and that unsafe after dark. To get to the cemetery we were obliged to detour five miles.

A few days after Decoration day, we met parties who had the same experience as we in getting to and from the cemetery. Others asked us if we would testify as to the condition of the road for them should they enter complaint against the unnecessary condition of the road. Since then we have been told that others are about to make complaint.

We will be only too glad to bear testimony to the horrible condition of the road. There is no doubt but what the town will be a defendant in a well-defined case of wilfull neglect to keep in safe and comfortable repair a road leading to and past a cemetery.

YOUR HEALTH

Accepting Life

By Dr. Horatio M. Pollock, Albany.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

In every active, ambitious person there arises a conflict between what he wants to do and what he is able to do—between desire and ability. He wants a large salary or a large income from his business; but his earning power may not be above the average. He wants a position of high rank, yet lacks the necessary qualifications or has no means of attaining it. He wants fine clothes, an expensive automobile, and a luxurious home but does not have sufficient wealth to obtain any of these things. He wants a mate of exceptional beauty and charm and he may be able to find no one who meets his expectations, in these and in many other ways he fails to satisfy his instinctive longings.

His attitude in the face of these disappointments is a test of his real worth. If he adopts the unwholesome habit of blaming others for his lack of success; if he becomes sullen and angry at every rebuff; if he seeks consolation by telling a hard luck story to anyone who will lend a sympathetic ear; if he loses interest in his work and in his personal appearance; if he indulges in worry or day-dreaming; if he retaliates for fancied insults or injuries—if he does any of these things—he will not only fail to meet the test but will render himself less able to satisfy other desires. He may even undermine his mental and physical health.

On the other hand, if he meets disappointment with renewed courage and vigor; if he puts the ideal of service above the hope of reward; if he places a moderate estimate on his ability and strives cheerfully for the good things within his reach; and if he holds himself rigidly to careful physical well-being, he will gain strength and may gradually attain a mastery of himself and of his field of work that will yield much personal satisfaction and win for him adequate material rewards and a large measure of social esteem.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Fletcher, Terry Company, Forestville.

The Fletcher, Terry company was organized in 1903 by Fred S. Fletcher and Franklin E. Terry. Mr. Terry's father, and grandfather before him, were pioneers in the manufacture of wooden clocks and Terryville, was named for them.

Fred S. Fletcher was born in Nebraska, and at an early age came to Connecticut to enter the employ of his uncle, S. G. Monce, who was the first to be granted a patent on the steel glass cutter wheel.

The Fletcher, Terry company began their early manufacturing of glass cutters in an old barn on the Terry homestead in Forestville. In those early days diamonds were used for cutting glass, orders for steel wheels were few and sales resistance great.

The Fletcher, Terry company was incorporated in 1911, and in 1915 they tripled their factory floor space. Since that time, they have been obliged to enlarge their plant every year.

Within recent years rapid strides have been made in the manufacture and improvement of the steel wheel glass cutter. The company has originated a new method of honing their wheels which permits them to manufacture wheels for cutting all grades and tempers of glass, and all "gold of the company to the very last. Mr. Fletcher's two sons, Arthur and Franklin, are now associated with him in the business.

The product of The Fletcher Terry company is now taken as standard tip" wheels are manufactured from high speed steel.

Mr. Terry died in 1926 and was active in the development and growth both in this and foreign countries, and practically every glass manufacturer of note has standardized on the gold tip wheels.

The present officers are: I. T. Fletcher, president; A. T. Fletcher, vice president; Fred S. Fletcher, secretary and treasurer; Lloyd E. Jennings, director of sales.

TAFTVILLE COUPLE HOLDS SILVER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Malone of Taftville celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary Thursday, attending a special high mass in the morning, enjoying a reception at their home through the day and a banquet tendered to about 40 relatives and intimate friends at St. Teresa's hall in the evening. By a happy co-incidence the banquet was served in the auditorium of the church, now the assembly hall of the parish, and then the unfinished portion of the present Sacred Heart church.

In the morning at 7:30 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Malone attended a high mass offered in their honor by the pastor, Rev. Frederick R. DesSureault, to thank God for the blessings which their married life had brought to them. The congregation at the mass numbered about 100. During the day there was a reception held at the Malone home, Providence street, at which a large number availed themselves of the opportunity to meet the happy couple and convey their greetings in person. Numerous gifts of silver showed the esteem in which the couple are held by their friends.

The banquet held in the evening opened at 9 o'clock, at which covers were laid for 40. The following menu was served: Fruit cocktail, roast turkey, dressing, peas, celery hearts assorted pickles, potatoes, croquettes, cranberry, lettuce and tomato salad, assorted cakes and cookies, ice cream, coffee, cigars.

Serving as toastmaster for the gala event was Rev. Frederick R. DesSureault, the pastor of the parish, who was seated at the main table. At his left were the bridal couple and at this table the immediate relatives of the bridal party. Seats of honor were also accorded the two curates, Revs. Omer T. Mandler and Donat Jette. There were special favors at each plate and in the center of the table arrangement was a wedding bell marked "Twenty-five Years," to which was attached a streamer for each guest and as the guests rang the bell mirth provokers were found at their plates.

Fr. DesSureault, proved himself a very capable toastmaster and during the serving of the courses community singing was enjoyed by the banqueters from the song sheets at their plates. Fr. DesSureault paid a glowing tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Malone, for their noble deeds lives spent in the parish and the example they set in parish endeavors. Mr. Malone has spent the past 23 years as pew rent collector and usher at Sacred Heart church, while the excellent soprano voice of Mrs. Malone has been heard in the parish choir for years and she has been an active worker in the church societies. Rev. Donat Jette, junior curate of the parish, followed Fr. DesSureault and paid a just tribute to the jubilarians as did also Rev. Omer T. Mandler, the senior curate. Joseph A. Donnelly of Norwich, conveyed the sentiments of the laity.

Fr. DesSureault then favored the party with a recitation of a poem entitled "Alaska," which brought forth rounds of applause. Mrs. Malone was then heard in a solo, "Just a Line to You, Daddy," which displayed her fine soprano voice. Then the party was grouped at the piano where there were duet and chorus numbers by the assemblage with Miss Mary Newman presiding at the piano. A card party of bridge and whist closed the evening's festivities and prizes were awarded as follows: At bridge—Mrs. Dennis C. Murphy and Rev. Frederick R. DesSureault. At whist—Miss Margaret Flynn, Miss Catherine Malone, Mrs. Christopher Caron; bed James Malone, James Murphy, Christopher Caron.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Malone were married in Sacred Heart church on June 5, 1905, by Rev. Arthur O'Keefe, then pastor, now deceased, and all of their married life has been spent in the parish. Many of those present on Thursday evening attended the wedding, 25 years ago, among whom was James Murphy, who attended the groom. The honored guest at the banquet was Peter Malone, father of the groom, and now in his 85th year. He thoroughly enjoyed the celebration and stayed until the affair ended at midnight.

Mr. Malone is employed in the finishing department of the J. B. Martin Co. plant on Franklin street and the family home is on Providence street, Taftville. The tables for the banquet were arranged in the form of the letter U and the hall was tastefully decorated for the occasion. The guests were all assembled at the hall and to the music of Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Miss Newman, the bridal party arrived, and held a short reception to meet the guests before the party was seated for the feast.

Among those present were the bridal party, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Malone, Rev. Frederick R. DesSureault, pastor, Revs. Omer T. Mandler, Donat Jette, curates of Sacred Heart church, Taftville; the Misses May, Agnes, Catherine Malone, Peter and James Malone, Mrs. Sarah Nolan, the Misses Mary and Susan Nolan, Mrs. Dennis C. Murphy, the Misses Rose and Mary Murphy, James Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Caron, Miss Theresa Hanley, Miss Margaret Flynn, Miss Mary Newman, Miss Mary Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Gaucher, Miss Annie Lacour, all of Taftville, Mrs. Anthony Casey, Providence, R. I., Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Shea, Hartford, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McHugh, Valley Falls, R. I., Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Casey, Hartford, Mrs. Matilda Padula, Hartford, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Donovan, Bristol, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Carroll, Joseph A. Donnelly, Norwich, Mrs. Matilda Shea, Hartford.

NORWICH HISTORY RECITAL IS CONTINUED IN 8TH BROADCAST

The eighth broadcast in the Norwich series from station WTIC was given from 10 to 10:30 Friday night, with reception reported very satisfactory as the Doctor and the Schoolmaster were heard over the air as follows:

ANNOUNCER: The old doctor and his old friend, the schoolmaster, return to you once more, ladies and gentlemen, for another program sponsored by the Merchants bureau of the chamber of commerce, Norwich, Connecticut, "The Rose of New England."

Norwich is situated at the head of the Thames river, in the southeastern corner of Connecticut. Although an inland city, it is a seaport, having direct water connection with the seven oceans. The development of Norwich has been unique. There is no other city in the world like it. The original colony, called Norwich Town, was planted several miles back from the river. It exists today with a colonial atmosphere almost unchanged.

When men turned to the sea for wealth, the Landing, or Chelsea landing, down at the river, began to develop. Here we find the very modern business section of Norwich. The modern residence lies back of this, on high ground. It has been humorously observed that a Norwich business man may get into his motor car at home and coast downtown, without starting his engine.

The manufacturing sections are on each side of the city, along the Yantic and Shetucket, and other plunging streams that riot into the Thames. These sections were preempted for manufacturing long before George Washington took his first oath of office. Add to this picture long vistas of ancient elm trees, wide stretches of green parks, and bare, broken uplifts of rock, untouched by the passing of centuries, and you have a picture of Norwich of 1930, the "Rose of New England."

Tonight, we meet the Doctor and the Schoolmaster on the links near the new Norwich inn, passing time with a bit of putting practice before dining.

DOCTOR: Very good, professor, in time you'll be a golfer, in time.

SCHOOLMASTER: I'll take salt with any praise from you, doctor, if you don't mind. You haven't been doing so marvelously yourself.

DOCTOR: When I made that remark about time, I happened to think of an old clockmaker of ours, Thomas Harland. He was born in Norwich two years before the Revolution. Before he died, he had a reputation throughout New England.

SCHOOLMASTER: Those were the days, doctor, when a craftsman was a craftsman!

DOCTOR: That's all right, I suppose, but when you bought a clock you bought it for three or four generations. You can't call that keeping money in circulation! But they were good clocks for their day! He made watches, too, horizontal and repeating watches, in gold, silver and metal-covered cases.

SCHOOLMASTER: Did you ever see any of those old watches?

DOCTOR: One or two. Can't compare with our modern watches. And this Harland made spring clocks and musical clocks, and church clocks, and regulators. He taught apprentices, too.

SCHOOLMASTER: Naturally! They all did in those days.

DOCTOR: I've read that apprentices came to him from all over New England. In 1790, he had an establishment of ten or twelve hands.

SCHOOLMASTER: I'd like to pick up one of those old-time clocks. They're all the fashion nowdays.

DOCTOR: You'd have some search. Harland had an apprentice named Eli Terry, who afterward became a well-know clockmaker. There is one of his clocks in Norwich.

SCHOOLMASTER: What a pile of romance has been woven about the clock! It figures in history, in literature, in art, yes, and in music.

DOCTOR: In all your wandering about Norwich, I don't imagine you've ever picked up the knowledge that this was once a gold-mining community.

SCHOOLMASTER: That's news to me! How much gold was ever produced here!

DOCTOR: Well, that's something else. You know where Wauwecus Hill is? Back in 1851, some bright minds got the idea there was gold in that hill. The result was the Wauwecus Hill Mining company, capitalized at $500,000. The company got a 100-year lease to dig gold, silver, nickle, or what have you.

SCHOOLMASTER: I give it up, what had they?

DOCTOR: They developed a one-way investment, all in and nothing out. If there's any gold in Wauwecus Hill it's still there.

SCHOOLMASTER: Think my stance is improving, doctor?

DOCTOR: You handle that golf club as if you were trying to spear a whale. There's another thing Norwich has had a hand in, the whaling industry. In a small way, of course.

SCHOOLMASTER: When you speak of the whaling industry, you say New London to me.

DOCTOR: Yes, I know, New London, Connecticut, was the center of it, but Norwich had a finger in the pie. In 1852, we had a factory here making a whaling-gun and bomblace.

SCHOOLMASTER: Whatever that may be.

DOCTOR: It was a patented affair, invented by Christopher C. Brand. As I remember it, there was a musket about 3 feet long which fired a projectile 12 feet long. This projectile was also a gun, that is, when it struck the whale it exploded.

SCHOOLMASTER: Must have been tough on the whale, but it sounds like a sure thing. Of course you know Norwich is still making firearms.

DOCTOR: We're one of the very few cities in the country with a firearms industry. Why, back in 1842 we were making revolving pistols.

SCHOOLMASTER: In other words, a revolver.

DOCTOR: We've always had some concern in town making either rifles or revolvers, sometimes both. During the Civil war, the Bacon Manufacturing company turned out 30,000 of the old Springfield rifles on a government contract.

SCHOOLMASTER: I was through the plant of the Crescent Firearms company a few days ago. They're turning out a splendid line of popular-priced pistols. I forget the production figures, but the production of Norwich pistols of 50 years ago, even, is enough to stagger you. 45 to 50 thousand a month. Beats the Dutch, doesn't it!

DOCTOR: When you beat the Dutch, you're doing something. And not very often in the old days did the Dutch turn a hand for the English. One of those rare instances occurred down at Saybrook, before Norwich was founded.

SCHOOLMASTER: I've never heard the story.

DOCTOR: It's not a Norwich story except for the fact that Major Mason had an interest in it, and the setting for the greater part of the story is down at the mouth of the Thames river. In 1637, the Major left Hartford under orders to exterminate the Pequot tribe of Indians.

SCHOOLMASTER: Exterminate, doctor? Sounds ominous!

DOCTOR: Kill or be killed was the law of the Pequots. The English concluded to do their killing first. Mason took with him a picked body of men, 90 Englishmen and 70 Indians, and came down the Connecticut river across to Saybrook. Upon reaching Saybrook, the party fell in with a Dutch trading vessel, anchored under the guns of the fort. The Dutch wanted permission to trade with the Pequots.

SCHOOLMASTER: Rather embarrassing request for the English!

DOCTOR: The English refused to allow the Dutch to proceed. Their reasons, of course, were good. Every pot and kettle the Dutch sold to the Pequots means more arrow-heads for the Indians. According to history, the argument waxed long and hot. In the end, the Dutch offered to do a good turn for the English.

SCHOOLMASTER: And what was that, doctor?

DOCTOR: Release two girls held as prisoners by the Pequots.

SCHOOLMASTER: Wouldn't you call that two good turns?

DOCTOR: Suit yourself. The Eng-

GRADUATION HELD FOR STATE HOSPITAL NURSES

The training school for nurses at Norwich state hospital, graduated a class of four Friday evening at the assembly hall of the hospital in the presence of a large gathering, including relatives and friends of the graduates. The assembly hall was most attractively decorated in rose and silver, the class colors, and the electric lights were softly shaded. The members of the graduating class in white uniforms, were seated in front of the platform.

The exercises opened at 8 o'clock with the processional, the march being played by the state hospital orchestra. Rev. Percy A. Kilmister, pastor of the First Baptist church, offered prayer, after which Mrs. Helena M. T. Church, accompanied by Mrs. William H. Stebbins, was heard in a finely rendered vocal selection. The address to the graduates was delivered by Rev. George Clark, of Preston City. I congratulate the state of Connecticut for this institution, and for all other institutions, like it, in the state, said Rev. Mr. Clark. I congratulate this institution for the good work it has and is doing and I congratulate this class for the faith, courage, and steadfastness they have manifested in their course. I congratulate and compliment them that they had it in them to recognize the call to service and that they have realized their ability to devote themselves to this high cause.

The nurse has given herself to the greatest mission that can come to man or woman, he said. The greatest battle being waged today is the conflict against disease which attacks us in a three fold way, mentally, normally and physically. These young ladies have consecreted themselves in helping to combat this three fold attack, to make the world a better place to live in.

Rev. Mr. Clark referred to the fact that he was a member of the first class of male nurses graduated from Bellevue hospital, in 1890. He compared the more or less crude methods of physicians and nurses of 40 years ago, with the present modern methods.

With reference to the nursing profession he said: There are no other forces in the world that can take your places, if you fail, the world fails.

After another vocal solo by Mrs. Church, Rev. Mr. Kilmister presented the diplomas to the graduates. A selection by the orchestra brought the formal exercises to a close after which dancing was enjoyed until 11:30 o'clock.

The graduates are Ethel O'Mara, of Indianapolis, Ind., Bernadette Cote, of Baltic, Violet Bushman, of New York city, and Emma Levesque of Toledo, Ohio. The class motto is E. Pluribus Unum, the class colors rose and silver and the class flower the tea rose. Dr. James J. Donohue of the board of trustees of the hospital, presided at the graduation exercises.

DANIELSON BOY DROWNED WHILE SWIMMING IN RIVER

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 6.—The treacherous swirling waters of the Quinebaug river where they flow deep and dark under the state highway bridge at South Main street claimed another victim tonight just about 7 o'clock in the person of Simeon Poudrette, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Poudrette of 69 Franklin street. The body was recovered within an hour, and after being viewed by Dr. F. P. Todd, was taken to the undertaking rooms of Martin T. Burns.

The boy had been swimming with two companions at this particularly dangerous place where the current is fairly strong and had been featuring his swim by dives from the top of the bridge abutment. He was caught in the strong current and, though fighting valiantly to get ashore, was unable to do so. Two smaller boys who were swimming with him extended their hands to help him but they were unable to hold on and the Poudrette boy was swept under the bridge to his death.

Lieut. Rosa V. Urquhardt and State Officer Henry Mayo of the Danielson barracks with the station equipment for recovering drowned persons, went to the bridge and assisted in the search for the body, which was finally hauled to the surface with grappling irons by Paul Gaudreau. The body had been in the water from 15 to 20 minutes when recovered and an inhalator was brought into action to try to revive the boy but without success.

The drowned boy is one of a family of several children and was to have been graduated from St. James school within a few days.

BLISSVILLE RESIDENT WAS DAMAGED BY FIRE

The two-story frame residence of Wilmer P. Smith, located on the Jewett City road in the Blissville section of the town of Lisbon, was slightly damaged by fire Friday afternoon about 4 o'clock. The blaze was in the second story of the building occupied by the owner's son, Franklin Smith and his family, who were not at home at the time. Children returning from school noticed smoke issuing from the structure and gave the alarm.

The Taftville fire department was notified and made a quick response to extinguish the blaze with a couple of cans of chemical, keeping the damage down to between $500 and $400. Had it not been for the timely discovery of the blaze the building would have gone up in flames, it was the opinion of the owner, as there is no water supply near at hand other than wells.

The blaze was caused from defective wiring and was located in the walls, part of the damage being caused from chopping away the sides of the rooms, in order that the firemen might get to the seat of the flames.

EIGHTH GRADE PUPILS SING AT SLATER HALL

As an experiment looking toward the starting of annual concerts by the pupils of the eighth grade in the public schools of Norwich, Miss Mary E. Rogers, supervisor of music, brought together about 400 children Thursday afternoon at Slater hall, made up mostly of eighth grade pupils, but with a few from the seventh grade.

There were two representatives from the C. C. Burchard Co., of Boston, and guests from Louisiana and Westerly to hear them.

Songs were sung by the entire gathering and there were numbers by different groups of singers from the various schools. The results were particularly pleasing, the quality of the tone by the girls being noteworthy, while the singing by the six boys from the Greeneville school was one of the features.

Taken all together the singing was excellent and the bringing together of the eighth grade pupils was a gratifying success.

Will Make Convention Report

Rev. David A. Pitt, pastor of the Central Baptist church, has returned from the Northern Baptist convention in Cleveland and will speak, Sunday morning, on "Nineteen Hundred Years After." This was the theme of the Cleveland convention. The Lord's supper will be observed at the morning service.

C. Bertrand Race of Albany, N. Y., a former associate of Fred Maples, will assist the choir in the special music of the day.

At 5 o'clock in the afternoon the church school will observe Children's day with a service to which the public will be welcome.

MINIMUM SENTENCE IS GIVEN IN HUBER CASE

William S. Huber, former bookkeeper at the Turner-Stanton company mill on Broad street, who collapsed last Friday in the superior court as Judge Allyn L. Brown was about to sentence him upon conviction on a statutory arson charge, was presented in court here Friday morning before Judge Brown and was given a state prison sentence of from one year to one year and nine months.

Attorney Shapiro, counsel for Huber stated to the court that he intended to take an appeal to the supreme court and asked that bail be allowed for Huber, but Judge Brown declined to allow this and directed that he be confined in jail here for a short time.

State Attorney Arthur M. Brown had no recommendation to make as he moved for sentence, but Attorney Shapiro spoke at length for Huber as follows:

Mr. Shapiro: "I simply want to suggest to your honor that in view of what transpired after the verdict of the jury came in, Mr. Huber's condition, in view of his physical condition and, of course, the fact that now his reputation is blasted and there is no question that no matter what the court will now do in exercising as much mercy as I know the court will even to the highest degree, his reputation and so far as I can observe his character is blasted, he has to start all over again. Huber is not the type of man who is the typical criminal we meet in our courts. This is certainly not the time or place or occasion or is it proper to discuss the finding of the jury; we must concede that the jury unanimously found him guilty and I simply call your honor's attention at this time to facts that you know; Huber is a native and always enjoyed an excellent reputation and that reputation is now blasted. All he can do now is to pick up the pieces and try and put them together again. He received the severest blow: what happens now will be merely cumulative. The shock of finding him guilty, destroying his whole reputation and character apparently now will be supplemented by such penalty as your honor sees fit to impose. I do believe that if your honor does not feel that the case warrants a suspended judgment as we have discussed, I think the very smallest kind of penalty ought to be imposed because so far as Huber is concerned I don't think I have to stress the fact that he realizes the consequence of the finding. And in sofar as the purpose of sentence is to inflict punishment upon him, he has already had it. Of course I understand that the law says punishment is to act as a deterent upon others. I think what happened here Wednesday night was certainly as serious as I ever witnessed in my 24 years' experience of practice and I doubt if your honor has witnessed a similar scene, and under the circumstances I still feel that if this man were put on probation the ends of justice would be met but if your honor feels that you have to do something I think the very least that possibly can be imposed in this case would be equivalent to a maximum that you might impose on others.

"I realize while we argue the case to the jury we are not supposed to appeal to their sympathy but the case must be decided on the facts, but we are all human and I believe if ever an occasion when justice ought to be tempered with mercy this is the proper occasion for it.

"I know your honor has been through this long tedious trial and I don't want to tire you further but if there is any mercy to be extended to him I know your honor will grant it."

Mr. Brown: "I have nothing further to say.

Judge Brown Passes Sentence.

Judge Brown: As I suggested at the time I was about to pronounce sentence last week, it is not a pleasant duty for the court at any time to pronounce sentence upon any accused.

"It certainly is a much less welcome duty to pronounce sentence on one whose reputation as far as the evidence discloses has been unblemished up to time of this unfortunate affair.

"At the same time I am constrained to say under the evidence that has been presented that I feel that the verdict of the jury was the only verdict which the jury could logically arrive at upon the evidence. The accused certainly had the benefit of a very able defense and a full defense, and in my opinion, of a fair trial. If the duty had been for the court to make a finding the guilt or innocence of this accused, which I am glad it was not, upon the same evidence, I should have reached the same conclusion the jury reached. Whatever the reason or however sufficient or insufficient the motive of the accused may have been to commit this offense, the fact remains a property loss of $20,000 to $25,000 resulted from his act.

The statute, which provides for a maximum of five years in state prison for such offense requires the imposition of a state prison sentence, which therefore means, of course, a sentence of at least one year in state prison.

"I think I am warranted in assuming from the conduct of the accused in the past that his record in serving his sentence will be such that he can reasonably expect to get the benefit of the minimum sentence. So far as I am concerned personally, I hope that he will.

"The sentence of the court is that the accused be imprisoned in state prison for not less than one nor more than one year and nine months."

New Evidence Discovered.

After sentence was pronounced, Attorney Shapiro asked the court for a stay of sentence on the grounds that new evidence had been called to his attention. Attorney Shapiro addressed the court as follows:

"Yesterday my attention was drawn to certain evidence which I have just had last night and this morning checked up. How far I can go with it, I don't know. There are two very important developments—I mention these to the state attorney—they are not clear however for me to discuss yet with the court.

"I call your honor's attention before Mr. Huber is taken into custody. I was going to file notice of appeal and am going to ask your honor if you will exercise your discretion during the pendency of say, some 10 days, giving me time to investigate this evidence thoroughly. I would ask under the circumstances of what has developed and evidence brought to my attention last night, and in view of the fact Mr. Huber is not the type who will escape (so far as I know he will be here at proper time) and in justice to the cause that he be allowed to go out on the same bond until this appeal is perfected, or on whatever bond your honor thinks necessary.

Refuses Bail

In refusing bail to Huber, Judge Brown said:

"Of course, I want to be perfectly fair to the accused and his counsel but rather an unusual course has been taken already in deferring sentence which in view of what happened, I thought proper, and it has given accused sufficient time to meet the situation which now confronts him. I think the accused should begin to serve his sentence, as pronounced, today, and I will notify the sheriff to keep him here locally for a few days in order to give you opportunity to perfect your appeal if you find the facts warrant."

ACADEMY MEETS HILLHOUSE HIGH AT CAMPUS TODAY IN OBJECTIVE GAME

TODAY'S LINEUPS

N. F. A.	Hillhouse
Arico, 1b	ss, Torello
Fitzgerald, lf	3b, Gemski
Gibbs, ss	lf, Macosky
Fontaine, c	rf, Sheehan
Breen, 3b	1b, Fitch
Welsgraber, rf	2b, Moore
Pepin, cf	cf, Davidson
Geer, lf	c, Lockery
Greene, p	p, Flynn

Game starts at 2 p. m.

One of the most important games on the Academy's schedule is down for settlement at the campus this afternoon when Hillhouse high of New Haven tackles the Wildcats. The action will begin at 3 o'clock and the umpires will be Johnny Murphy behind the plate and Charlie Lavarge on the bases. The school band will make one of its last appearances of the year today, playing for a half hour before the game and between the innings.

Hillhouse is one of the objective opponents for Academy baseball teams, sharing that distinction with Bulkeley and Harding high of Bridgeport. So far, the Academy has won one and lost two of these crucial contests and Friday offers them the opportunity to gain an even break. It will also be their chance to gain their 15th victory in 19 starts this season.

Boots Greene, who lost a hard-luck game to New Britain high last Saturday, will get the mound assignment and hopes to even matters up a bit today. He will be opposed, however, by Tommy Flynn, veteran right-hander of the New Haven school, who is rated as one of the best pitchers in the state. Flynn will also want a little revenge too, for in 1928, the state championship Academy team treated him rather harshly in the game which the Wildcats won, 9 to 1, to clinch their title.

The Hillhouse team that will face the Wildcats today is the same one that ran up a sensational string of 13 straight victories this season. They have now lost three straight, however, and will spare nothing to get back on the winning road.

The Academy's lineup behind Greene will probably be composed of Bud Fontaine behind the bat, Arico, Fitzgerald, Gibbs and Breen in the infield, and Geer, Pepin, Welsgraber, Flather and Crowell in the outfield.

HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

The present standing in the Eastern Connecticut-Western Rhode Island league is as follows:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Bulkeley	9	1	.900
N. F. A.	6	3	.667
Chapman Tech	5	3	.625
Westerly	5	5	.500
Windham	2	7	.222
Stonington	1	9	.100

There is one game remaining in the league, to be played today at Willimantic between Chapman Tech and Windham. A Tech win will put that team in a tie for second place with the Academy. Bulkeley has been presented the ineligible game which Stonington won early in the season, making it nine wins and one lost for the Whalers. This is the first time in recent years that this question has arisen in a baseball game.

The last ineligibility question arose in an Academy-Chapman Tech basketball game in 1927 and, oddly enough, New London was at that time also presented with a game to give it a synthetic title.

Little Ansonia high is making some trouble for high school teams of the state this baseball season. They beat Naugatuck high last Saturday with Charlie Strepanik, star pitcher, striking out 20 men. The score was 1 to 0. Naugy comes here next Saturday.

Stonington high closed its season with the Academy game. By graduation, Captain Gedomski and Lefty Hughes will be lost.

Harding high swamped Wilby of Waterbury this week, 21 to 2.

PLAINFIELD CONTINUES TO WIN IN TWILIGHT LEAGUE

(Special to The Bulletin)

MOOSUP, June 6.—Plainfield continued its winning streak in the Eastern Connecticut Twilight league by defeating the league leaders, the Moosup team, by the score of 1 to 0, Friday evening. George Marriott of Plainfield, pitched spectacular ball, striking out five and holding the locals to three hits, which is a remarkable feat as all of the Moosup boys up until tonight had batting averages of better than .500. Dissinger, playing manager of the Plainfield team, started off in the second inning with a sizzling liner to center field for a single, stole second and raced home on Peck Allard's sharp single to left.

In the third inning Pechie tripled to deep left and would have had a home run but for the fact that the base umpire was in the base line and delayed the runner. Eno pitched a good game for Moosup but his heavy sticks failed to live up to their reputation when facing the slants of Marriott.

Plainfield is now a half game away from the league leaders.

Hall, professional of the Birmingham Country club had a card of 291.

SHYMA CLUB CLASHES WITH STERLING TODAY

This afternoon at the Providence street ground, Taftville, the Shymas will tackle the Sterling Town team in what should turn out to be a good game, as the teams seem to be evenly matched. The Sterling boys are playing a fast brand of ball and feel sure of inflicting the first defeat of the season on the local boys. In their lineup will be many former Plainfield high luminaries and they will take the field in the following order: Galiup, 1b; Brown, 2b; J. French, ss; Burton, rf; A. French, 3b; Burdick, lf; Gartvey, cf; Russell, c, with either Vaillancourt or Parkhurst doing the pitching.

The Shymas, fresh from their two victories over the fast Holy Name team of Jewett City and boasting of an undefeated record so far this season, will without a doubt be facing their hardest task of the season in the Sterling team and have been hard at practice during the week and feel sure that the visitors will return to their home town on the short end of the score. Either Letty Lucier or Faucher will toe the rubber in this game, with Burelle behind the bat. The rest of the lineup will be: Wilk, 1b; Bunk, 2b; Ulewisz, 3b; N. Lemieux, ss; A. Lemieux, lf; Raymond, cf, with either Benoit or Dudeck in right field.

On Sunday, the Shymas travel to Fitchville, where they will meet the team from that place. The battery for this game will be Burelle, catch, while the pitcher will be picked from Lucier, Faucher or Dudeck.

VON ELM BEATS MORRISON TO BECOME FRENCH CHAMPION

LA BOULIE, France, June 6.—(AP)—George Von Elm, of Detroit, former amateur golf champion of the United States and holder of many titles during his brilliant career, today added the French amateur crown to his collection.

Von Elm defeated R. G. Morrison, of England, nine up and eight to play in the 36-hole final.

The American played great golf throughout, covering the 18 holes of the morning round in 70 strokes, and establishing a five-hole lead over his English rival.

After luncheon, Von Elm went out in 34 strokes and increased his lead to nine up, becoming dormie on the ninth. The Detroiter was ten up at the 26th but slipped at the 27th, where Morrison won his only hole of the afternoon round. A half in threes at the 28th decided the match and the championship.

Von Elm succeeds another American as French amateur champion, Jack Westland, of Chicago, who did not defend the title.

The American was especially sensational on the greens, putting with rare skill.

LONDOS THROWS SHIKAT IN ALLEGED TITLE MATCH

PHILADELPHIA, June 6—(AP)—Jim Londos, Greek grappler, defeated Dick Shikat, Philadelphia, in a one-fall title match at the Phillies ball park tonight. Shikat, who had been recognized as world's champion by the Pennsylvania and New York athletic commissions, weighed 217 pounds. Londos scaled 200.

Londos won the title with a body hold after they had tugged and hauled at each other for one hour and 23 minutes. The finish came suddenly and unexpectedly to many of the 20,000 who witnessed the bout, a moment after Shikat had sent Londos to the rain-soaked mat twice with body slams.

As the referee slapped Londos on the back indicating that the champion had been pinned, hundreds attempted to climb into the ring, and police rushed inside the ropes to keep the ring clear.

Up to the moment of the finish there was little to choose between the grapplers.

TOMMY DONOHUE MAKES VISIT TO SHARKEY CAMP

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., June 6.—(AP) — Jack Sharkey, boxing cleverly, pummeled a trio of sparring partners in a five-round workout before 1,500 spectators today.

Johnny Grosso and Paul Cavalier alternated against the Boston ex-sailor in the first four rounds and King Solomon opposed him in the final session. Sharkey was having one of his best days.

Sharkey will wind up training for his June 12 bout with Max Schmeling with a light workout on Tuesday.

THE SAD FATE OF A STRAW KELLY

It was a new straw hat, only purchased that morning from the haberdasher who guaranteed it to be the very latest accoutrement of the well-dressed man. The glistening whiteness of the straw reflected the rays of a mid-day sun with such brilliancy that the proud owner looked as though his head was adorned with a halo. Passersby slowed their steps as they passed and viewed the spectacle with envious eyes. It stood out among that motley collection of last year's felts and derbies like a nugget of gold in a pan of clay.

The gentleman, on whose brow rested this masterpiece of the hatter's art was not unmindful of the admiring glances cast upon his newest acquisition as he stood waiting at the curb of a busy corner for traffic to clear. It was the snappiest chapeau he had possessed since that Panama that the boss had brought him from the West Indies. The Panama had given way to this more striking, if not as expensive, headpiece. Frequently he would raise a hand to the hat to more snugly seat it upon his head, for there was quite a breeze about that day, and, breezes are mortal enemies of straw hats.

In an unguarded moment an evil breeze sneaked up behind that pride of the haberdashery and in the twinkling of an eye it was wafted into the thundering maelstrom of traffic. An expression of anguish and utter despair overspread the face of the man, who now stood uncovered on the curb. It was the prompt action of two of his friends that prevented him from rushing into that honking horde of cars to effect a rescue.

Still propelled by that evil breeze the hat went skipping blithely among the engines of destruction as gayly as a child released from school. As if guided by some unseen, but tantalizing spirit, it rolled gayly under a truck only to emerge unscathed on the other side; it slid against the tire of a limousine but bounced off unhurt; it skimmed in front a ramshackle old delivery wagon; it hopped over a speeding roadster like a hurdler, and then traffic stopped. The hat slid to a stop on the other side of the street, abandoned by the evil breeze.

The owner dashed madly from the curb, his locks streaming in the breeze and his face glowing with an expression of infinite relief, an expression such as is seen on the face of a mother who sees her child rescued from a burning building. The street was wide and traffic would halt for only a minute. Would he make it before that thundering caravan bore down on him again? Yes, No. The traffic officer's whistle shrilled its warning note. One frantic leap, another and another. Traffic was getting underway. A few feet more and all would be well. A piercing blast from a horn, the squeal of brakes and the man jumped back. He cast one angonizing glance at his beloved hat; stretched forth a rescuing hand, but, alas,—too late. A fourteen truck thundered its way down the avenue, another and another and then a fourth, leaving in their wake a shapeless mass of straw. The man, his face clouded with a most woebegone expression, tears starting in his eyes, turned to his friends and solemnly pronounced a benediction—"It's gone."

And the old Panama is at the cleaners.

PRELIMINARY BOUT SHOULD FURNISH PLENTY OF THRILLS

From all reports the opening preliminaries to the Shyma card at Martin field Wednesday night will provide the fans with plenty of thrills to say nothing of some good hearty laughs. Bernie Corcoran of Taftville, who tips the scales around 170 pounds is to meet King Grabb of Westerly in the four round opener. Bernie, of course, is well known to local people, especially those about Fancy Corner, the liveliest spot north of the city line.

Bernie has had pugilistic aspirations ever since he saw Minnow Beauregard ascend to the heights in his bout with Mush Moriarty. Bernie, who takes his boxing as seriously as Jack Sharkey, has been training faithfully and well. He is in perfect physical condition and is on edge to show the boys that he can uphold the honor of the corner. But it is Bernie's first bout which means that the fans can expect most anything.

King Grabb of Westerly is also engaging in his first bout which makes honors even. Grabb is said to be more or less of a boxing comedian and those who have seen him in action have left the training quarters holding onto their sides. Bernie says that Grabb may be funny but he'll be a lot funnier looking when he gets through with him.

BALTIC SOCIAL TEAM PLAYS J. C. HOLY NAME SUNDAY

The Baltic Social and Athletic baseball team will play the Holy Name team from Jewett City Sunday, at Sayles field, Baltic, in what is expected to be a fast game. Lucier, Baltic's star pitcher, has been signed up by the Smoke Shop, so the management has secured Rabbit Gaucher, who pitched fine ball for the Taftville A. A. club a few seasons back. The Holy Name team will send down the following: Willem, shortstop; Gaska, center field; Perry first base; Pezo, catcher; Beaulieu, right field; Salonski, third base; Kusek, second base; Bernal or Liberty in the box. For Baltic the team will be picked from the following: Albert Passmore, Bastien, Charron, Ernest Passmore, McShane, Earl Passmore, Detremb, Blanchette, Stewart, Coullard and Andrews. Gaucher and Provencher will form the battery.

Wiley Springs Surprise

HARTFORD, June 6.—(AP)—Lee Wiley, of Hartford, provided an upset in the New England tennis championships at the Hartford Golf club today, when he eliminated J. Gilbert Hall, of Orange, N. J., 6-4, 4-6, 7-5. Wiley used a loop ball which baffled the titleholder in the first and second sets.

Dan Costigan and his cohorts of Fall River will be the attraction at the J. B. Martin field Sunday afternoon. A disciple of the old school, Manager Costigan never fails each year to band together a team of ball tossers capable of giving the Velvetmen some stiff opposition. The visitors will present practically the same lineup that has appeared here on several occasions, and need but little introduction to the majority of the fans. Anatal of Providence, who had the "Indian sign" on the local club while pitching for the Universal Winding in the initial game of the season, will toe the slab for the Bay State boys. Logan, formerly of Manchester of the N. E. league, will be at the receiving end, the remainder of the lineup is made up of minor league and college stars.

Walt Lindner will again do the twirling for the Martins. Lindner got off to an auspicious start last Sunday in his first semi-pro appearance and proved that he is capable of pitching the same brand of ball that made him a top notcher in high school. Lloyd Jarvis, a rival moundsman of Lindner in school, will patrol center field for J. B. Martin. The rest of the lineup will remain unchanged.

Game called at 3:15.

CLEVELAND, June 6.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians made it three out of four in winding up the series with the Boston Red Sox today when they won, 9 to 4.

The score was tied at the last half of the eighth inning when the Indians marked up five runs against Danny MacFayden, MacFayden, who played the whole game for the Red Sox, allowed six hits and eight sacrifices. Harder pitched through five innings and was relieved by Jablonowski in the sixth.

SACRED HEART SCHOOL HANDS BROADWAY TEAM DEFEAT

Friday afternoon at Mohegan park diamond the Sacred Heart school nine of Taftville won its second game of the week, defeating Broadway by the score of 8 to 5. Each team made eight hits but eight errors by Broadway contributed greatly to their downfall. Lavasseur and Hastings were the hitting stars, each with three bingles. Monday at Mohegan park Sacred Heart had defeated St. Mary's 11 to 4, Trembley pitched this game.

Tuesday at the Academy campus the Sacred Heart team will meet St. Patrick's school.

COMOROSKY'S HOMER IN 9TH WINS FOR THE PIRATES

BOSTON, June 6.—(AP)—Pittsburgh defeated the Boston Braves, 4 to 3, here today, as a result of Adam Comorosky's homer in the left field stands in the ninth inning. Comorosky was the first batter in the final inning, and the hit was made off Ben Cantwell.

In the seventh inning, Traynor walked and Suhr knocked a homer to right field, scoring two runs for the Pirates.

Maguire and Welsh did the heavy hitting for the Braves with three hits each.

ROOT BLANKS DODGERS WITH TWO SINGLES

BROOKLYN, June 6.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs cut Brooklyn's lead to one game today as they batted freely against Dazzy Vance and won the series opener, 13 to 0. Charley Root allowed Brooklyn only two singles as he pitched the Cubs to their ninth successive victory.

Vance fanned ten in the six innings he worked, but between strikeouts the Cubs connected for ten hits, including home runs by Grimm and Hartnett, and took a 7-0 lead. Chicago scored two runs in each inning from the fourth to the ninth.

PHILLIES HAVE LITTLE MERCY ON LOWLY REDS

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—(AP)—The Phillies hammered the offerings of Benny Frey all over the lot today and scored a 14-5 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds.

Chuck Klein's home run blast in the fourth inning, his 15th of the season, put an end to the Cincinnati ace.

The Reds did all their scoring in the second inning when they hammered Collins for six hits and four runs. After that he was invincible until the ninth, when the Reds scored their final run.

Denny Southern, Philly outfielder, collected five hits and equaled the all-time major league record when four of his safeties were doubles.

The first players in major league baseball to get four doubles in one game were Adrian C. (Pop) Anson and Abner Dalrymple of the Chicago Nationals on July 3, 1883. The mark subsequently was equaled by Thomas J. Tucker of the Boston Nationals, Joseph J. Kelley of Baltimore, Edward J. Delehanty of the Philadelphia Nationals, Clifford C. (Cactus) Cravath of the Phillies, Frank Dillon of the Detroit Americans, and Frank Isbell of the Chicago Americans. Isbell accomplished the feat in the world's series of 1906.

lish took them up on their offer, and the Dutch sailed on to Pequot harbor, as the Thames was known then. They sent a message on shore, as usual, with an offer trade. But they stipulated that they wished no furs in return for their wares, but the two English girls who had been carried away from Wethersfield.

SCHOOLMASTER: Sounds fair enough.

DOCTOR: The Indians refused to let the captives go. The Dutch gave over the attempt for a while. Finally, they managed to get seven men of the tribe on board the vessel, some of whom were sagamores.

SCHOOLMASTER: Aha, strategy!

DOCTOR: After they had made the seven men prisoners, the captain called out to those on shore and told them the news. He also told them that if they expected to see the seven men again the English girls must be delivered on board the boat.

SCHOOLMASTER: F. O. E.

DOCTOR: P. D. Q. Otherwise, the captain sailed to the tribe, the men would be taken into the ocean and dropped over. Of course the Indians laughed at this. The Dutch sailed up anchor, set their sails, and were putting out to sea when the Indian canoes came after them. It didn't take long to exchange the two girls for the seven men. They were brought back to their family. You can't beat the Dutch.

SCHOOLMASTER: Doctor, did you ever see a fence a mile long?

DOCTOR: Don't believe I ever did! I suppose there are such fences, but not in this neighborhood.

SCHOOLMASTER: Right out here at Taftville, fencing off the property of the Ponemah mills. Go out and measure it some time!

DOCTOR: I'll take your word for it. Of course you've been nosing around the Ponemah mills!

SCHOOLMASTER: Found it rather interesting. Run across a chap who's been working there all his life. He was full of facts and figures. Their first machinery was brought from England and Scotland. One of their buildings is five stories high and 755 feet long. As he explained to me, the mill was established to produce organdies, lawns and dimities from very fine yarns not previously made in this country.

DOCTOR: That was some time ago. They've been located in Taftville ever since I've been here.

SCHOOLMASTER: The 800 acres where the mill and the village now stand were purchased in 1863. The first mill was operating in 1871. As far as water-power development goes, they've run the gamut since they began. Of course, they're using steam as an auxiliary today. And their power equipment is right up to the minute. But it's interesting to hear the old-timers talking about the change after change in their power, just to keep in step.

DOCTOR: Wonder what some of those old colonial weavers would say at a sight of the Ponemah mills. Before the Revolution, we thought we had power enough in these streams to last for all time.

SCHOOLMASTER: What's all this hullabaloo about the workers in textile mills. I haven't found anything so oppressive in Connecticut. On the contrary, I found 500 houses that may be rented for 20c a room for a week. Not bad, eh? Sickness reported to the welfare nurses is investigated within two or three hours.

DOCTOR: I can vouch for that part of it. And the employees and their dependents have the free use of three beds in the William W. Backus hospital, in Norwich. I happen to know. Those beds are reserved and paid for by the Taftville chapter, A. R. C. and the Ponemah mills.

SCHOOLMASTER: The company owns a big herd of Holsteins, U. S. tested cows. Employees may obtain the best milk produced. That struck me as being an odd angle of welfare work. Ponemah mills seem to pride themselves on an old-fashioned treatment of friends, employees, and customers. I came pretty near asking for a job.

DOCTOR: I'd like to see any textile you'd turn out!

SCHOOLMASTER: I saw some there you'd like to see. Everything from typewriter ribbons to gas bags. I never realized how far these textile mills have gone into the airship business, until I visited the plant. They also make the Alpha Oxford brand of broadcloth, every officer in the A. E. F. will recall it. Alpha Oxford was used for their shirts. Still being sold, too, along with the Ponemah brand broadcloth.

DOCTOR: How much cloth do you imagine they turn out every year?

SCHOOLMASTER: I couldn't say. I didn't ask, but in one of their brands, Colesette (Swah-set) all cotton, but as soft and lustrous as silk, the production is around five million yards.

DOCTOR: That's a lot of cloth, five million yards!

SCHOOLMASTER: Well, 1,300 employees on 3,700 looms with 160,000 spindles are bound to turn out a lot of cloth in a week's time. The yearly production must be staggering, doctor.

DOCTOR: Funny you didn't ask, with your over-developed bump of curiosity.

SCHOOLMASTER: My curiosity was at work in another direction. I nearly got myself disliked. Y'know, the interior of the mills just like a Dutch housewife's kitchen, scrubbed until it shines. I asked them, accidentally, of course, if they kept a flock of trained spiders. You should have seen the look I got.

DOCTOR: Where did you get the idea of trained spiders out there?

SCHOOLMASTER: It's a sort of stuff they call voile, rayon voile. You know what rayon is, Ponemah was using it in cloth long before the other mills would touch it. But this voile got me. I'd swear no man ever turned it out on a machine. It looked like the work of very intelligent spiders.

DOCTOR: A lot you know about textiles!

SCHOOLMASTER: Beautiful stuff, doctor, and they tell me in some of the largest department stores Ponemah rayon voile is sold exclusively. I was struck with it. But of course, all the talk around the mill is organdies. That's all you could hear. Those fellows are pretty quick to catch wind of a change in styles.

DOCTOR: If any man expects to catch a change in the styles of woman's dress, he's got to be more than quick. Organdy, you say?

SCHOOLMASTER: Thanks for the advance information, professor. I'll mention it to my wife. To me, it means nothing, but to a woman any mention of a change in fashion is music to her ears.

DOCTOR: I wonder whether you've ever heard, professor, about our compressed air in Norwich?

SCHOOLMASTER: Is Norwich compressed air any different from any other compressed air? If it is, I should enjoy hearing about it.

DOCTOR: We have it piped through the streets, like water and gas. As far as I know, it's the only city in the United States offering such a public service.

SCHOOLMASTER: I never heard of it! Norwich is probably the first with the idea. And they say there's nothing new under the sun.

DOCTOR: That reminds me about the first son born in Norwich. He was a Huntington. Did I ever tell you the queer coincidence of one of the Huntingtons? Let me tell you about the first son first.

SCHOOLMASTER: Doctor, I never saw a man's mind work in exactly the same way as yours does.

DOCTOR: That's a compliment. There were two Huntington's at Saybrook, Simon and Christopher. Both of them came up to Norwich with Major Mason. Christopher married Ruth Rockwell in 1652. Seven years later came the journey through the wilderness to Norwich Town. Their son, Christopher, junior, born a year after the founding of the town, was the first boy born in the nine miles square.

SCHOOLMASTER: But doctor, there must always be a first son born in any town. And a first girl, too. The second is never born first.

DOCTOR: Of course, of course! The first girl was Elizabeth Hyde, born in 1660, two hundred seventy years ago! But I was getting around to talk about the Huntington family. You'll run across the name very often in the history of this state.

SCHOOLMASTER: I've given up trying to identify the Huntington's.

DOCTOR: Young Christopher, the first-born son, for instance. He was town clerk for 13 years. There was a Simon Huntington, Jr., too. He held any number of civil offices. Christopher's eldest daughter Ruth was the mother of Dr. Eleazer Wheelock, the founder of the first Indian school at Lebanon, and the first president of Dartmouth college.

SCHOOLMASTER: We were talking about him last week.

DOCTOR: There was a Benjamin Huntington, graduate of Yale. He was a member of Continental Congress and of the Constitutional Congress. He superintended a number of marine affairs and was state counsellor during the Revolution. It so happened that he died in Rome, New York, but his body was brought back to Norwich for burial.

SCHOOLMASTER: Why so, doctor?

DOCTOR: He was the first mayor of Norwich, from 1784 to 1786. That may not have been the only reason, but the others don't matter. One of the Huntington's was a governor of the state, Samuel Huntington. He was born out here in Windham and came in to Norwich to study law. He was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

SCHOOLMASTER: Now we're getting to something, doctor.

DOCTOR: He took all the degrees, starting in as a legislator. He was a senator, an associate-judge of the supreme court of the state, a member of congress, president of congress, and in 1784, the chief justice of Connecticut. Two years later, he began ten consecutive terms as governor of Connecticut, being returned annually by the people.

SCHOOLMASTER: The Huntington's have a rather startling record.

DOCTOR: But the man I started in to tell you about is Jedidiah Huntington. He was another signer of the Declaration of Independence, a graduate of Harvard and son of one of our wealthiest merchants. When the Revolution broke out, Jedidiah was 33 years old. He entered the army as captain and two years later was brigadier-general.

SCHOOLMASTER: He's the man who did the entertaining here in Norwich.

DOCTOR: Yes, he's the one. Washington, LaFayette visited his house on the corner of East Town and Huntington Lane. He married Faith Trumbull, the daughter of the war-governor.

SCHOOLMASTER: Well, when you started in on the Huntington's, you mentioned something of a coincidence. I haven't heard it yet.

DOCTOR: Oh yes, I forgot it. Jedidiah Huntington was on the court-martial that tried Major Andre. Jedidiah Huntington and Benedict Arnold were both born in Norwich and grew up together. I'd call that something of a coincidence.

SCHOOLMASTER: It would have been a much better coincidence if Norwich could have held a court-martial on Arnold. That would be my idea of perfect justice. Wouldn't there have been some music!

SCHOOLMASTER: I see by the papers that every man and woman in Norwich has $1,500.

DOCTOR: There's something fishy about that!

SCHOOLMASTER: General averages, doctor. The Dime Savings bank compiled figures showing the savings of Norwich residents in all the banks as around four and a half million dollars, which will figure out about $1,500 per head. Only don't waste time trying to collect your share.

DOCTOR: I'm sure, but I believe in the early days of the Dime Savings bank, a dime made an acceptable deposit.

SCHOOLMASTER: That was the underlying principle of all dime savings banks. It's certainly encouraging enough. The Dime, of Norwich, is about 62 years old. It was founded three years after the close of the Civil war. In 1872, it paid a dividend of 9 3-4 per cent. How's that, doctor?

DOCTOR: Oh, those good old days! Shall we ever see their like again!

SCHOOLMASTER: There's an odd fact about the Dime Saving, doctor, it has no capital stock. The Dime Savings Bank of Norwich is owned entirely by its depositors. And only two active officers, treasurer and vice president.

DOCTOR: Only one vice president!

SCHOOLMASTER: Possibly because it's an institution of thrift they set a good example. But seriously, these savings institutions that can induce a per capita account of $1,500 are wonderful assets to any community.

DOCTOR: You've said it, professor. I'll sing its praises any time.

SCHOOLMASTER: We've been doing more talking than putting, doctor.

DOCTOR: Well, one thing I can tell you, professor, our Board of Trade was one of the first in the state. In these days, we're a little more up-to-date and call it a chamber of commerce, but our Board of Trade was organized among the first, back in 1886.

SCHOOLMASTER: You have a record more interesting than that in another line of endeavor. Did you ever hear of "The Total Abstinent?"

DOCTOR: What are you trying to spring on me now?

SCHOOLMASTER: "The Total Abstinent" was published for the first time in 1840, in Norwich, and it was the first of its kind in the state.

DOCTOR: First of its kind! What kind?

SCHOOLMASTER: The first temperance newspaper in Connecticut.

DOCTOR: Temperance! Let's not get into that! How about dinner?

ANNOUNCER: This concludes another program of the Doctor and his old friend, the Schoolmaster, sponsored by the Merchants bureau, chamber of commerce, Norwich, Connecticut, the "Rose of New England."

In the matter of recreational facilities, the "Rose of New England" yields to no other city in the country. Within a short distance of the center of the city is Mohegan park, situated on the high hills overlooking the city, with an area of 375 acres. This park has been left in its natural state as far as possible and here is beautiful Mohegan lake where bathing, boating and skating may be enjoyed in season. ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

Break out your best tailor-made blues, buddy, and get a clean white hat for that firecracker-topped heart-tickler, Clara Bow drops anchor at the cool Broadway for a four-day hitch in her latest comedy smash "True to the Navy." And what that same Clara does to Uncle Sam's sweetest navy is nobody's business—but make it yours, and you'll use every laugh muscle you've got and then some. Seems that Clara is chief soda-jerker in a San Diego drug store and she has a "Bow-line" that the boys can't tie, but she plays them all, takes all the "souvenirs" they'll buy, and then goes home to "study her jography—all alone!" so she says! They all fall, and spend their liberty money on her till the last cutter fills up, and the shore patrol has collected every tardy gob. Everything is rosy for Clara and the "boy-friends" are each serene in the thought that she belongs to him alone, until the whole Pacific and Asiatic squadrons drop anchor off San Diego, and the "regulars" make a bee-line to bask in their sweetie's smiles. Fifteen of them land in the drug store at once—I dassent! Harry Green, the urbane and what breaks loose?—you spell it, proprietor of the store is nearly killed in the rush, and after the battle smoke has cleared away, solemnly cautions Clara to lay off the sailors. She's cured, though, until the next time, when Gunner McCoy, better known as Fredric March, a hard-boiled heart cracker, "makes" her in the face of the whole fleet, and the dove of peace almost settles down—note, we say, almost, but you've got to see the picture to believe it, at all—it's the peppiest, speediest, saltiest, funniest picture that Bow girl has ever done, and that's saying a lot—and to make it, she took off about thirty-five pounds of excess weight, and she's a brand new Clara, zipper than she ever was. 'Nuf said—you'll see it! Then on the same bill at this cool oasis in the pre-summer heat, the management has booked a corking program of featurettes, including Taylor Holmes in "Let Me Explain," a comedy strictly for lodge members and their trusting wives. "Wise Flies," a rib-tickling talkartoon, Harry Langdon in "The Shrimp," Joseph Regan, famous tenor, and the latest Paramount Sound News.

CLARA BOW

STRAWBERRY and BUTTERSCOTCH

LIKE BUTTER? Most everybody does, and offers proof by eating it generously and often. The "staff of life" would lose its appeal without this golden spread. Butter-scotch—that's not a reference to the Highlands and heather, but to the manner of cooking which provides a different flavor. "Scotchy."

There's no reason why your vitamins shouldn't be delicious, as well as vital. Here's an Ice Cream combination which has them all—A, B, C, AND EVEN D, the sunshine vitamin that nature permits the cow to give us through her cream. Strawberries account for vitamin power, too.

Delicious? Yes, that's the chief reason our chef matched these flavors.—It can't be helped if they do you good, too.

LET A SALT BATH LIMBER YOU UP!

After a glorious afternoon on the golf course or your daily activities about the house you will find a salt bath joyously refreshing. It relieves and relaxes tired nerves and muscles.

A salt bath is nature's best antiseptic and tonic. It cleanses the skin of all impurities—limbers up the muscles, and gives vigor.

There is no Substitute for Salt

Salt is as essential to digestion as it is necessary to bring out the best flavor in foods.

You know "It takes the best to make the Best," so insist upon Ivory Salt. Your grocer has it in the convenient orange carton with the easy pouring spout.

Just pour into your regular bath a carton of Ivory Salt, (the very same salt you use for table and cooking) reserving a few handfuls for massaging the muscles and feet. If you prefer a shower, wet the skin and rub Ivory Salt all over the body. In either case rinse the salt away with clean water before stepping from the tub.

Take a salt bath every day—you will be surprised how much better you will look and feel in a short time.

ANNONCEMENTS

Breed Theatre.

The 20 choir boys appearing in the gorgeous wedding scene of "Such Men Are Dangerous," Fox Movietone all talking sophisticated drama adapted from Elinor Glyn's widely read magazine story, are the pick of a choir of 80 young men who sing in a Hollywood church.

These youthful singers are known as "Father Neal Dodd's Boys" and "Father" Dodd is the rector of St. Mary of the Angels Episcopal church, known in the motion picture colony as "the little church around the corner."

Rev. Dodd who has appeared in many motion pictures, performs the wedding ceremony in "Such Men Are Dangerous," which unites Warner Baxter and Catherine Dale Owen, who play the leading roles of this romantic and thrilling screen epic.

Supporting Baxter and Miss Owen is a cast that includes such well known screen personalities as Albert Conti, Hedda Hopper, Claude Allister and Bela Lugosi.

"Such Men Are Dangerous," which the Breed theatre will show for a four-day engagement, beginning tomorrow night, was directed by Kenneth Hawks, with Melville Burke in charge of stage direction.

Palace Theatre

Belle Bennett who, will be long remembered for her part as the mother in "Stella Dallas" plays the leading role in "Courage", Warner Brothers' all-talking production which comes to the Palace theatre today where it will be shown through Tuesday of next week.

"Courage" is the story of a widowed mother who is the support of seven children. Through her own mismanagement she becomes penniless and when she moves her family from Iowa to Cambridge to make a new start she is followed and almost haunted by bills and bill collectors. At last she seeks aid from a man who is a loan shark with a bad reputation. This helps out for a while until the children learn what sort has done. Influenced by a maiden aunt their affections, with the exception of one son, are alienated and the mother faces her difficulties alone. But she is a courageous person and only after many heartaches and despairing moments is she able to show her children the error of their ways.

Belle Bennett is an excellent actress. She carries away the audience with her splendid characterizations and is constantly winning new admirers and new laurels for herself. Supporting Miss Bennett in this picture is a fine cast among whom some of the stars are. Marian Nixon, Rex Bell, Richard Tucker and Leon Janney.

Time passes swiftly and only a word is needed to the Palace theatre patrons to remind them that the Popularity Contest will soon be drawing to a close. Try to get in as many votes as possible and make the end a sweeping victory for your favorite contestant. Every vote is a help and do not put off your balloting until it is too late. Do it today.

America For Me

'Tis fine to see the old world, and travel up and down
Among the famous palaces and cities of renown,
To admire crumbly castles and the statures of the kings—
But now I think I've had enough of antiquated things

So it's home again, and home again,
America for me!
My heart is turning home again, and there I long to be,
In the land of youth and freedom beyond the ocean bars,
Where the air is full of sunlight and the flag is full of stars.

In London is a man's town, there's power in the air,
And Paris is a woman's town, with flowers in her hair;
And it's sweet to dream in Venice, and it's grand to study Rome,
But when it comes to living, there is no place like home.

I know that Europe's wonderful, yet something seems to lack:
The past is too much with her, and the people looking back.
But the glory of the present is to make the future free—
We love our land for what she is and what she is to be.

Oh, it's home again, and home again,
America for me;
I want a ship that's westward bound to plough the rolling sea,
To the blessed Land of Room Enough, beyond the ocean bars,
Where the air is full of sunlight and the flag is full of stars.

—Henry Van Dyke.

Our Home Maker

Where the mountains slope to the westward,
And their purple chalices hold
The new-made wine of the sunset—
Crimson and amber and gold—

In that old wide-opened doorway,
With the elm-boughs overhead—
The hours all cheery behind her,
And the plentiful table spread—

She has stood to welcome our coming,
Watching us upward climb,
When the evening hour had brought us
Oh many and many a time!

Today in the gentle splendor
Of the early summer noon—
Perfect in sunshine and fragrance,
Although it is hardly June—

Again in the doorway opened,
And the house is garnished and sweet
But she silently waits our coming,
And we enter with silent feet.

A little within she is waiting,
Not where she has met us before;
For over the pleasant threshold
She is only to cross once more.

The smile on her face is quiet,
And a lily is on her breast;
Her hands are folded together
And the word on her lips is "rest."

And yet it looks like a welcome,
For her work is compassed and done;
All things are seemly and ready,
And her resting time is come.

It is we who may not cross over;
Only with song and prayer,
A little into the glory
We may reach as we leave her there.

But we cannot think her idle;
She must be a home-maker still;
God giveth that work to the angels
Who fittest the task fulfill;

And somewhere yet in the hilltops
Of the country that hath no pain
She will watch in her beautiful doorway,
To bid us welcome again.

MISSES THE RECIPES

Dear Social Corner Members: If I do not send in a letter I fear I shall be forgotten. I had the pleasure of attending one of the Corner meetings in May at Norwich. The first and only one I ever attended. I was glad to have the privilege. I am always interested to read others' letters, but miss the recipes as they do not have as many as they used to have. I hear there are many good cooks and if the sisters have any good recipes, send them along. It will be a help. Since I have learned to steam eggs, I think it easier and nicer. Drop the unbroken egg into a little cup, then put it into a dish of hot water, cover it and let it steam a short time.

I presume many sisters are troubled with ants. I will give my experience in trying to get rid of them. We used to have the large black ants every year. At last we tried a new plan by killing every one just as soon as they appeared in summer. After a short time they disappeared and we have not been troubled with them since. This was 28 years ago but this year the small kind appeared and I tried the same plan to kill every one I saw for days and think it's going to work as it did with the large black ants. It will take some days to do it, but it pays. I use a brush to brush them off into a dish of suds.

Delicious light layer cake: Scant one-third cup butter, one egg, one cup milk, two level teaspoons cream tartar, one level teaspoon soda, two cups flour, sugar, one cup. Sift flour, soda and cream tartar several times to mix well before adding cake mixture. Best regards to all the members.

HELENA

A FORMER SUMMER SCENE

Dear Editor and Friends: June is with us again, bringing its first offering of summer flowers and roses will soon add their growing radiance to the summer season with its scenes of beauty.

It recalls to me a summer scene where I played many hours in summer time by a babbing brook where stood a cluster of trees that guarded a quite rook, the breath from the whispering leaves mingled with the song birds and the hot sun overhead was shaded. In the center of this shallow stream was a small island of tufted grass that sturdily stood against the shock of the water's force. From the bank of the flowing stream I have many times jumped to the island and back again to the bank. When tired of the strenuous sport I would seek the quite nook, resting awhile, but would be on schedule time at home before the close of day. Today the scene has changed.

The babbling brook has widened its course and the trees are cut away. The song of the birds is no longer heard and the island has disappeared. The girl that once enjoyed the summer game has somewhat older grown, but has not forgotten the jumping stunt in those years of long ago. Still the babbling brook warders on singing a song along its winding course as it travels to the sea.

RECALLS PAST DAYS

Dear Social Corner Editor and Readers: What fine letters to enjoy last Saturday! Some of them I have read and re-read. I wish I knew the birds better. I enjoyed Pernickety's letter about them so much. I have three cats, all longing for bird meat, and I dare not encourage birds to nest near by. When they have done so in spite of me there have been tragedies I do not like to recall.

Iola brought back a past day in her letter so vividly. Someone seems to invent whatever the times require. I call to mind heavy veils we used to wear in cold weather that were so comfy. Mine were usually brown in color, although some wore dark green ones. They were generally two or two and one half yards in length, covered the face, crossed at the back of the hat, and coming back around the neck were tied in front, giving real warmth and protection. Of course we removed these when reaching church or other destinations.

Recently, when listening to an address on Adult Education I was pleased to hear the speaker assure his audience that middle-aged people could learn about as easily as young folks can. I was encouraged for I find so many things I want to learn. He spoke of the extra leisure time that has come to many of us with this machine age and how important it is for us to learn to make profitable use of this leisure. We have all observed how great is the need of this knowledge today. So many do not know what to do with leisure time except by some excitement that leaves them anything but benefited. It is excellent to have some hobby for these leisure hours, something that entertains and is of lasting benefit as well. Gardening is certainly a fine hobby. Few things pay better dividends on the investment than either flower or vegetable gardens. I predict some interesting reports from some of our amateurs as well as experienced gardeners later in the season.

I have missed the gatherings very much, not having been able to attend of late.

In closing I give a few lines from Anderson M. Scruggs in the Literary Digest. These sound a warning note and are worth pondering although I feel sure they do not apply to any of us Cornerites.

He always said he would retire
When he had made a million clear
And so he toiled into the dusk
From day to day, from year to year.

At last he put his ledger up
And laid his stock reports aside.
But when he started out to live
He found he had already died.

Hoping our page may continue to be fulfilled with helpful letters and with welcome to new Corner members and good wishes to all.

THANKS AND GREETINGS FROM AUNT SARAH

Dear Social Corner Sisters and Friends: I want to thank all who remembered me while I was sick, by sending me cards, letters, flowers and the friends who sent me fruit and flowers.

The Lebanon grange sent lovely cut-flowers, also Lebanon Baptist church sent cut-flowers and a lovely Easter lily.

I certainly appreciate it.

Don't Worry and Dorinda have done everything they could to cheer me up.

I am much better now and spent the week end with Don't Worry and family.

Bumble Bee: I often think of you. Hope you will soon be able to lay the crutches aside.

I suppose it is most time for out-of-doors picnics but am afraid I won't be able to have my Corner picnic this year.

Olive: Where are you keeping yourself? Thought I would see you long before this.

All good wishes for the Corner.

AUNT SARAH (Club No. 3)

ENJOYS HER FLOWERS

Dear Social Corner: Wouldn't you think I'd know something about taking care of flowers by this time? And yet I don't. I don't even know enough to stake them and was paid for my laziness today when I went out and found my tallest delphinium broken at the base of the stem and one of my pet peonies sprawling on the ground I suppose I should be out there now with raffia and stakes to tie them up but I am writing this letter instead.

The columbines are in full bloom now. There are several rather pretty ones and several others that are not. My favorite is a single blue with white throated trumpets and the one I like next best is a wine red one. The stalks are not as tall as they were last year nor as full of bloom. Evidently the dry weather hurt them as well as many other things.

The hummingbirds visit the Columbine often these days but I was surprised to have one fly up to the window this morning it saw a bright red geranium bloom and came to investigate but you can imagine how quickly it flew back after it touched the glass.

I stuck some surplus star grass bulbs in the bed with my foxglove plants last year and now they are full of blooms. The white "stars" are set off nicely by the gray green of the foxglove leaves. The rains have sent the foxglove stalks skyshooting and I hope that I will be able to tell you all about their blooms before another month is gone.

Sister Rhody knows lots more about flowers than I do but she couldn't tell me whether the little plants I had in the coldframe were primroses or a common weed. I set them out and have watched those buds impatiently for weeks and today the first one opened—a delicate creamy petaled little flower three-fourths of an inch across. It didn't stay long for when I went to look at it a second time the wind had blown all the petals off. But I can put primrose polyanthus on my list of plants and wait with even more impatience for the other plants to show their colors. Until then.

PERNICKETTY.

CLUB NO. 2 MEETS JUNE 10

To the Corner Writers: June 10th, Tuesday, is the last indoor meeting of Club 2 this summer. I trust that the requests in my letter of May 24 to the Corner will be carried out by those attending regarding food for the dinner and that someone will be hostess for the September meeting as we have to arrange this on our last meeting in June.

As the hostess is called away from Norwich and cannot serve, Jane and I will be glad to be helpers for the dinner. This is where I have to fall in and do extra work, so please come and help out.

E. L. M.: Only we who hold our kind of club position know what our requirements are. It surely is a hard place and unless it works out better this fall I say basket picnics and collections to pay for Buckingham Memorial for the day. Aries is right in her ideas. Red Rose has baked a large kettle of beans for several years for every dinner and a number have brought a lovely large salad every month, so let's hope that this meeting will be one of up and doing and this fall their responsibility will be assumed by those who haven't done it.

Hope the usual good attendance features the 10th.

WORTHWHILE HELPS

Dear Social Corner: I want to thank the members for the many helps they have given me. Here are two ideas that have been worth while helps to me. I asked the plumber to place my laundry tubs three feet from the wall and have found it so handy to be able to work from all sides of tubs.

One of my best linen tablecloths was torn in laundering and I felt so badly because it could not be mended neatly. One day I received as a gift a linen cloth with an initial worked on a lace medallion sewed on near the center. On my next trip to the city I bought two medallions with initial and sewed one each side of cloth after patching it neatly with piece of linen. Now I can use it for guests again.

BEAUTIFYING SHADES

Social Corner Editor and Sisters: I think it about time I did some writing for the Corner page. Here is a pretty and inexpensive way of beautifying worn and shabby window shades. I had one in my bathroom which was beyond using so I took the shade from the roller, laid it across the kitchen table and pasted a piece of small floral design wall paper over same, being careful to match pattern in joining paper to proper width of shade, smoothing paper well so as to prevent wrinkles and blisters, turning a hem to match up with that on shade and pasted securely. Then put pull cord through and fasten shade to roller, completing the shade Let shade hang full length until dry, then rolled up by hand so as to shape roll and it rolls perfectly.

Had many compliments on my bathroom shade. It looks like the popular and expensive chintz shade. By using the ceiling paper on bedroom shades, makes them look like the linen shades.

Best wishes to all the members.

FRED'S WIFE.

VINEGAR NEVER CATCHES FLIES, BUT—

Dear Social Corner Friends: It surely has been some time since I last sent a letter to the Corner. I have just neglected doing so, although I have thought to sit down and write you many times.

I enjoy reading the letters by members and find many helpful hints and useful suggestions sent in from time to time.

I think the idea of a barrel of potatoes quite a novel one and one worth trying out. I hope Irva Lynn has her barrel all started and that she will write of her success at potato harvesting time.

Can any member of the Corner tell what is needed to make a honeysuckle vine blossom that is over a year old? It grows thrifty but never has even budded. One set out first week in April, this year, has a few blossoms already.

O. D.: We have some delphiniums that were raised from seed and now seed themselves each year. I think they have a beautiful blue colored blossom and are quite an addition to a flower garden. Mine surely are not the dwarf variety that Sister Rhody mentions in her letter as they grow two feet high, so I wonder if they can be called butterfly delphiniums?

What a very interesting description of Florida's Singing Tower Canterbury Bell has written. It must be thrilling indeed to listen to the beautiful songs played by the Carillon bells. Lebanon is certainly an old historic country place but full of interesting colonial houses. The war office is kept in its original size, which is small, but has many old relics and antiques that have been donated.

I wonder if anyone has written about vinegar as a handy fluid? As I have never seen such a mention of it, will tell how many things it can be used for. Vinegar may not catch flies, but it is useful about the house, for all that. It will clean windows and windows given a vinegar bath are not hard to polish. Vinegar and kerosene, equal parts, is all that need ever be used on woodwork. Vinegar to clean and kerosene to polish. Vinegar and salt will polish brass and copper and will also clean the glass fower vases like magic. We all know the pesky ring when our vases are washed in soap and water. Just use vinegar and salt and it will vanish. A cloth moistened in vinegar will clean the enameled table and never leave a streak. If vinegar is poured over the outside of the windshield of an auto and allowed to trickle down the glass from top to bottom, it will prove very effective in a heavy rain.

There is nothing better than hot vinegar packs for sprains and bad bruises. We all know the many uses of vinegar in pickling time.

Very sorry not to have attended No. 4's last picnic but was kept at home cooking for a food sale to be held the next day. Primrose write me they had a pleasant time as usual and others told me the same.

Am sorry to read of Try Again being ill and will join with others in sending her a post card, as messages do help when one is ill. Best wishes to all.

You Can't Reform Your Husband

By EDITH LAVELL

A DOMESTIC COMEDY OF EVERYDAY LIFE WHEREIN A YOUNG WIFE LEARNS THAT A HUSBAND IS NOT TO BE CONSIDERED IN THE CATEGORY OF A HOUSEHOLD ADORNMENT NOR TO BE JUDGED ACCORDING TO SPINSTER IDEALS.

EVERYBODY said when Ruth Harrison's baby was born that now she couldn't be so everlastingly neat. Why, she simply was too old-maidish to have a baby; she'd just have to change—to let things go a bit, as other young mothers had to do! There was a little smug satisfaction among her friends at the thought of the disorder a baby brings.

People had been saying this sort of thing about Ruth all her life, from the time when she was a little girl and washed her hands without being told, and kept her toys and her bureau drawers in perfect order. Ruth herself never intruded her orderliness upon others nor criticized, but all the girls of her own age resented it, because their own mothers were always preaching Ruth Boyd to them.

"Anyway, she'll be the old maid of the crowd," they said scornfully, behind her back. "And she can keep her lonely house as spick-and-span as she pleases!"

But to their surprise it was Ruth who announced her engagement first. To Bill Harrison, too! A great, big, fine looking fellow, who played tennis, swam and danced with all the girls, but who reserved his special attentions for Ruth.

"You're too lovely to touch," he used to say with reverence in his voice when, on a hot night at Country club, she would appear in her immaculate white dimity.

"That's how I like the other men to feel," she would answer. "But not you, dearest. It's—different."

"I wonder why?" he would ask, almost in awe. "You look just like an angel. I can't believe that you are really going to belong to me! I'm too earthly."

"You're just exactly right—as you are!" And, blushing, she would hide her face against the rough tweed of his sport suit, for he seldom bothered to dress.

When they were married everybody said Ruth would have to change, or else Bill would be so henpecked that he would lose his mind. But neither thing happened. Bill was just the same careless, lovable chap and Ruth and her apartment were as neat as the pale green bedroom in her mother's house which she had relinquished. If there were any arguments about habits, no one heard anything about them, for you could tell by the look in their eyes and the good-natured way they teased each other that they still thought each other perfect. At least—until the baby came.

RUTH had a hard time and the baby was tiny and undernourished. It was weeks before the young mother regained her strength and the baby cried distressingly with colic. Bill tried to help, but he was clumsy and awkward, and once, when he almost let the baby drop, Ruth cried hysterically.

The least little thing seemed to get on her nerves now. Try as she might, she could not keep up with her housework, and the continued disorder of the appartment made her fretful. Bill was losing patience with her. His suggestions for outings were always received with scorn. As if she could be happy to bundle up the baby and take her to her mother's and go off to some party! Then come home to find her schedule had been broken and the apartment in the disorder they left it!

No, Bill was less than no help now, as she often told him. All he did was make work. She actually wished he would be called away on one of those business trips of his and give her a chance to catch up, it would be a relief not to be obliged to cook a big dinner at night.

IN THE midst of those strained circumstances Louise Arnold, Ruth's roommate at college, wrote that she was coming to Philadelphia to teach and would like to stay several days with Ruth before school opened while she looked for an apartment of her own.

"I'm just dying to see your baby," she added. "And I promise not to be any trouble. I'll help with the housework."

It was true—Louise wouldn't be any trouble. She was another girl like Ruth; they had lived together harmoniously for three years at college, with scarcely a quarrel.

Ruth brought the letter to the supper table that evening to read it to Bill. It had been another trying meal; he was late, after a hard day's work, and she hadn't been able to get the baby to go to sleep at 6 o'clock, as she usually did.

"Can't you stop her crying?" he demanded, irritably.

"No; there's nothing the matter with her. It's just because she had so much attention when she was sick and she's spoiled now. I know, because she stops the minute I go into the room. If it were a pain, she wouldn't stop crying."

"Well, I can't stand it!" He spilled his coffee on the tablecloth.

"Another tablecloth to wash!" she sighed, with a martyr's resignation.

"Shucks! Let it go dirty! Put a napkin over it!"

"I hate slovenliness." Her tone was cutting.

"Where's your letter?" he asked, resolving to go carefully, and added, laughingly, "Hurry up, before Betty sets up another wail!"

"It's from Louise Arnold, my roommate at college. She wants to come visit us."

"That's bully!" he cried, with genuine pleasure. "It's just what you need, Ruth! Give you something else to think about besides washing, cleaning and taking care of the baby."

"You don't think I'd let her come, do you?" she demanded sharply, her eyes fastened on the spotted tablecloth. "Why, Louise'd leave after about two hours here! She's the soul of order. She runs her apartment like clockwork. She thinks it's a crime to be late to meals and I've known her to walk right out of a restaurant if there was a spot on the tablecloth!"

"Must be a pleasant little companion," he remarked sarcastically. "Is she married?"

"No. She's had lots of chances, of course, but she's too much interested in her work."

"Maybe it's just as well if she doesn't come," remarked Bill, wondering how he could possibly live in the same house with two such paragons.

A bitter homesickness for college and for Louise took possession of Ruth and she burst into tears. The husband opposite her seemed almost a stranger. He never had understood her.

"Oh, heavens!" sighed Bill, wearily. "Do we have more to have more crying? As if Betty didn't do enough of it for one house!"

Hardly were the words out of his mouth than an answering wail came from the baby's room. This time he laughed.

Ruth jumped to her feet, her handkerchief at her eyes, but Bill, reaching across the table, caught at her wrist and detained her. As he did so, he dragged his sleeve in the butter.

"I'll go," he said. "You eat your supper, Ruth. I don't think you get enough to eat—that's one reason why you're so nervous."

"It's you who make me nervous!" she exclaimed. "Look at your sleeve!"

"Darn my sleeve! What difference does that make to anybody?"

"It makes a lot of difference to me—and—oh, Louise would understand! I wish we were back in college together!"

She pulled away and went to the baby, leaving him to his solitary supper, but her words had made an impression. If she wanted to live with Louise—why not? It was hades around there now—he'd be tickled to death to clear out.

He could even go to another city—to Cleveland—if it would make things easier. Up till now he had been running out there once a month for the firm, but the manager was always talking about a branch office. Wouldn't it be a relief——?

Ruth came back into the dining room.

He rose courteously and pulled out her chair.

"Let's talk this thing out, Ruth," he suggested. "I have a plan—"

"Not so loud!" she warned him. "I think it's your fault Betty is always waking up. You never lower your voice! And in an apartment—"

"All right. I'll be careful," he agreed, irritably. "Now—listen to this: I have to go to Cleveland this week and I might as well make it the day your friend wants to come. That'd fix things fine—"

"But you're never gone more than two days," Ruth objected. "We haven't a guestroom, you know, and I could hardly put Louise out!"

"Wait!" I'm not finished. When I come back I'll bunk with Jimmy Snyder. His apartment's plenty big enough—matter of fact, I used to stay there a lot before we were married. Maybe it might be a good idea for us to separate for a while, anyhow. We've been kind of getting on each other's nerves lately."

Although Ruth herself had often talked about the relief of having him out of the house, she was hurt by the suggestion. So he wanted to get away from her, did he? After the way she slaved to cook the dinners he liked and to keep his things in order! Well, let him! The peace and quiet would be heavenly.

"I wasn't aware that I did anything to annoy you," she said, icily.

"That's just it! You don't!" he blurted out. "You just make me feel so confounded guilty all the time if I happen to drop ashes or be late to a meal or not go to bed at the hour you think I should!"

"I'm afraid it's your own conscience that's accusing you," she remarked. "But your idea is a good one. Maybe we aren't suited to each other—what is it that they say—incompatible?"

He shrugged his shoulders.

"Maybe," he agreed. "And if we find we can be happier apart, I think I'll tell Johnson I'll tackle a branch office in Cleveland. Then Miss Arnold could stay right here with you for the winter instead of looking for another apartment."

Ruth looked at her husband in amazement. Was it possible that he was taking her at her word and actually planning a real separation? The tears rushed to her eyes, but she hastily glanced down at her plate. She wouldn't let him see that she cared! She'd be as independent as he was!

"And—and—get a divorce?" she managed to stammer.

"Not necessarily. Just live apart for the winter and see how things go. Needn't tell anybody anything. I can come home for Christmas and times like that. We could be good enough friends if we didn't have to live together."

"Very well," she answered, now in control of herself. "When Louise phones tomorrow I'll tell her to come right away."

"O. K." And I'll make my plans to leave in the morning for Cleveland. Guess I might as well phone Jim right now and ask him if I can stay there when I get back."

Without another word Ruth began to clear the table.

"If you wait till I get through with Jim, I'll help you," he offered.

"No, thank you—it may be too long I'd hate to have anybody drop in and see such a table."

HUMMING a tune, Bill left the room and went to the telephone. Let her do the dishes alone if she wanted to be so fussy! Thank heaven, from now on he could be just as careless as he liked!

The next morning he left the apartment in a storm of confusion, for, as usual, he packed at the last moment and flung discarded clothing all over the bedroom. But for once Ruth didn't care. Louise would not arrive until evening, and she had plenty of time to put things to rights.

The visitor came exactly when she said she would and greeted Ruth cordially but with the reserve that had always been a part of her manner. It seemed a trifle strange, but the other girl had never been emotional. So totally different from Bill!

"Of course, I'm anxious for a good gossip," Louise said. "But if there is time I'd like to take a bath before supper. You know what traveling is. I feel so grimy I wouldn't dare touch the baby!"

Ruth smiled, thinking of Bill after his two-day trips. He would burst into the apartment, pick her up in his arms and carry her right into Betty's room, whether the baby was asleep or not, and kiss them both at once. Then he would ask for a "regular home-cooked dinner," and sit down to the table with the greatest gusto. It was lucky if he even thought of washing his hands; the idea of taking a bath never occurred to him until bedtime.

"Where shall I take my things?" inquired Louise.

"Over to my room," replied her hostess, leading the way. "We haven't a guest room, but it's all right because Bill has to be away for a week." She said nothing of his suggestion about the winter.

"Just like old times. But do you know, my dear, I've never occupied a room with anybody else since college—and it's going to be a little bit strange at first—even with you. But it will be all the nicer, I'm sure," she added politely.

ONLY somehow it wasn't. Each was conscious of a trifling annoyance right at the beginning of the visit on account of it. In the first place, Louise insisted on going to bed at 10 o'clock, because it was her regular habit, and Ruth followed from a sense of duty. But because the latter was unaccustomed to such early hours, she found that she couldn't go to sleep. Lying there awake, she grew horribly restless.

She thought of those nights before the baby came, when she had been so uncomfortable and couldn't seem to get to sleep. Bill was so sympathetic then.

But with Louise it was lonelier than being alone, for she didn't dare stir for fear of arousing her.

Again, in the morning everything seemed strange. The other bed was empty and Louise was standing, fully dressed, in front of the mirror.

"I'm going to get breakfast," announced the latter triumphantly. "By the time you and the baby are dressed I'll be ready."

She was as good as her word and the breakfast was delicious, as Ruth knew it would be. Nor was there any reason to hurry, as she and Bill always had to in the mornings. Both girls really enjoyed it.

"What would you like to do best while you're here, Louise?" she asked, as they lingered over their second cups of coffee.

"Oh, I have a regular schedule planned," replied the other, immediately.

THE would have, thought Ruth, in amusement, seeing herself for the first time through Louise.

"I mean to help you with the housework in the mornings till Betty takes her nap," she related methodically. "While she's asleep I'l study—I have a report to finish before school starts—either here or at the library. In the afternoons I'll start out with you when you take Betty for her walk and I'll look at apartments near where I'm going to teach. In the evenings I'll work some more on my report. If Bill were only here, you would have a chance to go out with him, because I could stay with the baby."

"If Bill were only here." Ruth repeated the phrase to herself dismally and pulled herself up sharply for her weakness, remembering that Bill didn't want to be there. He had wanted a vacation from her. Not only a week, but months—maybe the rest of his life.

For the next three days everything went like clockwork, indeed. Louise was so efficient that together they finished their routine in no time at all and the visitor insisted on doing extra things—unnecessary housecleaning and cooking. They concocted wonderful cakes and pies, but the fun was taken out of it. Ruth thought, because there wasn't a man to appreciate them.

The days were all right, but the evenings began to pall. Nothing to look forward to, nobody to come home at night to make a break in the day. Supper was over so early, the dishes so easily disposed of, that the hours stretched out interminably. And Louise would sit at the desk, poring over reference books and writing.

Ruth had sometimes thought that married people had little to say to each other, but she was amazed to find how much less she and Louise found to talk about, after the first two days of gossip were over. She missed repeating all the little details of the baby's progress, which were as interesting to Bill as to herself, but which she knew would only bore Louise. And she couldn't get up a bit of enthusiasm about ancient Greece, the subject that was so absorbing to her companion.

She knew by this time that she could never live with Louise. How thankful she was that she had never even mentioned Bill's suggestion. But then, Louise wouldn't have liked it either. Only that evening at supper the latter had announced with unmistakable pleasure that she had found an apartment to suit her.

"I'm going to buy some furniture tomorrow," she added. "So I guess I'll have to leave you on Friday, because I want to be there when the things arrive. It's going to be such fun, Ruth! There's nothing like a place of your own."

"Yes, I know," replied Ruth, recalling the ecstasy with which she and Bill had established this home. But the thrill seemed to have gone out of it—it was only an empty house now. Yet she knew in her heart she'd rather live here alone than with Louise. It was Bill or nobody for her, for the rest of her days! Except, of course, little Betty.

"Friday or Saturday," she answered. "When do you expect Bill back?" Louise asked.

"Friday or Saturday," she answered mechanically, wondering whether he would at least telephone her from Jim's. Maybe when he heard that Louise was gone he would dash right back, the way he used to do!

Punctilious as ever, Louise would not leave on Friday until she had done her share in putting the apartment in perfect order. Yet it was only 10 o'clock when she finally kissed Ruth and Betty good-by.

Ten o'clock! And Ruth had a whole day before her with nothing to do! Nothing to do but wait for the telephone to ring!

SHE hours dragged by in sad, monotonous silence. Even Betty, trained now to her regular routine, hardly broke the quiet. Unwilling to leave the house lest Bill should call, Ruth busied herself with sewing and cooking, preparing the dinner that her husband would like best. But 6 o'clock passed without any message and at 7 she forced herself to sit down to the lonley meal.

She kept Betty up longer than usual, just for her company, but when she finally put her to bed she decided she could stand it no longer. Pride or no pride, she would call Jim's apartment to see whether he had news of Bill.

"Oh, hello, Ruth!" said Jim, in answer to her ring. "I'm all apologies. Should have called you yesterday—promised Bill I would—and didn't get a chance. He was back for a couple of hours yesterday and dashed up here for clean clothing. Said he hadn't a minute to phone you—was taking the 6 something back to Cleveland."

"Was—that all the message he gave you for me?" she asked, choking back the tears, and trying to keep her voice steady.

"No. He said to tell you he was to open the branch office at Cleveland next week. He said you knew all about it. And he'll be back today or tomorrow, for over Sunday. I figure he's going to stay here, though, because you have company, haven't you?"

"My company's gone."

"Well, I'll tell him that and have him phone you. Say, Ruth, if you're not going to be too busy tomorrow, I wish you could drop over here and straighten out Bill's stuff. He's left the most unholy mess of clean clothes and dirty ones, all jumbled up together! His room looks as if a cyclone had struck it! Could you come—if I leave my key with the janitor?"

"Of course I could!" cried Ruth, joyfully, thankful to be of some use.

"And by the way, you better bring him another suit. I noticed yesterday that the one he had on looked as if he's slept in it. He probably did."

"I guess he didn't even know it," returned Ruth, laughing for the first time that day.

"Well, he looks like a hobo. Lucky he has you to look after him, Ruth. I couldn't be bothered keeping tabs on him. Good-by."

Ruth enjoyed the best sleep that night that she had had since her husband had gone. The next day promised excitement.

Before 10 o'clock, she left her apartment and wheeled Betty over to Jim's. There was no difficulty in discovering which was Bill's room; it looked exactly like a rummage sale before the things had been sorted and labeled. But instead of being dismayed she was actually pleased. It was fun to do something intimate for Bill again.

MEANWHILE, the "hobo" whom Jim had described arrived in Philadelphia and went straight to his own apartment, wondering in what mood he would find his wife and whether she would be glad to see him again. Had she spoken to her friend about spending the winter with her or was she as homesick for her husband as he was for his wife? It all depended upon the way she greeted him!

He entered softly, remembering that he had been told not to waken the baby. Everything was so deadly quiet—and so awfully neat! Never had he seen any room so spick-and-span.

So this was Ruth's idea of a home! This was what she was aiming at and continually drumming into his ears! Then, abruptly, he caught sight of himself in the mirror. How incongruous he was amid all the daintiness—unkempt, unshaven, his suit unpressed! Why, he actually looked like a tramp! No wonder he got on her nerves—he was enough to disgust any woman!

Dashing into the bedroom, he flung off his clothing in mad haste, lest Ruth come in before he had made himself presentable. He bathed, shaved and pawed through his bureau drawers for clean linen. All his belongings were in neat piles, just as Ruth always kept them, no matter how often he disturbed them.

"But where in blazes is my blue suit?" he demanded as he rummaged through the closet, knocking two of Ruth's dresses from their hangars.

"That's funny," he muttered, as he fished again, unsuccessfully. "Ruth couldn't have sent it to the cleaner's—it had just come home! Must be folded up somewhere."

He began to fling out the contents of a cedar chest.

"Could I have taken it to Cleveland?" he asked himself, after he had made sure that the suit was not in the room. "Guess I must have—probably. Ruth slipped it in. Well, then, it's still at Jim's."

He consulted his watch. Jim often slept late in the mornings—there was a chance that he might catch him at the apartment if he phoned.

TO HIS amazement, a feminine voice answered the call—a very familiar voice!

"Ruth!" he cried. "What are you doing at Jim's?"

"Trying to straighten out your things, Bill," she replied, calmly. "I got an SOS from Jim and came right over. But whereare you?"

"Home—looking for you and Betty—and my blue suit."

"And I have it here with me," she laughingly explained. "Jim said that you'd need it."

"I sure do! How soon can you get over here?"

"Yes, I told him to phone you—didn't get a chance myself. Gosh, I was rushed."

"When do you start?" she asked, trying to keep her voice steady.

"Tuesday. Have to go back to our office Monday. By the way, where is Miss Arnold?"

"She left yesterday—moved into an apartment of her own."

"Oh!"

Ruth waited a second in the hope that he would say something that would show that he was ready for a reconciliation. But he didn't. The only word he uttered was, "Hurry!" and she replaced the receiver.

How difficult he was making it for her! What should she say first? How was he going to greet her?

As she stopped the coach at her own steps she glanced up eagerly, expecting him to dash down to help her with Betty. But the door did not open; he did not appear, and she had to carry the baby herself. This she took as a bad omen; in his clumsy way Bill had always shown her the utmost courtesy.

But when she walked into the living room she immediately divined the cause of his defection! It was nothing like she had imagined!

For there was Bill, his face shining from soap and water, impatiently pacing up and down the living room, garbed only in his underwear and shirt! Immaculate—except for a smudge on his nose where he had pressed it against the screen as he had watched for her coming. And, oh, so funny! With the baby still in her arms, Ruth dropped into the nearest chair, Betty, too, seemed to enjoy the joke and crowed in delight.

FOR the life of him Bill couldn't see what it was all about, but at least it was a welcome sign. Lots better than all that crying!

"But why—why—why the attire?" she finally asked, after he had kissed her, smudge and all.

"My suit was so darned dirty and mussed," he explained solemnly, "that it made me look out of place in this spick-and-span apartment."

"It's a relief to have something out of place!" she exclaimed, to his consternation. "I'm fed up with Louise!"

"Hurray for our side!" he shouted picking up both his wife and daughter and sitting down, all three together, in the same chair.

"And we'll all go to Cleveland on Tuesday!" he sang, rocking his body back and forth, to the baby's intense delight. "Yes, we'll go to Cleveland together," he repeated, alternating his kisses for Ruth by blowing into Betty's neck to tickle her.

"How 'bout a regular home-cooked dinner?" he interrupted himself to ask. "I thought I'd help you a bit, Ruth, so I lighted the oven after we talked on the phone, and I put on a pan of water to boil—for the vegetables."

Ruth jumped off his lap and dodged speedily into the bedroom to keep from laughing at his idea of helping her with the cooking. But what a joy he was after a dose of the efficient Louise! Never mind if the pan did boil dry and burn—what difference did it make?——And then she noticed the bedroom.

Bill, suddenly remembering its confusion, put Betty on the floor and dashed after his wife.

"I'm sorry, Ruth—I didn't have time to pick up my things," he said, humbly. "But I will—right away!"

"You run along and play with Betty," she laughed good-naturedly.——And—Bill—you needn't worry about returning, dear. Betty and I like you best just as you are!"

POETRY

Old Man Mountain

I think of old man mountain when I hear the birds in spring,
And I climb the roads of beauty with a vigor in my stride;
I can smell the mountain laurel and can hear the echoes fling
Where the gurgling torrent pitches down the rocky mountain side.

Like a tender benediction old man mountain leans above,
And the rattlesnakes are sunning on the wide, flat slabs of rock;
He's a father to his children, he's a courage and he's love.
When we turn to old man mountain from the battle and the shock.

I think of old man mountain with that gradual flush of green
Coming back across his shoulders, as the aldera freshen up;
And I'm on my way with climbing in the springtime's sweet serene
To taste again the crystal of the bubbling mountain cup.

Regrets

I cannot wear the old gowns
I wore a year ago;
They're thirteen inches from the ground,
And too much leg would show.
And though they're fine, expensive stuff,
I view them with a frown;
I cannot wear the old gowns—
Unless I let them down.

I cannot wear the old gowns,
It makes the people laugh
To see me in a short, scant skirt
Exhibiting my calf.
And from my windows I can see
My neighbors, either side,
Are flaunting their new-fashioned lengths
With arrogance and pride!

I say I'm independent,
And care not for the styles;
I vow I'll wear my last year's clothes,
Though everyone may smile.
But when I try them on, I put Them back upon the shelf;
I cannot wear the old gowns,
They really shock myself!

LEADING STOCK PRICES CARRIED DOWN IN RATHER DULL DAY IN THE MARKET

NEW YORK, June 6.—(AP)—Selling pressure carried stocks almost steadily downward today. So successfully did the bear faction maintain its control of the price movement that final quotations were generally the lowest of the day and more than a score of issues went to new minimums for the year.

The composite price index on 90 leading stocks was carried down 3.1 points to 126.3, or 5.4 points above the bottom reached on the May decline. Liquidation by professional shorts and by discouraged holders who had been on the long side made substantial inroads into the quotations of prominent shares, notably utilities and industrials. Volume of trading, nevertheless, remained small and sales totaled only 2,514,560 shares.

The money markets were unchanged. The official rate of 3 per cent on call loans is regarded as more or less formal, for most of the business is being done at the outside level of 2 1-2. Banks are said to have made large withdrawals of funds, while corporations are switching surplus funds to short term bonds, particularly U. S. government securities.

The increase in brokers' loans was brought forward by the bears as an unfavorable sign. It was pointed out that the rise, during a stagnant stock market, was probably due to borrowings for the purpose of carrying new bond issues, indicating the slowness of the demand for security offerings.

With such leading shares as U. S. Steel, General Electric, American Can, American Telephone, General Motors, Westinghouse and Consolidated Gas manifesting little resistance to the declining tendencies, selling elsewhere in the list was accelerated and the losses of one to four points in the stocks mentioned were exceeded by a large number of more volatile issues. Air Reduction, Auburn Auto, J. I. Case, Vanadium and American Tobacco tumbled 5 to 8.

Detroit Edison, Electric Power & Light, North America, McKeesport Tin Plate, Johns-Manville, New York Central, Lackawanna, Paramount, Loew's, Warner Brothers and Public Service of New Jersey sold off 2 to 3. Columbian Graphaphone was heavily sold and broke 4 points to a new low.

Others selling down to new 1930 low levels included St. Paul Preferred, Erie, Lima Locomotive, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, American Rolling Mill, Simmons, American Radiator, Coty, Prairie Pipe, International Mercantile Marine, and Firestone Preferred.

There was little activity in the foreign exchanges. British and French currencies rose slightly in common with most of the other European rates

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOM

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY

The regular meeting of the auxiliary to Robert O. Fletcher post was held Monday evening at the armory, with the president, Mrs. Francis Bogue, in the chair. The meeting opened in regular form with the salute to the American flag and singing of America. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were read and approved. The chairman of the girls work committee reported the girls had tied and finished a quilt for the United Workers. As the books for the quilts were all in, the drawing was held and a good sum was realized.

A rising vote of thanks was given Mrs. Dennison, she having made about 200 large poppies which were used for the wreaths for the Legion and auxiliary, also by the members of the D. A. R. for the graves of the French soldiers, and on the graves of the deceased members of the Legion and the auxiliary. The returns on the poppy sale were not all in but a goodly sum will be realized to be used in welfare work. Several state bulletins were read by the secretary. Mrs. Oat reported that she and Mrs. Elizabeth Bogue had decorated the graves of their deceased members in both cemeteries. The president reported 75 poppies given to the ex-service men at the state hospital and Uncas-on-Thames.

NEW LONDON FIREWORKS DEALERS PROTEST SAFE AND SANE 4TH BAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 6—A public hearing was held this evening by the committee on public safety of the city council to decide whether this city should have a so-called safe and sane 4th of July. The meeting was attended by about fifty, including representatives of the chamber of commerce. The plea of all the advocates of the safe and sane celebration was that dealers who have stocked up with fireworks should be allowed to sell their stock and that in the years to come the sales should be prohibited. There were those who advocated a wide-open celebration also, and they so stated their opinion. Max Boyer, an attorney, appeared for a group of dealers and represented that they had upwards of $17,000 in stock on hand. He said it was unfair to them to shut down on them without notice. He cited that the eighteenth amendment, most drastic legislation ever adopted, gave the dealers three years or more to dispose of their stock. He wanted the dealers in fireworks to be treated leniently and fairly and asked that they be allowed to sell this year and that if prohibitory legislation is enacted that it should become effective a year from now. He said that to prohibit the sale of fireworks four weeks before the 4th is not fair treatment.

The committee reached no conclusion, but convened after the hearing to decide on a report to be presented to the city council at a future time.

CLEVELAND, OHIO, POLICE SEEK MONTGOMERY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 6—The police of Cleveland, Ohio, tonight sought information of the New London police, but the request could not be granted for the man looked for is not known in local police circles. The Cleveland police stated they had been informed that a man named Montgomery, alias George J. MacKay, had been arrested in New London and as he jumped bail in the Ohio city where a sentence for seven years in prison awaits him, it was requested that if the fugitive was in New London he be held until an officer could come to New London and take charge of him. SAILORS LOCKED UP AFTER BLACK AND TAN FIGHT

There was a gang fight last night in one of the black and tan districts, frequented principally by sailors. Although there were two outbreaks in which Negroes and Negresses attacked sailors, none of the combatants received injuries more serious than bruises. Two arrests were made, for Leon Newson and Athol Williams, Submarine base, were taken into custody charged with breach of the peace. This morning when their cases were called in the police court, Newson and Williams were not on hand, so their respective bonds of $50 were declared forfeited. Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer issued a warrant for the pair and they were taken into custody by Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh. Their bail this time was fixed at $100, which they could not furnish, and they were locked up. A short time before midnight a gang of Submarine base sailors were on Hill street, where there exist several resorts, conducted by blacks and frequented by whites. A colored woman in passing through the street was embraced by one of the bluejackets and that proved a most unwise act, for the woman started to scream and her yells attracted other residents. Within a few minutes practically every colored resident on the street, man and woman, was in the highway and giving battle to the sailors. A telephone message was sent to police headquarters and several officers and a shore patrol were rushed to the street and Newson and Williams were arrested. After the police had departed, a gang of coast guard sailors went to the place and renewed hostilities with the blacks. Another squad of police was dispatched to the street, but by that time the fighters had ceased fighting. To prevent another outbreak of battling, a shore patrol and two police officers were kept on duty there the remainder of the night.

Yale Wolf, 86 Colman street, and Robert Hyde, 478 Ocean avenue, were charged with violation of the city's traffic regulations in parking overtime. Neither driver presented himself in court and the bonds of $2 posted by the drivers were declared forfeited.

DERIDING EPITHET PAINTED ON BUILDING

Patrolman Henry Sylvia, who patrols a beat on Bank street, south of Howard street, has incurred the ill-favor of a gang of youths, who frequent that section of the city, at Bank and Truman streets. Recently Sylvia was given instructions to put an end to loitering of the youths in front of stores, whose proprietors had made complaint because of the incessant congregation there of the young men. Sylvia finally arrested one offender, who was given suspension of judgment in the police court the following day. Last night when the police raided the liquor resort of Jack Philopena, 644 Bank street, and arrested the proprietor and 14 sailors, friends of Philopena claimed that Sylvia had been responsible for the raid. As a result of this supposition, one or more of Philopena's acquaintances secured a quantity of paint and a brush and during the early morning hours went to the brick building, corner of Bank and Blinman streets, and on the south side painted on the building surface, "Cop Sylvia, the Blackfish." At daylight, men and women passing through the street were confronted with the conspicuous lettering and throughout the entire day the lettering was viewed by thousands of pedestrians. This forenoon Sylvia started an investigation in an endeavor to obtain information that might reveal the identity of the wielder of the paint brush. Patrolman Louis Pine this afternoon arrested Tony Ripko, a youth residing at 32 Shaw street, on a technical charge of breach of the peace, for he is suspected of having been responsible for ridiculing the officer. Ripko who was locked up, emphatically denies all knowledge of the lettering being placed on the building and claims that he can account for his movements the entire night.

Andrew C. Miller has sold a house and lot on Briggs street to Harry P. and Luella A. Norman.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the driver's license of Oscar Andul, 28 Linden street.

Funeral services for Patricia Gavan, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gavan, 40 Franklin street, were held this morning at 11 o'clock at 15 Federal street. Rev. Philip M. Kerridge, rector of St. James' Episcopal church, read the service. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Aaron Frankel, father of Mrs. Lubchansky, wife of Attorney Morris Lubchansky, Bellevue place, died at his home in New York early today.

Christopher Barry, 20 Pleasant street, reported to the police about 9:30 last night that his Reo auto had been stolen from Washington street. Two hours later the car was found near the residence of the owner, where it had been abandoned. Later, a Ford truck owned by Morris Socol, 109 Montauk avenue, was taken from its place of parking, corner of Montauk avenue and Orchard street. While the police were making a search for the truck, it was driven to the point from where it had been taken and two young men who alighted fled in the darkness.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Leonard R. Williams

Mrs. Cora E. Williams, 78, widow of Leonard R. Williams, died this morning at her residence, in the Gardner lake section of Salem. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Pearl Coffey and Mrs. C. P. Crowley, of Cambridge, Mass., and a son, David Williams, of Providence. Mrs. Williams, who was born in Rockville, had resided in Salem many years.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Robert. A. Kingsley

Funeral services for Mrs. Margaret McMaster Kingsley, wife of Robert A. Kingsley, formerly of Rumford, Me., who died this week at a hospital in Philadelphia, were held this morning at 10 o'clock at the residence of her aunt, Miss Augusta S. Kingsley, at Poquonoc Bridge. Rev. Philip M. Kerridge, rector of St. James Episcopal church, read the service. Burial was in Groton cemetery.

John "Sabby," Philopena, a former taxicab operator, residing at 664 Bank street, was in the police court today charged with violation of the liquor law on two counts. Judge Daniel M. Cronin not only fined, but sentenced Philopena to jail, the jail sentence being the first penalty of its kind meted out in several years. That the young man was sentenced to jail was undoubtedly due to a statement he made to the court that the warrant on which his home was raided, was not a valid one, inasmuch as the police searched a garage on the premises. Philopena was charged on two counts, keeping with intent to sell and possession. On the first count a fine of $200 and costs was imposed, with a sentence of 10 days in jail annexed. On the other count a fine of $200 and costs was given. Philopena gave notice of an appeal and furnished a surety on his bond of $1,000. He has been arrested before.

Last night, when it was known that numerous sailors were in his house, Sergeant John Courtney and Automobile Patrol Officers George Cockell and Clarence Martin and Patrolmen George Bruhns and Michael Dorsey raided the dwelling. Besides a small quantity of whiskey a load of home-brew was seized. In the house were 14 sailors and they were arrested on a charge of frequenting a disorderly house, but in court their cases were nolled.

WOMEN SLEEP IN CAR AFTER SAILORS LEAVE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 6—Mrs. Mary Albino, 18, of 109 Golden street, and Helen Rogulski, 286 Huntington street, were charged with vagrancy. The former's case was continued to tomorrow and the Rugulski girl was committed to the State Farm for Women at East Lyme. She was on parole from the farm, having been committed two years ago following being presented in court on a charge of frequently a disorderly house conducted by a member of the Coast Guard in East New London. The girls were found asleep in an automobile on Sixteenth street, said to be owned by a Coast Guard sailor. The sailors left the girls about 2 o'clock and went to the reservation on the state pier. Automobile Patrol Officer Bailey observed the car parked beside the highway and inspecting it found Mary and Helen sound asleep. The girls have been in the habit of remaining out until all hours of the morning with sailors as their companions. A few nights ago they were ordered off the street by the police, after they had been refused lodging at a Bank street rooming house.

Thomas A. McEaskill, a sailor, was charged with breach of the peace and was given suspension of judgment. He was arrested on Bank street last night by Patrolman George Bruhns.

AN INVITATION

If you would like to take a really delightful drive on Sunday or any afternoon or evening, why not go down to Prospect Hill, Noank, overlooking Groton Long Point. Only 18 miles from Norwich.

Here, in one of Nature's beauty spots, will be seen the most gorgeous water views on the New England Coast.

The marvelous Natural scenic beauty of this community is attracting many Artists from all over the country. Here, you will see these Artists with easel and paint, almost any day during the summer, attempting to reproduce the quaint little light houses, romantic islands and the ever changing water scenes.

In this coastal section of New London County, bounded by rolling hillsides, Mason's Island, Fisher's Island and New London Harbor, there has been growing up for several years a community of cultured, successful people, devoted to the building and beautifying of homes for themselves and their children, in a spot protected from depreciation by natural surroundings and carefully worked out restrictions.

You will find our unusually attractive all year Model Home, which is open to the public, a real treat, so say those from Norwich who have inspected it. The charming simplicity and refreshing color schemes of this handsome Spanish type dwelling is well worth the trip.

Prospect Hill commands—undisputedly—one of the most picturesque marine views in all New England, and is destined to become a part of one of the greatest resort sections along the entire Atlantic Seaboard. You do not have to be a real estate expert to know that such water front real estate—already scarce—will soon be a thing of the past. Choice locations are being rapidly bought up—prices are steadily increasing—in the meantime Nature is making no more land.

One can buy, anywhere, just ordinary building lots, but please thoroughly understand that Prospect Hill offers nothing but those precious and priceless sites that command magnificent and everlasting scenic views that will forever enhance in value.

Such views are mighty scarce—a word to the wise, etc.

Even if you are not interested in our offer at the present time, you will enjoy the ride, the beautiful scenery, the cool and invigorating breezes and the architectural and interior decorative ideas of our Model Home. Take the river road to New London, cross bridge to Groton, continue on Boston Post Road to top of Fort Hill. Turn right by old barn, then proceed to top of next hill. Here you will find Prospect Hill. Drive up to Spanish type model home. S. C. Wood will show you every courtesy, without the slightest obligation on your part.

TAXPAYERS' ASSOCIATION ACTS TO HOLD DOWN RATE ON NEXT CITY TAX

At a meeting Friday night in Odd Fellows hall by the Norwich Taxpayers association, with an attendance of about 50, approval was voted of the special committee report on the school situation and of the recommendations by the board of directors regarding sums asked for in appropriations in the call for the annual city meeting which is to be held Monday evening.

President H. M. Lerou called the meeting to order at 8 o'clock, with Secretary James F. Fleming keeping the minutes, and in the course of the two hour meeting a counter plan to the junior high school proposition was approved and the $272,585 in "extras" in the appropriations asked for in the city meeting was cut down so that only $9,560 was approved, $40,385 was disapproved and the recommendation was made that $222,500 be taken care of by a bond issue.

School Report Adopted

Albert Boardman, chairman of the special committee on schools, presented the report for the committee in which three recommendations were made to relieve the situation affecting the public schools and Norwich Free Academy. These recommendations were that $25 more per pupil be granted the Academy for tuition fees, that an eight-room addition be made to the Broad street school building, at an approximate cost of $75,000, this to take the seventh and eighth grades from Broadway school, and that an eight room addition be made to the Greeneville school building.

The committee which made this report consisted of Mr. Boardman, Miss Amy Cogswell, Patrick T. Connell, George Warren Davis, Frank N. Gardner, Joseph Lahn, John D. Nolan, and Edward Kirby.

The meeting voted adoption of the committee report.

Action on "Extras"

Following this came the report of the recommendations made by the directors of the association after consideration of the appropriations asked for in the call for the city meeting. President Lerou explained that what are called the regular items had all been approved, but it was the 'extras' upon which special action had been taken.

What this action was was reported upon each item and the meeting voted concurrence with the recommendations of the board of directors. Secretary Fleming read the report and Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, who attended the meeting, supplemented some of the explanations which President Lerou made upon some of the items.

Items Approved

The items approved were the following: Bath street curb cut-off, $1,500; Church street improvement, $4,500; Avery street sewer, $2,000; Elizabeth street sewer, $800; Palmer street catch basin, $750.

The amount for the Palmer street catch basin was cut down to $750 from $1,000 when Mayor Robbins stated that the city engineer had put in an estimate of $750 for this work since the amount was published in the extras.

Items Disapproved

The items disapproved were as follows: Broad street cut-off, $3,000; Yantic street filling, $3,000; Asylum street improvement $30,000; fire department vacations, $3,285; Christmas lighting, $1,000.

In the discussion of the last mentioned item it was brought out that it was thought the Christmas lighting could be carried out by the city gas and electric department and if necessary a motion to that effect would be offered in the city meeting.

Bond Issue

The meeting also voted approval of the directors' report for the city to make a new bond issue to take care of three items totalling $222,500 as follows: Mae Richmond note, dated Nov. 8, 1920, $14,500; Fairview reservoir bonds, payable April 2, 1931, $65,000; court house bonds, payable April 2, 1931, $143,000, to be taken care of by a new bond issue.

The question of the bond issue opened up a field for some discussion on the financial status of the city and town when Mayor Robbins told the meeting that the city had paid interest on the Mae Richmond note amounting practically to the face of the note, and that it has the authority to make a bond issue as this was provided for through the last legislature.

City And Town Debt.

Edward Kelly inquired if the association couldn't get up a statement showing what the city debt is and the meeting was informed by Charles Colt, former city treasurer, that such a statement was available at the city treasurer's office. He said the city debt is approximately $3,000,000 and Tax Collector Harold T. Robinson told the meeting that the town debt was about $700,000.

Edward Kirby advised that before the city and town undertake a new bond issue of about $1,500,000, which would bring the total bonded debt to about $6,000,000, it would be a good thing to find out where we stand.

It was voted that the chair name a committee of three to get the information of the financial condition of the city and town before the membership.

Miss Nancy Lucas inquired how the citizens were to be protected against some suddenly called meeting on the school matter, which might be in August when people were away from the city and Daniel T. Shea said he had heard it intimated that a meeting might never be called, but if it were the Taxpayers association would not be asleep.

John D. Nolan spoke for increasing the membership of the association.

Earlier in the meeting Treasurer A. M. Van Wagenen had reported receipts of $414.00, expenditures $125.37, balance $288.63.

It was voted that the chairman appoint a committee of three to consider and report back on the qualifications for membership in the association.

HARVARD SHELL MAKES TRAFFIC TROUBLE HERE

There was a congestion of traffic on Main street in front of the Wauregan hotel about noon Friday, when an automobile, with trailer, upon which was mounted a 62-foot rowing shell of Harvard university, ran out of gas. The long shell, which is to be used by Harvard oarsmen in their training at Gales Ferry, was mounted in such a way that part of it stuck out over the top of the car. Underneath the larger shell was a small single shell.

The automobile, which was on its way to Harvard quarters at Gales Ferry, was not able to start until after its gasoline supply was replenished and then it was some time before it got under way. Instead of making the machine with its burden go up Main street, down Market and up Water street, over the Laurel Hill bridge, Officer Michael Carroll directed it through Shetucket street. For a time traffic was held up somewhat because of the stalled machine.

Preachers, church workers, leaders of groups and in fact all who desire to attend will be welcome. PRINCE CAROL RESTORED TO THE THRONE OF RUMANIA

Parliament Restored Carol's Full Dynastical Rights and He Was Proclaimed King As Carol the Second—Had Given Up the Throne For a Woman Five Years Ago—There Are Rumors That King Carol Will Visit His Divorced Wife, Princess Helen—Reports Say That the King's Agents Will Attempt to Have the Divorce Annulled—Rumanian Law Prevents Remarrige of a Divorced Man and Woman.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 8.—(AP)—Prince Carol today recovered the throne he gave up for a woman five years ago, and was proclaimed king of Rumania, his son Michael being named as next in succession. Both houses of parliament had previously voted to restore Carol's rights, first separately and then jointly as the national assembly.

The ceremonies of restoring the dynastical rights of the prince who only last Friday returned home in defiance of an edict exiling him for another five years, began at 11 a. m., today, when both the senate and the chamber of deputies voted unanimously, in separate meetings, to repeal the law expelling him from Rumania.

Then both houses met in joint session at 2 p. m., as the national assembly, and ratified their separate actions. The vote of the national assembly was 301 to 1.

The parliament restored Carol's full dynastical rights, and he was proclaimed king as Carol the Second.

Prince Michael, Carol's 9-year-old son, who was sent from the throne to the nursery by parliament's action was named successor to the throne. He will assume the title of Duke of Alba Iulia.

Immediately after parliament had acted, King Carol issued a proclamation notifying the people of his ascension.

As he finished taking the oath of office, Prince Nicholas, Carol's younger brother, exclaimed: "You have again a mission to accomplish the last wish of King Ferdinand."

His words evidently alluded to the constant efforts of Carol's father, King Ferdinand I, to induce Carol to abandon his affairs of the heart and devote himself to the duties of government. From 1918, when he was united in a morganatic marriage at Odessa with a Mlle. Zizi Lambrino, to December, 1925, when he abandoned Princess Helen, his second wife, his son and his prospective throne for another woman, he was in constant trouble with his relatives.

Before the parliamentary session which restored Carol's rights to rule, M. Mironescu, who was charged with the task of forming a new government when Premier Maniu resigned yesterday, paid a long visit to Princess Helen, Carol's divorced wife. There were reports that Carol would visit the princess soon, and that his agents would attempt to have her divorce annulled. Rumanian law prevents remarriage of a divorced man and woman.

The princess, formerly Princess Helen of Greece, was understood to have opposed Carol's return to Rumania, and to have threatened to leave the country if he did return. Political observers believed, however, that she might consent to some sort of reconciliation now that his coup is an accomplished fact.

Bucharest throughout the day was like a magic city. With splendid weather, thousands of flags and multi-colored carpets waved from housetops and balconies. Every point offering a good view of the streets leading from the palace to the parliament was crowded.

At 1:30 p. m., Prince Carol, accompanied by his brother Nicholas, left the palace to go to parliament. They were accompanied by the ministers, the prefects, and two squadrons of horse.

The crowds lining the streets showed indescribable enthusiasm. Carol was overcome with emotion, and wept as he rode past his cheering subjects-to-be. Prince Nicholas, who was considered one of the leaders in the plot which ended in Carol's trip home by airplane, plainly showed his joy at the success of their coup.

The rooms and corridors of the parliament house were crowded with deputies in black. With gala decorations all the deputies and the ministers of all countries were present. The parliament building was encircled by airplanes which swirled through the air amid a tumultuous manifestation from the people. Former Premier Maniu's appearance evoked another tumult of applause.

The royal proclamation of King Carol II followed, the king delivering it personally and causing it to be placarded on billboards throughout Bucharest later. Its chief feature was the granting of amnesty to all political prisoners, but he said among other things that he had returned to serve his country and that he harbored no vengeance against anyone, "not even against those who sought by calumnies to place a veil between me and my people."

He ended with an appeal for all religious and political groups to cooperate for the general interest of the state and said his first effort would be to develop an army which would maintain the Rumanian frontiers.

The king left parliament for the grave of Rumania's Unknown Soldier, where he laid a wreath and knelt for one minute. Then he visited the royal palace from which he had been banished and was deeply moved by the emotion of the old servants who cared for him as a child. They kissed his garments and wept, while the king warmly shook their hands but was unable to speak.

The proclamation ceremony was broadcast by radio, and tonight the happy inhabitants of Bucharest danced in the streets. The festival of the coronation will take place in October.

The political situation has changed considerably. The ministry of Premier Maniu resigned yesterday and M. Mironescu formed a new cabinet.

Tonight, with the installation of the king completed, the new cabinet had completed its work and resigned. Thereupon King Carol began consultations with a view to forming a new government. The indications tonight were that Professor Jorga would form a ministry, with Maniu holding one of the principal posts.

SENATOR JOHNSON FINDS FAULT WITH NAVAL TREATY

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(AP)— Assailing the provisions of the London naval treaty limiting American cruiser strength, Senator Johnson, republican, California, today said in a formal statement that under the treaty "Great Britain builds as she prefers; the United States builds as Great Britain permits."

Senator Johnson denounced the effect of the treaty on the cruiser program for the United States as the senate foreign relations committee prepared to assemble tomorrow to consider final action on the pact.

In calling the committee together, Chairman Borah believed a report of the treaty would be made to the senate this week. Apparently the controversy over the right of the committee to the notes exchanged with the other powers prior to the London parley has been ended by the blunt refusal of President Hoover to turn over the papers. Senator Johnson asked for them.

If the treaty is reported to the senate this week it will be in a position to be taken up at any time but Senator Watson, of Indiana, the republican leader, is standing by his program to have it considered in the special session which the president is prepared to call.

DEMONSTRATION AGAINST CATHOLIC ARCHBISHOP

MALTA, June 8.—(AP)—Mounted police were forced to charge dense street crowds here today to halt a demonstration against the Catholic archbishop of Malta by supporters of Lord Strickland, head of the Malta government.

The disorder occurred after the Whit-Sunday services conducted in the cathedral by the archbishop. Crowds assembled outside the building shouting "Long live Strickland" and "Down with Italy."

Several arrests were made and all shops remained closed during the disturbance.

Lord Strickland's government has been at loggerheads with the Catholic authorities. The friction started when the church proposed to transfer a monk who was a British citizen to a Sicilian monastery against his wishes.

YALE OARSMEN WENT FOR A CRUISE ON L. I. SOUND

GALES FERRY, Conn., June 8.—(AP)—A holiday from their training for the races with Harvard June 20 was given Yale oarsmen today. Early this morning they boarded Donaldson Brown's yacht, Oceania, for a cruise on Long Island sound.

After lunch the yacht visited Fishers Island where the U. S. S. Mississippi is waiting to take the Yale naval reserve on board for the annual summer cruise. The students inspected the battleship through the courtesy of the Mississippi's officers who pointed out its salient features.

An hour after leaving the sea fighter it was discovered that three or four crewmen had been left behind, and it was necessary to turn the Oceania about and pick them up.

The men returned to camp here about six o'clock.

PAID $1,800 FOR A FEW CENTS WORTH OF BRASS

NEW YORK, June 8.—(AP)— After learning to his sorrow that all is not gold that glistens, Jacob Fox, tailor, had Louis Coh, 32, of Philadelphia, lock up tonight. He accused the Philadelphian of selling him a few cents worth of brass for $1,800 after telling him it was gold.

The sale, the tailor said, took place after Cohen and another man entered his tailor shop, told him they wanted to rent a store in the vicinity, but that all their funds were invested in gold they had bought at a bargain in Philadelphia.

That was last January. Today Fox saw Cohen on the street and called a policeman.

CHICAGO GANGSTERS THROW BODIES OF VICTIMS IN CANAL

CHICAGO, June 8—(AP)—Discovery of the body of Eugene "Red" McLaughlin, notorious gangster, in the Chicago drainage canal has strengthened the police theory that a half dozen "missing" Moran gunmen have been slain and their bodies similarly disposed of.

George "Bugs" Moran, kingpin of the North Side badlands, along with five of his chief lieutenants, have disappeared since the outbreak of the latest gang war, police revealed today. The other Moran 'mobsmen, posted as missing, are:

Ted Newberry, business agent and Moran killer; Leo Mongovern, Moran's body guard; Bennie Bennett, who police said left a profitable liquor business in New York to join Moran; Robert Schmidt, reputed machine gunner; and Willie Higgins.

"All or several of these missing men have been executed by rival gangsters," Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney's office said.

Roche plans to have the Chicago sanitary district canal dragged Monday for more bodies.

It was in the drainage canal that McLaughlin's body, weighted with iron, was brought to the surface by the churning of a tugboat.

Detective squads combed the city for two women whose testimony may prove valuable at the McLaughlin inquest tomorrow. One was Margaret Hamilton, called the "Death Lilly of Gangland," because six of her suitors, the last one McLaughlin, were cut down by gangland artillery.

Investigators found the photograph of the second girl in the slain gunman's clothes. It was autographed: "I'll love you forever, Gene," and signed: "Marie."

Robert McLaughlin, president of the Chicago Checker Cab company and brother of the dead gangster, announced he was planning an elaborate funeral equal in grandeur to that of Dion O'Banion, whose $20,000 casket Red McLaughlin helped carry to the grave.

644,802 MACHINES SOLD ON CREDIT IN THREE MONTHS

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(AP)— Installment selling of automobiles was found relatively more important during the present year than it was last year, by the commerce department today in an analysis of national returns on the subject. For the first quarter of 1930, the department found 644,802 machines were sold on credit through finance companies and about $277,494,000 of debt was incurred on them.

In the same period last year, when the total sales of automobiles were considerably larger than this year, installment sales affected 647,455 machines, and the credit advance was $304,732,000. This year average sale prices of automobiles have been lower than last year, so the proportion of credit to cash transactions is rated by observers as probably greater than ever before.

For the first quarter of 1930, the commerce department found 317,105 used cars have been sold on time, with a credit advance of $95,815,000. Last year in the same three months used cars sold on installments numbered 266,533, and the credit advance entailed in their transfer was $83,145,000.

NEW YORK, June 8.—(AP)—An attempted holdup of a reputed speakeasy today led to shooting in which a detective killed Joseph Casey, Jr., 16, and a bartender was slightly wounded.

Later in the day police arrested Martin McKnight, 20, and Edward Burns, 20, who confessed, detectives said, that they were two of the three men who attempted the holdup.

Tragic Liquor Raid At Community Sing

A Woman Was Killed, Two Men Were Shot and Another Was Slugged.

EUPORA, Miss., June 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Lee M. Ferguson, 45, was fatally wounded at a community singing near here today by her husband, a magistrate, who precipitated a pitched battle by his attempt to search the car of two youths for liquor. One of the youths, Tom Elkins, 19, was shot through the lung and was not expected to live, another man was shot and still another was slugged in the melee.

Hearing the gunshots which threw into turmoil a large gathering, Mrs. Ferguson ran toward her husband and into his line of fire. She died soon afterward.

Elkins and another youth, Watts Bowen, sat in a car on the church grounds, crowded by the throng there for an annual singing and church festival.

Magistrate Ferguson and two deputies believed the youths were drinking and started a search of the car. Elkins was said to have demanded a search warrant.

Elkins either fell or was knocked from the car. Others of the gathering said he was shot as he lay on the ground. A bullet penetrated his lungs.

A bystander was shot through the knees. In the free-for-all battle which attended the shootings, and two youths were slugged with gun butts.

Webster county, which had expected no more than a day's pleasant diversion in the singing bee, found instead the greatest excitement it has known in a long time.

Hundreds were there, the participants were known to most of all of them, and Ferguson was prominent.

About 75 had some part in the shooting. When the officers and the two youths were heard talking angrily, a small crowd left the bigger gathering and soon was shouting and, a bit later, dorging wildly for cover as the bullets flew.

Accounts of the fighting differed, but two heads bruised by gun butts were evidence of conflict between the officers and some of the crowd. Castle, one of those struck, was said to have been holding a young child in his arms.

SENATOR SIMMONS WAS DEFEATED IN PRIMARY

CHARLOTTE, N. C., June 8.—(AP)—Senator Furnifold M. Simmons, went down to defeat yesterday at the hands of the democratic party of North Carolina which he had led for more than a quarter of a century.

The veteran North Carolina legislator, oldest member of the senate in point of service, ran more than 60,000 votes behind Josiah W. Bailey, Raleigh attorney, in the democratic primary for senator, on issues that revolved largely around Simmons' failure to support Alfred E. Smith in the 1928 presidential election.

The vote in 1513 of the state's 1799 precincts gave Bailey 178,896; Simmons, 117,969; Thomas L. Ester, a wet candidate, 889.

Senator Simmons, from his home in New Bern, North Carolina, conceded his defeat in a statement to the Associated Press.

Bailey had the support of the state democratic "machine" which Simmons built up.

The vote in the republican primary in 454 precincts was: Butler, 2,915; Pritchard, 2,306; Irvin B. Tucker, 902; H. Grady Dorsett, 404. The vote was very light.

BRITISH PLANES SUBDUE FRONTIER TRIBESMEN

BOMBAY, June 8.—(AP)—With the subjugation of northwest frontier tribesmen by British airplanes and with the coming of the rainy season lessening the activities of nationalist salt raiders, the Indian situation offered little of an exciting nature today.

Nationalist political activity continues, however. At Jalapore a conference of civil disobedience volunteers was held under the presidency of Mrs. Mahatma Gandhi and adopted plans for a stiffening of the civil resistance government.

The conference passed a resolution urging the non-payment of land revenue and a social boycott of government servants, both of which are forbidden in recent ordinances promulgated by the viceroy.

The working committee of the all-India national congress concluded the sitting which began last Wednesday at Allahabad. Its activities were kept secret but it is understood that the chief feature was a decision to increase the program of picketing liquor and foreign cloth shops.

TWO SPANISH PRIESTS WERE KIDNAPED N CHINA

HANKOW, China, June 8.—(AP)—Fathers Hidalgo and Avioto, Spanish priests, were kidnaped from Hwoshan, about 150 miles northeast of this city in western Anhwei province, it was learned today, presumably by the same bandits who a week ago captured Father Clifford King at the Catholic mission at Sinyanchow, 100 miles north of here in southern Honan.

The bandits demanded ransom in the form of supplies of arms and ammunition. The three priests were believed held in a village 20 miles west of Sinyanbchow.

Taking advantage of the departure of Nationalist government troops, outlaws in large bodies have been operating in this district for several weeks.

PARACHUTE FAILED TO OPEN AND JUMPER WAS KILLED

WESTFIELD, N. J., June 8.—(AP)—Franklin D. Crasto, 27, East Orange professional parachute jumper, was killed today when his legs became entangled in the shrouds of his parachute and prevented it from opening while he was making a jump.

Planning to make a "delayed" drop, the young man went tumbling head over heels into space. He pulled the rip cord and the pilot parachute went between his legs. The shrouds caught around his right leg in such a way as to keep the parachute from opening completely. During the remaining 1,500 feet of his 2,000 foot drop he struggled to free his leg, but failed, landing on his head. His neck was broken.

TALKING "JIM" REED FOR DEM. PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATION

Party Leaders At a Rally In Sedalia, Mo., Discussed Former Senator's Candidacy—They Regarded It As Significant That Reed Did Nothing to Discourage the Talk of His Candidacy—Belief Was Unanimous That Reed Would Campaign For the Presidential Nomination In 1932.

ST. LOUIS, June 8.—(AP)—Political leaders throughout the country speculated on whether "Jim" Reed had returned actively to the political arena, in Missouri, democratic leaders appeared unanimous in the opinion that Reed would campaign for the presidential nomination in 1932. Reed was a candidate "to the end of the road" as he worded it, at the Houston convention, but the boom for Alfred E. Smith had gained such headway that the fiery Missourian was unable to head it off.

Reed, in his first important speech since his retirement from the senate two years ago, addressed a large crowd at a state wide rally at Sedalia last night, and many close observers believed the reaction would determine whether the former senator would set the white house as his goal.

They talked "Jim" Reed for president openly at the rally and party leaders regarded it as significant that Reed did nothing to discourage it.

From the same platform Reed later stood upon to assail the last three republican administrations, business monopoly, prohibition, the Anti-Saloon League, Bishop James Cannon, Jr., the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill, the Anglo-American naval agreement and "prostitution" of the federal reserve system in stock "gamblings." John T. Barker, city counselor of Kansas City, former attorney general of Missouri and long a personal and political friend of the ex-senator said it was "not beyond the realm of possibility" that Reed would be nominated and elected president.

When Reed's turn came to speak he said nothing about Barker's statement.

Tom Pendergast, of Kansas City, long a powerful democratic leader in Missouri, said he felt certain Reed would "have a chance" in 1932.

Always a vigorous opponent of national prohibition, Reed indicated, observers were convinced, that he was as opposed as ever to the law and that should he campaign for the nomination, he would make prohibition one of the leading issues. Tariff would also figure prominently, it was believed, since he called the Hawley-Smoot bill, "nothing more or less than robbery."

Reed's shafts directed against President Hoover, Secretary Mellon and Secretary Hyde brought the greatest applause.

After assailing what he called the "aluminum trust," he said: "We tried Fall for leasing the oil lands, we enthrone Andrew Mellon for securing the right to pick the pockets of the American people."

He likewise attacked pacifism.

BUSINESS CONFRONTING THE HOUSE THIS WEEK

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(AP)—Two of President Hoover's proposals—reorganization of the federal power commission and establishment of a unified border patrol—are expected to be disposed of in the house this week along with other remaining important legislation in preparation for final action on the tariff before adjournment.

In addition to the president's proposals for a reorganized federal power commission and a unified border patrol, the house will receive this week the second deficiency bill, which will call for an expenditure in the neighborhood of $100,000,000. Of this, approximately $28,000,000 is to be devoted to public building and $10,660,000 for the initial outlay for construction of Boulder Canyon dam on the Colorado river. However, the appropriations committee is withholding approval of the Boulder Canyon dam estimate until an opinion from the attorney general on the legality of power and water contracts on the $165,000,000 project is received.

Sippel, national president of the federation, opened the services. She read the names of women prominent in the work of the federation who have died within the past two years.

The plaintive notes of "Taps" echoed through the bowl as the brief services were ended.

The memorial service was the only scheduled session of delegates to the 20th biennial convention of the federation today.

TARIFF BILL GOES BACK TO THE SENATE TODAY

WASHINGTON, June 8.— (AP) — Through the medium of their party national committees, republicans and democrats carried on their tariff arguments today with an intensity usually seen only when a long and weary political struggle is about to terminate in congress. A vote on the measure is expected Thursday or Friday in the senate.

Senator Stelwer, republican, Oregon, in a statement issued through the republican national committee, asserted the "country is now presented with the usual spectacle of democrats obtaining all possible tariff protection for the industries of their own states and then crying out against the tariff bill with the hope of gaining some partisan political advantage."

Contending the bill "strikes a body blow at the American farmer, the American consumer, and the great mass of the American people," Senator Connally, democrat, Texas, in a statement given out by the democratic national committee, said "every senator and member of the house who is opposed to the tremendous toll which this 'tariff of combinations' will impose upon the American people ought to vote against it."

The Hawley-Smoot measure will be reported back to the senate tomorrow after final corrections are made in the watch paragraphs to meet points of order. The two conference reports, one comprising most of the rate changes, and the other the administrative flexible provision and lumber levy, will be merged and a single vote taken upon them after two or three days' discussion.

WILLIMANTIC, June 8. — The whereabouts and accomplishments of many former Windham residents, a number of them natives, are given in brief biographies compiled by Allen B. Lincoln, vice chairman of Community Reunion week and in which he gives credit to the alert memory of M. Eugene Lincoln now 81 years of age. Following is information of prominent former residents and "oldtimers" gained from Mr. Lincoln's articles.

James W. Rollinson

James W. Rollinson, now of Auburndale, Fla., began his schooling in the old stone schoolhouse and entered the new Natchaug building, March 1865. He is returning for the reunion. His brother, Thomas H. Rollinson, a native of this city, was long associated with the Oliver Ditson company of Boston, Mass., and is a noted bandmaster, musician and composer.

Another Natchaug pioneer is Ernest C. Waldo, now of Los Angeles, Calif. He came from Scotland Station, went to Brooklyn, N. Y., became a lawyer, was elected to congress and went to the Pacific coast upon retirement. Several Waldos attended Natchaug and Windham high schools and of these there remain as summer residents of Scotland Station, Mrs. Mabelle Waldo Thomas, Hon. Gerald Waldo, member of the constitutional convention of 1902 for Scotland, and Mrs. Margaret Thomas Bowers of New York.

Moulton, who became one of the best known Natchaugers through his long and faithful service as ticket agent at the local railroad station, also won a declamation prize in those forensic days. James E. Preston came from Chaplin to attend the local school, leaving early to become a railroad man, culminating in a brilliant career in the west with the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, with offices at Omaha and Denver, and in later years at Boston. He recently retired but will be unable to come to the reunion as he will be traveling abroad at the time.

Edward F. Burleson of Jewett City entered Natchaug high the first morning the doors were opened, under Major Powell as principal and later under Principal David P. Corbin. He married Bertha Haliam, a fellow student at the school and daughter of the late Rev. Isaac Hallam, then rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church.

Class of 1874

There were four graduates in the Natchaug class of 1874. The late States' Attorney Hadlai A. Hull of New London; George A. DANIELSON

DAYVILLE MAN KILLED IN WINSTED ACCIDENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 8.—Leon Newton Blanchard of Dayville met a tragic death last night in a motoring accident near Winsted when he was crushed between his own parked car and a garage service car when the latter machine was struck by another car travelling at high speed. Mr. Blanchard, fatally injured, was taken to the Litchfield County hospital in Winsted, dying about two hours after the accident, which is reported to have happened at 10:10 p. m. The body was expected to arrive here this evening.

Mr. Blanchard, accompanied by Lee Franklin, a little boy residing in Dayville, left that place Saturday morning to go to Poughkeepsie to bring back Harry Burdick of Dayville, one of his close personal friends.

Near Winsted the Blanchard car developed tire trouble, and a garage was called to service the car. Mr. Blanchard had parked his car well over to the right hand side of the road and off the traveled right of way. When the garage service car came along its driver hauled out on what was for him the left hand side of the road and backed his machine up close to the back of the Blanchard car, and left the headlights of his machine burning.

It is understood that Mr. Blanchard was helping the garage man with the tire and was in between his own car and the service car when another machine came tearing down the highway and crashed head-on into the service car, smashing it back against the Blanchard machine and crushing Mr. Blanchard between them. The little Franklin boy, standing nearby watching what was being done to the tire, was knocked over, but was unhurt. Burdick, who had been advised by Blanchard to sit down in the car and not get soiled and mussed by changing the tire, also escaped without injury.

Leon N. Blanchard, who was in his early 30's, was a son of the late Mrs. Myrtle Blanchard of Dayville, and had always made his home in this town. He was a graduate of Killingly high school, and for a term of years had been in the employ, but at the date of the N. Y., N. H. and H. R. company as a freight brakeman. He was a veteran of the World War, having served overseas with Battery D of the 55th coast artillery. He leaves no relatives nearer than an uncle. The car Mr. Blanchard had at the time of the accident was one that he purchased new this spring.

Wrecks New Car

Norman Burton, a youth residing on Tiger street, wrecked a brand new car on Broad street Saturday evening when it somehow got out of control and crashed into a tree near the residence of Henry Gilbert. And, in addition to that, he was ordered by the state officer who investigated the affair to make an appearance in court to answer, as a minor, to operating a non-insured car. There were no personal injuries connected with the accident.

State Police Seize Still

Sergeant G. L. Gardner and State Officer Lionel Poirier of the Danielson barracks raided the Alex Ruxtela place west of Wauregan and in the town of Brooklyn Saturday afternoon and seized a still, some mash, some alcoholic liquor and some wine. The still was not in operation. Later, before a justice's court in the town of Brooklyn, with Attorney L. A. Wolford presiding, Ruxtela was fined $75 and costs.

This was Children's day at the Westfield Congregational church, and a special program was arranged in their honor at the morning service. Following the prelude and the processional there was a children's hymn, With Happy Voices Singing, then the call to worship and response, the baptism of children and a reading, The Children. In addition to other hymns there were contributions by members of the Beginners' class, Where Busy Feet Go, and by the Primary children, The Best Path of All. A play, At the Crossroads, a practical demonstration of student summer service, also was presented. The service closed with benediction, recessional and postlude.

Several hundred people assembled in the auditorium of Killingly high school this evening for the first event in commencement week, the time-honored and impressive baccalaureate service. Numbered among those present were the relatives and many friends of the graduates of the year, and many others who are keenly interested in the high school and educational matters generally.

The service opened with a processional and sentences of worship and the Lord's prayer. O, Master, Let Me Walk With Thee was the anthem sung following the prayer and the reading of the Scripture lesson by Principal Ernest R. Warren. A string quartet, composed of Burton Hallowell and Herbert Motz, violinists; Gerard Gorman, viola, and Mildred Keech, 'cellist, was heard at this period of the service. Lead On, Oh King Eternal was the number sung preceding the address by Rev. J. Rees Jones, rector of St. Alban's church. Purer, Yet and Purer was the number sung preceding the benediction and recessional.

The class day exercises are to be held in the auditorium of the high school next Thursday afternoon and the graduation exercises the evening of that day.

Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer, as dog warden of the town of Killingly, is contemplating a house to house check-up in search of unregistered dogs. This course is being considered because so many dogs are going about the town unregistered and evidently uncared for, and some of them have been killing chickens and rabbits in a way that is discouraging to poultry men and expensive for the owners.

Sheriff Ayer is well aware of one little racket that is being practiced by some persons who own two or three dogs and register only one of them. The check-up will disclose definitely who these persons are. During April and May more than a dozen stray dogs have been picked up by the dog warden and disposed of, as of unknown ownership and as unregistered.

Miss Edith Fuller, a teacher in Killingly's schools, is to attend the Yale summer school during July and August.

Miss Della Norten, residing on a farm south of South Killingly, has fine quality green peas ready for picking and rates in the front rank of those who like to have early June peas.

In the town court Saturday, Armand Billings, arrested by Night Officer Laird Winchell, was fined $100 and costs and given 60 days in jail for operating a motor vehicle while he was intoxicated. Billings' companion, Albert Duryea of Putnam, was fined $5 and costs for intoxication.

On his trip to Los Angeles this week, Charles F. Alexander of North Main street will fly from Columbus, O., to the coast, after a visit with one of his brothers resident in Cleveland.

Miss Margaret Conway, West Side, who fell and broke her hip a little more than a week ago, remains in a critical condition at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam.

James S. Freeman of Springfield is visiting for a few days with relatives in Danielson and vicinity.

Class picnics and outings will feature this commencement week in Danielson for numbers of pupils in various schools.

There are 34 members in the class to be graduated from Killingly high school next Thursday, this being about the average size class, but considerably below in numbers some of the larger classes graduated from the school in years gone by.

Following the tragic drowning of Simeon Poudrette, Franklin street boy, in the Quinebaug river Friday evening, there was week end agitation for the forbidding of bathing in the river at the dangerous place near the Main street bridge where the affair occurred.

The directresses of the Westfield Congregational church for the month of June are: Mrs. Arthur G. Bill, Mrs. William K. Pike, Miss Alice J. Bugbee, Mrs. Charles S. Bill and Mrs. Ina Keech.

Delinquent taxpayers may favor themselves and also the town of Killingly by meeting their tax obligations at once, thereby saving interest in such unpaid taxes at the rate of 9 per cent. per annum.—adv.

June 17 has been selected by the Talk-it-over club for an outing at Roseland park in the town of Woodstock.

Miss Madelyn Cronin, who the past week received her M. A. degree at Columbia university, is at her home on Academy street.

In addition to the high school graduation this week also brings the closing exercises in the graded schools of the towns of Killingly and Brooklyn.

The delay in getting at the road building contract, where about three miles of concrete trunk line highway is to be constructed between Wauregan and Danielson, is regarded as likely to postpone the completion of this work until late in the fall.

Miss Genevieve Guertin of Fall River has been visiting with friends in Danielson for a few days.

PUTNAM

RADIO INTERFERENCE IS FOUND IN TRANSFORMER

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 8.—Trouble shooters of the Connecticut Light & Power company on Saturday evening remedied a "leak" in the power lines in the east side of the city which for nearly a week had marred radio reception in that section. Radio listeners in the Grove street section were virtually put to a loss each evening at 8 o'clock when the street lights were turned on, for at that moment would begin an infernal overture which would rage for several hours in the loud speaker, interfering with reception to such an extent that the only method of shutting out the blast would be to turn off the operating current.

The trouble men were called out last night when street lights in the east side suddenly went out. An investigation revealed the "leak" in a transformer on lower Grove street. Rectification of the situation achieved a double victory, namely: The restoration of light in the eastern section of the city and the clarification of radio broadcast in the vicinity thereabouts. The latter accomplishment was much to the delight of ardent radio fans who for the past several days have been forced to resort to some other form of pastime.

Rev. James F. English and Mrs. English were guests at a farewell reception tendered in their honor by the Women's Union of the Congregational church, Friday evening. The church banquet room, which was tastefully decorated, was the scene of the gathering. A musical program was presented and consisted of selections by Mrs. Nelson Lown, Kenneth C. Sharpe and William E. Wheaton, assisted by Mrs. E. L. Robinson, Gertrude E. Warner, Mrs. Gertrude A. Letters, Mrs. Charles A. Thayer, Mrs. Earl Kent, Mrs. Raymond Medbury, Mrs. C. L. Torrey, Miss Marion Strombelle and Mrs. Walter W. Rich.

Mrs. L. M. Keith, Mrs. Walter W. Rich and Mrs. James H. McCullough comprised the committee in charge of arrangements.

Commencement exercises at Putnam high school will begin next Sunday evening with baccalaureate at the Congregational church. Rev. Frank A. Fuller will deliver the address to the student body. On Tuesday evening at the high school auditorium, the senior class will hold its Class night exercises. The Alumni banquet will be held in the school gymnasium on Wednesday evening. Graduation will take place at the Bradley theatre on Thursday evening. The graduation address is to be delivered by Adams Puffer of the Beacon Boys' bureau of Boston, Mass. There will be 47 members of the graduating class, it was announced Saturday by the school department. Commencement week will be concluded Friday evening with the Senior reception and dance to be held in the state armory on Harris street. This affair is expected to be the season's outstanding social event.

During the coming week students will attend sessions for the purpose of taking the final examinations. The spring term of school closed Friday with the work of preparing for the exams completed.

The dedication of the recently completed addition to the provincial house of the Sisters of the Holy Ghost on Church street will take place on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. Rt. Rev. Maurice McAuliffe, D.D., auxiliary bishop of Hartford diocese, will officiate at the impressive ceremonies which are to take place. The service is to be held in the chapel in the new wing. Bishop McAuliffe will impart his blessing on the new edifice and will then begin the celebration of a pontifical high mass.

Leo Bernier of Warren, R. I., a brother of Joseph Bernier of Grove street, will be graduated this week from Syracuse university at Syracuse, N. Y., with a degree of medicine. The younger Mr. Bernier is one of the honor students of his class and at the conclusion of commencement Dr. Bernier will leave for the Catskill mountains in New York state, where he will be in charge of an infirmary at a large boys' camp. In September he will leave for Miami, Fla., where he will serve his period as an interne in a large general hospital there. Mr. Bernier will leave for Syracuse this evening to attend the commencement exercises of his brother's class.

Frank Donovan, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Donovan of Lyons street, has completed his studies at St. John's Preparatory school at Danvers, Mass., and was among the class to be graduated last week. He will enter Holy Cross college at Worcester in September.

Commencement exercises at the Rectory school in Pomfret will begin Monday and will continue until Tuesday. A meeting of the parents of the boys who have graduated and of those presently attending school will be held at 11 o'clock in the morning for the purpose of discussing informally the formation of a Parent association. In the afternoon there will be a field sports program and in the evening there will be the senior dance. Certificates of graduation will be awarded at exercises to be held at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning to students who have completed the top form. The events will be brought to a close with a play which will be presented by the top and lower forms.

Captain of Police A. J. Dubreuil was advised this afternoon by police of Keene, N. H., that a man giving his name as Joseph Lepire and claiming his residence as Putnam, Conn., was taken into custody at 1:05 a. m., today, and rushed to a hospital there suffering from what appeared to be a form of paralysis caused by the drinking of poisoned Jamaica ginger. The police reported the condition of Lepire as being extremely critical and urged local authorities to communicate with relatives of the afflicted man and inform them of the whereabouts and plight of their kinsman. Captain Dubreuil interviewed all families of that name living in the city but failed to find anyone claiming relationship to the man in the New Hampshire hospital. Lepire is described by the police as being a man in his early 30's, weighing about 165 pounds and being 5 feet 7 inches in height.

The New Hampshire authorities stated that Lepire was unable to furnish them with any explicit information concerning his residence. They added that they were anxious to communicate with his relatives, owing to the seriousness of his condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Phaneuf have returned to this city, after a week's wedding trip to New Jersey, and are making their home at 28 South Main street.

There was a song by Ruth Mae Benjamin and recitations by Eva Shorey, Myrtice Randall, Margery Webster, Olga Zegeer, Leah Gill, and Lynwood Mills. Exercises were given by Eileen Nichols, Paula Link, Mary Gertrude Howe, Evelyn Link and Ivy Geer, and Wilford Hill, Ralph Goodenough and Allan Whalley. Mrs. E. H. Hiscox read selections from Byrants Forest Hymn, The Groves were God's First Temples, and choruses were sung by the school. Mrs. Walter Benjamin was the accompanist. According to the H. L. Reafie bequest of Bibles to be given to baptised children of the church who have reached the age of seven, a Bible was given Bernice McNicol. This rite of baptism was administered by Rev. G. F. Goodenough to Richard Raymond Hurst, of Norwich, Betty Alice Morgan and her two weeks' old brother John, Junior, children of Mr. and Mrs. John Morgan, of Norwich, Barbara Anne Hiscox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl S. Hiscox, of Jewett City and John Henry Perkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Perkins, of Wauregan. Thursday evening the pastor baptized Laura Gager Hyde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Hyde and Sunday afternoon Charles Henry Randall, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Randall of Jewett City and Raymond Anderson Jr., son of Raymond and Anna Eichelberg Anderson, of Norwich.

The Children's Day program was arranged by Mrs. F. E. Robinson and Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, assisted by Misses Eleanor Stetson, Ethel Fiske, Ivy and Arthur Geer, Harold Tomlinson, Wilford Hill, Lynwood Mills, Eva Shorey, Leah Gill and Lucille Tomlinson in securing and arranging the flowers.

At the Baptist Church

The concert Children's day at the Baptist church was held at five o'clock Sunday afternoon under direction of Mrs. G. H. Prior, Mrs. E. E. Gilbert, Mrs. John MacLean and Mrs. R. A. Wilbur, the last three named acting as piano accompanists, with Mrs. John Davis at the organ. The decorations of syringa, laurel, yellow lilies, Queen Anne's lace, bachelor buttons, iris, roses, poppies, peonies and ferns were massed at both sides of the platform being arranged by Miss Ida Foster and Mrs. Gertrude Sparks. The program was announced by Supt. Earle Palmer, the choruses being sung by a young women's choir. The responsive reading was led by Mrs. Wilbur. There were recitations by John MacLean, Jr., Phyllis Campbell, Fay Green, Adelbert Babcock, Jr., Phyllis Gilbert, Miriam Scates, Emily Mager, Chester Green, Charlotte Cook, Albert Scates, Edwin Hewlitt, Lillian Webster, Lois Howlitt, and Walter Field, Jr. There was an exercise also a song by the primary department, an exercise by Alberta Scates, Doris MacLean and Candace Webster, and a song by the girls in Mrs. A. M. Brown's class. A charming number was the solo by Jean Wilbur.

C. H. BACON DIES AT HOME AFTER SHORT ILLNESS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 8.— Charles H. Bacon, dean of Danielson's business men, died tonight at 6 o'clock at his home on Main street. He had been ill only a week, but apparently broken in spirit since the death of his wife May 6. He was in his 80th year and had been an outstanding and familiar figure in Danielson beyond the memory of even many of the older people living here. Over 50 years ago he succeeded to a furniture business established by his father in 1820 and which has since continued to do business and will continue though all but one of the male members of the family are now dead. Mr. Bacon was born in Danielson, Feb. 10, 1851, a son of William Corey and Mary Avis Malbone Bacon of a family living in Danielson for a number of generations.

After completing his education in local schools Mr. Bacon became associated in business with his father and took charge of it some time prior to his father's death in 1878. He continued active in it up to the time of his last illness.

Mr. Bacon was a member of the Knights of Pythias and took a great interest in the organization for a long term of years. He had been warden in the borough several times. He was one of the most kindly and friendly of men and was beloved by every one who knew him. One of his sons, W. Clarence Bacon, who is associated with him in business, died suddenly Feb. 9, 1929. Mr. Bacon is survived by a son, Edward, a daughter, Grace, of Danielson and by a sister, Mrs. Carrie Fuller of Bristol, Conn., now in her 87th year.

Children Respond Quickly To New Treatment

Modern Laxative Safe, Dependable—Children Like Taste

Now-a-days mothers know the importance of keeping children regular and cleaned out inside. They know how often cross, irritable children regain happy dispositions, healthy appetites when constipation is corrected. And mothers everywhere are delighted with the way their children respond to Feen-a-mint, the modern chewing gum laxative.

Children love the fresh mint flavor of Feen-a-mint which never has to be forced down unwilling throats as do old-fashioned cathartics. Doctors recommend it for its mild, yet thorough action for Feen-a-mint works on the important principle of uniform internal distribution.

Because children chew Feen-a-mint, it is effective in milder doses than ordinary laxatives. For the effectiveness of a laxative is not so much depended upon the quantity swallowed as upon the thoroughness of its distribution throughout the ailmentary tract.

While children chew Feen-amint the laxative it contains is gradually released and mixed with the saliva. Thus it is carried to the intestinal tract smoothly, even, without shock to the system or the distressing after-effects so common with old-fashioned laxatives. Each particle of the laxative in Feen-a-mint works with utmost efficiency, gently encouraging the intestinal muscles to resume the activity so necessary for healthful elimination.

The action of Feen-a-mint is thorough gentle, dependable. With the proper dosage it is not necessary to increase the amount one time or decrease it the next. Feen-a-mint is harmless and contains no habit-forming drugs. Truly the ideal health laxative to keep children regular and free from constipation. Get a package at any drug store.—Adv.

TONIGHT'S CITY MEETING

Tonight, at the adjourned city meeting, the opportunity is afforded the citizens of Norwich to indicate their desires relative to city affairs for the ensuing year. At the polls last Monday they selected those it was desired should direct the city government. At the city meeting it is their time for telling the city officials how much they want done, how insistent they are for the practice of economy and what among the matters scheduled for action tonight they want carried out and what they want delayed. Likewise, if such is the case, it is the opportunity for them to indicate any changes in the suggested propositions.

When the voters, acting as the stockholders of the city of Norwich, selected their directors last week, they delayed until tonight the task of indicating what policy should be carried out. They have had set before them the financial situation. They know what the estimates for the coming of the necessary expenses are and what can be expected in the way of income. They know what they must face in the way of taxation if they provide for the needed departmental expenses. They know what will be required if they authorize the several appropriations which are sought in the way of extras. They have also been informed through the investigation of the Taxpayers' association that it is possible to deal with the list of extras, through the elimination of some, through the adoption of others, through the treatment of others in a modified form and through the inclusion of certain financial obligations in a bond issue, in such a manner as to result in but a slight increase in the tax rate.

Unless we are greatly mistaken, the suggested method is one that is bound to make a strong appeal to the taxpayers of the city. But it is to be remembered that the suggestion accomplishes nothing unless it results in getting the taxpayers to attend the meeting and support the proposal.

It is a meeting of much importance and one that all taxpayers who can get there should insist upon attending. It is their duty to look out for themselves and to see that good judgment prevails. It is the time to be heard. Objections and criticisms after action has been taken amount to nothing. In fixing the policy for the coming year, Norwich wants to go right and, to do that, there should be a representative gathering of the citizens in the interest of sound government.

SELLING THE SHIPS

While this country has been desirous of getting rid of its merchant vessels and turning them over to private capital as soon as it can do so to an advantage, the disposition of 18 of its vessels has been hanging fire for more than a year. This is not because of a lack of bids but because the board cannot come to a decision over the bids.

Three bids have been offered. The ships are not operated by two different lines. On the initial bids these companies made the same offer of $13 a ton for the ships. The third bidder, the United States lines, offered $23 a ton, a substantial increase. Subsequently one of the operators, the Black Diamond lines, equalled the last named offer.

The question thus hinges on whether the shipping board should give consideration to the United States lines or the Black Diamond lines. Under sealed bids it is indicated that the United States lines would have been the high bidder, and while it has been the policy of the board to give consideration to the operating companies when they desire the vessels, the marked difference in the bids has to be taken into consideration. When the high bid was matched by one of the operating companies the situation changed again and brought the board to the point where it must consider the preference for the operating lines. And yet, the complications have prevented action. The ships have not been sold and yet those desirous of purchasing them have been waiting a year for a decision.

It is under these circumstances that President Hoover has written to the shipping board, stating his decision to name a committee of outstanding men to review the questions at stake and advise upon them and the broader policies in merchant marine organization, which apparently covers the construction of ships on government loans.

The president makes it clear that it isn't possible for him to decide the matter, but through the plan he proposes there should be a hastening of a decision which should have been reached a long time ago. Evidently there is need for some rule to govern such a situation for, even though the board is at loggerheads, it is unfair to the bidders and to the government that there should not be a proper disposition of the property which the nation wants to and can sell. The president's purpose is to clear up the situation in the board.

GOING INTO THE NORTH

There is always something fascinating about the expeditions which are arranged for finding out new facts about the polar regions. They mean going into those parts of the world where few go, where some have gone and not returned and where others have found and brought home much information of an interesting and scientific nature. As long as there are areas about which little or nothing is known, or about which more ought to be known, it can be expected that there will be those eager to be numbered among those with the courage to make the trip.

Robert Bartlett has captained other expeditions into the north. That he goes again is characteristic of those who are never satisfied unless they are making ready for such a trip or actually on their way. And it doesn't have to be the pole that is the objective. While there may be much that might be learned at the pole and its immediate vicinity, there is plenty this side of the top of the world about which all too little is known.

Captain Bartlett and scientists are going to Greenland and the region lying off to the northeast of it. They are hopeful of finding out much about all sorts of conditions there. They go fully aware of the difficulties that may be expected, the trouble that may be encountered in finding data, and have made preparations for the customary adventures and hardships. They are on their way at the most favorable time of the year but, even in the sparsely settled or uninhabited areas of that region, that offers no inducement to most people. Confidence in their knowledge of the conditions that may be anticipated, interest in their work and the hope for good results lead them on in a quest which may be prolific in attainments or may be meager. That is the chance they take, the chance that all explorers face.

This party leaves not for years but for months. They are to spend the summer in a careful study of northern conditions and it will be surprising if they do not have an interesting story of accomplishment to tell on their return. Their trip is one that will excite the envy of a far greater number than as if they were actually seeking the pole. They are headed for a region that is little frequented and, therefore, holds a special interest among the great circle of adventure lovers. If good wishes amount to anything, they will be eminently successful.

MOTORING TO SOUTH AMERICA

How long is it going to be before the appeal for the tourist trade is going to come from the countries of Central and South America through the provision of good roads?

It is not a new idea. Efforts in the way of road improvements through the various republics in Central and South America have been made for a long time. A certain amount of progress has been made. More can be expected in the future but there will be quite a period before there will be offered in those republics roads which will compare with those in this country. And yet the automobile is going to bring steady and strong pressure to bear, and in such a way increasing results will be secured.

Starting out from New York with an automobile and plenty of courage, two young men have succeeded in reaching Managua, Nicaragua, in 25 days. That meant going through Mexico, Salvador and Honduras after leaving the United States and covering a distance of over 4,500 miles. They report that they camped at night without being disturbed, found no difficulty at the frontiers and were treated courteously by the authorities along the way. They encountered some bad roads but that seemed to have been the only real handicap to their trip.

That speaks well for the good relationship that prevails among the several republics and particularly the good attitude toward the United States and its subjects. Evidently such a trip would not appeal to everyone, but with bad roads as the one big handicap it is inevitable that that condition will be recognized and improved by the respective countries so that it will not only be possible to attract more of such motoring visitors but to make it possible for them to keep on southward and link up with some of the South American countries which have done much in the way of road building and are constantly doing more. Through better roads the whole of the western hemisphere would be brought still closer together.

NORTH CAROLINA'S PRIMARY

What it means to be a democrat in North Carolina is disclosed in the primary result in that state. It means that Senator Simmons, who has served his state for nearly 30 years in the United States and taken a leading part in that time, has been thrown overboard because he was not willing to swallow and abide by the Smith nomination in 1928. Senator Simmons had a powerful influence in his state and it had its effect in the last national campaign, but it was also resented by members of his party, with the result that as a candidate for renomination his long and conspicuous record has been forgotten and he is turned down because of this two-year-old action. It was a step that he might have dodged without difficulty but he considered that his convictions could not be smothered. He was not willing to hide them to insure remaining in the senate. No doubt he believed that the state would still stand by him, but the primary has revealed that the opposition was genuine.

Thus North Carolina paves the way for a more interesting fight between the democratic and republican candidates for the Simmons seat. If it is a state where democratic adherence is not as strong as in years past it will be interesting to note what course the Simmons supporters are going to take. He may yet be able to control the result on election day.

PAULA REHEARSES HER PART

In three days John would be home again! And then—then—would he ask her? Paula was the most excited girl in the world. She felt she knew he would.

"Marry me, Paula," he had begged every night in her dreams since he went off to Chicago to see about that wonderful new job. Of course he couldn't ask her before he went away—a young man of 24 with no financial prospects—none at all. But he had intimated and Paula felt she could tell from his parting words that he longed to ask her the all-important question upon his return with the good news that he had got the job.

Every day since he had gone Paula had practiced over the scene that would be enacted when he came back. He would telephone, of course, and she would hold down her excitement, if possible, in her easy reply.

"Paula," he would say, "I want to see you just as soon as possible. Will you be free tonight?" And she would answer, "I believe so, John. Could you make it around 8?" And then she would dress in her lovely new dress, the one she had bought especially for this home-coming, the soft blue velvet that matched her eyes, and she would screw on the crystal earings that Aunt Jane had promised to lend for the occasion and slip her feet into the size 3 new blue pumps, and with her hair done in her most becoming fashion she would slowly come down the polished stairs into the living room and extend her hand to him as she said evenly, "I'm so glad to see you again, John." He must never, never guess how her heart was pounding nor how all her happiness depended upon what was said during the next few minutes.

She would lead him casually over to the plush love seat near the open fireplace and she would begin by asking if he had had a nice trip. Then he would tell her about his wonderful offer and she would reply, "I'm so happy, John. But it really isn't a surprise to me because I met your sister in town and she told me several days ago. But I'm as happy as though it were happening to me personally."

And then he would say, bending close to her so that he caught the fragrance of the heliotrope sachet she had carefully dabbed behind her left ear: "If it only could mean something to you personally, darling," or better still, "Won't you share this good fortune with me by becoming my wife?" or better still again, "This is only the beginning of fine things I want to accomplish for you, Paula dear, for I want to share everything with you forever—if you will." And then she would say, drawing a fraction of an inch away from him, "Oh, John, this is so sudden—won't you give me time—a day or two, to think it over?"

Paula sighed at this point and gazed at herself abstractedly in the mirror of her dressing table.

"Paula," called her young sister from the other twin bed, "aren't you ever going to get through mooning to yourself and come to bed? I can't get to sleep with the light shining in my eyes."

Paula came out of her trance and finished braiding the short pigtail she had managed to develop from her once bobbed coiffure—when suddenly there came—was it—could it be possible—John's familiar whistle below her window! Oh, marvel of marvels, he must have come back three days early!

She peered out of the window. There he was, gesticulating frantically for her to come down. Paula forgot she was in her faded old house dress, that her face was smeared with cold cream, that her hair hung in one pigtail, and that she had on, not the new blue pumps but her woolly bedroom slippers.

Seizing an old raincoat, she stepped out on the balcony and grasping the rainpipe she slid dexterously down to the ground and into John's arms.

"Darling," he whispered hoarsely, "I got the job. And I have to start to work Monday morning. Will you marry me and leave for Chicago tomorrow?"

And Paula, nestling against John's shoulder, forgetting her practiced lines and how she looked and the fact that late passers-by were staring wide-eyed at this midnight spectacle under the street light, murmured happily, "Of course I will, John dear!"

SCHOOL CREDITS FOR MEDICAL EXAMINATIONS

F. E. Harrington, M. D.,
Minneapolis
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Education at the expense of the state is the birthright of every child born in the United States of America. But in raising the standard of intelligence of the general population we have introduced much keener competition in the business of life than existed in the years when education was reserved for the few. Competition, however, is not alone intellectual. People of equal mental, educational or intellectual attainment still have the problem of physical perfection or handicap. The graduates from our schools, as they enter the field of commerce, science or arts, can achieve only to the extent that their physical and physiological development permits the full use of their scholastic attainments.

This phase of a well-rounded educational requirement has been neglected, and only too often good work in school has been at the expense of physical development. Further, getting an education in spite of handicapping deformity has demanded a greater expenditure of energy than would be necessary had the handicaps been recognized and corrected. Now it is evident that educational programs should be changed so that a successful and normal physical development is made a compulsory requirement. So it is suggested and recommended that courses of study and curricula include periodic examinations by competent physicians. Each student would be graded on a basis of the average normal, corresponding to the marks given in grading intellectual subjects in which credits and advancement in class can be secured only by work of a passing grade. Educators must appreciate the demand of society for a well-rounded product of the educational machinery. Unless the student is able to compete successfully with his equally well educated competitor, the race is lost. Therefore, education must include proper normal and uninterrupted physical development, and credits for this development must become part of the general gradings of our students in school, college and university.

In order to remove from the handicapped student physical disabilities which would require from him extraordinary physical labor and nervous exhaustion, these handicaps must be early recognized and remedial measures instituted. These curative and preventive measures would form part of the responsibility of the state if parents were unable or unwilling to provide them. At the same time the courses selected by the student would be regulated by his physical grades, so that no student would be prepared for a life task for which he was clearly handicapped.

Regular physical examination, and school work based on physical condition, will greatly increase the value of our educational system.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Peter Sees a Funny Nose

If things are strange, they must be queer;
It seems to me that this is clear.
—Peter Rabbit.

Peter Rabbit isn't always as observing as he should be. Most of us are not. We see, yet do not see. We pass over little things. Peter had watched Starnose the Mole swimming and then had seen Starnose come ashore. Without noticing anything peculiar about Starnose, to Peter he looked very much like his cousin, Miner the Mole. He was the same general shape and his gray coat looked much the same.

Starnose was an uneasy little fellow. It seemed to Peter that Starnose wasn't still a minute. Most of the time he had his nose to the ground and was poking under the leaves and under the grass with it. So Peter took no notice of that nose until at last Starnose paused in front of him and lifted his head as if he were looking up into Peter's face. Then Peter's eyes fairly popped. They looked as if they were going to jump right out of his head. "What is the matter with it?" he cried.

"Those are not funny little things at all," replied Starnose promptly

"What is the matter with what?" demanded Starnose in his sharp, squeaky voice.

"Your nose," replied Peter. "What in the world is the matter with your nose?"

"Nothing is the matter with my nose," squeaked Starnose, and his voice sounded indignant despite its squeakiness. "There isn't a thing the matter with my nose."

"But there must be!" cried Peter, still staring. "I never saw nor heard of a nose like yours. What under the sun did you ever do to it?"

"I haven't done anything to it," squeaked Starnose. "It is just as Old Mother Nature gave it to me. I wouldn't trade noses with any one I know. So there!"

"But what are all those funny little things all around the end of your nose?" asked Peter, and he was staring in the most impolite manner.

"Those are not funny little things at all," replied Starnose promptly. "There is nothing funny about them. Those are little feelers and there are twenty-two of them. I don't know what I should do without them."

"Huh!" exclaimed Peter. "I don't see what good they are."

"That is because you don't know as much as you might," squeaked Starnose. "If you couldn't see any better than I can—and you might just as well say I can't see at all—you would want something to tell you about things. Those little feelers do just that; they help me a whole lot."

"Your cousin Miner doesn't have them and he gets along all right," said Peter.

"My cousin Miner doesn't live the way I do," replied Starnose. "He sticks more closely to his tunnels than I do. Of course, I stick pretty closely to mine, but I do come out once in a while. I like to run on the surface and take a swim now and then. When I find things which may be good to eat, I use these little fingers on my nose to find out about them."

"I see," said Peter. "Of course, you know that no one else has a nose like yours, so you must excuse me for thinking it a funny nose. Of course, I ought to have known that it has a use of some sort. Old Mother Nature doesn't give people things unless there is some use for them. I suppose it is that nose of yours that gives you your name."

"Right you are, Peter Rabbit, right you are," replied Starnose. "Well, I have gossiped long enough and my stomach is empty. I must get something to eat and must get it quickly. Excuse me, Peter, while I go look for some worms."

Before Peter could open his mouth to reply, Starnose had begun to burrow into the soft earth.

CHILD TRAINING

Punishment—Wise Or Otherwise

Lenora Bailey

Joan was having a delightful time entertaining her cousins, Elizabeth and Ben, and two little neighbors, Louise and Jimmy.

The five children had played games, eaten ice-cream and plain cake, and now were resting in the cool shade of the plum trees.

"Oh, dear, look at the spots on my dress," said Louise.

"Will your mother spank you?" asked Elizabeth.

"No-o-o, I don't think so."

"'Course she won't spank you unless she gets mad with you 'cause she will have to wash the dress," remarked Jimmy.

"My daddy doesn't whip me unless he catches me doing something bad," volunteered Ben, "so I sure try to keep him from finding out what I do."

"My father spanked me yesterday 'cause I took some of his tobacco for Roy and Peter. I don't think he should be so mean. He had a lot of tobacco and I know he couldn't miss what I took," was Jimmy's contribution.

"Oh, but he punished you so you'd remember not to take what didn't belong to you," explained Joan.

"Aw, no, he didn't! He did it just 'cause he wanted the tobacco all for himself. When I get as big as he is I'll take all I want, and I bet he won't whip me."

"Mother got mad and spanked me because I didn't know she wanted me to watch the baby and he pulled a knife off of the cabinet and cut his finger," thoughtfully said Louise.

"Well," said Elizabeth, "Mother sure did spank me last week for losing her riding whip, and I had never touched it. She found it in the parasol rack where she had put it herself."

"Mother hardly ever spanks me," said the little hostess, "and then it is just to make me remember not to do the bad things again. She hates to do it, too—"

"Oh, gee, my mother doesn't hate to," interrupted Jimmy. "She just gets mad and takes her spite out on me over just anything."

"We both cry when my mother has to spank me. We don't either of us like it. But it sure makes me remember not to do the things she tells me are wrong," continued Joan.

All were silent for a few minutes thinking the thoughts of little people about the unfairness of adults, perhaps.

"Let's play tag some more!" suddenly exclaimed Elizabeth. "You are it, Jimmy," and away they went—childish philosophy forgotten for the moment.

Of the five, one, had any mentally wholesome idea of the value of punishment.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 8—The nation's capital is enjoying a new sort of taxi war, reminiscent of the "jitney" days when Mr. Henry Ford's celebrated gas buggies earned their name by carting folks around like street cars at a nickel a ride.

That was a long time ago. Now, however, swarms of government clerks are discovering that the "35-cent-anywhere-in-the-city-proper" unmetered cabs enable them to sleep a little longer o' mornings and still get to the office on time, and at the cost of street car travel.

The trick is this. The unmetered cabs make the same 35-cent flat charge no matter how many folks they carry.

So five government clerks living in the same vicinity club together, dodge the town-going or home-going peaks of traffic on the street cars and roll up to the doors of their respective departments in style.

Wide awake cabbies also found that by traveling selected routes they could pick up four or five loads each way morning and evening.

Traffic Peculiar

Washington has long had traffic difficulties of its own. It has two street car systems and for years some way of merging them to the mutual satisfaction of owners and public has been sought in vain.

It is a tough problem, as the incidental short haul business for the cars between the morning and evening rush hours is not very great.

Then there is one traffic disadvantage in Washington's peculiar military-reason lay out, devised by that celebrated French military engineer, L'Enfant.

The wide diagonal avenues are with few exceptions reserved for vehicular traffic. No street cars may operate over most of them.

So the car lines ramble around winding about the frequent "circles" which L'Enfant set out as safeguards against any repetition of the reign of terror in Paris in the days of the "barricades."

Discourages Mobs

A few machine guns and a field piece or two would have an all around fire down six or eight converging streets from one of these beautifully gardened circular parks. That is what L'Enfant had in mind.

They would prove great discouragers of mobs, no doubt, but they also discourage fast and direct street car traffic.

Then Washington has another habit of planting a huge government building in the center of things in such a way that it cuts squarely across two or three through streets. Again the cars and vehicular traffic have to wind about about to dodge them.

Pending traffic reforms, government clerks are enjoying cheap rides in the 35-cent cabs while the metered machines show "organized responsibility" placards for the timid.

And so congress and the district government wonder what to do about it.

Little Talks on Thrift

Most Great Fortunes Developed As Result Of Slow, Steady Saving

There are a great many substantial business men in America today who could tell you interesting stories about how they spent their early years in the accumulation of a few dollars.

Had they continued all their lives to save only the small amounts they were able to lay by at first, they never would have become well-to-do men. But their small savings and the discipline which was necessary to build up these sums, put them in a position to earn more money and occupy more important positions as the years went by.

"I don't think I could live long enough ever to be rich at the rate I would be able to save money."

This sentence in a letter received recently is typical of the viewpoint of Many who lack the patience to build up their personal resources through the painstaking methods of thrift. Now and then someone does strike it rich, so to speak, but where one person may gain sudden wealth, a million others, trying the same thing, may lose their last penny.

Look up the histories of most of the large fortunes in America and you will find that the vast majority were started with small sums of money and grew to fabulous accumulations of wealth through the normal processes of sound business and investment. The possession even of a small sum of money was necessary before the larger amounts could be built up.

It is always to be remembered that one of the great elements in thrift is patience. It is hard for an ambitious, vigorous person to exercise this rare quality. The temptation always is strong with such persons to take chances and plunge. But patient saving and the slow, steady accumulation of funds will win out in the long run. The great book of human experience is eloquent in its assertions of this fact.—By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.

A History Of Connecticut Industry

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut,

The Crofut & Knapp Company, South Norwalk.

The Crofut & Knapp company, hat manufacturers of South Norwalk, was founded in 1858 by James H. Knapp, one of the pioneers of the industry in America. For at least ten years prior to his connection with Andrew J. Crofut, Boss Knapp, as he was familiarly known, had been in business for himself and therefore the house of Crofut & Knapp really dates from 1848.

In the twilight days of hat making the shop was located beside a brook in the running water of which the hat bodies were washed to remove the logwood chips which furnished the coloring matter.

Boss Knapp learned his trade when a "jour" hatter, so called because of the migratory habits of the clan, made a hat from start to finish. He formed the body from the double-handful of fur, shrunk it to size in hot water, colored, blocked and finish it by hand with the help of primitive tools, mostly hand-fashioned from wood.

It is a far cry from that little C & K factory on North Main street, South Norwalk, to the splendid group of buildings on the line of the New Haven railroad. There the raw skins are received directly from Australia, Germany, Scotland, South America and various other parts of the globe.

The fur is prepared and transformed into smart hats which are shipped to every state in the union and to Mexico, South America, South Africa, Japan and many other foreign countries. The factories also produce all types of headwear including straw hats, caps, opera hats and silk hats.

The executives of the Crofut & Knapp company are: John Cavanagh, president; Philip N. Knapp, chairman of the board; R. A. Holmes, first vice president; Thos. Johnstone, second vice president; I. R. Wilmot, third vice president and secretary; F. H. James, treasurer.

LEADERS OF CHINESE TONGS SIGNED TRUCE

NEW YORK, June 8.—(AP)—National leaders of the rival Chinese tongs, the Hip Sings and the On Leongs, tonight signed a peace treaty agreeing to outlaw tong warfare in New York permanently.

The leaders signed the pact at the office of the Chinese consul general after a long conference, called by Assistant United States Attorney Mintzer.

The Chinese had failed to attend a similar meeting planned for last night, declaring that police had violated faith with the tongs by raiding Chinatown. Police denied any such raids and Mintzer ordered the leaders to be present at today's conference.

Seven lives were lost in the past few days in alleged tong warfare in Chicago, Everett, Mass., Newark, N. J., and New York. The killings brought threats on the part of authorities to begin deportations on a wholesale scale unless warfare stopped. The tong leaders blandly disclaimed responsibility but agreed to end the disturbances.

News of the treaty was telegraphed to all Chinese settlements in the United States by officials of the Chinese Charitable and Benevolent association, which was instrumental in settling the war.

LARGE CONGREGATION HONORS YOUNG PRIEST CELEBRATING FIRST MASS

The cathedral-like proportions of St. Patrick's church, the grandeur of its architecture and the artistry of its adornment lend themselves admirably to the solemnity of such a ceremonial as was enacted Sunday for the second time within a week, the first solemn mass of a boy of the parish. Rev. Henry James Murphy, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Murphy, of 264 Broad street, ordained by Bishop Nilan May 29 at St. Joseph's cathedral, Hartford, was graduated from St. Patrick's school in 1918, attended Norwich Free Academy, and was assigned by the bishop to St. Thomas' seminary, Hartford, from which he was graduated in 1924. For his theological course he was sent to St. Bernard's seminary, Rochester, completing his study and training there this spring. Another parish boy who had been ordained with him, Rev. Terence P. Finnegan, celebrated his first solemn mass in St. Patrick's Sunday, June 1.

As officers in the mass Sunday, Rev. Omer T. Mandler, of Taftville, was deacon, Rev. Anthony J. Murphy, of Norwich, chaplain at St. Francis' hospital, Hartford, was sub-deacon, and Rev. Myles P. Galvin was master of ceremonies. The sermon was delivered by another Norwich young priest, Rev. Alfred Driscoll, of St. Augustine's church, Bridgeport, from the text, John 15:16, "You have not chosen Me; but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain."

REV. HENRY J. MURPHY

Sermon by Father Driscoll

Rev. Father Driscoll rapidly and with a few master-strokes followed the cycles of human life since the earliest period, showing that from the ages of primitive man religion of some type has been the demand of human nature, some form of worship to express man's relationship to a Creator. So down through the ages there have been leaders and guides to influence souls to know and love God, set apart for this holy calling. The world's lapses until the need of Christ's coming were recalled, and the Saviour's eventual institution of His church and its sacraments, the desire of keeping man closer to the divine model through leaders who should teach and preach in imitation of Christ. "You have not chosen Me; but I have chosen you."

Father Driscoll set forth very strikingly the responsibilities and privileges of the young man called to this leadership and duly commissioned through holy orders—answering in a most convincing way his own question, "What are the fruits of the priesthood?" He considered the obligations of the priest, to baptize the infant, to influence the child toward a choice of right, to strengthen souls by means of the sacraments, to offer the daily sacrifice of the mass, to bless those who marry, to bring hope and consolation and peace to the dying, in a thousand ways to lead and to guide souls to their eternal place in Heaven. And this leadership of the priesthood of the Roman Catholic church will go on to the end of time, for Christ has so promised: "Behold, I am with you all days, even to the consummation of the world."

He spoke in words of congratulation to the young priest, thus called apart from the multitude to follow in the footsteps of his Divine Master, and he touched very tenderly upon the exalted dignity of the mother of a priest.

Received Blessing

At the close of the mass, Father Murphy gave his blessing to the hundreds who went to the sanctuary railing, his family and relatives going first.

An unusually beautiful musical service had been arranged by the organist, Henry J. LaFontaine, the volunteer choir singing Mozart's Twelfth Mass. The soloists were Miss Sadie A. Driscoll, Miss Eulalie Auclaire, Mrs. Bernard C. Coyle, Horace F. Corning and Roderick F. Sullivan. The offertory solo was Rosewig's "Ave Maria," prettily sung by Father Murphy's young sister, Miss Alice Murphy. "Veni Creator," the hymn of invocation before the sermon, was sung by Henre LaFontaine. One of the notably beautiful passages in the mass was "Et Incarnatus est." Miss Sadie Driscoll, sister of the day's preacher, having the solo lead and the chorus in its magnificent climax making a marked impression on the great congregation.

During the service the rector of the parish, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May occupied a seat in the sanctuary.

The sanctuary was adorned with tall palms and blossoms in pink and white, in vases upon the altars and massed about the shrines.

John P. Corcoran, Leonard Desmond and Dr. Andrew J. Sullivan were the ushers.

Reception Omitted

Because of the serious illness of his aunt, Mrs. Thomas A. Crowley, of Williams street, at whose home his reception to his friends was to have been held, Father Murphy was obliged to forego this feature of the day's exercises.

Instead, his aunt, Miss Mary E. Murphy, of 174 Broadway, Norwich, entertained relatives and the visiting priests at a dinner at the Norwich Inn, the 18 members of the family party present including, with Rev. Fathers H. J. Murphy, Mandler, Driscoll and Anthony Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moran, of New Britain; Mrs. Joseph Golden, Mr. and Mrs. William Welsh, Mrs. Thomas Leddy and Jeremiah Falvey and family, all of Hartford; also Mrs. Nellie Leddy, of New Britain. The decorations of the tables and the dining room at the inn were pink carnations.

Among relatives from out of town who attended the services Sunday morning were Mrs. Frank Murphy and daughter, Agnes, of Winchester, Mass., largely attended by relatives and friends.

A number of friends gathered at their home in the evening to attend a reception in their honor. Many beautiful and pleasing gifts were presented to the happy couple.

HENS AT STORRS MAKE GAIN IN 31ST WEEK

Production for the thirty-first week has increased slightly by 21 eggs over last week in the Storrs egg laying contest. The total for the week was 4,900 eggs making a grand total to date of 136,676 eggs. Last year for the same period the total was 134,321.

The hens in the contest are credited with a 70 per cent lay for the week while last year the yield was only 66.2 per cent.

Among a group of well bred birds it seems almost impossible for one breed to outshine another for no less than three pens were tied for first place with 63 eggs. Two of these pens were Barred Rocks, namely, Pratt Experimental Farm of Morton, Pa., and R. C. Cobb of Littleton, Mass., while the other, a Leghorn pen, is entered by Toivonen Leghorn Farm of Girard, Pa. Second place was captured by three pens lying with 62 eggs each. They were bred by Geo. B. Treadwell of Spencer, Mass., Hollywood Poultry Farm from Woodinville, Wash., and Bournedale Farm of Millerton, N. Y.

The following pens were all tied for third place with 61 eggs: R. Walter Elshop's pen of Barred Rocks, E. H. Rucker's White Rocks, Leslie A. Allen's Australorps, and four pens of White Leghorns entered by Alfred J. O'Donovan, Peetoocee Poultry Plant, William J. Boyle, and Steelman Poultry Farms. Fourth honors were taken by the leading pen of Reds owned by Edward N. Larrabee of Peterboro, N. H. This pen shelled out 60 eggs.

The leading pens to date in each of the principal varieties are as follows:

White Wyandottes—The Locusts, West Cornwall, 1562; Fisher P. Farm, Ayton, Ont., Canada 1408.

Barred Rocks—R. C. Cobb Littleton, Mass., 1606; R. Walter Bishop, Guilford, 1549; Spring Brook P. Farm, So Wethersfield, 1503.

White Rocks—E. H. Rucker, Ottumwa, Iowa, 1446; Adam F. Polli, Hartford, Wis., 1303; Kalerok Farm, Westford, Mass., 1301.

Rhode Island Reds—Edward N. Larrabee, Peterboro, N. H., 1717; F. S. Chapin, Longmeadow, Mass., 1705; F. S. Chapin, Longmeadow, Mass., 1657; Harold G. Colt, West Hartford, 1650.

A plan to use the radio in a direct appeal to the public for co-operation in efforts to promote highway safety is to be put into effect by Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel, from WTIC, the Travelers station, at Hartford. A series of talks will be given in coming weeks, dealing with particular problems which arise from the present complex traffic conditions and various ways open to everyone to help solve these problems.

These discussions will be prepared by the motor vehicle department and presented every Thursday from WTIC usually at 1 p. m. and 6:15 p. m. On the same day, articles covering the subject matter of the talks will be released to the newspapers. By this double method of presentation it is expected that nearly all traffic participants will be reached.

The purpose behind the new effort, Commissioner Stoeckel said, is to bring to the realization of every driver and pedestrian that each has a definite part in traffic today, and that there are things each can do so as to be of assistance to those who are trying to save lives and eliminate dangers.

AIRPLANE FATALITIES ARE SHOWING YEARLY INCREASE

With a steadily increasing number of airplanes in use, will the mortality from aircraft accidents eventually parallel the course of fatalities caused by automobiles, and show a sharp increase each year?

The latest data concerning airplane fatalities suggest, the statistical bulletin of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. states, "that the time may not be far off when they will become a significant cause of death."

In 1928 they numbered 473 in the registration area, as compared with only 214 in 1927, while the death rate from this cause increased from 0.3 per hundred thousand population in 1927 to 0.4 per hundred thousand in 1928. In the state of California alone, where more deaths from this type of accident occur than in any other state, the number increased from 27 in 1927 to 36 in 1928, while the death rates were respectively 0.6 and 2.1.

"Complete data on airplane fatalities for 1929 are not yet available," the bulletin explains. "The National Safety council has stated the number of deaths in that year from civil aviation accidents alone as 485. When 91 fatalities in the army, navy and marine corps air services are added to this number, some increase, at least, will be shown over the previous maximum, as recorded in 1928. The number of deaths in the army air service is not yet available.

TWO NORWICH BOYS TIED FOR WOMEN VOTERS' ESSAY PRIZE

This spring the League of Women Voters of Norwich, through its education committee, offered a prize of $10 to pupils of the seventh and eighth grades for an essay, the subject of which was to be decided upon by the superintendent. The essay, however, was to be something of a civic and historic nature. The subject, "Know Your Town," was assigned to the children and during the month of May these essays were placed in the hands of the committee.

Three judges were appointed by the committee to pass judgment on the compositions. These judges were Mrs. Thomas M. Shields, president of the league; Miss Josephine Erwin, teacher of English at the Academy, and Miss Bernice Willey. Thirty-six essays were submitted and one of the most difficult tasks that these three judges have ever encountered was deciding which essay was the most outstanding. The compositions were judged according to the amount and accuracy of material, the organization of the material, and the originality and style of expression. It seemed to the committee that practically all of the 36 papers rated high on these points. After much reading and re-reading, seven papers were selected as being of exceptional worth. After more thought and reading two of these seven were selected as being a little in the lead. It was then decided that the $10 should be divided between the writers of these two essays as it was impossible in the minds of the judges to make a decision in favor of either one.

The tied winners of the prize are Charles Colt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Colt, of Broadway, and Kenneth Troeger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Troeger, of Taftville. Charles Colt is a pupil of the eighth grade in Broadway school, Miss Florence Fellows being his teacher. Kenneth Troeger attends the Wequonnoc school in Taftville, grade seven, and Miss Adelaide Hallen is his teacher. The other five essays included among the seven best were submitted by Jennie Gromko, grade eight, Greeneville school; Lois M. Allen, grade eight, Broadway school; Ruth Grimshaw and Emma Chrzan, grade eight, Wequonnoc school, and John Horoszko, grade seven, Wequonnoc school. To these pupils are given high recommendation and honorable mention.

The judges feel that not only are all of the pupils who submitted essays to be congratulated upon the fine specimens of work accomplished, but that to the teachers should go a great deal of credit and honor for their part in bringing about such satisfactory results in their pupils.

The League of Women voters plans to make this essay contest an annual event. The members feel that in this contest just completed that all who participated have become far better acquainted with the history, the geography, the industries and the institutions of Norwich than they might otherwise have been. It is hoped that next year a similar contest may be held in the Academy, as well as one in the seventh and eighth grades.

FR. GALVIN LEAVES NORWICH WITH SINCERE REGRET

Sunday, at the four masses in St. Patrick's church, Rev. Myles P. Galvin, following his announcements from the pulpit, bade farewell to the people with whom he has been associated through 17 years. He acknowledged the interest, kindness and confidence of his rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May, referred to the cordial relations existing between himself and Rev. John J. Reilly, the junior assistant, an affection which could not be stronger if they were brothers in blood, and spoke in appreciation of the co-operation of the people in any venture which he had ever undertaken, their kindness and their sympathy. He besought their sincere prayers for him in his new responsibilities as pastor at New Hartford, that he might be given grace and help in saving the souls under his charge, bringing them to God's kingdom. Having been in Norwich so long, Father Galvin declared that he was leaving the city with a feeling of real homesickness and lonesomeness, which he felt must remain with him for some time to come. In conclusion he prayed that God's blessing might continue with the people of the parish, collectively and individually. He leaves today (Monday) for his first parish, the Church of the Immaculate Conception, New Hartford.

$90,000 ALLOTMENT FOR THAMES RIVER IMPROVEMENTS

About $200,000 has been allotted for the improvement of four Connecticut rivers and harbors by the war department. The sum is divided as follows: Thames river, $90,000; Connecticut river below Hartford, $20,000; Duck Island harbor, $75,000, and Housatonic river, $15,000. The money comes from the recently passed war department appropriations bill.

These sums will mainly be employed for dredging and other maintenance work on existing projects. The army engineers for some time have had the work in mind. The money has no connection with the rivers and harbors measure now pending in congress, which measure authorizes expenditures on numerous new projects.

MOUNT PLEASANT PUPILS WIN ESSAY PRIZES

The annual meeting of Israel Putnam branch, No. 4, Sons of the American Revolution, was held Friday evening in the rooms of the Norwich chamber of commerce with President E. Allen Bidwell presiding.

At this meeting the decision of the judges, Miss Mary A. C. Avery, Miss Louise Howe and Miss Marion Bishop, was announced in the essay contest for pupils of the Norwich public schools, sponsored by the branch under the supervision of Capt. William G. Tarbox. The subject of the essays was "Major John Mason." The first prize of $10 was awarded to Michael Kudravetz, a pupil at Mount Pleasant street school, and the second prize of $5 to Virginia B. Woodmansee, a pupil at the same school. Edith M. Billings of Mount Pleasant school received first honorable mention, and Georgia Angelopoulous of Broadway school, second. The essays which were excellent, created such widespread interest among people who like to learn more of patriotic and historic Norwich, that the branch decided to hold a similar contest next year.

The members of the branch also voted to go on record as approving and supporting the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Founders of Norwich, in their efforts to have the town officials care for and properly mark the Post-Gager cemetery at Norwich Town.

At the election of officers, E. Allen Bidwell was re-elected president; Captain William G. Tarbox, vice president, and Earl M. Wood, secretary-treasurer.

ACADEMY LOSES SEVEN INNING TILT AS MACK, N. H., PITCHES NO-HIT GAME

The Academy, the victim of a seven inning no-hit game by Johnny Mack, New Haven Hillhouse twirler, lost a 6 to 1 ball game Saturday afternoon at the campus. The game was stopped in the eighth inning with two men out and two more Hillhouse runs in by rain, and although there was a wait of a half hour, Jupe Pluvius showed no signs of ceasing his activities and the hostilities were called off for the day.

Underhand Ball Puzzles

Mack pitched a great game so far as it went, having the Wildcat batters at his mercy with a fast underhand ball. His control was not the best, however, and this served to mar his performance somewhat. He passed five men, Alec Arico three times and the first pass, to Arico, in the first was later turned into a run. He fanned six men.

Buzzy Weisgraber got the pitching assignment for the Academy but was touched up rather freely by the visitors, they making eight hits off his delivery before he was relieved with none out in the fifth and the entire five runs in. Boots Greene gave another of his sterling performances when he retired the side without further scoring in that inning, got out of a hole in the sixth by forcing Macky, who had hit safely three times, to fly out with two men on base and then struck out the side in the seventh. Greene really fanned five men but two of these came in the eighth which was washed off the record.

Hillhouse started off as if they going to pile up a big score in the first when Torello dropped a double to short left near the foul line, & hoping fly that Geer could not quite reach. Davidson bunted down third base and when no one went after the ball, everybody was safe. Macosky then drove a double to the fence in center, scoring Torello, but Davidson was held at third. Shehan fouled out and Moore and Vetrone fanned.

Academy Scores in First

The Academy scored twice in their half and took the lead. Arico walked and stole second. Fisher fanned. Gibbs hit a fly out to right that Sheehan first dropped and then threw wild over third, trying to get Arico heading for that bag. Alec scored and Gibbs went around to third. Fontaine squeezed Gibbs in and Breen tapped to the box.

Hillhouse tied the score in the second on a pass to Gemski, his force at second by Lockery, a single by Mack, sending Lockery to third and an infield out, on which, incidentally, Cliff Manil, playing his first real game, made a nice play to get the runner at first.

What was the winning run scored in the third when Macosky opened with a hit to right, was bunted to second by Sheehan and counted on Vetrone's single to center. In the fifth Davidson walked, Macosky got another hit, sending him to third and Sheehan inserted a sharp single to left center to drive the two runners across.

In the eighth, after Gemski fanned, Lockery got a hit to right. The hole which had threatened with a heavy mist for a couple of innings, started to come down hard. Mack fanned and Fontain threw the ball over first base, trying to catch the runner napping, Lockery going to second. Torello walked and then a bad throw by Greene to second and another error by Pepin in center on the wet ball, let in two runs. Davidson hit to Gibbs at short, who fumbled, and then Umpire Murphy decided to call a halt. The teams and a few of the fans waited but to no avail.

I have come to the conclusion that sleep is one of the prime necessities of life, regardless of what Mr. Edison says.

At least I know that that is the way I feel at the present moment. Ernie, please refrain from making that remark that just entered your head.

And isn't sleep a funny thing. When we are asleep we don't know a thing and when we haven't enough of it we are just as bad.

We'll stay up all night rather than go to bed and when we do get to bed we want to stay there all day. It's something we don't want in the early evening and something we can't get enough of in the morning.

If we get too much sleep we're goofy and if we don't get enough we're goofy. It's like good whiskey, just enough and you feel like a king.

And while we're on this subject of sleep, the one that made up the picture section of a certain state newspaper Sunday must have felt like I do now.

Say, who brought up the subject of sleep anyway? And why.

Good Night.

ACADEMY RELAY TEAM LOSES NEW ENGLAND TITLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PROVIDENCE, June 8—Placing better than Bulkeley of New London, its ancient rival, in two out of three events, Norwich Free Academy returned home Saturday night after making a really creditable showing in the annual New England relays at Brown university. The Wildcats, however, lost their New England half-mile title when they finished fourth in this event.

This year's time for the event was over 5 seconds faster than that made in 1929. Last year, the Academy won in 1 min. 40.2 seconds, while this year it was won in 1 min. 35 sec. The Academy was clocked at 1.37, but when it is considered that the race was run on a grass track and on a track that was eight yards longer this year for the two laps than last, then the performance of the squad can be considered very good. Providence Tech won the event with Hope high, also of Providence, second; LaSalle, another of Providence, third; N. F. A., fourth, and Bulkeley, fifth. The Academy's team was composed of Rootes, Holden, Lenkiewicz and Captain Berkman.

In the one mile event, LaSalle was victorious with Bulkeley second and N. F. A. third. Lyons, Agnew, Lenkiewicz and Berkman ran in this event.

The special mile and a quarter relay was the other event in which N. F. A. was entered and they took second here. LaSalle won with Bulkeley third. The winning time was 5.04 with the Wildcats 2 seconds back. Beebe, Holden, Mahoney and Wood composed the Red and White representative. Beebe was especially brilliant.

The first two events were in Class A and the medley in Class B.

GIBBS IS AWARDED R. O. FLETCHER CUP

Ralph L. (Chubby) Gibbs, popular baseball captain at the Academy, was awarded the Robert O. Fletcher cup given by the Class of 1912 for the senior, who has done the most for athletics during his course, at the final assembly Friday morning at Slater hall. Gibbs has played four years on the baseball team and has been a main cog in the great success of Academy teams over that stretch. He was the regular shortstop on the 1929 state championship outfit. Gibbs, who is batting about .475 on the team, is also class president.

Gordon Cruickshank, football center for two years and a member of the track squad was presented the N-club cup for the senior most proficient in athletics.

Last year's awards went to Amie LaCroix for the Fletcher cup and Jack Marks on the N cup.

Letter awards for the year were also made. Gold baseballs, footballs and track shoes were given to the seniors of the respective teams and were the following: Baseball—Ralph Gibbs, Armand Fontaine, Harold Weisgraber, Theodore Pepin, Arthur Breen. Football—Chester Berglinzo, Harry Sherry, James Mullen, Edward Flather, Frank Barber, Gordon Cruickshank, Orrin Hertz, William Brewer, Wojtasiak, Armstrong. Track—Sam Berkman, John Lenkiewicz, John Beebe.

The following received letters for the spring sports: Baseball—Gibbs (Capt.), Crowell, Fontaine, Arico, Fitzgerald, Reardon, Breen, Weisgraber, Greene, Berglinzo. Flather. Vignot (Mgr.); track, Berkman (Capt.), Lenkiewicz, Beebe, Mahoney, Barber, Welden, Agnew, Lyons, Pearson (Mgr.), Flather, Wotstasiak, Wood Holden.

LARGE CROWD SEES SHARKEY GO THROUGH PACES

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., June 8—(AP)—The largest crowd of the training period saw Jack Sharkey go through five fast rounds of boxing today.

The Boston sailor, preparing for his heavyweight title bout with Max Schmeling in New York Thursday night, warmed up by punching the small bag and then took on Johnny Grosso for three rounds, and Paul Cavalier and King Solomon for one round each. Sharkey displayed plenty of speed of foot and was deadly accurate with his punching, especially with the left hook that he plans to use against Schmeling.

Two rounds of shadow boxing and the usual calisthenics completed the workout.

The Boston contender weighed 198 after his workout and with two more days of training ahead of him, it appeared likely that he would enter the ring against the German at 196 pounds, his best fighting weight.

A Challenge

The Silver Bullets challenge the Italian All Stars Jrs., for a game at Mohegan park Saturday, June 14 at 2:00 p. m. If challenge is accepted answer through this paper. Our lineup is: catch, Edward P.; pitch, Capt. Malgrides; first, Mathew Wilski; second, Harold Johnson; third, Chester Pavlok; short stop, Hartwell Gauthier; right field, Peter Vedvedis; center field, John Fordantales or Nickolas Vedvedis; left field, Edward Kiecolt.

CROWD OF 70,000 EXPECTED TO SEE SHARKEY AND SCHMELING TITLE BOUT

(By Herbert W. Barker, Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, June 8—(AP)—The boxing industry, lacking a custodian for its most important title for almost two years, will elect one by acclamation on Thursday night.

On that evening, some 70,000 spectators will watch Jack Sharkey of Boston and Max Schmeling of Germany battle 15 rounds or less for the heavyweight championship Gene Tunney voluntarily yielded up on the last day of July, 1928.

Tunney's retirement from the ring that brought him fame and fortune broke beyond repair the direct line of succession to the heavyweight throne but by almost common consent, Sharkey and Schmeling have been adjudged the outstanding contenders and therefore entirely eligible to fight it out for boxing's greatest prize. Dissenting votes have been cast in a few isolated instances, notably in Philadelphia where recognition will be withheld until the winner of Thursday's match meets George Godfrey, giant Negro, and in England where boxing authorities are of the opinion that Phil Scott, the London fireman, still retains his status as a contender despite his knockout by Sharkey. But in the main recognition will be accorded generally. The New York State Athletic commission and the National Boxing association, both powerful bodies, have sanctioned the bout as a championship affair.

Provided the "house" reaches 70,000, the fight will cross approximately $600,000 of which Sharkey and Schmeling each will draw 25 per cent of $150,000. Whatever the receipts, the battle should provide a handsome profit for the milk fund of which Mrs. William Randolph Hearst is chairman.

What betting there has been—and it's been surprisingly little so far—has established Sharkey in the favorite's role at odds of 8 to 5 but the chances are that the two contenders will go into the ring at little better than even money. Sharkey has been an erratic performer for so long that fans have begun to expect him to fight a bad fight on the principle that they will be pleasantly surprised if he fights a good one.

The Boston sailor tossed away his chances to meet Tunney in 1928, putting up such a miserable showing in the Garden's elimination tournament that Tom Heeney got the call only to be stopped in 11 rounds in Tunney's last ring appearance. In 1929, however, Sharkey showed to much better advantage, beating Young Stribling and K. O. Christner and knocking out Tommy Loughran, retired light heavyweight champion, in three rounds. He followed up these victories with his third round knockout of Scott at Miami.

Schmeling after bowling over second rate competition in Germany for four years, came to the United States late in 1928 and has been unbeatable in five starts in this country. He knocked out Joe Monte in eight rounds, Pietro Corri in one and Johnny Risko in nine, and won on points from Joe Sekyra and Paulino Uzcudun.

In boxing skill, Sharkey will have a decided edge and the Boston sailor can hit as well. Schmeling, a weaving and bobbing fighter of the type of Jack Dempsey, carries dynamite in his right hand.

Sharkey at Orangeburg, N. Y., and Schmeling at Endicott, N. Y., both have trined well. They will weigh in on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the stadium.

The supporting card includes ten-round bouts between Al Fay of Charleroi, Pa., and Walter Cobb of Baltimore; and Henry Lamar, Washington, and Mateo Osa, Cuba; Bianchi of Argentina, meets Stanley Farada of Jersey City in a six rounder and Ralph Ficucello, Brooklyn, takes on Piet Brand of Holland in the first six rounder.

The big battle probably will begin between 9:30 and 10 o'clock eastern daylight savings time.

WARREN CHAFFIN WINS WEEK END GOLF TOURNEY

Warren Chaffin led the field of 34 entries in the match-play-against-par tournament at the Norwich Golf club over the week end. Chaffin hand Old Man Par hanging on the ropes during his round and finished two up on the Old Man. L. Goffe Briggs gave the old man quite a battle and managed to score a draw, finishing the round all even. Johnny Sayles, who made the third best showing, finished two down to par. The rest of the field took quite a drubbing.

All but one match in the first round of the Memorial day tournament had been played by Sunday evening. The remaining match is between Dr. Eldred and Hyde, Eldred having been granted an extension of time to play the match. The results of the first round matches follow:

JUNIOR TWILIGHT MEETING SCHEDULED FOR TONIGHT

Plans for this year's Junior Twilight league are to be discussed at a meeting to be held at the Duwell club tonight at 8 p. m. It is hoped that any organization in the city desirous of entering a team in this year's league will have a representative at the meeting so some definite plans may be laid so that the league may be started at an early date. Several organizations have already expressed their intentions of entering a team, so that it is probable that at least a six-team league shall be organized.

REDS GET AN EVEN BREAK IN DOUBLE BILL

CINCINNATI, June 8—(AP)—The Phillies routed the Reds 9 to 2 in the second game of a double header here today after dropping the first encounter 5 to 4. Harry Heilmann gave the Reds the margin of victory in the first game when he caught one of Willoughby's slants and sent it over the scoreboard in center field for a home run. Ray Benge held the Reds in complete subjection in the second encounter. Heilmann and Cuccinello, who had singled, scoring their only runs when Klein dropped Sukeforth's lofter with two out. Norman investigated and found that from tracks around the premises a police dog was the thief. The dog had even used its teeth to tear wire netting securely nailed down to get at its prey and the killing was complete. Allen's place, The Gray Dandis, purchased hardly more than a year ago by Mr. Allen is now a garden of Eden, so transformed has it been under his skillful management. He has made the wilderness to blossom like the rose. Beautiful beds of iris are in full bloom together with a quantity of rich blue mint and blue hipen with coreopsis; calliopsis and English wad flower soon to follow. During the winter, Mr. Allen erected a highly ornamental stone wall, both sides of which are beautiful beds peonies and other flowering plants. Of all the rock gardens, the world around this place offers far and away the finest possibilities, which Mr. Allen is rapidly developing in an equally elaborate manner. It is one of the Hill's show places.

"I always recommend Palmolive Soap ... for a very good reason"

says LINA CAVALIERI

Former opera star, now a celebrated Parisian beauty specialist

Unless the pores are freed of impurities, dirt, oil, make-up . . . serious blemishes appear. Olive oil, in soap, removes the accumulations gently and safely.

LINA CAVALIERI! Romantic figure in the world of opera; important figure, today, in the world of beauty culture. Born in Rome, Mme. Cavalieri was singing in opera in the great cities of Europe and America by the time she was 18. Today, she has turned to beauty culture, with salons not only in Paris, but in the smartest hotels of Europe's most fashionable resorts: The Hotel Carlton, Cannes; the Hotel Roseraie, Biarritz; Hotel de Paris, Monte Carlo, and another shop — opened last summer — at Le Touquet. When she finds Palmolive "safe, soothing, healthy for the skin" every woman must listen with interest.

Madame Cavalieri's treatment

"Before retiring, of course, use Palmolive. Massage its lather gently into the skin of face and throat. Rinse with warm water, gradually changing to cold. Then, I advise the application of my Camphorated Jelly No. 5.

"In the morning, cleanse the skin thoroughly with this same soap. Then use my 'Lotion Onctueuse' No. 7 before applying my cream No. 2 for neutral skins.

"By following this simple treatment, you will keep that schoolgirl complexion."

A total of more than 19,800 professional beauty specialists advise their patrons to use Palmolive Soap in preference to any other for bath as well as face. Why?

Palmolive is made of the oils of palm and olives, famous for generations as the greatest natural cosmetic oils. Its color is the natural color of those same oils. It requires no heavy perfumes to mask rancid fat odors. Vegetable oil soaps are safest, most soothing, gentlest on the skin. Follow Lina Cavalieri's advice—use Palmolive.

"If you have the mistaken notion that soap may harm your skin, it is because you are not using the right soap. Next time try Palmolive. I heartily advise it...to keep skin smooth and lovely."

Lina Cavalieri

Here is the exterior of Madame Cavalieri's famous salon at 61 Avenue Victor Emmanuel III. It will be recognized by travelers to Paris.

Here is professional approval that means something. More than 19,800 of the world's beauty experts advise Palmolive.

EXTREMELY WARM WEATHER LAST WEEK QUICKENED RETAIL TRADE SOMEWHAT

NEW YORK, June 8—(AP)—Retail trade was quickened somewhat by extremely warm weather during the past week, and some improvement in collections was reported from mercantile circles, but the summer slump in manufacturing activity appeared to be spreading with unusual swiftness.

The United States Steel corporation reduced its mill operations from 79 1-2 to 75 per cent of capacity. And the industry as a whole slackened operations to between 71 and 72 per cent of capacity. Furthermore, steel and iron prices were perhaps a little steadier. Pig iron sagged, but heavy melting steel scrap turned upward for the first time since February.

Although some automobile manufacturers are maintaining fairly active schedules during June, there has been a general reduction, which the trade expects will become pronounced by July. Textile, lumber, and several other branches of industry continued to curtail activity.

Although prices for some commodities stiffened somewhat, primarily in foodstuffs, the commodity price structure continued to present a confusing picture. Wheat reached the best levels since April, but failed to hold its gains. Silver again broke sharply, reaching the lowest levels in recent years. Refined sugar was cut to 4 1-2 cents a pound, the lowest in 10 years, and several rubber manufacturers reduced tire prices about 5 per cent, generally to the lowest levels in the history of the tire industry. Raw silk also reached a new low. In the petroleum industry, production gained a little, but prices remained firm.

Freight car loadings, as reported for the latest week, showed a slight gain from the previous week. Failures as reported for the month of May by R. G. Dun and Company, showed a decline from April, and were the smallest since December, but were abnormally high for May. Credit remained plentiful, reflecting primarily the scant demand. Bankers acceptance rates were reduced to 2 1-4 bid for the shorter dates, the lowest in six years.

NEW YORK, June 7—(AP)— Following is the complete closing list of today's transactions on the New York stock exchange.

1930 BRIDAL VEIL MAY BE HELMET, PERT CAP OR REGAL CROWN

A Boston bride, Mrs. H. Bernard de Bruyne (above) chose the cap style for her wedding veil.

WASHINGTON, June 8—(AP)—The June bride this year does something different.

Though she still retains the white veil the 1930 bride uses her own original ideas in regard to its manner of wearing.

It is drawn into a helmet, flares grandly into a Russian coronet or becomes a saucy little cap.

Radical departures from the traditional bridal white are shown, too, at many a flower-banked altar. There are lace bridal dresses of pink and other pastel shades, white dresses with silver jackets and other new effects.

A Washington bride who chose a pink lace wedding gown wore with it a pink picture hat and carried a bouquet of orchids, pink roses and lilies of the valley.

Another bride came down the aisle at Washington cathedral gowned in white moire with long fitted sleeves and a silver jacket.

Her veil of tulle and lace was arranged in Russian coronet style. Her bridesmaids wore frocks of chiffon in pastel shades made with little jackets of the same material.

Tulle caps to the bridal veil are often held in place with wreaths or sprigs of orange blossoms.

One bride who chose this arrangement was accompanied by bridesmaids dressed in yellow chiffon with big green bows on the skirt. They wore transparent green hats.

8,000 NURSES HOLD CONVENTION JUNE 9

MILWAUKEE, June 8—(AP)—It is easy to understand why men fall in love with their nurses.

Often a nurse is easy to look at. But in addition to that, the ideal nurse is gentle, kindly, humorous and careful of her patient.

Qualifications for nursing, problem of the profession and the nurse's place in the modern scheme of things will be among the topics taken up at the twenty-seventh convention of the American Nurses' association in Milwaukee the week of June 9.

Five thousand nurses will attend.

Emory E. Thomson, first vice president of the association will make the presidential address on "American Nurses' Association and the Patient," the topic selected by S. Lillian Clayton, president of the association, who died May 2.

Other addresses will be made by Katharine Scanlon, of Memphis, Tenn.; Michael M. Davis, director for medical services; Julius Rosenwald Fund, Stella Goostray, director of the School of Nursing, Children's hospital, Boston.

The Walter Burns Saunders medal, for distinguished service in nursing, will be awarded posthumously to Miss Clayton.

Presentation will be made by Dr. Joseph C. Doane of Philadelphia, lifelong friend of the late president.

WOMEN DRIVING 'TAXIS' TO EARN WELFARE FUNDS

NEW YORK, June 8—(AP)—Women of fashionable Westchester county have donned chauffeurs' caps.

Using their private automobiles as taxis they are taking passengers to and from New York for the price of a railroad ticket. The "taxicabbies," as they are known, are available from 7 a. m. until midnight daily.

The drivers are members of the Mt. Vernon chapter of Hadassah, women's Zionist organization of America. They are earning $25 each to pay for the annual luncheon which marks the end of the campaign for Hadassah health work in Palestine.

Hotel Houses Vassar Club

NEW YORK, June 8—(AP)— The Vassar club of New York has taken a 5-year lease on two entire floors of a new mid-town hotel. Smith college club has the penthouse and top floor of the same hotel.

Stenographer Benefited

"For two years I suffered with irregularities, frequent headaches and general weakness. I tried various medicines but all to no avail. I read about your highly praised medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, gave it a trial and obtained wonderful results from it. I am a stenographer and bookkeeper and I have recommended the Vegetable Compound to other girls who work."—Stella T. Culkosky, 2413 Delaware Street, Gary, Indiana.

COLLARLESS MIDSEASON COATS HERALD PARIS WINTER STYLE

PARIS, June 8—(AP)— Collarless coats which borrow fur collars and fancy scarves from accompanying short jackets are among the significant style experiments Paris is making in the midseason showings which are precursors of winter fashions.

In the midseason styles, which display the tail end of summer offerings and the first costumes of fall side by side, the collarless coats are most frequently made up in dark colors for wear over suits of lightweight tweed or tweed print silk.

The winter version of the collarless coat, however, promises to be a unified ensemble of tweed or plain color, with fur collared suit or scarf collared dress in the same material as the coat.

In some cases the dress will be identical in pattern but lighter in weight than the coat stuff in the opinion of many stylists.

These collarless coats will make it possible for couturiers to continue the suit vogue throughout the winter months without discard the ensemble idea which is now dominant in styles.

NOVA SCOTIA WOMAN GETS UNUSUAL ENGLISH HONOR

LONDON, June 8—(AP)—Jean Iris Howard, acting agent-general in London for Nova Scotia, is one of the few women who have been guests of honor at the Royal Empire society.

Miss Howard, who succeeded to the post of agent-general on the death of her father, is the first woman to hold such a post in London.

"At first I thought there would be many difficulties in store for me," she said. "But on the contrary I have found things very easy. Men are so accustomed to being clever, that it doesn't make much difference. But when a woman does anything at all worthwhile men praise her up to the skies."

Among other duties Miss Howard tackles problems of trade between Britain and Nova Scotia, gives advice to emigrants and arranges their passages and passports, lectures on Nova Scotia, and acts as her country's representative in all matters in England.

Little Tennis Wraps

PARIS, June 8—(AP)—Short sleeved tennis wraps of bright color are called tie-ons because of their casual nature.

The model is a short sleeved waist length jacket with scarf and raglan sleeves in one.

In cut it is comically like a bed-jacket made from shantung. The jackets are vivid in color.

Printed Silks

PARIS, June 8—(AP)—Marble print is having a big vogue here as the successor of spots and polka dots.

The marble printed georgettes and crepe de chines are dark colored for the most part with black and white, brown and beige and two shades of blue predominant.

Ribbon Bows Adorn Sleeve

WASHINGTON, June 8—(AP)—Ribbon bows of pink, matching the color of the suit, are used to finish off the short puff sleeves of a blouse of white dotted swiss.

The blouse is worn with a pink suit of silk pique. Other suits of the same material in green or blue have the short sleeves of the blouses finished with matching ribbons.

No Favors For Portias.

CLEVELAND, June 8—(AP)—The increasing number of women practising law in the United States must look for no favors because of their sex, says Walter Thomas Dunmore, dean of the law college of Western Reserve university.

Writes Of Society

CHICAGO, June 8 — (AP) — Mrs. Frank Townley Brown society matron, has written a narrative in intimate episodes among the society folk she has known. Mrs. Brown told the story as a Kentucky mountaineer, experiencing his first contact with the elite.

Women Enthrone King Cotton

CHARLOTTE, N. C., June 8—(AP)—Women are restoring "King Cotton" to his ancient throne, says W. M. McLaurine, secretary of the American Cotton Manufacturers' association. No smart woman he asserts, would dare omit a goodly percentage of cotton frocks, suits and blouses from her current wardrobe

DIPLOMAT'S TOPPERS BOUND FOR MOTHBALLS

WASHINGTON, June 8—(AP)—Diplomats are preparing to store their silk hats earlier than usual this season. The warm weather has brought the final rush of social events ahead of schedule. The diplomatic corps soon will be migrating to Europe and mountain and seaside resorts.

The entire corps has seen changes in personnel. Two controversies caused lively debate. One was the importation of diplomatic liquor and the other concerned the seating of Mrs. Dolly Curtis Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis.

Sir Ronald Lindsay, new British ambassador, announced that he will permit importation of liquors and Mrs. Gann was accorded the rank and precedence of the wife of a vice president.

FARM GIRLS' LOAN FUND WILL HONOR BENEFACTOR

The fund is sponsored jointly by the North Carolina Home Demonstration Agents' association and the State Federation of Home Demonstration clubs.

Each organization will set aside a designated amount for the fund annually, and popular subscriptions also will be received.

"ENOCH ARDEN" WIFE BACK AFTER 18 YEARS

NEW BERN, N. C., June 8—(AP)—What might have been a modern Enoch Arden triangle with the sex of the principal characters reversed, came to light here recently.

About 18 years ago Mrs. Asa Ipock left her husband and children. Seventeen years her husband waited and watched for his wife to return.

A year ago he married again. Now the first wife has come home and Mr. Ipock faces a charge of bigamy in the superior court.

COURSE IN MOTHERCRAFT FOR MISSISSIPPI GIRLS

COLUMBUS, Miss., June 8—(AP)—Mississippi State College for Women, first school in the United States to add a mothercraft course to its curriculum, has opened a new home economics building which includes a nursery and practice home.

The college is the oldest state women's college in the United States.

Childrens' Summer Frocks

PARIS, June 8—(AP)—Colored dotted swiss is the material stressed here for children's frocks for summer.

Blue, yellow and pink are equally favored with pale green shown for children who have graduated from the baby class.

Looks Like Loose Tweed

PARIS, June 8—(AP)—One of the Lido-going suits on view here is a handkerchief linen three piece costume printed with a design which makes it look like loosewoven tweed in the distance.

Under a cardigan jacket is a sleeveless white handkerchief linen blouse. The skirt is straight and pleated.

Prefers Navy Blue To Black

PARIS, June 8—(AP)—A statuesque blonde whom many Parisians designate as the best dressed woman in the style capital is wearing navy blue in preference to black for town daytime costumes.

She is Lady Abdy, society favorite. Lady Abdy appeared recently wearing a navy blue wool cossack-type turban with a dark blue ensemble.

Eggshell Gloves

WASHINGTON, June 8 — (AP) — Despite the warm weather long pullon gloves of kid, suede and silk are worn for morning and afternoon. Eggshell is a popular shade.

Silk mesh stockings of eggshell and beige match the silk mesh gloves. Shoes of embroidered linen harmonize smartly with these. Those of ecru tone are embroidered in shades of orange and tan or blue and pink.

The old fashioned sampler cross stitch is used on a pair of white linen shoes.

Violet Ray Blue

PARIS, June 8—(AP)—Violet ray blue is the new shade for evening launched quietly by a leading dressmaker with almost instantaneous success.

Violet ray is a softer blue than the vivid shade sometimes called electric blue. It combines with a intense cobalt.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Cider that is made from early apples does not possess good keeping qualities.

When planting sweet peas run them north and south to make them bloom well.

When making meat loaf, make a larger one than is necessary. It is excellent when sliced cold for next day's lunch.

Add a small piece of dried orange peel, that is kept in a glass jar, to the teapot before pouring in the boiling water when making tea. It improves the flavor.

Ventilate the pantry by covering the open window with muslin, which allows the air to enter, but keeps out the flies and dust.

Tack a piece of old velvet over the worn-out bristles of the stove-polishing brush. It will polish as well as ever. Replace the velvet when it is worn out.

If one-half a teaspoon of baking powder is added to tomatoes just before adding milk when making blaque, it will not curdle.

Careless preparation of vegetables especially over-cooking, is often responsible for the unappetizing results that find their way to many tables.

Lumps of flour in mixing batter can be avoided by putting the salt in the flour before wetting. By pouring flour into the liquid, instead of liquid into the flour, and beating it with a fork, lumps will not form.

To bait a mouse-trap try a piece of fried bacon rind instead of cheese. Pumpkin seeds are also very good. Scald the traps well with strong soapsuds after trapping a mouse or rat, before using again.

Never throw away sour milk. Keep it covered with a piece of muslin until required and use it for making scones. It will make them beautifully light.

SOAPSUDS FOR THE PERCOLATOR

When the family begins to complain about the taste of the coffee, it may be that the inside of the percolator needs a thorough cleansing. This can be done readily by half filling the percolator with hot water, soap and a little borax and letting it boil for a few minutes. Rinse it thoroughly with scalding hot water and turn it upside down to dry taking special care not to wet the mechanism if it is an electrical appliance. Use a special wire brush for the spout. If the inside of the percolator is washed thoroughly with soap and hot water every day frequent boiling will not be necessary and the taste of the coffee will be immeasurably improved.

TABLE

Make a solution of vinegar and salt and use it to wash the porcelain or enamel table top—it will remove all the streaks.

RANGE

If you rub the range with newspapers every night after dinner you will need to polish it only once a week.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Impure soap may be the cause of the harsh condition of your skin. Any soap used on the face should be the purest.

You should let some of your hair show beneath your hat this spring. A little right in the middle of the forehead and a little down over the ears. But don't show too much. A little is plenty.

The short woman who wishes to add height to her figure should choose hats with a high crown, not broad and with a narrow brim. Use trimming sparingly, as it has a tendency to make one appear topheavy.

If your eyebrows are thin, rub yellow vaseline into them before brushing, but be careful to let none of it get into the eyes. It is irritating. With an eyebrow brush or a small, fine toothbrush, brush the eyebrows night and morning to promote their gloss and train them into shape.

SENSITIVE SKIN

If your skin is unusually sensitive, discontinue soap and water cleansing for a time and use specially prepared cleansing creams. Before going to bed massage with a good cold cream, leaving on as much as possible. You may spread an old towel over the pillow as a protection against the grease.

SILVER JEWELRY

Very interesting jewelry done entirely in silver is now to be had, and it fits in beautifully with the strictly feminine modes. Some of the pieces are lovely copies of antiques.

MILAN BERETS

The beret still holds its own and is a resigning hat fashion this spring. There are many versions of felt, fabric and straw, none however smarter than the little berets of supple milan straw.

HAND WROUGHT SILVER

Exceptionally beautiful is a new style of hand wrought German silver with designs copied from old crests or quaint monograms. One may have one's own monogram or crest on service plates or large bowls. An added virtue is that all they need for cleaning is the application of steel wool.

METAL SCRAP BASKETS

Besides being extremely useful they fit admirably into the decorative scheme. In shape they are a large square at the top tapering down to a smaller one at the bottom. Painted in soft shades of green, red, or in black they have funny old prints or amusing figures painted on them. One in green has fascinating gold harps and wreathes.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Black hats lead but are often relieved by white or pink flower trims, bows and facings.

Gold or silver kid trimmings are employed on sandals made to complete the hostess pajama costume.

The tiny eye veil is again in the limelight; several chic women embarking recently were wearing them.

A most unusual felt hat has a bow of pique that slips through the brim on one side and ties in a perky knot.

A favored neckline is a lacy collar centered with two gardenias in pastel tones. This is repeated on several smart blouses.

The new chiffons for spring and summer wear are particularly lovely in color and design. The patterns are large and the flowers exquisite.

Patent leather boutonnieres are being sponsored along with other patent leather accessories such as belts, bags and pumps.

BLUE SHOES

The shoe that is made of navy blue kid is the correct shoe for the blue spring suit, particularly when it is a pump or an oxford.

SHANTUNG SUITS

Go Oriental and have a shantung suit this spring, if you crave chic. Natural color, dead white, pale blue and pink are the preferred tones.

PIN DOTTED SILKS

Dots no larger than pin points are among the smartest designs for spring and in several instances are used for little silk suits worn with blouses of white crepe or batiste.

DOTTED SHANTUNG

Shantung assumes new importance in spring fashions. It not only is seen in plain and printed effects but in a new version with tiny raised pin dots in cartnotsLINES in contrasting color. A pale blue with black dots is noticeably smart.

TWO-TONE BANDS

Fine felts for sports hats and fine straws for town have a way now of using two colors for banding themselves. Black and pink, brown and green, black and white and navy and gray are some of the popular combinations.

BERET IN NEW STRAWS

If you have wondered whether the beret would retain its popularity in spite of rumors that brims were outstanding again, you will be reassured to discover some most attractive examples of this casual headgear in light straws for the summer season. Milan tweed straws and other novelty straws as well as taffeta, grosgrain, and similar fabrics are used for this very wearable type of bonnet.

LAUNDRY HINTS

To press your spring suit so it won't shine, cover it with a piece of dark material when pressing and sprinkle the covering with vinegar water.

You will not forget what is to be mended if when ironing the clothes you place everything that is to be mended in one pile. After your ironing is finished carry this pile to the mending basket.

The success of your washing depends in a large measure on the soaking of the clothes. Soak them for a few hours or over night in soap suds that is just warm, and before wringing from this water rub the badly-soiled spots a little before putting in the machine.

Be sure not to put anything in the soiled clothes hamper that is not thoroughly dry. Mildew and rank odors are almost certain to result if wet clothes—especially those wet with perspiration—are allowed to remain in the hamper for several days.

CLEAN SHADES

If your window shades are of the washable variety, and many are, lay them flat on a table and scrub with a brush and suds, using a circular motion. If they are not washable, take them off the roller at the top, make hems at that end, and turn them upside down for the next year's wear. They will look like new because the end near the roller is seldom soiled.

WASH WINTER CLOTHES TO PRESERVE THEM

If you want to preserve your winter clothing for another season's wear, don't wait until the moths begin to hover about the table lamp.

It is advisable to launder all washable garments before storing them away on the closet shelf. Examine each garment carefully for spots and stains. Ordinary spots will readily dissolve in warm soapy water. If it is necessary to use a special spot remover, wash out all traces of the chemical as it has taken effect or it is likely to rot the fabric.

Ironing is unnecessary at this time. Roll each piece separately, place it in a box, and seal the box by pasting strips of gummed paper over the openings. If you feel there is need for an additional safeguard, place a quantity of naphthalene, paradichlorobenzene or some other reliable moth repellant inside the box. These substances are useless if merely sprinkled on a closet shelf or in a bureau drawer.

Cedar chests and closets are practical for storage purposes, as their odor will kill the young or newly hatched larvae of the clothes moth. It will not kill the full grown moth, nor will it have any effect upon the eggs or the older larvae. The odor, however, is repellant to the full-grown moth, so if the clothing is free from eggs or larvae when it is placed in a cedar chest closet or chest, there is no cause for worry.

Garments which cannot be washed should be dry cleaned or brushed thoroughly and hung out of doors on a sunny day before they are packed away. If hung in paper clothes bags they too should be carefully sealed.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Farm wives, not the farmer, make the best "poultrymen" in Iowa.

Pajama suits are being introduced for nurses in London, England.

Of the 25 women sculptors of note in the United States, 17 are members of the National Sculpture society.

The Women's Trade Union League of Pennsylvania has started a legislative campaign to establish a 44-hour work week for women in industry.

The reptile house at the Zoological gardens in London, England, is managed by Miss Joan Proctor. She also designed the structure, which is considered by scientists to be the finest of its kind in the world.

Miss Virginia Murray, head of the women's division of the newly created bureau of crime prevention of the police department of New York city, has organized similar bureaus in Detroit, Cleveland and Atlanta.

GLASS TABLE

Modern and lovely is a table that consists of two shelves of clear glass set in a framework of nickel.

COLORED MONGSCLOTH

It is such a satisfactory material for hangings and upholstery purposes that one welcomes its appearance in luscious shades of green rose and deep blue.

RECIPES.

Cream Loaf Cake: Break two eggs in a cup and fill the cup with sour cream. Add one cupful of sugar and beat, then add the dry ingredients consisting of one and one-half cups of flour, half a teaspoon of salt, one scant teaspoon of baking soda and half a teaspoon of nutmeg, which have been sifted together. This cake should be eaten while warm. It is quick and easy to make.

Strawberry Cobbler: Put one quart of cleaned and hulled strawberries into a flat pan and bring to a boil with two cups of sugar. Roll some rich biscuit dough to half an inch in thickness and cover the berries with it. Then pour over the crust one cup of thick sweet or sour cream and one cup of sugar over the crust, place in the oven and bake. Watch, and if the crust pushes up in the middle, puncture it with a knife to let out the steam.

A QUEEN ANNE ROOM IS A HAVEN OF REST

A smart, modern living room can yet have curves

By Elsie Drew Kennedy.

The furniture which belongs to the Queen Anne period is marked by quietness, refinement and a charming air of domesticity. The three pieces in the livingroom corner shown here are reproductions that illustrate the mood. The reign of this queen, one of the most brilliant in English history, was marked by a fresh renaissance in literature and the arts.

That is why furniture of the time has a simplicity most refreshing after the heavy solidity of earlier English cabinet work. The preceding period of William and Mary, for instance, is rather heavy, combining the robust characteristics of the Dutch William with the last influence of the Italian renaissance elaboration. And before that, the Jacobean furniture is even more ornate, with Italian carvings of restoration style.

The Queen Anne reproductions, therefore, illustrate the lightness and delicacy of design which replaced the lavish ornamentation of former periods. You will notice the typical Queen Anne legs, with their graceful curve and characteristic carvings, on the cabinet in the corner. The brass drawer pulls are exact reproductions of the fine brass mounts so much used during the period.

The chair before the cabinet has graceful cabriole legs and the curve of the arms is also characteristic. Of course, both cabinet and chair are made of walnut. Whereas this chair is upholstered with plain fabric, however, needlepoint might also be used.

Much of the beauty of the table is due to its clever combination of Queen Anne and Louis XV periods. These two are often closely allied, particularly in the simplest designs of the latter period.

The lovely brass drawer pull of the table is accented by the brass lamp.

Guiding Your Child

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

Blue Monday

Every teacher knows that Monday is a bad day.

The break in routine over the week end, the fact that a large proportion of the children in her class have probably eaten more than was good for them and slept too little over the holiday makes for poor attention.

Sometimes it takes until Wednesday to get the children into good working trim again.

Any break in routine cannot help but be disorganizing. It is, on the other hand, of great value in the child's life if it is properly handled.

Saturday and Sunday present parents with an opportunity to give their children special treats and privileges, but it also puts upon them the responsibility of planning wisely.

Week end jaunts, shows, visits and visitors, should be thoughtfully considered in the light of mother's intimate knowledge of just how much excitement and new experiences her children can stand without becoming fatigued.

It is, of course, not always practical, nor is it wise to plan for the family with reference only to the needs of its younger members.

To be sure, these should always be taken into account and it is possible often to strike some sort of balance which will give a reasonably sensible and satisfying holiday for everyone.

But if parents want to spend a week end in a manner which experience has taught them is sure to be bad for the little ones, they should engage some capable person to care for them while they enjoy themselves.

Next week, perhaps they can take their children to enjoy pleasures which though slightly tepid from their own point of view are of the sort that the children will thoroughly enjoy without the aftermath of blue Monday.

DEBBIES FIND RECREATION AT FLYING AND IN RIDING

Two popular debutantees of last season, Miss Engracia Freyer (inset) and Miss Frances Waggaman (above) now go in for summer sports.

WASHINGTON, June 8—(AP)—Flying, riding, swimming and playing tennis, debutantes of last season are now busy building up muscle and endurance for next winter's social whirl.

Washington country clubs are filled with these feminine young Jasons who are hard after the golden fleece of healthy tan, steady nerves and slim graceful bodies.

Smart sports suits have supplanted ball room gowns.

Miss Frances Waggaman, who was scheduled to make her debut last season, preferred instead to prolong her travels in China.

She has just returned home, having come from San Francisco by airplane.

Miss Engracia Freyer, daughter of Captain and Mrs. Frank Freyer, and one of the most popular of last season's debutantes, is an accomplished sportswoman and is off somewhere every day either with her car or her horse.

TEXAS GIRLS FORM CLUBS TO KEEP WAISTS IN LINE

DALLAS, Tex., June 8—(AP)—A coed waistline club was formed at Southern Methodist university here this spring. A like club has been organized at Texas College for Women at Denton, and co-eds at other schools are planning to follow suit.

Girls, slim or buxom, are eligible, but the plump ones must reduce and the slender damsels must stay that way to keep in good standing in the clubs.

The only prescribed food is butter and plenty of it. "For butter or for worse" is the club slogan, and the battle cry is "Hold that line even if it takes all summer." Slender waists decreed by dressmakers brought about the club idea.

INTELLIGENCE AND HEALTH GO TOGETHER IN CHILDREN

NEW YORK, June 8—(AP)—Children of superior intelligence are usually large and strong for their ages and healthier than the average, says Leta S. Hollingsworth of Columbia university.

"He contributes less than his quota to juvenile misbehavior and is noticeably emotionally stable," she says. "It is hard, however, for such a child to find playmates who are congenial both in size and mental interests. Gifted girls are a special problem because they have a strong preference for activities hard to follow on account of their sex. They are less interested in traditional girls' play."

To meet the expenditures called for by the foregoing estimates, a tax of thirteen and three-fifths (13 3-5) mills on the last city list will be required, said list being $36,134,928.00.

The tax recommended last year by the finance committee was twelve and three-fifths (12 3-5) mills, on the list of $36,035,256.

In addition to the said estimated expenses for the ordinary requirements of the City, the Committee on Finance has been requested by petition and otherwise to submit to the annual city meeting for its action, estimates for the following purposes, which are as follows:

1. Bath street curb cut-off	$1,500.00
2. Church street improvement	4,500.00
3. Broad street cut-off	3,000.00

13. Court house bonds payable Apr. 2, 1931,	143,000.00
Total	$272,585.00

The foregoing items are all desirable, but will, if all are voted by the City Meeting, require an additional tax of seven and one-half (7 1-2) mills above that required by the regular estimates for which the Committee has recommended a tax of 13 3-5 mills. Your Committee recommends that the warning for the next Annual Meeting include the last named estimates, commonly known as "extras," and a call for action thereon. Your Committee expresses no opinion as to which of said extra items are necessary and the order in which they appear has no meaning as to the respective merits of each.

Your Committee further recommends the adoption by the Court of Common Council of the following Resolution:

RESOLVED: That the report of the Committee on Finance containing the estimates for the year ending May 15, 1931, be accepted; that the estimates therein contained be adopted and made the estimates of expenses of the City during the year ending on May 15, 1931; that the Clerk cause the same to be published as required by the amended Charter of the City; and that the Mayor, or in his absence the Senior Alderman present, be directed on behalf of the Court of Common Council to submit the estimates embraced in said report to the next Annual City Meeting to be held on the first Monday of June, 1930, and to recommend that a tax of thirteen and three-fifths mills be laid on the last perfected grand list of the City to meet the ordinary expenses of the City for the present fiscal year of the City (May 16, 1930 to May 15, 1931, inclusive).

Respectfully submitted,
LEE R. ROBBINS,
PAUL H. ZAHN,
PETER SELLAS,
Committee on Finance.

The foregoing is a true copy of said report and of the resolution therein contained which was adopted.

Said estimate of the expenses of the City for the year ending May 15th, next, made by the said Court of Common Council is hereby published by me in acordance with the direction of said Court of Common Council.

Dated at Norwich, Connecticut, May 23rd, 1930.

Attest: WESTON C. PULLEN,
City Clerk and Clerk of the Court of Common Council of the City of Norwich, Connecticut.

Tony Simoni, 36, of 33 Moore avenue, who claims to be a salesman, but who was found in the resort, was arrested on two counts, violation of the liquor law, keeping with intent to sell, and possession. He was released on bail of $1,000, which was furnished by Wolf's father, Harry Wolf, and he will be in the police court Monday. An attempt was made to raid the resort two weeks ago, but when the raiders went there it was closed. Saturday afternoon a raiding force, Automobile Patrol Officer William Corcoran and Patrolmen George Labour, Edward Riordan, Cornelius Moriarty and Louis Pine, obtained a search warrant from Judge Daniel M. Cronin and entering the clubroom found Simoni apparently in charge. A search of the premises revealed two pints of gin and a partially filled bottle of whiskey, a serving tray, numerous empty pint whiskey bottles and a half dozen whiskey glasses.

John G. Bulmer, Submarine base, was arrested Saturday night by Patrolman Harry Watterson, charged with the theft of a Nash automobile. Bulmer reported his car having been stolen on the night of June 4, but he failed to notify the police that he had recovered it. As a result of Bulmer's negligence, when the sailor was found driving the car he was arrested. At police headquarters, Bulmer displayed his license and registration and said his arrest marked the sixth time he had been held up by state and local police to be compelled to reveal his identity since his car was recovered.

Wilfred Louisgnan, Montville, was arrested early today by Automobile Patrol Officer Elwood Bailey, charged with failing to stop at an automatic danger signal, corner of Glenwood and Ocean avenues. He will be presented in court tomorrow.

CORINNE MORRIS BAILED BUT SAILORS ARE NOT

Corrine Morris, 35, a mulatto, residing at 173 Water street, was arrested this morning when her home was raided, the woman being charged with conducting a disorderly house. She furnished a surety on her bond of $200 and will be in court Monday. The woman has been arrested six times, three for conducting a disorderly house, twice for intoxication and breach of the peace and once for frequenting a disorderly house. Ethle Vaden, 32, colored and a waitress, and M. H. Setbold and F. J. Johnson, sailors stationed at the Submarine base, were arrested, charged with frequenting. The Vaden woman, who has been arrested five times for frequenting disorderly houses in the black and tan district, obtained a surety on her bonds, but the white sailors were not so successful. All will be in court Monday. The raid was staged by Patrolman Cornelius Moriarty, who entered the house a short time after Selbold and Johnson had been observed to go there.

Frank C. Thurber, 39 Thames street, was driving on Truman street Saturday night when a car carrying New York registration and in which were three Negroes, emerged from Belden court at a fast rate of speed. Thurber's auto was struck and damaged. The car containing the Negroes speeded away and started to the New Haven turnpike. Thurber made complaint to the police and requested that the driver be arrested on a charge of evasion of responsibility. He was not found, however.

SERIOUS ACCUSATION AGAINST MARTELLI

Thomas Martelli, 32 Golden street, without occupation, was arrested early today, charged with soliciting for purposes of immorality. He is being held a prisoner at police headquarters for presentation in court Monday. Held as witnesses against Martelli are R. C. Webb and J. J. Telford, sailors aboard the battleship Mississippi. Webb and Telford were on Hill street, another black and tan district, when they were approached by Martelli, who offered to provide the bluejackets with female companions and said the house was at No. 16. When the sailors were questioned by Automobile Patrol Officer Thomas Cavanaugh and Patrolman John Sullivan and made known Martelli's mission in conversing with them, the three were arrested.

William Clinton, of Groton; Mrs. Louis Pelletier, 51 Eastern avenue; Willis Clark, Montville; Kathleen Higgins, Waterford; Blunt White, Mystic; Mrs. Fannie Lord, Stonington; Robert Chapman, 125 Bayonet street; Mrs. Charles Wageck, 167 Lincoln avenue, and Eugene Sullivan, 35 Shaw street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged Saturday.

RIPKO'S ARTISTIC WORK GETS HIM INTO COUNTY JAIL

Tony Ripko, 18, of 72 Shaw street, was arrested Saturday on a charge of breach of the peace in connection with the placing of lettering on the south side of the former Dart building, corner of Bank and Howard streets. The lettering was worded in such a manner as to tend to ridicule Patrolman Henry Sylvia, who has obtained the enmity of Italian youths because of the officer compelling the young men to quit loitering on his beat. Ripko was in the police court Saturday and was fined $25 and costs. He could not pay, so was committed to jail. However, it is expected that his friends will pay the fine within a day or two. During the early hours of Friday morning the wording, "Cop Sylvia, the Blackfish," was painted in huge letters on the building. Ripko was at the building when an employe of the Boston store attempted to remove the lettering and a controversy arose between the pair. Ripko finally applied a vile name to the employe and, complaint being made to Patrolman Louis Pine, Ripko was arrested.

The continued case of Peter Pijeaux, Filipino, of 17 Hill street, and Alexander Gray, colored, a member of the coast guard, jointly charged with breach of the peace, was disposed of by Pijeaux being fined $10 and costs and Gray fined $25 and costs, for the latter was adjudged the aggressor. Pijeaux paid his fine, but Gray was unable to do likewise and went to jail.

Fines for Sailors

Leon A. Newson and Athol B. Williams, sailors, stationed at the Submarine base, were charged with breach of the peace and each was fined $10 and costs. The sailors participated in a gang fight between bluejackets and Negroes on Hill street Thursday night. The battle has resulted in police and a shore patrol guarding the district, which is a section of the city harboring several black and tan resorts and frequented by sailors, the entire night. Although about 50 sailors and Negroes engaged in the fight, Newson and Williams were the only ones arrested.

Mrs. Mary Albino, 18, of 109 Golden street, a waitress when employed, was charged with vagrancy, but the charge was nolled, relatives assuring the court that they would see to it that the girl changed her mode of living. The Albino girl and Helen Rugolski, 19, the latter of 286 Huntington street and on parole from Long Lane farm, Middletown, were arrested at 5:45 Friday morning by Automobile Patrol Officer Elwood Bailey when the officer found the girls asleep in an automobile on Sixteenth street owned by a coast guardsman. In court yesterday the Rugolski girl was sent back to the farm, having originally been committed there in 1928 for frequenting a disorderly house conducted by a Filipino coast guardsman. The girls have been making a practice of consorting with sailors and being about the streets or in the country in automobiles practically the entire night. Earlier in the week the police ordered the pair off the streets during the early morning hours.

Stanley Jankowski, U. S. coast guard, was charged with reckless driving and was fined $15 and costs. He was arrested on Ocean avenue Friday night by Automobile Patrol Officer Elwood Bailey.

Raymond McPartland, charged with breach of the peace, was not disciplined, his case being nolled. The young man was arrested at 2:30 Saturday morning at Ocean Beach, where he was creating a disturbance.

One man, found drunk on Harrison street, was fined $10 and costs and went to jail. Another, arrested on Federal street, where he had fallen, was fined $10, but the execution of the sentence was suspended.

Philip Hayes, Waterbury, was charged with violation of the city's parking laws. As he did not appear in court his bond of $2 was forfeited.

Resumes Duties

Harry M. Darling, Thames street, passenger conductor in the employ of the New Haven railroad, who has not been employed several months because of pneumonia, has resumed his duties.

Mrs. Mary Capozza and her daughter, Josephine Launcelotta, both of Waterford, were arrested Saturday by State Police Officer John Smith, charged with breach of the peace. They will be in the police court Monday. The two women, it is claimed, after engaging in a heated quarrel with Sadie Bachese, in New London last Thursday, set upon and beat Mrs. Bachese. The latter made complaint to Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer and the arrests followed.

Joseph J. Twomey, 26 Church street, Groton, was arrested at Ocean Beach this morning by Patrolman Henry Hick, charged with speeding on Bentley avenue. He will be in court Monday.

William Perkins, U. S. coast guard, was arrested by Patrolman Louis Wheeler early today, charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in driving without license or registration. He also will explain in court tomorrow.

Joseph A. St. Germain, 464 Montauk avenue, contractor, made complaint to the police Saturday evening because of the destruction of windows and glass in doors of a house he is having constructed on Garfield avenue. Patrolman Frank Philopena later rounded up five youths, ages from 9 to 13, who admitted having done the damage, besides having broken windows in the house before. St. Germain did not want the boys prosecuted but did want their depredations ended.

Dr. Ralph H. Keeler, 740 Ocean avenue, notified the police at 10 o'clock Saturday night that a man was prowling in the yard of his home. Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin and Patrolman Michael Dorsey made an investigation, but were not successful in finding the "Peeping Tom."

Patrolman Michael Dorsey found a dog maimed as a result of having been hit by an automobile on Main street last night and to end the animal's suffering it was shot.

TWO FROM EAGLE BOAT 58 WERE NEAR DROWNING

G. A. Maloney, member of the crew of Eagle boat 58, U. S. navy, at anchor in the upper harbor, had a close call from drowning and with a possible similar fate for his companion, C. A. Huntley, of the same boat, early Saturday morning. Had it not been for the timely action of the police there undoubtedly would have been a single if not a double drowning. Maloney had been drinking freely and about 2 o'clock went to the public landing, accompanied by Huntley. As all of the liberty boats had stopped running, Maloney insisted on swimming to the Eagle 58, which is moored close to the plant of the Electric Boat company, fully a mile from the New London shore. Removing his clothing, Maloney leaped overboard and in a few seconds Huntley did likewise, for he realized that Maloney was in no condition to attempt the long swim. Taxicab drivers on duty at the union station, who witnessed the acts of the sailors, notified Patrolmen Frank Linehan and Louis Tooker, on duty a block from the depot. The officers speeded to the station and Linehan and two other sailors commandeered a small boat tied up at a private dock, but it was without oars. The officer and sailors paddled to mid-stream where they could hear Huntley calling for help. Linehan fired five shots from his service revolver to attract the attention of possible rescuers, and the shots being heard aboard the Eagle 58, the boat's searchlight was played on the river until the rescuing boat was located. The floundering sailors were finally sighted and, paddling to them, Huntley was holding Maloney's head above water as the latter was exhausted. The two sailors were held fast until another and larger boat, a power boat in which were Patrolman Tooker and Special Agent John Anderson of the New Haven railroad police, arrived. The sailors were then pulled into the power boat and brought ashore. Taken to police headquarters, Maloney refused to go to Lawrence-Memorial hospital, for he was in a state of collapse, so he and Huntley were taken to the sick bay at the Submarine base.

Louis Ballestrini, 14 East street, reported to the police this afternoon that a Hamilton watch had been stolen from his room.

Harold Hale, 1 Richards street, was arrested this afternoon, charged with breach of the peace.

POQUONOC BRIDGE MAN ALLEGES $3100 ROBBERY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, June 8.—S. J. Cook, Poquonoc Bridge, claims to have been robbed of $3100 in the clubroom of Eugene Conway, 109 Main street, Saturday night. The police are inclined to doubt his story, but they are making an investigation. Cook is disinclined to advance information that might lead to an arrest in the event that the money was taken from him. Cook, who had been in New London the greater part of the afternoon, went to the Conway establishment about 7 o'clock and an hour later he found Patrolman George Goldberg on State street and informed the officer that he had been relieved of his money. Goldberg accompanied Cook to police headquarters where he declared that he had the money in a wallet when he entered the clubroom and that the sum was composed of $100, $50 and $10 bills. When he departed from the building he investigated and discovered that his wallet contained but $18 and all in bills of $1 denomination. Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Sergeant John Courtney investigated but gained no information to corroborate the statements of Cook. The latter, who was partially intoxicated, admitted having been in numerous other drinking resorts before he entered the Conway clubroom, but he refused to make known the identity of those who accompanied him.

WEDDING

Lieut. James M. Huffman, U. S. N., of Tiffin, Ohio, and Miss Ferissa M. Jenkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs James M. Jenkins, 107 Jefferson avenue, were married Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the residence of the bride's parents by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth. The best man was A Tracy Cutler, Hartford, brother-in-law of the bride and the bridesmaid was Miss Jenkins' sister, Miss Dorothy Jenkins. Lieut. and Mrs. Jenkins will make their home in Washington, D. C.

HAS COUSIN IN YANTIC—KAROL KALISKI FOUND DEAD

Karol Kaliski, 53, employed by the Babcock Printing Press Manufacturing company, and residing at 167 Shaw street, was found dead in bed at his home late Friday. Kaliski had been complaining for several days and had not been at his work. When neighbors failed to see Kaliski about the premises, where he lived alone, an investigation was made when it was revealed that the man had expired. Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman pronounced Kaliski's death due to heart disease. Very little is known of the man in this city, other than he has a cousin, who resides in Yantic.

ABOUT 1,200 ARE ON BOARD SEA-FIGHTER MISSISSIPPI

Battleship Mississippi arrived Saturday off the mouth of the harbor, where the sea-fighter will remain until Wednesday, when she will start for Panama with members of the Reserve Officers' Training corps of Yale university, who will come to New London by train. The Mississippi carries a crew of about 1,200 officers and men and as a result of the arrival here of the battleship there were several hundred additional bluejackets about the streets Saturday night and today. Because of the augmented number of enlisted men on the streets, a provost guard of officers and enlisted men both from the Submarine base and the Mississippi, patroled the streets day and night.

WATERFORD YOUTH BUYS CARS WITH FRAUD CHECKS

William Sousa, a youth residing at Thames View, Waterford, is of unsound mentality, for that was determined Saturday, but he had an idea that he could write checks for any amount and have the paper honored in spite of the fact that he did not possess funds in the bank. Sousa always wrote the checks in part payment for automobiles and he was close to being successful in obtaining this form of luxury. After he had made several efforts to obtain cars, Saturday, Sousa was arrested by Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh and it was evident that the youth, who had been employed of late in a State street restaurant, was mentally deficient. Examinations by physicians revealed that Sousa was irresponsible and he was committed to Norwich State hospital, for observation. Sousa went to the Packard salesroom and tendered a check for $500 on the National Whaling bank as part payment. He signed the name of Bill Van Horn. Telephone correspondence with the bank, however, revealed that no such account existed there. Sousa then went to the Star garage and signed a check for $300 as payment on a De Soto car, using the name of George Enos. This check was detected as worthless. Sousa visited the Reo garage and deposited another check and signed Enos as the drawer, which likewise was worthless. He also secured demonstrations by the Velie, Chevrolet, Ford and Auburn stations. Sousa's identity was not learned until Friday night and when he concluded his labors Saturday he was arrested.

ANNONCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Heartwarming, uproarious, kindly, clever, and with many scenes of compelling drama is "Courage" which will be shown at the Palace Theatre today and tomorrow for the last times. Belle Bennett whom everyone remembers in "Stella Dallas," plays the part of a happy-go-lucky mother, who lacking in funds brings her brood of seven children from Iowa to Cambridge with the determination that they shall get the much talked of culture which she herself does not possess.

Bills pile up. A banker loans money to the mother, who is misunderstood by the oldest daughter and blamed. Things are in a topsy-turvy state when an old Hetty Green, with whom the youngest son has become acquainted, turns the tables and "courage" comes to a climax much too good to tell.

As always Belle Bennett portrays the part of the mother with deep understanding and excellent acting. Among the other stars in the picture are Marian Nixon, as the daughter, Rex Bell, Richard Tucker, Leon Janney, and Blanch Frederic, who, as the maiden aunt who follows them to the east manages to alienate the affections of the children from their mother temporarily.

On Wednesday the Palace will present a double-feature bill combining "Her Private Affair" with beautiful Ann Harding in the leading role and "Clancy in Wall Street" a new stock market comedy that is hilarious, with Charles Murray at his best supported by Lucien Littlefield, Aggie Herring, Edward Nugent, Miriam Seegar and Reed Howes.

The popularity contest which has been the talk of the town will soon be drawing to a close and while there is still time everyone should make an effort to go to the Palace more often than ever to get in the votes which mean a vacation for some nice girl at Atlantic City. If you have already voted once or twice or even more remember that every ballot which you cast is a good lap to victory so come again soon and by all means come often to make the grand total a sweeping victory.

Sparks Circus

Comedy, blended with the very best of equestrianism, will be provided in huge quantities when the Guice Family takes possession of the center ring of the Sparks circus. This well known circus comes here for afternoon and night exhibitions on Friday, June 13, it being its first appearance here in several years.

One of the principal reasons for the international success of the Guice Family is the clowning of Walter, said to be the foremost rider of Holland. This chap can jump from the ground, land upon a horse's back and retain his equilibrium. Somersaulting is also one of the many things he does best. The other members of the act are also finished riders.

Sparks comes with countless new features and novelties and the program contains many acts of world-wide reputation. But the younger patrons have not been overlooked and there will be a series of dumb animal actors in the various rings.

Broadway Theatre

Forgetting the muggy weather, bills, toothache and other annoyances, Broadway patrons flocked to that cool and comfy playhouse Saturday and Sunday to renew acquaintance with the girl who made "It" a household word, that red-headed peppy little dynamo of energy, Clara Bow, in her newest and most enjoyable opus, "True to the Navy." And a truer title never was written, for Clara, as chief soda-jerker in a San Diego drugstore dispensed "cherry-cokes," sundaes, and her own Bow-line of chatter, and played the boys all for suckers and got away with it clean until the combined Pacific and Asiatic fleets dropped anchor in the harbor, and her sweeties landed with a bang in the drug store. Harry Green, slightly Hebraic, as usual, proprietor of the store, was nearly killed in the inter-ship riot that followed, and Clara, bruised but still game, swore off sailors for life,—and fell the next minute for a hard-boiled gunner, Fredric March! Riotously funny, full of action and pep from start to finish, with Clara more curvy and sippy than ever, with wonderful scenic shots of the fleet in action, with bluejackets galore, "True to the Navy" proved ideal hot weather entertainment for the thousands of delighted patrons, and with the specially booked comedies and novelties, and the latest Paramount sound news, will continue through today and tomorrow.

Breed Theatre

A fascinating and intriguing Elinor Glyn story and a cast of unusual excellence make "Such Men Are Dangerous," Fox Movietone all talking drama, a triumphant success as screen entertainment. It began an engagement at the Breed theatre yesterday and was greeted enthusiastically by an audience that filled every seat in the house.

Warner Baxter who came into prominence for his performance as the "Cisco Kid" in "In Old Arizona," portrays the leading male role and reveals a new and delightful Baxter in a most difficult characterization.

Catherine Dale Owen enacts the role of the beautiful bride and it has been said that she was selected for the character because she seemed the exact prototype of the girl described in Miss Glyn's story. Miss Owen is a former New York stage star and recently supported John Gilbert in "His Glorious Night." She is the most beautiful blonde in all talking pictures.

The cast supporting Baxter and Miss Owen includes such well known personalities as Albert Conti, Hedda Hopper, Claude Allister and Bela Lugosi.

NORWICH VOLUNTEERS IN THE SALVATION ARMY CAMPAIGN DECIDE TO "CARRY ON" TO SUCCESSFUL CONCLUSION

At a time when the Salvation Army finds the greatest need for its efforts in caring for destitute children and families affected by the vicissitudes of life, the volunteer committee of valiant helpers who have assumed the self-imposed task of raising sufficient funds to carry on the work is now making an appeal to the generous-hearted people of Norwich to fight the good fight and finish the course laid out before them—raising the $5,000 that the Army requires for the coming year to relieve distress among the unfortunates.

"AM I MY BROTHER'S KEEPER?"

This is a question we must all decide for ourselves. True charity must spring with eagerness from the heart. No church, no organization, no newspaper, no committee can tell you HOW MUCH you should give—but in the magic alchemy of human love there arises an ephemeral or ethereal inspiration to "give as the Lord has prospered us"—and let us pause for a moment to survey the manifold blessings we enjoy here in Norwich.

So many things to be thankful for, aren't there? Thankful we are in good health, grateful for a period of peace and prosperity that our forefathers and pioneers who settled here would scarcely have dreamed of. The great majority of us are doing tolerably well—no famine in the land, no civil strife such as prevails in China, India and some other countries, no major disasters, no serious epidemics of disease.

The service of the Salvation Army in every national or local emergency has always been of such self-sacrificing and sincere nature that it was regarded with universal admiration and respect. In times of stress we all appreciated the unflagging zeal and self-sacrificing efforts of the SALVATION ARMY to provide comfort and cheer, to nourish and care for the dependent children, to relieve distress, to aid the unfortunates without regard to the causative circumstances.

This is the time of all times for TOLERATION AND MODERATION, for a larger viewpoint of life, for the dissemination of benevolent funds, for a closer approach to and appreciation of those triune virtues—FAITH, HOPE and CHARITY—and the greatest of these is CHARITY.

So let there be no faltering in the ranks—no thought of giving up without achieving the goal of victory—no disposition of putting race against race, class against class, creed against creed or color against color—we are all on earth to perform the mission of mercy and goodness—to help the other fellow along life's pathway—so rally around the standard and FORWARD INTO BATTLE on behalf of the Salvation Army, that has an imperishable record in the noble cause of uplifting humanity.

Make all contributions to Arthur E. Story, Chelsea Savings Bank, or to Salvation Army headquarters, 10 Cliff Street, Norwich.

CHURCH SCHOOLS HOLD EXERCISES OBSERVING CHILDREN'S SUNDAY

Exercises for Children's day were held Sunday by the schools of the United Congregational and Central Baptist churches with congregations of good numbers in attendance.

United Congregational Church

At the United Congregational church, the exercises took the place of the usual church services at 10:30 in the morning, the school members marching to the seats reserved for them to the music of the processional hymn.

Three departments of the school, the beginners, the primary and the junior, carried out an interesting programme and roses were presented to the children of the cradle roll, about 100 in number.

Four children were baptized by the pastor, Rev. Alexander H. Abbott. Those baptized were William Starr Elliott, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Elliott; Grace Allen Bullard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bullard; Craig Fulton Bode, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Bode, Jr., and Lois Jeannette Heebner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Heebner.

Rev. Mr. Abbott gave a brief talk to the children and the service closed with the recessional hymn. The chorus choir of the church led in the singing of the hymns at the service.

Central Baptist Church

The children's day service at the Central Baptist church was held at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, opening with the processional and followed by the hymn. This is My Father's World. This was followed by prayer by the pastor, Rev. Dr. David A. Pitt, and superintendent Emery H. Davis spoke briefly after an anthem by the church quartette.

The programme carried out showed how the four children's departments of the school conducted their opening exercises in demonstrating what the new education plant of the church and school does towards making possible a meaningful service for each different age group.

The departments participating were the beginners, Mrs. C. Edward Smith, superintendent, primary, Miss Alice M. Dean, superintendent junior, Arthur F. Wyman, superintendent, and intermediate, Miss Signe M. Seaberg, superintendent.

An anthem was rendered by the church quartette and after the offering had been taken, which was for the Baptist Publication society, Rev. Dr. Pitt spoke briefly to the school, and pronounced the benediction as the service came to a close.

NORWICH TOWN

PASTOR'S FAMILY PROVIDES BIBLES FOR CONG. PUPILS

At the Norwich Town Congregational church most impressive exercises were carried out for Children's day, by the primary department and members of the church school, under the efficient leadership of the teacher, Miss Louise Bailey, assisted by her sister, Mrs. Walter G. Hitchon. As Organist Herbert L. Yerrington played Stand Up For Jesus as the processional, the members of the school filed into the church, led on either side by the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, and the superintendent of the Sunday school, Senior Deacon Dwight W. Avery, who announced the numbers on the program, also read the Scripture lesson, Mark 10:10 to 15. This was preceded by the invocation by Rev. Mr. Bailey, concluding with the Lord's prayer in unison. Two infants were consecrated to God in the early part of the service, when Rev. Mr. Bailey baptized John Henry Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rogers, and David Thatcher Ricker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Ricker. In the anthem, Sweet Story of Old, Miss Eleanor Smith very pleasingly sustained the solo part. The program so well carried out by the company of 33 little pupils of the school follows:

Song, It's Children's Day, primary department; recitation, Be Glad, Virginia Holm; Three Golden Keys, an exercise by three boys, Arthur Browning, George Holm and Fred Torrance, each holding a large cardboard key, marked respectively, Praise, Faith and Love; recitation, A Summer Day, Betty Barber; exercise, A Garland of Gratitude, Jim Simpson, Mary Wheeler, Catherine Wheeler, Everett Adams and Clifton and Harold McMahon; recitation, In This Little Basket, Lois Browning, holding a tiny basket of flowers; recitation, The Garden, Truman Palmer; songs, This Is God's House and Happy As a Robin, by the primary; recitation, The Sower, Socrates Kandrow; exercise, Golden Sunbeams, Joyce Ricker, Cora Eccleston, Alice Howard, Betty Santo, Harrier Ricker and Natalie Palmer; recitation, Tell Me the Story of Jesus, Natalie Browning and Natalie Santo. By special request, Betty Browning sang sweetly, In The Garden; exercise, How They Helped, Shirley Grant, Martha Adams and Shirley Nylen; exercise, Beautiful Day, Leslie Hahn, Chester Henrichs and Robert Haymen; recitation, Long, Long Ago, Walter Clark; closing song by school, All Things Bright and Beautiful. This was followed by a brief address by Rev. Mr. Bailey, who complimented the children for the splendid program and expressed the thought that it would not be long before they would be assuming still greater responsibilities in the activities of the church; and that it was a fine experience for the children as it made them feel conscious that they were doing something to help the church. Reference was made to the fact that some of the teachers in the church school today, also members of the choir, were doing just such as these children had done when Rev. Mr. Bailey took up his pastorate a number of years ago. The offering was taken by four girls of Miss Charlotte Barbour's class, Eleanor Palmer, Alice Avery, Eleanor Norris and Wilhelmia Adams. At the close of the primary exercises, Rev. Mr. Bailey presented a Bible to two girls, Elaine Norris and Alice Avery, and two boys, John Laird Browning and Robert Barber, whose 12th birthday is in 1930. The reason for selecting the 12th year was referred to Scripture verses. Rev. Mr. Bailey instructed the children to have Supt. Avery write his name in each book after which he hoped they would read them with fidelity and make good use of them, also to care for them so that in later years they might look back with pleasure to Children's day June 8th, 1930. Supt. Avery announced that this was the outcome of a very generous memorial fund for Mrs. Bailey, presented by Rev. Mr. Bailey and family, the income each year to be used in this way. Hymns during the service included I Love To Tell The Story and The World Looks Very Beautiful. Rev. Mr. Bailey pronounced the benediction. There was a large congregation, including many visitors. The altar was beautifully decorated with summer flowers arranged in decorative baskets, jardiniers, etc., by Miss Eleanor Smith. Sweet William daisies, swamp apple blossoms, iris, phlox and syringas were arranged against a background of foliage.

DRIVER FALLS ASLEEP AND FOUR MEN HURT

Christian Meyers and Raymond E. Dorrity, shipmates aboard the submarine O-2, basing at the submarine base, and Michael Curran and Ralph Cemers, both of Medford, Mass., sustained injuries in a peculiar motor accident which occurred on Stanton hill, Mystic, at 3:45 o'clock Saturday morning. The two sailors, with Meyers at the wheel, were riding in an automobile which left the road and crashed into a telephone pole, breaking the pole off at the base.

The pole with its wires and cross arms fell across the highway and a truck, owned by the Shore Line express, in which Curran and Cemers were following the sailor's car, crashed into the obstruction. The wires caught under the cab of the truck and carried the cab away. Curran, who was driving the truck, and Cemers, were cut about the face and body by flying glass and Curran also suffered from shock.

Meyers received lacerations on the left side of the head and to the right hand and multiple contusions about the body. Dorrity received lacerations about mouth and both knees and was badly shaken up. The two sailors were treated by Dr A. H. Meyers of Mystic and were later transferred to the sick bay at the submarine base.

Troopers John H. Smith and Arthur Kathe of the Groton state police barracks investigated the accident and arrested Meyers, who was driving the car without a license. Meyers, according to the troopers, fell asleep at the wheel and Dorrity was also declared to have been asleep when the crash occurred.

MOTORCYCLIST KILLED AFTER CRASH WITH HIT AND RUN MOTOR DRIVER

Thrown from a motorcycle by an automobile which hit it, Haakon Gorman, 25, of Higganum, was instantly killed Saturday night about 9:15 o'clock on the Montville-New London highway at the so-called Dead Man's section of the road.

Gorman was coming towards Norwich and as he approached a truck which was traveling in the opposite direction a gray automobile cut out from behind the truck and clipped the motorcycle as it swung back to the right of the road after passing the truck. Gorman was thrown off, sliding along the highway in the path of the truck and it is believed one of the wheels of the truck passed over his head. Philip Orenstein of Montville, who was driving the truck, steered his machine off the road and almost ran into a telegragh pole when he saw Gorman thrown from the motorcycle.

The driver of the gray car turned out his lights and made his escape at high speed towards New London.

Gorman was riding a motorcycle belonging to James Gauthier of Montville and was on his way from the Golden Spur to the home of Gauthier, both men being employed as teamsters by James Galvin and Sons, operators of a sawmill getting out railroad ties. He intended to get Gauthier's riding uniform so that he could go to his home in Higganum over the week end.

Three state policemen, Peter Busch, William McKenzie and Frank Johnson, with Coroner E. G. McKay of this city and Dr. Charles Kaufman of New London, medical examiner, investigated the accident. The body was removed to the undertaking rooms of J. N. Kelly in New London and will be taken to Higganum.

BOOTLEGGING MAY FIGURE IN HARTFORD MURDER TRIAL

Sebastiano Aliano Will Go On Trial This Morning For the Murder of One of His Employes December 4 In Front of a Speakeasy—The Slaying Is Said to Have Been the Result of a Bootleg Feud—It Is Contended By the State That the Killing Was Deliberate and That It Had Been Planned By the Accused.

HARTFORD, June 9— (AP) —The background of eastside bootlegging, with its speakeasy chains, its quarrels and petty graft, into some angles of which the grand jury has delved will be closed tomorrow in superior court when Sebastiano Aliano, 35, who was a leader in the racket, will go on trial for the murder last December 4 of one of his employes, Alfonso Minniti, 24.

At 10 a. m. the trial will open before Judge Richards Booth, Judge Carl Foster and Judge Frederick M. Peasley. Like the Lorenz case of recent memory, it is expected to be brief and probably will be over within two days.

It was this murder, allegedly due to a bootleg feud, that started off the grand jury investigation that is still under way in Hartford county. Some of the evidence that was uncovered in the investigation of the murder gave impetus to the bootlegging inquiry and in turn the latter has produced some facts in connection with the slaying that will be explained at the trial.

The grand jury met today and gave most of its attention to Detective Sergeant Nicholas B. Gallicchio of the Hartford police department, who had charge of the investigation of the Minniti slaying until the state's attorneys office stepped in. The detective sergeant has several times been a witness before the grand jury, which has questioned him regarding his bank accounts.

Tomorrow he will be an important witness in the murder trial. He has explained to the grand jury that large sums deposited in a local bank last year were placed there to be drawn upon for medical expenses of his father, who was here for a series of operations. Monday his father, Philip Gallicchio, to whom the detective sergeant was reunited in Memphis, Tenn., in September of 1924 after a separation of many years, appeared before the grand jury to support his son's story. Sergeant Gallicchio escorted the old man to the county building.

The slaying for which the state will seek to have Aliano pay by life imprisonment at least, occurred about 6:45 a. m. in front of a speakeasy operated by Aliano at 385 Front street. Minniti managed to stagger away after he was shot and was found on the Gilbourne Court sidewalk, almost opposite the store. He died at Mt. Sinai hospital a few hours later after making a statement to Sergeant Gallicchio.

It is the contention of the state that the killing of Minniti was deliberate and that it had been planned by Aliano. The defense contends that Aliano shot to defend himself and that there are mitigating circumstances that takes the case out of the murder class. It is Aliano's hope that the penalty will be no more than manslaughter.

State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn will prosecute the case and Thomas J. Spellacy will be chief counsel for Aliano.

COMMITTEE UNDECIDED ABOUT BISHOP CANNON

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(AP)— Informal conferences by members of the senate lobby committee failed today to produce an agreement on what to do about the defiance of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., and further attemps toward a solution will be made tomorrow.

The conferences began as soon as Chairman Caraway returned this morning from Arkansas, but night found the investigators without a decision as to what should be done to the defiant churchman who refused to answer questions about his 1928 anti-Smith activities and then walked out on the committee.

Caraway, who had been counted upon to support the bishop in his contention that the committee had no power to inquire into his political activities, told newspaper men that he had not read the record of what took place in his absence and that he would not reach a decision until he had made a thorough study of the proceedings.

Walsh and Blaine contend the committee was not exceeding its authority and believe Cannon was guilty of contempt of the senate in leaving the room without being excused.

Senator Robinson, republican, Indiana, is understood to side with the bishop while Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, has not made his position known.

Caraway would not indicate what he thought of the bishop's action in turning his back on the committee. He added, however, that a witness "walks out at his peril."

NEW WORLD AIRPLANE ALTITUDE RECORD 43,166 FEET

WASHINGTON, June 9—(AP)—Monarch of the upper air today with a new world airplane altitude record of 43,166 feet, Lieutenant Apollo Soucek made plans to better both that mark and his world seaplane altitude record.

The airplane record, made Wednesday on the anniversary of his record seaplane flight, was recognized by the National Aeronautical association after the official barograph had been calibrated at the bureau of standards.

It exceeded by 1,372 feet the existing record of 41,794 feet held by Willi Neuenhofen, German aviator, and marks the highest ascent of man. The nearest approach was Captain Hawthorne Gray's balloon ascent to 42,470 feet in 1927 but it cost him his life.

Scheduled to leave Saturday for duty on the aircraft carrier Lexington, Lieutenant Soucek said: "I can now go to sea with a clear conscience, but shall devote the remainder of the week, if weather is favorable, in attempts to better both records."

PENSIONS OF ALL CIVIL WAR VETERANS INCREASED

WASHINGTON, June 9. — (AP) — President Hoover today signed a bill increasing the pensions of all Civil war veterans.

The bill increases to $75 months the pension of veterans who formerly received $65. Those receiving $72 and $90 will receive $100 under the bill.

Widows of veterans who formerly had to be 75 years of age to get a $40 monthly pension now may get it at the age of 70.

It was said at the white house that the president regards the bill as an old age pension measure and not objectionable as was the Spanish-American war veterans pension bill which he recently vetoed.

W. BERNARD VAUSE HAS RESIGNED JUDGESHIP

NEW YORK, June 9.—(AP)— Confronted with charges of mail fraud and perjury, a state charge of grand larceny, and an ouster proceeding instituted by the attorney general, W. Bernard Vause of Brooklyn, county judge of Kings county, resigned today.

His resignation was offered to Governor Roosevelt in a letter in which he pleaded his innocence but said he felt his usefulness as a judge had been impaired. He asked that the resignation take effect immediately.

He had been on the bench since 1923 and is a former president of the Brooklyn Democratic club.

TOM MIX FAILED TO STOP ELOPEMENT OF DAUGHTER

LOS ANGELES, June 9.—(AP)— A. P. Michael Narlian, an attorney, announced today he had telegraphed the sheriff at Yuma, Ariz., on authority of Tom Mix, motion picture star, to stop an alleged elopement of Ruth Jane Mix, 17-year-old daughter of the actor, with Douglas Gilmore, film actor.

The attorney said the girl and Gilmore left here at 1 a. m., presumably by automobile for the Arizona border city, planning to be married there as soon as possible. Miss Mix left a note telling of the elopement.

In Arizona a girl may be married without her parents' consent after her 16th birthday unless prevented by legal action beforehand. California law requires that the 18th birthday be passed and that a three-day period expire between the application for a license and its issuance.

Gilmore, who is 27 years old, was born in Boston and attended Notre Dame university.

In 1920 he won National Amateur Athletic union swimming championships in 220 and 880-yard events at Chicago.

Married In Yuma

YUMA, Arizona, June 9.—(AP)—Ruth Jane Mix, 17-year-old daughter of Tom Mix, film cowboy, was married to Douglas Gilmore, motion picture actor, by a justice of the peace here today.

NEW STRUCTURE FOR CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, June 9.—(AP)—A great building of steel and stone rising skyward at the end of La Salle street to hold Ceres high above aught else in Chicago today became the new home of the world's leading grain market, the Board of Trade. The open din of trade was sent across the Atlantic to Liverpool, Europe's premier market.

The $22,000,000 building, rising 605 feet, looks down on the financial street like a sentinel guarding two rows of banks and bond houses. About the old building, that stood on the same site, have been written novels, and within its walls took place some of the most gigantic deals in history.

At 10 o'clock, President Hoover's touch to a button in the white house sent the opening impulse through one of the many thousand wires in the building. A great gong struck and the din of trading in wheat, corn and oats pits began.

Simultaneously, President Alexander Slater, Jr., of the Liverpool Corn exchange, flashed through a message that automatically caused a huge electric sign to flash "Greetings, Liverpool Corn Exchange."

SALES MANAGER SHORTAGE MAY EVEN REACH $1,000,000

CINCINNATI, June 9.—(AP)—Dudley Outcalt, county prosecutor, said late today that a shortage of probably $750,000 existed in the books of A. W. Shafer, local district sales manager of the H. L. Doherty & Co., of New York, securities dealers, although a warrant issued for the latter's arrest charged him with embezzlement of only $10,000.

Outcalt said the shortage might even be found to reach $1,000,000. He announced figures, he said, after a consultation with state bank examiners who were hurriedly called here from Columbus.

COMPETITIVE YACHT RACES WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY

Three of the new boats, together with the Resolute, successful cup defender against Sir Thomas Lipton a decade ago, and the Vanitie, contender for the honors at that time, will participate in a special regatta held under the direction of the New York Yacht club.

Warden Lewis' Views On Prison Inmates

Says 40 Per Cent. Should Be Liberated, 30 Per Cent. Paroled—Life Term For the Other 30 Per Cent.

NEW YORK, June 9—(AP)—Warden Lewis E. Lawes believes that 40 per cent of the inmates of American prisons should be sent home, that 30 per cent should be paroled in two years or soner, and that the other 30 per cent should be sentenced for life.

"The men or women sentenced for long years or for life," the Sing Sing warden writes in the July issue of Cosmopolitan Magazine, "are generally poor saps—unsuccessful petty crooks. The real ones escape punishment. x x x x I can't repeat too often that our prisons are filled with men who should be home and at work, that there are no more real criminals in the most of us. Only we have had the breaks; the hard luck has not turned on us."

To correct the evils he sees in America's penal system, Warden Lawes suggests that all sentences be made indeterminate and that a non-political parole board be empowered to liberate the majority, under supervision, at once or after short terms, and keep the minority of anti-social-confirmed criminals perpetually confined.

In this way, he believes, hope would be put back in the prisoners' souls.

"Definite and inelastic sentences," he writes, "have destroyed all hope—and lack of hope, not bad breaks or sour hash or overcrowding, has been the primary cause of the terrible epidemic of prison riots."

INVESTIGATING ACTIVITIES OF COMMUNISTS IN THE U. S.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(AP)—The house investigation into communists' activities opened today with a resume of world communist activities by Rev. Father Edmund Walsh of Georgetown university, during which he charged the soviet government had declared "war against all humanity," and planned to overthrow existing governmental systems.

Father Walsh was the first witness at a public hearing before the special house communist investigating committee. He is director of the foreign service school at Georgetown university and was a member of the Hoover famine relief mission in Russia in 1921.

The committee will hear Edgar Hoover, director of the investigating division of the justice department, tomorrow behind closed doors.

Father Walsh said the Russian soviet government, the communist party, and the third internationale were united in an effort to overthrow all other governments.

He said they worked through propagandizing, teaching children in training camps in this country, doing business through their trading concerns, particularly the Amtorg Trading company of New York, as well as being active among the Negroes in the southern states.

Reporter Shot Dead By Chicago Gangster

Newspaper Man Had Been Marked For Death Because of His Knowledge of the Underworld.

CHICAGO, June 9—(AP)—An assassin's bullet canceled "Jake" Lingle's assignment as gangland reporter for the Chicago Tribune today.

The afternoon newspapers were still churning out the story of an early morning murder when a gunman crept behind the veteran newspaper man and rode through the underground tunnel toward the Randolph street Illinois Central terminal, under Michigan boulevard near the public library.

His pistol barked. Lingle fell dead, a bullet through the back of his skull, and in the panic of the scores of commuters the killer dropped his weapon, fled to Michigan boulevard, vaulted a fence and was gone.

Lingle was 40 years old, police and crime reporter for the Tribune for 15 years and an intimate alike of police chiefs and hoodlums. A year ago he was the house guest of "Scarface" Al Capone at his Miami estate and for years he had known William F. Russell, police commissioner, and the detective bureau heads.

Last week Lingle was sent out to get the "in" of the latest succession of gang murders—his own the eleventh in ten days attributed to a hoodlum's trigger.

Last week the gossip sifted down the line that Lingle was marked he go.

He had not been threatened so far as members of his family knew. Tomorrow he was to have gone with his wife and two youngsters to a newly purchased vacation home at Long Beach, Mich.

If he was slain because he knew too much, he was the second of that ilk to fall in recent months. Revolvers spat death some weeks ago to Julius Rosenheim, who had stayed too long in that dangerous half-world between the gangster and the tipster—tipster for the crime commission and the press.

In connection with the slaying of Lingle a police squad raided the headquarters of Joe Aiello and arrested Dominic Aiello, Joe's brother; Dominic Tripoli and Frank Pezzo. They found two pistols and a pump gun in the place.

Armour La Panzr, a young taxicab driver, told police that just before the shooting he saw three men get out of a cab at the entrance of the I. C. tunnel. One of the men looked like Lingle, he said.

Police were inclined to connect the incident with the shooting. They believed Lingle may have been one of the three men, that the other two were putting him on the spot.

NOT ALL HARMONIOUS IN RUMANIAN KINGDOM

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 9.—(AP)—King Carol II now rules Rumania by virtue of a remarkable coup, yet not all is politically harmonious in the Balkan kingdom.

The liberal party, which was responsible for the errant prince's expulsion in 1922, still holds aloof from the popular fervor that greeted the return of the former crown prince to the throne of his late father and has issued a manifesto against his accession. The return was backed chiefly by the peasants' party, headed by former Premier Julius Maniu.

Indications were tonight that the liberals would split. Leaders of the party went into conference this morning and emerged in discord. George Bratianu and his followers favoring recognition of King Carol, with the others—mostly elderly members, remaining loyal to Michael, Carol's 9-year-old son, who has been reduced from king to crown prince.

It is understood that Vintila Bratianu, chieftain of the party and principal opponent of the new king, will resign if his group swings to the new regime.

VOTE ON THE TARIFF BILL IN SENATE WILL BE CLOSE

Debate On the Final Draft Was Begun Yesterday—Republican Leaders Remain Confident That It Will Pass—Senator Smoot Predicted a Final Vote By Thursday—Senator Harrison, Democrat, Opened the Attack On the Measure.

WASHINGTON, June 9—(AP)—The tariff bill was started on the last stretch of its journey to a final vote in the senate today with indications still pointing to a close decision but with republican leaders maintaining confidence that it would pass.

Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, who reported the measure back to the senate shortly after noon, after the conferees had completed corrections in the watch paragraph to meet points of order, predicted a final vote by Thursday.

Opening debate a day sooner than had been expected on the two conference reports comprising the final draft of the bill, Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, asserted "whether the American businessman desires it or not, this tariff report, with the reprisals and retaliatory measures it invites, will compel still larger investments of American capital abroad and check the expansion in America of our more efficient industries."

The Mississippian was followed by Senators Oddie, republican, Nevada, who praised the measure as holding "vast benefits for American industry and labor," and Thomas, Oklahoma, and Brock, Tennessee, democrats, who discussed its effect on America's foreign trade.

Under questioning by Senators Smoot and Vandenberg, republican, Michigan, Thomas denied he had written to embassies and legations in Washington requesting them to protest against the bill.

The Oklahoman had asserted thirty-eight nations had filed protests with the state department on 300 items in the bill. Asked by Smoot if these included protests, "requested by the senator from Oklahoma," Senator Thomas did not reply directly, but later told Vandenberg he had been asked for copies of the bill when it passed the house and in furnishing these to inquirers he requested their attitude.

"Does the senator mean to say he wrote to embassies here on the question?" asked the Michigan senator.

"No, I did not," Thomas replied.

Both republicans and democrats paused during the debate to pay tribute to Senator Smoot for his long and untiring efforts in connection with the year and a half old legislation.

Oddie said the veteran Utahan had "stood up like a rock of Gibraltar" and had "done a superhuman piece of work." Senators Bratton, New Mexico, and Ashurst, Arizona, both democrats, joined in the praise, although differing with Smoot on his tariff views.

The two Pennsylvania republican senators Reed and Grundy, continued their silence as to ho whey would vote on final passage. Nevertheless, majority chieftains displayed no alarm and were confidence of support of both if their votes were needed.

The conferees corrected the watch section by reducing from 20 to 15 cents apiece the duty on set or unset jewels and by eliminating the levy averaging about 15 cents each on dials when imported with a movement. The duty of five cents each and 45 per cent on dials when brought in separately was left in the bill.

Watches not intended to be worn on the person were transferred from the clock to the watch schedule at the lower watch rates in order to meet another objection.

NATIONALIST CHINESE FIGHTING ON DEFENSIVE

HANKOW, June 9—(AP)—While continuing its month old fighting to hold back the northern rebel invaders who crossed the Yellow river in Honan and Shantung provinces, the Nationalist government today was fighting a defensive battle against the southern rebels at Yochow, Hunan province.

The Kwangsi province rebels, reinforced by thousands of bandits were reported to have charged 50,000 strong against 40,000 Nationalists, intrenched south of Yochow. Flanked by Lake Tungting and backed by the Yangtse river, the government forces were expected to be aided by gunboats dispatched to Yochow.

The southerners' drive is directed toward Hankow, Wuchang and Yanyang, important sister cities of central China, 175 miles down the Yangtse river from Yochow.

Meanwhile the march of the northern coalition rebels through Honan province toward Hankow apparently has ben checked.

DYNAMITE EXPLOSION IN DETROIT KILLED SIX MEN

DETROIT, June 9—(AP)—A dynamite explosion in a nearly-completed water intake tunnel 235 feet under the Detroit river killed six workmen and injured six others today.

The explosion occurred when a workman's pick struck a forgotten charge of dynamite at the end of the tunnel, 3,200 feet out in the river. The dynamite apparently had been left there by workmen Sunday after it had failed to explode when a charge was set off.

The workmen, ignorant of the danger, started clearing away the rock this morning, and the blast followed.

There were 36 men in the tunnel when the explosion occurred. Believing that a score or more were trapped in the debris, a large rescue squad composed of police, firemen and laborers went into the tunnel. All the workmen were accounted for shortly after the explosion.

RUMANIAN MINISTER IN PARIS RECALLED

PARIS, June 9—(AP)—The recall of Constantin Diamandy, for several years Rumanian minister in Paris, was officially announced today.

Diamandy was an appointee of Bratianu's liberal ministry which was opposed to Prince Carol's return to Rumania. It is understood, however, that during Carol's exile in Paris, the minister became rather friendly with him. Opinion among Rumanians in Paris was about equally divided as to whether Diamandy's recall meant his dismissal from the diplomatic service or the desire of King Carol to have an experienced diplomat close to him to advise him on European affairs.

18 MONTHS' IMPRISONMENT FOR ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING

PESHAWAR, India, June 9—(AP)—Lance Corporal Cummings of the king's own Yorkshire Light Infantry today was sentenced to 18 months imprisonment for accidentally shooting two children beside the Kabuli gate May 31, a mishap which started a riot.

At the time Cummings was unloading his rifle preparatory to cleaning it. It was discharged at the same moment a carriage passed through the gate bearing the wife of the Sikh supervisor of the government farm and her two children. The bullet killed the two children instantly and wounded the mother.

Angry Indians gathered and refused to disperse until the police fired a warning shot over their heads. They then formed a procession which attacked a small party of British troops. The troops opened fire as the mob rushed them and tried to snatch their rifles, with the result that seven in the crowd were killed and nine were wounded.

WIRE PULLING IN SENATE ON LONDON NAVAL TREATY

WASHINGTON, June 9—(AP)—Members of the senate were besieged with round robins to pledge their support for and against prompt disposition of the London naval treaty today as the foreign relations committee got into a snarl at its first meeting to consider the pact.

The republican "young guard" answered the petition for delay being circulated by the treaty opponents with a counter petition and tonight this group was confident of enough signatures to pledge a majority of the senate to stay in session this summer until the pact is voted upon.

Sponsors of both petitions are working secretly and no one would state publicly how many have signed. It was estimated tonight however, that few more than 25 signers were on the petition asking postponement of debate until fall.

NASHUA, N. H., June 9.—(AP) — James Routis, 22, dying in a hospital here tonight, was identified by his companions, arrested by the police, as Joseph Agofsky, of Fairfield, Conn., long sought by New England police as an alleged bandit. His companions identified themselves as Agofsky's brother, Frank, 18, and Harry Cameron Young of Methuen, Mass. They had given their names as James and Frank Routis and Harry Cameron.

Policemen went to the Pine Hill Road section today on being told that three suspicious appearing men in a New York automobile were in the vicinity. The automobile was found stopped in the woods and the policemen pounced upon Frank and Young as they slept in the back seat, rifles across their knees. Later, Joseph was seen in the woods and when he failed to stop when ordered a volley was fired and he was struck twice, in the back and leg.

The police said that the two unwounded prisoners said they had taken the goods stolen at Ayer to New York and disposed of them. They then stole a machine owned by Thomas Ewing of 885 Park avenue, New York, and came to this vicinity. Not all of the Ayer loot was disposed of in New York as several articles of clothing found in the automobile today were identified by Ayer policemen tonight.

THREAD CITY FATHERS PUT BAN ON CARNIVALS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, June 9.— A ban was put on traveling carnivals at the June meeting of the common council tonight when an ordinance was adopted, forbidding such carnivals to perform in the city and provided a fine of $200 for violation of the ordinance, the fine being made effective for each exhibition or performance. The original ordinance as introduced by Alderman William E. Webber called for a fine of $100 but as it was felt that many carnivals would be willing to pay such a fine for each performance the amount was increased to $200 in an amendment offered by Eugene B. Lewis. A comprehensive report, the first of its kind, was received tonight by the council from City Health Officer Dr. Nathan Spector who was recently appointed to the office. The report covered the sanitary inspection of residences and business houses and of ten samples of milk, all but two of which were found to be excellent. Dr. Spector recommended that pasteurized milk be made available here and informed the council that he was providing clinic facilities at his offices and advocated that consideration be given to providing equipment for a city clinic.

The claim of Joseph J. Kirby of 28 Prospect street for $54.50 for repairing damage caused by the flooding of his cellar, was referred to the claims committee. Moulton court will be oiled and sanded pursuant to a resolution introduced by C. A. Lamoreux. Lines and grades will be established on South Park street. It was voted to borrow $15,000 to pay the principal on the bond issue. Resolutions having to do with the curtailing of city departments following the levying of a 8-mill tax May 1 were rescinded with the exception of the one giving authority to pro-rate the budget in keeping with the tax income which is now 10 mills. The foot-bridge will be painted by day labor in accordance with a resolution of H. I. Sanderson. The mayor and light committee were authorized to draw up a contract for city lights with the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting Co. "I Wouldn't Take All the Money in the World for What Bon-Tone Has Done for Me"

MISS MARY L. RONCAIOLI,

Miss Mary L. Roncaioli, of 31 Talcot street, Hartford, Conn., states: "I suffered from indigestion for over the last two years. Everything I ate fermented and soured and bloated me up tight as a drum, till my stomach fairly groaned with gas. Sharp pains would race through my stomach, almost doubling me up with pain; and the gas would press on my heart, almost cutting off my breath. I was so nervous I thought sometimes I would go distracted, and I would roll and toss all night. I had dizzy spells when everything seemed to be going 'round and 'round, and I'd have to go to bed. My bowels seemed to be tied in knots; and I had rheumatism in both legs and knees, which pained me something awful. I could not walk any distance nor climb stairs nor kneel down; and I was always having my legs rubbed with liniments, which gave me just temporary relief. I got awfully thin and rundown and discouraged and I had given up hope of ever being well again.

"I noticed Bon-Tone testimonials from several people whom I know in Hartford, so I inquired and found them full of praise for Bon-Tone. I got some, and found it be all that they claimed it to be. I am on my eighth bottle now, and I wouldn't take all the money in the world for what Bon-Tone has done for me. The rheumatism is gone from my legs and I can walk or run as well as I ever could. My nerves are as steady as a clock, and I sleep so soundly that it takes an alarm clock and my mother to wake me up mornings. I am ashamed of my appetite! I have gained five pounds; my color is back; my stomach feels like a new one; and headaches and dizzy spells are a thing of the past for me. I will praise and boost Bon-Tone as long as I live."

There is a Bon-Tone man in Norwich, at Smith's Pharmacy, to tell you more about this great remedy.

CIVIC FEDERATION REPORT SHOWS SUCCESSFUL YEAR

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 9—Annual reports of the Civic federation made available today show that this very practical and helpful organization has gone through another year rendering the same splendid and unselfish service that has characterized its effort since its organization 17 years ago.

In her annual report as secretary, Miss Emma F. Pilling sets forth in detail the work of the federation during the past 12 months and gives interesting statistics. There have been 121 active members and 29 associate members through the year, with an average attendance of only eight at the meetings for carrying on the executive work. Miss Pilling notes that a total of 1314 nursing visits and 291 social service visits proves, as in years past, the value of this phase of work in the community.

The work the past year has followed the same general plan as in years before. One of the most important departments of the work is that in connection with the public schools. The most common defects discovered are those of the eyes, teeth, throat and ears. Four children were sent to the hospital for tonsil operations at the expense of the federation, others at the expense of families of the patients. Supervised dental work has been done and tooth brushes provided. Milk has been furnished to under-nourished children. One child has been sent to the Seaside sanatorium at Niantic.

Miss Dempsey, state supervisor of health in the public schools, after seeing the health work in the schools of the town pronounced it, on the whole, satisfactory, and when compared with some places, a matter of congratulation.

Miss Pilling's report makes mention of various other activities of the federation the past year, including the chest clinic work here of Dr. Hugh Campbell of Norwich, the sale of Christmas seals, supplying nourishing foodstuffs to patients, assisting in providing cheer for inmates of the town farm and the relief work in which hundreds of articles have found their way to those in need in the community.

Miss Pilling praises the public-spirited citizens who for 17 years have so generously supported this branch of community service by voluntary contributions, and to the Quinebaug company, Powdrell and Alexander and the Goodyear mills for their contributions, and also to the many who helped make the annual Tag day a success. She also gratefully acknowledges the use of rooms in the town hall building and the publicity accorded by the press, for the use of the community rooms at the Brooklyn Savings bank and the splendid efficiency of the federation treasurer, Mrs. A. H. Armington, whose 17th annual report is summarized herewith.

Mrs. Armington's report shows a balance of $1,507.91, on hand as of May 31.

During the year $126 was received from active members and $52 from associate members. Patients paid in $290.48, and Tag day produced $480: Killingly high committee for work of district nurse in the public schools for the year ending May 31, $100; Goodyear Cotton mills, $50; Quinebaug company annual contribution, $100, from interest at banks, $61.26; Powdrell and Alexander, $30; rental of Good Samaritan articles, $21.25; Civic federation "special refund", $33; Windham County Transcript, $5; penny collection, $5.74; individuals, $5.25; sale of tooth brushes, $2.95, making a total revenue for the year of $1,592.89.

Expenditures for the year, which was started with a balance of $1,881.83 in the treasury, included the following items: Nurse's salary, $1,200; traveling expenses of nurse, $330; supplies, prescriptions, etc, $36.53; advertising, $2.68; loan to Civic Federation "special", $63; fitting for booths at health station, $7.27; curtain material, 14.05; telephone $6.00; Connecticut Light and Power $6.00, and other minor items to a total of expense of $1,666.11.

In her 11th anual report on the sale of Christmas seals, tuberculosis fund, Mrs. Armington, as treasurer, shows receipts of $468 from the sale of seals and $63 in a loan from the Civic Federation, a total of $521.50, which added to cash on hand May 31, 1929 made a total of $729.50. Expenditures included $43.15 to the Day Kimball hospital for services; $27.41, expense of Christmas sale; $68.25 (15 per cent on sale of seals) to the tuberculosis commission; telephone at health station $32.73; 2246 quarts of milk purchased, $246.26; loan to Civic Federation, $63, a total of $480, and leaving a balance on hand May 31 last of $248.70.

A. J. Cumnock Born Here

A. J. Cumnock, one of the leaders of the textile industry in the United States and president of the Catlin Farish company of New York city, wholesale dry goods merchants, died suddenly at his home there Sunday afternoon of heart disease after returning from a ride in his automobile. He was 62 years old.

Mr. Cumnock was one of that long list of men claiming Danielson as their birthplace who went forth to carve high places for themself in the heights of life.

Mr. Cumnock was born here Feb. 12, 1868, a son of Alexander G. Cumnock, who at that time was agent of the Quinebaug mills. Later the family removed to Lowell, where the elder Mr. Cumnock became head of the famous Appleton mills.

Arthur, the son, attended Lowell high school and entered Harvard university in 1887. At college he not only played on the football teams for four years, to be expertly rated one of the best ends in the country, but was also recognized as a leader both on and off the field. He was captain of the varsity eleven in both his junior and senior years, and in the fall of 1890, he led Harvard to one of its comparatively rare victories over Yale in those days, the team winning 12 to 6. The class of '91 conferred on its football captain the greatest honor in its power by electing him first marshal for Class day.

After graduation Mr. Cumnock went to New York and entered the cotton business, and ever since had made his home there. For years he was president of Catlin and company until at its consolidation in March with the Farish Dry Goods company he became head of the merged firms. At his death he was also president of the American Spinning company, the Catlin Yarn company, a director of the Appleton company and the Appleton Manufacturing company and a trustee of the New York Trust company. His clubs were the Union, Harvard and Merchants.

He leaves a widow and a daughter, Hon. Lionel Forbes-Sempill of England, and three sisters. His wife prior to their marriage at Pittsfield, Mass., in 1894, was Miss Mary Pomroy Cutting, a daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Walter C. Cutting, a distinguished New York family.

Coroner Arthur G. Bill was called to Grosvenordale this afternoon to make his usual formal investigation in the death of Rev. Fr. Landry of Springfield, killed in an automobile accident.

PUTNAM

REV. ADELARD LANDRY KILLED IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 9.—Rev. Father Adelard Landry, 60, pastor of St. Thomas Aquinas Roman Catholic church, of Brightwood, near Springfield, Mass., was instantly killed at 2 o'clock this afternoon when a Packard sedan being driven by him skidded on the concrete highway between the lower village of Grosvenordale and the Tourtellotte Memorial high school. The car in leaving the slippery surface of the state road crashed through a guard rail on the side of the highway, tearing up a strip of fence 50 feet in length, crashing off a wall five feet high and into an open lot below, where it turned over on its side.

Rev. Father Landry was killed when his head was locked between a window half opened, and the ground. He sustained a fracture of the skull and neck, dying almost instantly. The car, other than being smeared with mud, bore no trace of the fatality which it had caused.

One person, who was in the vicinity of the accident, telephoned to the rectory of St. Joseph's church in North Grosvenordale, summoning Rev. Father Leo Lavalle, curate at the church, who hurried to the scene and with hope that a spark of life remained in the seemingly lifeless body of the priest, administered to him the last rites of his faith.

Riding with Rev. Father Landry were his niece, Mrs. Ovilia Audette, of Grosvenordale, her husband and their two children, a boy of 5 years and a baby 3 months old. Mrs. Audette sustained a fracture of the arm as the result of being hurled against the side of the automobile when it turned over on its side. Her husband and the two children escaped with a few minor abrasions of the face and body.

The tragic death of the beloved priest, who as a boy lived in Grosvenordale where he worked in the mills to aid in the support of his mother and to earn money for his priestly training, stunned his relatives and hundreds of friends in the village of North Grosvenordale into sorrowful silence. Father Landry arrived in Grosvenordale this morning for a brief visit with relatives and friends there. He was operating the Packard sedan which he had purchased only a few days ago. With Mr. and Mrs. Audette and their family, as passengers, Father Landry set out in the direction of Putnam. Approaching the slight but hazardous curve in the highway a few hundred feet south of the entrance to the Tourtellotte Memorial high school, the clergyman encountered a car traveling in the opposite direction. Because of the heavy rain and the dangerous condition of the road he apparently turned out to allow sufficient room to pass safely. In doing so Father Landry temporarily lost control of the large car, which darted into the fence when it struck the shoulder of the road. It returned to earth in the field on its four wheels, after hurdling the embankment, turning on its side as the result of the impact. Coroner Arthur G. Bill of Danielson and Medical Examiner Robert C. Paine of Thompson viewed the body and gave permission for its removal to an undertaking establishment in this city. State Officer John T. Murphy of the Danielson barracks investigated.

Rev. Father Landry, who is widely known in the village where he met his sorrowful death, was a schoolmate and intimate friend of Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor of St. Mary's church, this city. Father Landry and Father Bellerose made their studies in theology together at St. Mary's seminary in Baltimore, Md., Father Landry being ordained to the priesthood in December, 1897. Rev. Father Bellerose was ordained by the late Cardinal Gibbons in June of the following year.

Although born in Moosup, the greater part of Rev. Father Landry's early life was spent in Grosvenordale. Being a boy of ordinary circumstances, he spent much of his youth as a textile operator in order to acquire the financial means to follow his holy calling. He attended St. Mary's college in Marieville, Canada, near Montreal, and upon completion of his studies there entered St. Mary's at Baltimore to make his philosophy and theology studies. After his ordination, Rev. Father Landry served as a curate at a number of churches in the Springfield diocese and a number of years ago was assigned to the task of founding a church in the Springfield suburb of Brightwood. This he accomplished and after the completion of the beautiful edifice which stands as a memorial to his name, Father Landry was appointed the first pastor of the parish.

The sorrow into which his many friends hereabouts were plunged this afternoon will be enhanced two-fold when the news of Father Landry's tragic death reaches his aged mother residing in Canada. The visit with relatives in Grosvenordale was the first part of a trip to Canada which Father Landry was making. According to information received from a relative of the dead priest, Father Landry's intentions were to bring his mother to this country to pass the remainder of her life with him. As far as could be learned this afternoon, the little mother living in Canada is the only immediate survivor of Rev. Father Landry.

NORWICH'S POPULATION

According to figures which are furnished by the supervisor of census for this district, Norwich had a population on the first of April of 32,103, a gain of 2,418 for the last ten years. That represents a gain considerably in excess of what was experienced during the previous decade when the census showed an increase of only 1,466, but the present population doesn't show the gain that would have been found had the census been taken a year or two ago. This year Norwich has experienced losses because of the situation in the textile industries.

The figures go to show, nevertheless, that Norwich is pushing ahead, making gains and holding them in spite of recessions which are bound to be experienced through industrial changes. It is shown also that most of the gain that has been made has taken place in the town rather than in the city direct, the answer to this apparently being the desire to avoid the double taxation that is imposed upon city taxpayers. Building has for the greater part taken place just over the city line, in the area of single taxes, where there is opportunity for expanding but where it is possible to secure the benefit of city advantages without experiencing city taxation.

And yet, though all are included within Norwich as a town, the community will fail to get the full benefit of the population figures because of the existing dual form of government which makes it impossible to include Norwich in cities of 25,000 or more. Were it a fact that the lines of the city and town were coextensive, this failure to get the advantage of the full population figures would be eliminated. The one chief reason for the adherence to the dual form of government and the keeping of Norwich out of the country's list of cities of 30,000 or more is due to the tax problem existing here. It is unfortunate for the city that this cannot be removed by the establishment of taxing districts that would equalize this situation and give the city the standing it deserves. The fault rests right here at home. We have the population but we have a line which denies proper rating. Some day that will be changed and the wonder at that time will be that it was ever permitted to remain so long in the present form which creates such an erroneous impression. Norwich as a town and community has persisted in hiding its population under a bushel far too long. In only a very few instances does such situation exist.

REMEMBER THE SALVATION ARMY

For some unknown reason the response that has been made to the annual appeal of the Salvation Army has fallen short of the amount required. With about half of the needed $5,000 received, the effort is being continued in the belief that those who have overlooked the matter or who have not given it due consideration will respond to the situation.

Whether it is because the Salvation Army has not made an intensive campaign with a personal visit to everybody, the goal has not been reached. The expectations are that those who have not been reached will recognize the importance of having a hand in this important work, that those who have planned to do their part but have let it slip their minds will delay no longer and that others who can participate or who can even increase their contributions will rise to the occasion and see that the needed fund is subscribed.

The Salvation Army has been in our midst long enough for all to be appreciative of the kind of work it is doing. It has long since demonstrated how well it can deal with needy cases which it is difficult for others to reach. A community which has the Salvation Army devoting its efforts to better conditions should be desirous of maintaining it on a proper basis, for to do effective work such an organization needs the friendly support and the financial backing of the community it serves.

Knowing the Salvation Army for what it is and what it has done, for the record it has established elsewhere as well as in this city, there cannot fail to be an eagerness to have a hand, though large or small contributions, in the constant, self-sacrificing work that it is doing. The other half of the needed $5,000 ought to be promptly provided.

BROOKHART'S OPPOSITION

When Colonel Hanford MacNider, formerly commander of the American Legion, was named as minister to Canada it wasn't a bit pleasing to Senator Brookhart of Iowa. Colonel MacNider was named because it was believed he had the ability to fill the post in a manner that would reflect credit upon himself and his state, as well as his government. His nomination has been recognized as a good one throughout the country and it has been particularly favored throughout the middle west because he understands the demands of that section relative to the St. Lawrence waterway on which progress is desired.

The reason for the Brookhart opposition is personal. The senator got the idea that party regularity didn't amount to much. He figured that his republicanism was worth proclaiming when he sought office, but as soon as he was elected it could be repudiated. In other words, he considered it valuable only as a stepping stone to office. Because of this he was opposed by Colonel MacNider and at the time of the opposition he was denied the right to take his seat in the senate. He hasn't gotten over that feeling of resentment and it is his purpose to prevent the confirmation of the MacNider nomination if it is possible.

The opportunity is provided for Brookhart to bring all the pressure within his power to bear and under senatorial courtesy it is customary in that body for the wishes of senators to be respected. This is true in many instances when there is no better reason for it than is evidenced in this instance. Because there is no love lost between the two men shouldn't necessarily mean that the country should be deprived of the services of a desirable man for the important post of minister to Canada. Senator Brookhart is simply displaying his narrowness by the attitude he is displaying. He is making the question of fitness depend upon knuckling to the Brookhart ideals. It is possible that he feels that he is expressing the sentiment of Iowa in making a protest against the MacNider appointment, but it will be surprising if the people of that state do not indicate their resentment over such puerile conduct. The fact is that the senate should know Brookhart well enough by this time to understand the situation and deal with it accordingly.

CAROL'S REINSTATEMENT

Because of the way in which he threw away his opportunity, his responsibilities, deserted his family and disregarded the needs of his people, one may well question whether the return of Carol to Rumania and his enthronement will prove any more lasting than his previous renunciation.

There have been times when it has been evident that he was willing, if not actually desirous, of doing just what has been done. Having grown tired of his romantic escapades he appears to have reached a sane decision to settle down, to do what he should have done years ago, to meet his inherited responsibilities. All possible encouragement is given to this right about face on his part by the attitude of the people of Rumania. They have cleared the way for it, shown their willingness to shut their eyes to the past and to expect large things from his leadership. They have let nothing stand in the way of his full restoration to power, quite as if there had been no disgraceful conduct on his part. They seem as anxious for him to come back and as pleased that he is back as he does himself. That, at least, is the impression created by the peasants' party which now controls affairs in Rumania. It remains for him to justify the faith that is being manifested in him by people and family. There doesn't appear to be an outstanding reason for it, but he is being given a chance with the expectation that he will measure up to the requirements and chart his future over a different course than he has his past.

That he has plenty to do as king of Rumania cannot be questioned. What lies before him is probably more or less understood by him. He must measure up to the confidence that is being placed in him, wrestle with the problems before that country and take a hand that will disclose whether he has retained the cleverness of his predecessors or whether he is going to be simply a figurehead who has come back to the throne for the emoluments that go with it or whether he is going to handle the reins in such a manner as to rally his people around him for a long and successful reign. Evidently they are dependent upon a king. Whether Carol can meet the test rests with him. Few get a second chance.

CROSSING PROTECTION

When the national conference of highway and street safety was in session, emphasis was placed upon the need of making grade crossings less deadly.

The idea is not new but it is a capital one. It cannot be expected that locomotives are going to bump automobiles and cause any less havoc in the future than has been the case in the past. Putting bumpers on the locomotives will not do it. Building rubber cushions on the autos will not do it. Making the ground softer around the crossings will not prove very beneficial. Yet the situation is not without hope.

It is possible to provide effective warnings at crossings which need them and it is possible for highway users to look out after themselves. It is in the latter direction that the greatest step in behalf of safer conditions can be expected.

At a crossing in Indiana on Sunday five persons were killed and another badly injured. The report does not state, but it is presumed that it was another one of those instances where little or no attention was given to the possibility of a train approaching. Grade crossing accidents have shown an appreciable decrease thus far this year in comparison with a similar period last year. Some crossings have been eliminated but there are indications that the motoring public is showing greater appreciation of the need of protecting itself. Development in that direction cannot take place too rapidly. It will mean safer conditions for highways in general much faster than the elimination of crossings, which may remove the danger spot but leaves the carelessness among auto drivers undiminished.

With the removal of the worst crossings and the increase in safety efforts by drivers, grade crossing accidents should be kept at a minimum.

EDITORIAL NOTES

No reports have been received of Connecticut people being frost-bitten the past week.

There's a difference between speed and safety, but there are drivers who don't seem to know it.

The man on the corner says: Likes and dislikes are part of the individual and cannot be ignored.

Sending the Muscle Shoals legislation to conference was probably easier than getting a compromise that will satisfy the senate.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, June 9.— Looking over the list of chairmanships and special committee assignments of Senator Bingham, outside his regular membership on senate standing committees, it is interesting to note that, although a first term senator, he outstrips all other senators in the number of specialized offices he holds. This cannot but be regarded as a tribute to his diligence and efficiency as senator from Connecticut.

He is a member of the board of visitors to the Naval academy at Annapolis, chairman of the joint committee of senate and house for the following committees and commissions; aerial coast defense; joint commission on airports; joint commission on insular reorganization; chairman of the American Samoan commission; a member of the Yorktown sesquicentennial commission. Senator Bingham is president of the National Aeronautic association. He is chairman of certain special committees of the District of Columbia having selection of airports.

In addition Senator Bingham holds the following senate standing committee appointments: Chairman of territories and insular affairs, a member of the committees on appropriation, finance, interstate commerce and library, the first four named being the highest major committees of the senate.

It is a remarkable evidence of the confidence in which the senate holds Mr. Bingham, both in ability and as a hard worker.

With a temperature that registered a new high, both as to weather and the temper of members of the senate investigating committee, the spotlight shines bright today on Senators Walsh of Montana, Blaine of Wisconsin and Bishop Cannon of Virginia.

Not dwelling on the why or wherefore, or the merits of the case as a talkie-movie it was unrivaled. The old oil hearings didn't hold a candle to the sensational episodes; it was worth a "Sabba' day's journey" to be on hand when the climax came.

The great room was crowded to suffocation; big electric fans buzzed and hummed overhead; at the long table sat Senators Walsh of Montana and Blaine of Wisconsin, the other members of the committee, Borah, Robinson and Caraway were absent.

Opposite the two senators, just the width of the table between, sat Bishop Cannon, feet extended, crutch standing at his side and his hat and brief case in easy reach. Official stenographers, scores of reporters were nearby; uniformed messengers scuttled in and out.

Thus was the movie staged.

Leaving out the preliminary but stiff skirmish, what you saw was the bishop pick up his crutch, tuck it unused under his arm, grasp his brief case, tuck that under his other arm, pick up his hat, figuratively thumb his ecclesiastical nose at the committee and stride defiantly out of the room. Senators Walsh and Blaine waved frantically for him to come back; he turned his head, his lips moved in determined refusal, he kept his back to the committee and walked to the door.

Reporters tumbled all over themselves in frenzied efforts to get the news on the wire, and interview the principals in this contest. The police at the door tried in vain to restore order, people climbed over the seats in their rush to see what would happen next.

So much for the movie part of the performance.

What you heard as a talkie, were the blazing defiant words of the bishop as he verbally walloped the committee for what he termed persecution. He impunged their motives, denounced their methods, reiterated his insistence that he would not answer their questions. Then you heard Walsh warn him that he must take the consequence of such action, as he was "a witness under oath." You heard the bishop shout back some very uncomplimentary and unparlimentary replies to the astonished senators. You heard him stamp out of the room, you heard loud hisses, still louder boos, mixed with some applause, from the excited men and women who crowded the room. You heard the door slam shut.

The bishop had vanished from sight and hearing, but the two helpless senators were left sitting at the table. Presently Borah strolled in, took his seat at the table, the situation was explained to him. Borah laughed, got up and left the room.

The committee will hold its next meeting Wednesday, June 11th, for no action could be taken when the bishop pulled up stakes, and left the committee in the lurch, as a quorum was not present or obtainable at that moment.

And now everybody wonders, remembering the severe methods adopted by the investigating committee, when dealing with Bingham, Grundy et als, whether that committee has at last met its Waterloo, or whether the bishop will land in jail for contempt, as did Mr. Sinclair.

And until Wednesday, that's that.

Senators, when entering the capitol, quite often take part in the sports of the young pages, who are still of knickerbocker age. They have a few hours of recreation, sometime the boys get it at the lunch hours, which for them is 11:30; sometimes during an executive session, or after the senate adjourns.

But at the opening hour, which is 12 noon, several of the senators, who have not forgotten their own boyhood and how big they felt when a grown man pitched for them, often take five minutes at the bat, in a give and take game with the pages. Or maybe the senator, who loves boys, listens in, or takes part in a rough and tumble debate, or a speech which is a take off of senators.

But when the session opens, the senators resume their senatorial dignity, and the boys strut or race about the senate chamber and corridors, in the capacity of messengers for the senators.

They say Pat Sullivan, senator from Wyoming, likes nothing better than to cast his hat in the ring, by throwing it high in the air, as he steps out the private elevator and finds a grinning little page waiting for him. The page makes a deft catch, the Wyoming senator laughs and disappears through the guarded door of the senate chamber, while the page skips into the cloak room and hangs the hat on its special peg.

Senator Sullivan is long, lank, has bright friendly twinkling eyes, an ever ready smile, and an Irish brouge that is tremendously fetching. He loves children, not only his own but those of his neighbors, friends, and the pages. He doesn't care a hang for senatorial life, and longs to be back to his big house out in Wyoming. He wont accept a nomination to serve another term. No, sir! Not if offered on a gold platter!

It is quite the fashion for diplomats from foreign countries to bring pets from home. For instance, there is a big white wolf hound at the Nicaraguan legation, that will take part in a children's dance soon to be given. The dog belongs to the minister's little daughter Gloria, and bears the name Nicholai.

The part to be played by Nicholai is ring master or perhaps master of ceremonies, for he is to stand in the middle of a ring formed by eight girls of the diplomatic set, and the girls will dance around him. His young mistress guarantees he will not bark, but will play the part with becoming dignity. The dance will be given at the Russian embassy.

And that suggests that dogdom is in its element at the capital just now.

King Tut's death was lamented at the white house, but the presidential kennels are well filled. Pat seems to be the favorite, for it is for Pat that the president asks, after he finishes his strenuous 15-minute exercise each morning, which is his only keep-in-trim-stunt.

All the same there is a vast difference between the prestige that marked the presidential dogs in the Coolidge regime, from that of the Hoover. No one who "made their acquaintance" will ever forget those two beautiful white collies, that had the freedom of the white house, and often literally turned the president out of his favorite chair, by taking forcible possession just as the president was about to sit down. Then the president would smile, the dog smile back—you know they can do that with devotion to their master, gleaming from every white tooth, or the tip of the lolling tongue.—You see the Coolidges made their dogs part of the family household life— the Hoovers make them an incident.

A Washington Bystander

WASHINGTON, June 9—The airplane carrier Saratoga, flagship of the air squadrons of the United States fleet, is in a fair way to lose the fine silver service that graces the admiral's mess room.

It is a handsome room, looking more like a spacious private dining room in an up-to-date hotel than the quarters of the sea-going fighting man.

The silver is set up in imposing fashion in a big glass show case. But that silver has a far more historic background than the ship has yet established. It was donated by the people of Olympia, Wash., to the cruiser Olympia when that gallant veteran slipped from the ways at San Francisco to be the speed queen of the navy in her day.

Presumably it figured in the formal entertainments Commodore George Dewey gave aboard his flagship before and after the battle of Manila bay.

City Wins Point

The people of Olympia doubtless admire the Saratoga and her company, of air and sea fighters. But they see no reason why that silver service which they provided for the naval ship in which they had a special interest should be wallowing about the seas aboard the carrier.

And the house of representatives agrees with them. It has ordered the old fashioned plates and platters loaned to the city for exhibition purposes—until such time as another Olympia shall take the seas to fall heir to it.

Olympia's Fate Uncertain

What is to become of the Olympia herself still is a matter of doubt. An enthusiastic drive to have her moored in the harbor or the tidal basin here in Washington as a permanent memorial was launched when she was ordered stricken from the naval lists. She is now rusting away at the Philadelphia yard.

Should that be done eventually, no doubt the Olympia silver would be restored to its original setting, as the old cruiser would be refitted to look as she did in Spanish war times.

But the government of the District of Columbia has not welcomed the old ship as a permanent resident. Maintenance would entail a substantial expense.

So until some project for making a patriotic shrine out of Dewey's ship is completed, or until a new Olympia is launched, the silverware will go to the city and the air admiral on the Saratoga will have to get along with ordinary table fittings.

SWEETHEARTS AND FLOWERS

As the door of The Finlay Flower shop swung open, the slow, sweet echo of a song drifted in from the cozy radio shop next door.

Elsie Carpenter drew a little sigh of pleasure as she sorted great golden chrysanthemums from the container on the counter. She loved the flower shop—loved the fragrant roses, the elusive perfume of the clustered violets. And most of all she adored the flaunting loveliness of the royal flower of the fall, the chrysanthemum!

Often Elsie dreamed as she packed the flowers; dreamed of a day when perhaps she, too, would receive surprise boxes of lovely offerings. Then she would smile, with a quick lift of the long black lashes which gave such charm to her gray eyes. Who would ever send her expensive flowers?

But she was very contented here among the blossoms, thankful for work that brought her every day to the gay, sweet-scented shop. She enjoyed the music from the radio shop, too. All day long, as the door opened and shut, Elsie heard the snatches of music.

One old-fashioned piece was played over and over: "Hearts and Flowers." She always smiled when she heard it, because it was so different from the swinging rhythm of the modern jazz which poured out from the music shop most of the days.

The young man who had the radio shop was a tall, plain man, perhaps 30 years old. His eyes were the clearest, kindest ones she had ever seen—and he wore the worst looking neckties any one had ever seen!

Often Elsie peeped at him as he stepped lightly in and out of his shop. He seemed to do a good business. The high school crowd evidently liked Mr. Ranny, and they made the shop their headquarters afternoons and evenings.

There was a bond between Elsie and the radio man, for he loved flowers too. He was in the flower shop every few days, choosing blossoms of some kind to put in the green vase which stood on his desk. Whenever he came in Elsie stepped forward to wait on him, choosing the few flowers which he bought with tender care. She did not know that the man's keen eyes took in each deft, loving motion of her hands.

One day she shyly spoke of the sentimental old song that stole into the flower shop.

"I like it," chuckled Mr. Ranny, looking down at her kindly, "it's an antidote for all of the red hot jazz!" Elsie laughed with him as she lifted a perfect yellow chrysanthemum from a box, holding it for a second against her cheek.

"I know, I feel that way about these flowers. They left me right up over the things that worry me and make me forget that it's raining hard tonight!" The man glanced at the cold sleet that drove against the window, then down at the slender girl who stood so bravely in her worn little slippers.

"Where do you generally eat lunch?" he asked in a friendly way.

"Oh, I sometimes bring a sandwich and eat it any time—we're so busy here now."

He watched her wrap the yellow flowers.

"Do you love them as much as I do?" he asked.

"More than any flower in the world," she confessed. "I always like to imagine the girl who gets these long boxes. How happy any one must be to have a dozen of these gorgeous beauties all to herself." Her eyes followed Mr. Ranny as he left the shop. He was very nice looking—if some one could just pick out his neckties for him!

To her surprise, he was waiting for her in the drizzle that night to take her to her boarding house, safe and dry. In the weeks that followed, Elsie saw him often. Business picked up and she stood for longer hours on the cool floors in the warm, moist air of the greenhouses. The love of the flowers grew upon her. Often she longed to take home just one flower for her shabby little room.

One Saturday noon she went home early, feverish and rather miserable with a heavy cold. She reached her room and lay down, glad to rest, but dreadfully lonesome. She dozed, and then awoke to hear a knock on the door. Stumbling through the dusk, she opened the door, staring in wide-eyed amazement at the small boy with a huge box.

She lifted the lid with trembling fingers. Then cried softly in delight. For there, dewy and exquisite, lay a dozen wonderful yellow chrysanthemums and she read on the card, "Hearts and flowers,' signed Jack Ranny, and a few penciled words: "That's the only tune I like—and the flower shop can't bloom without you! May I see you tonight?" Elsie's eyes were wet as she lifted the flowers.—Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Taking Chances

Mr. Editor: As we go back and reflections of early days in New England we see in the vision some things that today appear rather odd, for in those days that are now recalled there were to be noted some men who were rather eccentric and peculiar and in the language of the street we would call them "nuts." Still in their dealings with their neighbors they were able to drive a sharp bargain that brought them in a fortune, for although they were not exactly right, still they had an uncanny faculty of turning whatever they did or touched into gold. Today, due to the increase in the financial ability of the average man, they smoke good cigars or the rather questionable cigarette. There may be some among the older ones who secured great solace and comfort from an old clay pipe that was stamped T. D. This letter deals with the one whose initials were seen on the bowl of this old clay pipe that was the companion of those early men who were the ones to blaze the trail and build the many great works that featured the upbuilding of this country. Many of you old-timers can recall having seen those splendid sons of the Emerald Isle as they worked hard at some of their many jobs and with what supreme pleasure they would puff at their "dhudeen," as they worked and smoked their old clay pipes that had on them the symbol, T. D.

After all this prelude I will try and explain its meaning. This is not altogether original, but a part is from memory that serves me well and some is taken from records to which I have had access. It is all approximately correct. In the year 1747 there was born at Malden, Mass., a son to very poor parents named Dexter and he was given the name of Timothy. You will please note the initials of his name are T. D. That was what was on those old clay pipes. From his early days he was classed as an eccentric and yet everything he ventured into, although laughed at by his friends, was turned into profit. You no doubt have heard the expression "like carrying coals to Newcastle." Well, that is exactly what he did, for he chartered a ship, loaded it with coal and sent it to that particular British entry, just at a time when there was a labor strike. Although he was laughed at, his venture was a success and he made a handsome profit. He even married a rich widow who added to his fortunes and he seemed to have discovered the alchemist's secret and was able to turn base metals into gold.

Perhaps there may be some among you who read this who can recall the warming pans that were in existence in the early days. They were used to warm the beds on the cold winter nights long ago, when we had to sleep in the cold rooms and beds incident to those early days. Now I don't think anyone would send palm leaf fans up into Greenland to keep the natives cool but this eccentric went just the reverse and sent a mixed cargo of warming pans, homeless cats and Bibles into the West Indies, which, as you know, is near the equator. The warming pans were bought by the planters to use in boiling out molasses and the cats came in handy as there was a plague of rats at that particular time and they did their stuff. As there was a revival going on at the time, the Bibles were sold at a big profit. Talk about taking chances and getting away with it. This same individual at one time sent a consignment of woolen mittens into one of the tropical countries and sold them at a profit. They were so splendidly made the master of a tramp steamer touching at that port saw them, bought them, and took them into one of the Norwegian ports and he in turn sold them to the hardy Norsemen. All these ventures were long chances and they seemed to turn the head of Timothy Dexter so much that he had a coat of arms emblazoned on his carriages, and took to himself the name of "Lord" Timothy Dexter, and to cap all this he started a clay modeling works near Nashua, N. H., where he made an excellent brand of clay pipes and with the understanding that they be stamped with his initials, T. D. That is the origin of the pipes stamped T. D. This may sound like a Baron Munchausen tale, but it is true, for facts are facts and I don't mean maybe.

Stories That Recall Others

Yes, He'd Help

Two women perhaps 50 years old were seen standing on a downtown street apparently bewildered. Close to them was parked an auto of a year or two ago, but bearing no signs of hard usage. Seeing them looking this way and that, a man stopped to inquire whether he could help them.

"Yes," replied the less timid of the two, "if you will please drive our car away from the curb it will help."

See-sawing back and forth in a space of no more than six inches to the front and rear of the car the man finally pulled out of the space and turned the car over to the woman. How they got in there was not explained.

Not Eligible

Little Jane was the youngest of a family of several girls and she'd been brought up on feminine chatter of "he said," "he did," and she had been flower girl at the wedding of two of her sisters. She started to school and the whole family was interested in questioning her about various school matters.

"Do you love your teacher, honey?" one of the girls asked her.

"Oh, no, Betty," answered the little girl with an amused smile. "She's not a man."

Who Will Take Their Places?

LONDON—Most of the present day literary giants of England are beginning to crowd the normal span of life pretty hard, and the ever pessimistic critics are wondering whether the new generation will produce any writers big enough to fill the gap. The prognostications of the experts frequently are in the negative; the writing game is going to pot.

Sir Hall Caine has celebrated his seventy-seventh birthday; the inimitable Bernard Shaw will be 74 soon; Rudyard Kipling is 64; Conan Doyle is 71; Anthony Hope is 67; John Galsworthy is 63; H. G. Wells is 63, and Arnold Bennett at 62 is one of the youngest of the lot.

One doesn't mean to suggest that these gentlemen have finished their labors—far from it. But the intimation is that they are not so young as they used to be, and that before long they perhaps will feel like putting aside their pens.

Who will take their places? I am reminded of a talk I heard Conan Doyle give at a private dinner several years ago. The creator of Sherlock Holmes was reminiscent that night and was speaking of the literary world of a generation before.

Critics Worried

At that time, as now, the critics were bemoaning the fact that all the distinguished writers were passing; there never would be worthy successors; the day of Dickens was gone.

Conan Doyle then was a struggling young doctor, so poor he had to iron his own silk hat, badge of his professional dignity. And it was while he sat in his little back office, waiting for the patients who did not come, that he conceived the character of Sherlock Holmes, and began writing his immortal stories.

It is a long time since I heard Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's description of those days, and I took no notes, but his words stick so in my mind that I venture to try to quote them as he spoke:

"Well, just down the street from my office, there was a young fellow who was selling cloth across the counter of a draper's shop. His name was H. G. Wells.

Shaw A Reporter

"A fiery young Irishman had just come to London and was starting out as a newspaper reporter in Fleet street. His name was George Bernard Shaw.

"And another youth was just beginning to try his fortune. His name was William J. Locke. (Locke died at the age of 67, as this article was being written.)

"From India there had just come a young man who had been writing verses, but who was unknown to the general public. His name was Rudyard Kipling.

"And a middle aged man had written a novel, which was attracting attention. His name was Thomas Hardy. (The famous Hardy since died at an advanced age.)

"There they were, the new crop of writers coming on. And today we need not worry. So long as the soil is there, the new crop will spring up."

YOUR HEALTH

The Relation of Clothes to Health

By J. W. HARVEY, M. D.
Bayonne, New Jersey.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Why do we wear clothes? Probably the most usual response would be "to keep warm". This is logical from one living in the cold zones but less logical from one living in the torrid zones. Certainly there are many other factors which enter into this considertion. Human vanity and the dictates of convention must be satisfied. Also it must be remembered that we are creatures of habit.

Let us lay aside for a moment the social and psychological aspects of the problem and consider, from the standpoint of health, the question of why we should wear clothes. We do so primarily to conserve body energy which is largely dependent upon (1) the maintenance of body heat (2) proper ventilation of the body. These two factors are vitally interdependent. Clothing of the body is essential in the cold climates to protect from undue exposure to the rigors of the elements while in the tropics protection is needed from the burning rays of the sun. Mention hardly need be made of the importance of food intake, bathing habits, exercise, and rest in the conservation of body energy.

The vital organs of man are contained within the chest and abdomen. It is very important that we pay sufficient attention to the maintenance of body heat within these parts. It therefore follows that our chief concern should be to provide proper clothing for these parts and secondarily to consider proper clothing for the extremities. It a common fallacy in the cold climates to wear clothes especially undergarments, of heavy weight and closely woven material. It is common knowledge that the warmth of a house is governed largely by the "dead air" spaces within its walls. The same principle applies to clothing. The weave should be relatively loose and the garment sufficiently thick to permit of minute "dead air" spaces throughout the fabric. These spaces should not be sealed by impervious outer coverings but rather should permit of a slow but constant interchange of air to and from the body. Sweating and consequent chilling of the body in cold weather oftentimes is due to clothing too heavy in weight and too closely woven in texture.

The living body generates poisons within its structures which are eliminated through four important channels, the bowels, lungs, kidneys, and the skin. Any practice which retards the elimination of moisture from the skin throws a greater burden on the other organs of elimination and may result in serious disturbance of the health. It is therefore very important that we exercise good judgement in the selection of clothes to permit of maximum elimination and evaporation from the skin.

YELLOW FEVER SURVIVORS' BLOOD FOUND LIFE SAVER

JACKSON, Miss.—(AP)—Blood taken from Mississippians who contracted and survived yellow fever in an epedimic 30 years ago saved the lives of monkeys recently inoculated with yellow fever virus, says Dr. Mark F. Boyd of the Mississippi board of health.

One attack of yellow fever generally is conceded to confer immunity, Dr. Boyd said.

WEDDINGS.

McEnany—Disco

The marriage of Miss Florence Cecelia Disco, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson C. Disco, and Wilber Howard McEnany, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McEnany, of Terryville, was solemnized at St. Patrick's church at 8 o'clock Monday morning, the ceremony being performed by Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May. Spreading palms and cut flowers made the beautiful floral decorations at the altar and the music was in charge of Henry J. La Fontaine, the church organist, with Mrs. D. L. Bailey as soloist, who rendered Maillard's Ave Maria.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, had as her maid of honor, a sister, Miss Cora Mae Disco, and as bridesmaids, the Misses Violet Disco and Irene McEnany. The groom was attended by Walter Pelcher and Clarence and William H. Disco officiated as ushers.

The bride, who was charming in a gown of white satin, princess style, wore a veil of chantilly lace, caught with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore a gown of gold lace with hat to match and carried yellow roses and carnations. Miss Violet Disco's dress was of pink chiffon and Miss McEnany was clad in aquaton georgette. Both wore hats corresponding with their gowns and carried arm bouquets of pink roses and carnations.

Following the church ceremony a wedding breakfast and reception were held at the home of the bride's parents and later in the day Mr. and Mrs. McEnany left on an unannounced wedding trip. As a going away costume Mrs. McEnany wore a navy blue ensemble with tailored hat.

After July 1 the happy couple will be at home in a newly furnished apartment at 234 Ashley street, Hartford. Mr. McEnany is at present managing the Liggett drug store on Asylum street, Hartford, and formerly was assistant in the Norwich Liggett store. He is a graduate of Terryville high school and of Valparaiso university, Indiana, having received a P.H.G. degree there.

The bride, who is very popular here, especially among the younger set, attended St. Patrick's parochial school and the Academy of the Holy Family, Baltic.

Y. The wedding cake was one of the largest ever seen in this city and had been made by the bridegroom himself. It was in a dozen layers with a miniature bride and groom under a wedding bell and the words "Good Luck".

The bride has been employed in New York as a stenographer and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Goldman of Hanover. The bridegroom is the proprietor of Meyer's bakery on the West Side. The newly married couple are to reside at 39 Fairmount street after a wedding trip of several weeks, during which they will visit Bermuda.

SALVATION ARMY MAN SPEAKS TO CONTACT CLUB

In the absence of President Ernest O. Rodier, Abner Schwartz presided at the weekly meeting of The Contact club Monday noon at the Wauregan hotel. Laurence E. Millea was the song leader and Frederick Geer presided at the piano. Max Hanover introduced R. D. Butler, who is in charge of the Salvation Army drive for funds. Mr. Butler spoke of the value of the Salvation Army to a community.

Mr. Butler told of a case of a community in which there were about 15 criminals who terrorized the citizens by their criminal acts, entailing a lot of costs of court expense, prison service, besides damage done, let alone the loss of their labor to the community in which they lived. The Salvation Army took upon themselves to reclaim the character of these bad men and in few years of very strenuous work of patience perserverence and kindness, they have succeeded to bring these men back to good citizenship and make them an asset to the community. Mr. Butler said that in accordance with computation of court and prison records, also the value of the earnings of these men, the Salvation Army by its effort of reclamation has saved the community about a million dollars in money. Mr. Butler said that we have in Norwich one man wearing the Salvation Army uniform who has been turned away from evil ways and instead of being a danger to the community is now a valuable citizen and a good producer.

Mr. Butler stressed the great need of the local Salvation Army corps and urged the members to cooperate in raising the necessary $5,000.

F. H. Boarman of the Atlantic Carton Corp., addressed the meeting on folding boxes. He told of the various stages of operation in completing the boxes, beginning with the dyes, cutting, creasing, glueing, printing and a number of other operations until the box is ready for delivery. The operations explained by Mr. Boarman are all done by great precision and with automatic machines, which are greatly interesting. Mr. Boarman displayed a number of such boxes and stressed the advertising medium of such boxes when complete, making very attractive boxes for delivery. Quite a deal of the paper board used in the manufacture of boxes in the Atlantic Carton Co comes from Norwich paper mills, said Mr. Boarman.

ANNUAL CITY MEETING LAYS TAX OF 14 MILLS, TURNING DOWN EXTRAS

A tax of 14 mills was laid by the annual city meeting Monday evening in the town hall. The 600 voters present voted all of the regular items in the list of estimates, without change, but disapproved of several of the so called "extras." Among the items disapproved was one for $30,000 for the improvement of Asylum street, a $3,285 appropriation to provide for vacations for the firemen and appropriations for the payment of the so-called Mae Richmond note, Fairview reservoir bonds due next April and the courthouse bonds, also due next April. An effort to secure the passage of an appropriation for the Asylum street improvement, by cutting it to $20,000 went for naught, as did also an effort to secure an appropriation of $5,000 to provide for some improvement of the street. The consensus of the meeting was that the street should be improved out of the funds of the public works department. The meeting did not register against vacations for the firemen but the prevailing opinion was that their vacations should be taken care of through the regular appropriation granted the fire department, as has been the case in years past. It was also decided that the city should continue paying interest on the Mae Richmond note, rather than pay up the note at the present time. The official action taken was that the note should be "refunded." Similar action was taken in the case of the Fairview reservoir bonds and the court house bonds.

The meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock, d. s. t., by Mayor Lee Roy Robbins and the warning was read by City Clerk Weston C. Pullen. Street Lighting Costs Go Up

The item approved for street lighting $1,500 more this year than last year. Mayor Robbins said the increase was due to two reasons. One reason is that during past years the council, through the police committee, has granted a number of petitions for street lights. This has resulted in increased cost of street lighting. The second reason is that there is a demand for the keeping of the "white way" lighted until 11 o'clock at night, whereas it is now shut off at 10 o'clock. The Franklin street "white way" has been only lighted on Saturday evenings.

Street Improvements Voted

It took the meeting just about a half hour to vote the regular appropriations. Then the 13 "extras" were taken up. The first was $1,500 for the Bath street curb cut off. Mayor Robbins explained the appropriation by stating that the plan is to cut back the curb where the street is narrow, then raise the gutters where they are low and to lower the crown of the street where it is high, thus putting the street on a level with Franklin street. H. M. Lerou, president of the Norwich Taxpayers association, moved that the item be approved and it was so voted.

Extra 2 was $4,500 for the improvement of Church street. Mayor Robbins explained that the traffic problem is tremendous. Church street is a fairly wide street but the gutters are so low that vehicles do not turn into the gutters. The purpose of the appropriation is to raise the gutters and to reduce the crown of the road, where necessary, in order to increase the available space for travel. The mayor stated that the improvement will pave the way to make Church street a two way street. It is at present a one-way street. The item was voted.

The third "extra" was $3,000 for the Broad street cut off. The mayor stated that at the top of Grove street there is a high bank and a high wall, which obscures the view of Broad street. The property owners are willing to give the city all the land needed for the improvement and all they ask is that their stone wall and front steps be put in as good condition as they are now. The item was voted.

Yantic Street Item Disapproved

The meeting then voted down a $3,000 item for the improvement of Yantic street. Mayor Robbins explained that the Falls Mill Co., had recently demolished some of its houses and that this left the offset wall unprotected. The Falls company called on the city to erect a fence there. There was an opportunity seen to widen the street at that point, the mayor said. He explained that the Falls Co., was willing to deed the necessary land for the improvement, but that before the improvement could be made it would be necessary to do considerable filling. The appropriation was for the purpose of paying for this filling. On motion of Mr. Lerou the item was disapproved.

Controversy Over Asylum Street

There then developed a controversy over a $30,000 appropriation for the improvement of Asylum street from Starr street to Newton street. As soon as the item was called George Gifford, president of the West End Community association, and Mr. Lerou both arose. The mayor recognized Mr. Gifford, who had the floor first, and who moved that the $30,000 be cut to $20,000.

Mr. Gifford said that for a number of years the residents there have petitioned to have the street improved but that the appropriations had been voted down at the city meetings. He characterized the street as a disgrace. There have been comments about the street in the newspapers, he said, and added that 90 per cent of the people who made the comments didn't know where the street is. Mr. Gifford felt that every person in the hall should vote for the appropriation.

Herbert Willey said he lived on Asylum street and that he doesn't consider it a disgrace to the city. We have a macadam road, he said, and all it needs is rolling down and oiling. He said he was not in favor of the appropriation.

Mr. Lerou said that it is true Asylum street is not in very good condition. In going over the items in the list with the mayor several days ago, Mr. Lerou said the question came up as to putting it in as good condition as Hickory street. The mayor, Mr. Lerou said, suggested that this could be taken care of out of the public works department funds. Mr. Lerou said he disapproved of the appropriation, as did the taxpayers' association which he represented.

G. Warren Davis said that last year there came up an item for $32,000 for the improvement of Hamilton avenue. You were generous, he said, and voted us $5,000, which has given us a fine piece of macadam road. Mr. Davis expressed the opinion that Asylum street could be put in good condition for much less than $30,000.

A resident of the West Side section moved an amendment calling for $5,000 to improve the street from Newton street to Grant court. Mr. Lerou said he was still of the opinion that the work should be carried out from the general expense account of the public works department, if possible. Leave it with the street commissioner and the public works board, he said. A $5,000 appropriation means an additional tax.

Mr. Lerou's remarks were greeted with applause.

I don't consider Asylum street any disgrace, said Daniel T. Shea. He went on to say that Norwich is in no condition today, with a $4,000,000 debt, people out of work and property owners borrowing money to pay their taxes, to spend one dollar on any unnecessary expense.

The amendment was decisively voted down after which the original motion was also decisively voted down.

Against $3,285 for Firemen's Vacations

Next before the meeting was an item of $3,825 to provide for vacations for the firemen.

Howard L. Stanton, former chief of the fire department, said that the firemen have had vacations for 28 years and there is no reason why they shouldn't have vacations this year. He said that never before has such an appropriation come before a city meeting, as a special appropriation. If the fire commissioners will order the chief to give the firemen vacations they will have them, Mr. Stanton said.

Mr. Lerou moved that the item be disapproved. He said he was in favor of the firemen having vacations, but, that when the two platoon system was put into effect they said they could do it without extra cost. We want to hold them to it, he said. Mr. Lerou said that this appropriation was a loophole to provide for two more men this year and for two new men next year. The item was disapproved.

Sewers and Catch Basin

On motions made by Mr. Lerou an appropriation of $2,000 for a sewer in Avery street, and $800 for a sewer in Elizabeth street were voted.

The next item was $1,000 for a catch basin in Palmer street. Corporation Counsel Edmund W. Perkins stated that the appropriation had been put in the list before the work had been figured Since it had been found that $750 will do the work, he said, and introduced a resolution appropriating that amount. The resolution was adopted, after which the $1,000 item was disapproved.

Christmas Lighting by Department

There was also an item in the "extras" of $1,000 for "Christmas lighting," the string of colored electric lights about the main streets of the city at the Christmas season. Corporation Counsel Perkins stated that since the item had been placed in the list the attention of the finance committee had been called to the fact that the gas and electric department can do that work at a cost of $1,000 to be taken out of their earnings. He introduced a resolution authorizing the gas and electric department to appropriate $1,000 out of their earnings for that work. The resolution was adopted, after which the original item in the list of "extras" was disapproved.

Refunding Obligations

The 11th item in the list called for $14,500 to pay off the Mae Richmond note of Nov. 8, 1921. Mr. Perkins said that this item, along with $65,000 to pay the Fairview reservoir bonds, due April 2, 1931, and $143,000 to pay the courthouse bonds, also due April 2, 1931, were put in the list to call attention of the voters to the need of meeting these obligations which are coming due. The Richmond note is a demand note and if voted would mean a half-mill tax. Mr. Perkins said the administration has taken steps to secure authorization for the issuance of bonds next spring to meet the payment of the reservoir and courthouse bonds. Mayor Robbins called attention to the fact that the city has already paid in interest practically the face of the Mae Richmond note and that the city still owes the note.

Henry F. Powers moved that the note be paid up.

D. T. Shea said he was not in favor of paying the note now. I think this year has been the worst year in 40 years, he said, in offering an amendment to refund the note.

Suppose the note is called, asked Mr. Powers. I understand it is a demand note. I don't see why you wouldn't have to pay it if it were called.

Mayor Robbins called attention to the fact that there are now $425,000 in notes, owed by the city similar to this note.

From what the gentleman on my left (Mr. Powers) said, I judge he thinks that Mae Richmond holds that note, said Edwin W. Higgins. She doesn't. Miss Richmond isn't the payee of it. Mr. Higgins explained that the note arose by reason of a law suit against the city by which Miss Richmond was awarded $25,000. Through a compromise this was cut down to $14,500, Mr. Higgins said, he thought the note ought to be paid.

Edward Kirby said it was too bad to separate that note from the rest of the notes. He said he didn't see why that note should be paid ahead of the others.

Mayor Robbins informed Mr. Kirby that the Richmond note was older than the other notes.

Mr. Kirby said: Let us go out of this hall tonight under a 15-mill tax. I hope you will put that note in with the rest of them.

Mr. Perkins stated that if the meeting voted to pay the note the tax would be 14 3-10 mills.

The meeting voted to refund the note. There was some confusion on the part of the audience as to just what motion they were voting on but the matter was finally straightened out, the meeting voting, in effect, to continue paying interest on the note.

Kindly explain, Mr. Mayor, how you are going to refund a demand note? asked Mr. Higgins. Mr. Higgins' question caused considerable merriment in the audience. Mayor Robbins, in answer, said it would be difficult to refund a demand note.

Who holds the note? asked Mr. Powers.

The Norwich Savings society, answered the mayor. The mayor went on to explain that the city had borrowed the money to pay the obligation due Miss Richmond.

On motion of Mr. Lerou it was voted to refund the Fairview bond obligation of $65,000 due next April and on motion of Mr. Perkins the meeting voted to refund the $143,000 in courthouse bonds due next April. Mr. Perkins introduced a resolution authorizing the court of common council to make the appropriations voted at the meeting and the resolution was adopted. Other resolutions introduced by Mr. Perkins and adopted were: Approving tax abatements of $2,455.24; authorizing the gas and electric department to borrow, as necessary, money voted them, in anticipation of their receipts; authorizing the temporary borrowing by the city, as necessary, in anticipation of the city tax collections, of a sum not to exceed $215,000; fixing the city tax at 14 mills; fixing the tax collector's commission at 1 per cent of the tax collected. The meeting adjourned at 9:25 o'clock.

THREE SIX-ROUNDERS ON SHYMA CARD LOOK LIKE REAL BATTLES

That all the interest in the card that the Shyma boxing club is putting on Wednesday night at Martin field is not in the main bout between Lou Brouillard and Joe Emmons is evidenced in the fact that a large number of requests for tickets are coming in from Westerly and Worcester accompanied by inquiries regarding the Joe Preston-Joe Russo semi-final. Worcester fans are asking how good is Russo and the Westerly fans are asking the same regarding Preston.

Without a doubt this bout between Joe Preston of Worcester and Joe Russo of Westerly is going to be one sweet little battle. Russo who has fought in Norwich on several occasions is known to be a hard-hitting, free-swinging battler who packs plenty of potency in either hand. Preston, although never appearing in Norwich has fought on other cards in this part of the state and has impressed the fans with his aggressiveness. Preston is more of a boxer than Russo but nevertheless is dangerous at all times for he can also hit plenty hard. That this bout will not go the six rounds is the general opinion of those who follow the ring.

Another bout that has come in for plenty of speculation is the Lavigne-Granado bout, another six-rounder. Lavigne is well known in the eastern part of Connecticut as a clever youngster who hits hard and clean. Grenada, who hails from Tampa, Fla., has been mowing down the opposition in Hartford and New Haven without trouble during the past few weeks. All his bouts in Connecticut have ended in knockouts, he having put away Nick Cristo at Hartford and kayoing another opponent at New Haven the other night.

The Ted Blanc-Julio Rossi six rounder takes its place right alongside of the other two for action. These boys fought on the last card and fought hard and well with honors being even. Blanc was sadly disappointed at not winning an dis confident that he can win over Rossi. In fact, he is so sure he can take the Westerly lad that he said that he was willing to fight on a winner-take-all basis and was disappointed that such an arrangement could not be held in this state.

Curious to know where King Grabb of Westerly acquired his picturesque fighting name, inquiries in the Rhode Island city reveal that he comes by it honestly. Many were afraid that the "Grabb" part of it referred to his style of fighting. It seems that Grabb's father is the tomato king of Rhode Island and that the pride and joy of the tomato plantation does his training in the wide open spaces corralling the luscious fruit or whatever classification tomatoes come under. The "king" part of his ring name is a tribute to his dad and the "grabb" part is a shorting of the name Gabriel. Bernie Corcoran is warned not to mention anything about tomatoes to the "King" when he gets in the ring or King Grabb is liable to make catsup of him.

It has been announced by the management of the show that the price of admission to women and children has been cut to 75 cents instead of charging the full price. With weather conditions favorable it is expected that the Martin stadium will be packed to capacity for this show.

GUNSHINAN BREAKS COURSE RECORD AT WILLIMANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 9—Barney Gunshinan, professional at the Willimantic Country club, smashed the club record Sunday afternoon when he shot a 68, two below the course par of 70. In spectacular playing during a match in which he and Dow Ahern, promising local amateur, were pitted against Massie Miller, Norwich club pro and Noble Miller of the new Norwich Inn, Barney went out in 36 and came in in 32. He scored a total of five birdies, one on the second hole and one each on holes 10, 11, 13 and 14. Barney and Dow Ahern's best ball was 64. Ahern shot a 36 and 38, total of 74. Massie Miller went out and returned in 36 each, total 72 while Noble Miller scored a 36 and 40, total 76. All went out in 36. The match was considered one of the best ever witnessed in the course and the playing served to arouse renewed interest in the scheduled match during the annual club lawn fete next Wednesday afternoon. On that day the two pros, Barney Gunshinan and Massie Miller will meet Dow Ahern of this city and Bobbie Grant of Hartford, a pair of stellar amateurs. This match is slated to follow an open guest-tournament to be played off earlier in the afternoon of the lawn festival.

BARBA CUTS SCHMELING'S LIP IN WORKOUT

ENDICOTT, N. Y., June 9—(AP)—With one more day of boxing left on the training camp schedule, Max Schmeling fought six fast rounds with his sparring partners today but suffered his first training accident. Lou Barba hit Max in the mouth with a hard right and drew a tiny trickle of blood. The cut was stitched.

Schmeling moved swiftly and punched hard in two rounds with Charlie Belanger, Canadian light heavyweight champion, and brought the speed boy of the camp to a standstill before the workout was over with rights to the chin. Max belted Barba justily for two rounds and laced Jack Shaw for two more.

MRS. BUCKNELL LEADS FIELD IN CONN. WOMEN'S GOLF

WATERBURY, June 9—(AP)—Mrs. Thomas Bucknell of the Woodway club, Stamford, playing over the difficult Country club course of Waterbury for the first time drove along the 18 hole route in a steady rain to lead more than 80 entrants in the qualifying round of the 13th annual tournament of the Connecticut Women's Golf association here today.

The defending champion from the southern Connecticut city carded an 88, one stroke better than Mrs. Hazel F. Martelle of Hartford. Miss Alice Warner of Greenwich was third with a card of 90. Only nine of the entrants broke 100 as rain raised havoc with the playing of the contestants. Sixteen of the starters showed no cards for the medal play, and 12 entrants withdrew from competition due to the weather.

The chief upset of the day was the failure of Mrs. Roderick Pirnie of Long Meadow, former champion, to place in the championship division. Mrs. Pirnie tied with Mrs. Charles Porter of New Haven and Miss Bertha Chamberlain of Shuttle Meadow for sixteenth position, the trio showing cards of 103. In the playoff Mrs. Chamberlain won the hole with a four sinking a sensational 27 foot putt, earning the right to play for the crown.

Mrs. Thomas Bucknall, the medalist, won first low gross prize with 88. Mrs. Hazel Martell took second honors with 89. Miss Alice Welton, Mattatuck Country club champion of Waterbury won the low net award with a card of 104-24-80.

N. Y. GIRLS ASK FOR WOMAN TO UMPIRE

Manager John Murphy of the J. B. Martin baseball team has just received a peculiar request from Evelyn Church, the captain of the New York Girls baseball club who are to play the Martin team on next Thursday evening. Miss Church asks that some woman baseball fan of Norwich act as the umpire on this occasion. She does not fear any male ump, but as she puts it, all over the country today one will find women holding down the biggest and most responsible positions, such as lawyers, doctors, politicians, etc. She feels the New York Girls are not asking anything unreasonable in their request. Murphy agrees with her and so he has decided to get a local woman if he can find one with sufficient courage to officiate.

FOUR TEAMS ENTERED IN JUNIOR LEAGUE

At a meeting held at the Duwell club Monday evening, with representatives from the Elks, Rotary club, Italian Young Men's club, and the Duwells in attendance, plans were discussed toward the formation of this year's Junior Twilight league.

The local athletic association which has sponsored the league in the past two years has again agreed to act in this capacity and with much interest shown on the part of the above mentioned organizations, another successful league for the youngsters seems assured.

While nothing definite was decided due to the fact that only four of the six teams which are expected to make up the league were represented, several matters pertaining to the league were discussed by those present. It was decided to try to start the schedule the first week in July to run for about eight weeks winding up just before Labor day. All games would be played at the Duwell field on the East Side. The same age limit as last year, namely that a player must not be 18 years old before Jan. 1, 1931, met with the approval of the meeting.

While only four teams were officially represented at last night's meeting, those in attendance felt confident of securing two more teams to complete a six-team circuit. The Y. M. C. A. have made known their intentions of entering a team while it has also been rumored that the Knights of Columbus may sponsor a nine.

Another meeting is to be held next Monday, June 16th, when it is expected that some definite plans and rules for this year's league shall be formulate.

PREPARING FOR THE FISHING TRIP

Bright and early the following morning he was to leave for the north woods for a week's fishing trip. The pre-trip preparations were in full swing; the living room was congested by duffle of all sorts; the house looked as though it had been struck by a cyclone and he stood in the middle of the room checking over to see that nothing was missing. His wife leaned against the door, the picture of fatigue, she having had to dig out most of the fishing tackle and other camp necessities from the attic. The hour was very late and at the best he was only going to get an hour or two of sleep before leaving.

Everything seemed to be there, in fact, it would seem as though there was enough camping equipment to take care of a regiment of fishermen. He was making mental note of the equipment: "There's my rubber boots, my two fish poles, the bamboo and the steel, my high waterproof shoes, my blankets, my tackle box, my flashlight, landing net, slicker, wood socks, flannelette pajamas, sweaters, lumber jacket, felt hat, rain hat, first aid kit, razor, tooth brush, shaving soap and tooth paste, cold cream for sunburn, citronella for mosquitoes, waterproof matchbox, creel, underwear, light and heavy, bait box, etc."

He checked the list a second time. Yes, everything seemed to be there, but was it? There was a vague feeling that something was missing but he couldn't quite tell what it was. His wife noticing the puzzled expression on his face asked "What is it, Honey, haven't I got everything for you that you need? I don't see what else you want. I tried to get everything you told me and I've checked it over several times."

"Yes, I guess it's all there. Let's go to bed," he said wearily.

The tired fisherman, with his more tired wife, retired to dream of the sweet scented woods, the whirring reel, the bending pole, the flash of silver as the big one broke water and then the landing of the prize. It was a beautiful dream and the smile of contentment was on his face. Tomorrow he would be on his way.

Came the dawn. The strident notes of the alarm clock jarred him to wakefulness. Rubbing the sleep from his eyes he dashed into the cold shower to revive his spirits. As he stood under the shower the thought that he had forgotten something still persisted in invading his mind. He, could not think of a single thing that was missing. Breakfast over, the others arrived in the car. The duffle was packed away, the wife kissed and he was on his way.

As is customary, the members of the party stared to talk of what a nice time they would have, the fish they would catch and of the spots where fish could be caught. Then one, as an after thought, said, "And that's not all, remember we are only two miles from the Canadian border."

Our hero, if we may call him that, sat up as though he had been shot. A look of utter disgust overspread his countenance and he mumbled to himself, "Oh, my Gosh, now I know what it was!" His friends thinking something terrible had happened inquired solicitously what was what.

"I forgot to bring those two pints of pre-war stuff I had hid for this trip," dolefully replied the man.

"Oh, my Gosh," chorused his friends with tears in their voices.

HARVARD CREWS HAVE THREE MILE WORKOUT

RED TOP, June 9—(AP)—Coach Whiteside sent his Harvard varsity crews down the Thames for about three miles this afternoon in a light drizzle. On the return he ordered the stroke put up to a high beat.

Franz Colloredo-Mansfeld, varsity stroke who has been out with an attack of boils, took Stanley Suam's place at number 2 in the first eight today. The latter went to the same position in the Jayvee shell.

The freshmen and combination crews rowed downstream for three miles and over the two mile course coming back.

This afternoon newspaper photographers invaded camp to take pictures of the men training for the Yale races. Rough water delayed the morning workouts.

YALE VARSITY HAS ONLY LIGHT EIGHT-MILE PADDLE

GALES FERRY, Conn., June 9—(AP)—Yale's varsity boats, training here for the Harvard races, paddled almost down to the railroad bridge and back late today in a drizzling rain. The stroke was kept at about 22.

The combination crew paddled about three miles downstream, putting up the stroke on the return. Goodale, No. 4, was called to New Haven because of sickness in his family, and his place was taken by Joe Blagden.

A seven mile row upstream was the lot of the freshmen who raised the beat to racing speed in the home stretch.

The morning practice was light for all crews. Newspaper photographers visited camp before the oarsmen went out for a two mile paddle.

ACADEMY CLOSES SEASON SATURDAY WITH NAUGATUCK

The Academy's baseball season, and in fact all Wildcat athletic activities for the year, will be brought to a close Saturday with the game with Naugatuck high at the campus. It will be a chance for the locals to gain their 15th victory in their twentieth game.

Examinations are being held this week but in between times, the squad will get some practice. Coach Brigham and the team are anxious to beat Naugatuck as they were one of the two high school teams to win from them last year. Naugy, however, has a strong team and only Saturday put it onto New Britain, conqueror of the Academy, by a score of 10 to 5.

OVER $40,000 IN TICKETS SOLD FOR SCHMELING-SHARKEY BOUT MONDAY

NEW YORK, June 9—(AP)—The ardor of the faithful, undimmed by the consistent mediocrity of recent heavyweight exhibitions, stood the final test of a cheerless and steady rain today to rally round the box offices of Madison Square Garden.

The coffers of the milk fund were swelled by some $40,000 during the day as growing interest lined up the vanguard of the last minute customers in a steady parade to purchase tickets for Jack Sharkey's 15 round title joust with Max Schmeling in the Yankee Stadium Thursday night. With $90,000 taken in in cash on Friday and Saturday the promoters jubilantly announced that the big show is certain to draw a gross gate of over $700,000. The prices are $2, $5, $10, and $25 plus tax.

The fighters themselves, putting in their final training licks, will shut up shop tomorrow, rest Wednesday, and slip into town Thursday morning in time for the weighing in at 2 p. m.

Sharkey will motor to the city from Orangeburg, N. Y., Wednesday and Schmelling will come down from Endicott by train, arriving Wednesday evening. The German heavyweight today abandoned his plan of flying to New York Thursday morning because of threatening weather.

While a small army of carpenters and architects worked in the rain at the stadium to fit the ball park for the crowd of 70,000, Schmeling's handlers prepared for a last ditch fight at the meeting of the New York state athletic commission tomorrow to restore Joe Jacobs to temporary grace. The solemn fathers have refused so far to determine the standing of the Teuton's manager of choice who has been suspended here for some time. Indications were that the commission would grant Jacobs a temporary license in time for him to enter Schmeling's corner.

The Garden has decided upon the National Broadcasting company as the air medium for transmitting the action to the stay at homes. One of the largest national hookups in fight history is expected, however. Graham McNamee will broadcast.

So far there have been no arguments over the choice of a referee, both camps abiding without protest to the commission's ruling that an unknown will be tapped for duty just before the battle begins. Lou Magnolia, who handled the bewildering struggle of Sharkey and Phil Scott in Miami last February as well as most of the previous important heavyweight matches here, appears definitely ruled out of consideration.

The betting odds held firm at 8 to 5 in Sharkey's favor with the odds 1 to 3 against his scoring a knockout and 1 to 7 against Schmeling finishing his man before the 15 rounds are over. With most of the opinions definitely set among the critics, the ballyhoo turned into old but always refreshing channels with the discovery that the Teuton challenger has been training mornings in secret in the old barn on the estate where he has been living at Endicott.

The critics who already have picked Sharkey insist, however, that Max was caught with a putter in his hands instead of boxing gloves.

SHARKEY OPENS UP ON SPARRING MATES

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., June 9—(AP)—Jack Sharkey turned vicious today in a four round workout with Johnny Grosso and King Solomon and almost knocked both his sparring partners out. He will box tomorrow for the last time before entering the ring with Max Schmeling in the Yankee Stadium Thursday night.

Sharkey hung Grosso over the ropes with a left hook to the head in the first and dropped him to his knees in the second round with a barrage of similar punches. He hit Solomon hard but refused to punish either spar mate unnecessarily.

He boxed nicely, used his left a great deal, and punched well to the body. He weighed 199 at the end of the session.

GALLANT FOX MAY SET MARK AS MONEY WINNER

NEW YORK, June 9—(AP)—Champion of them all—Gallant Fox, today rested in his box at Aqueduct with the prospect of becoming the greatest money winner of the American turf before closing his three-year-old career.

Although William Woodward, the Fox's owner, has decided to pass up the rich American Derby at Washington Park next Saturday, the champion three-year-old will have plenty of opportunities to surpass the earnings of the great Zev before closing out his racing career.

During his meteoric turf career, Zev earned $313,659 to top the list of American money-winning thoroughbreds. The son of Sir Gallahad III, undefeated as a three-year-old and out of the money only once in 11 starts, is now seventh with $203,730, a short distance below Man o' War, with which many are ranking Gallant Fox.

Of the six horses that have won more than the Woodward star, only Display and Blue Larkspur are still racing and the former is in temporary retirement. Blue Larkspur, the ruling three-year-old of 1929, piled up $220,420 before going wrong last August and is due to make his four-year-old debut in the Brooklyn handicap at Aqueduct next Saturday.

Gallant Fox's next important engagement will be the $80,000 classic at Arlington Park, Chicago, on June 12. The classic will be the greatest of the mid-western three-year-old events as its promises to bring another meeting between Thea, Preakness-Kentucky Derby-Belmont winner, and his main rival, Harry Payne Whitney's Whichone.

FAVORITES ADVANCE IN MID-STATES TENNIS PLAY

PHILADELPHIA, June 9—(AP)—Fritz Mercur, Bethlehem, Pa., defending champion, Donald Strachman, Princeton, and the other favorites advanced to the third round of the Pennsylvania and Middle States tennis championship tournament today on the courts of the Philadelphia Cricket club. Rain caused many defaults in the first round.

Mercur won from Richard Rostwick, Wilmington, Del., by default in the first round and then defeated Jack Gray, Haverford, 6-1, 6-4. Strachman also won his first round match by default and beat David McMullen, Philadelphia, 6-3, 6-2 in the second round.

Keith Werner, Los Angeles, defeated H. S. McMordris, Cynwyd, Pa., 6-2, 6-3 in the first round, while Alex Persons, Worcester, Mass., reached the second round through the defaulting of Roy Cofin, Philadelphia.

YANKEES GET AWAY TO EARLY LEAD TO BEAT BROWNS

ST. LOUIS, June 9—(AP)—Getting away to an early lead while Al Crowder was pitching, the New York Yankees today defeated the St. Louis Browns 8 to 5.

The Yanks scored seven of their runs in the first three innings but thereafter found Chad Kimsey, who relieved Crowder, a puzzle. Ruffing, formerly of the Red Sox, went along easily until the eighth, when the Browns threatened and he was taken out in favor of Johnson. The Browns loaded the bases in the last inning but Johnson tightened holding them scoreless.

Lazzeri of the Yankees and Kress of the Browns hit home runs. The score:

ATHLETICS INCREASE LEAD TO THREE FULL GAMES

CHICAGO, June 9—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics increased their lead in the American league to three full games today as they defeated the White Sox 3 to 2 while Cleveland was downing Washington.

Bob Weiland, the White Sox erratic southpaw, held the champions at his mercy for eight innings, setting them down with four scattered hits. He weakened in the ninth, however, allowing the Athletics to bunch two hits with a walk and a sacrifice fly, which scored the tying and winning runs.

Walberg, who started for Philadelphia, was touched for eight hits during his sojourn on the mound but was relieved for a pinch hitter in the eigth, Quinn finishing the game. The score:

INDIANS ADVANCE BY TURNING BACK SENATORS

CLEVELAND, June 9—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians advanced within a half game of second place today, defeating the Washington Senators 5 to 4. It was the Indians second straight over their rivals for runner-up honors in the American league.

Walter Miller, Cleveland southpaw, and Big Fred Marberry, of the Washington staff of hurlers tied up in a pitching duel with the former having the best of the argument as he kept the Senators' eight hits well scattered.

Eddie Morgan was the big gun of the Cleveland offense, getting his ninth home run of the season with one on in the third and connecting with a triple in the sixth. Joe Cronin also hit a circuit drive for the Senators. The score:

VASES SERVE AS CALENDAR FOR PALESTINE HISTORY

BALTIMORE —(AP)— Archeologists now can date back to 1700 B. C. in Palestine history with fair accuracy, says Dr. William F. Albright of Johns Hopkins.

Vases form the archeological calendar. The pottery varied sufficiently from the century to century so that Dr. Albright says it can usually be placed within a margin of error of one century.

When court adjourned at 3:30 p. m. Monday, Judge Leonidas Pouliot announced that the next day's session would begin promptly at 10:45 a. m., at which time the newly summoned petit jurors are to report. At the beginning of the Monday morning court session the defendant, Stokes, testified that he was the plaintiff in a suit for which a writ was issued from the Washington county superior court in South Kingstown June 5, 1928, with J. R. Champlin as defendant. The defendant's attorney challenged Stokes to find in a number of letters read any offer made to Mr. Champlin to take lumber or cordwood in return for services rendered, or supplies and material furnished in the project to reclaim the Indian Cedar Swamp in Charlestown, R. I., when in 1922, Mr. Champlin succeeded Capt. Barton Cruickshanks, of Westerly, as the director of operations. The witness testified that Aug. 18 he had entered into an 8 per cent agreement with Mr. Champlin for net proceeds of sales of lumber and wood after all costs of production were deducted from the gross proceeds.

Other witnesses were Attorney George Houghton Gilman, of Norwich, at one time secretary of the Farm Reclamation Co., Inc., of which he was a director. No wonder baking is perfect . . . with Calumet's DOUBLE-ACTION

MAKE THIS TEST

See for yourself how Calumet Baking Powder acts twice to make your baking better. Put two level teaspoons of Calumet into a glass, add two teaspoons of water, stir rapidly five times and remove the spoon. The tiny, fine bubbles will rise slowly, half filling the glass. This is Calumet's first action—the action that takes place in your mixing bowl.

After the mixture has entirely stopped rising, stand the glass in a pan of hot water on the stove. In a moment, a second rising will start and continue until the mixture rises to the top of the glass. This is Calumet's second action—the action that takes place in your oven. Make this test today. See Calumet's Double-Action which protects your baking from failure.

CALUMET'S Double-Action makes it easy to bake perfect cakes. Its first action—in the mixing bowl—gets the leavening started. Its second action—in the oven—is a full steady rising that lifts the batter up and holds it until your cake is perfectly baked—high and light, even though you may not be able to regulate your oven temperature perfectly . . . Make a pan of Calumet muffins or a cake and you'll soon see why Calumet has become the most popular baking powder in the world!

ONLY ONE LEVEL TEASPOON OF CALUMET TO A CUP OF SIFTED FLOUR!

That's the usual Calumet proportion. Be sure to follow it even though you may have been using nearly twice as much with other baking powders. You'll be delighted with this economy! And more than delighted with the results Calumet gives you. Perfect texture! Perfect flavor!

All baking powders are required by law to be made of pure, wholesome ingredients. But not all are alike in their action. Not all will give you equally fine results in your baking. Calumet is scientifically made of exactly the right ingredients, in exactly the right proportions to produce perfect leavening action—Double-Action. Get a can of Calumet from your grocer today. Notice Calumet comes in full-sized one pound cans.

JEWETT CITY

NINIGRET TEXTILE MILL CLOSING INDEFINITELY

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, June 9.—Walter A. Richardson, superintendent for the Fisk Rubber company, received definite instructions today to run off what cotton is actually in process of manufacture at the local Ninigret mill, after which the entire plant will be shut down indefinitely, with no promise that a spindle will turn again during 1930. Today, cotton bales that were uncut in the picker-room, were carted back to the cotton storage, and the doors were locked. Within two weeks a large part of the machinery will be still with the whole plant shut down by July 1st, or previous to that date. The local Ninigret mill is one of three plants in the textile division of the Fisk Co Of the other two, one is located at Pawtucket, R. I., the other at New Bedford, Mass. The Rhode Island plant, about the size of the local mill, has been still for several months. The Massachusetts concern has three times the poundage capacity of Ninigret.

The Ninigret has been operated with a day and night shift for a long time. With its indefinite closing, only a few short of 400 operatives will be left without work. There is to be no effort on the part of the Fisk company to hold any of its organization, which includes the office force and overseers. The pay-roll, which will stop, averages not far from $7,500 each week. Of the families affected by the close-up, about 75 per cent are Polish people. The Fisk company are anxious that no unnecessary hardship shall be imposed on their one-time operatives, even to the extent that after this plant shut down all those who live in the company's tenements may continue to occupy them without paying rent.

The information of the intentions of the owners came like a bolt from the blue; finding the help and supervisory officials alike, entirely unsuspecting any action looking toward the indefinite closing which has been ordered. When operation ceases, only a fireman and a night and day watchmen will be left in charge.

INTERESTING ADDRESSES AT MEN'S CLASS MEETING

The June meeting of the Men's class of the M. E. church was held Friday evening at the home of M. H. Bartlett in Griswold. The business meeting was in charge of the president, G. H. Thornton, and was opened with prayer by Ransom H. Young. The toastmaster, Mr. Bartlett, introduced Delwyn Martin, soloist with the Dudley Carolers, whose weekly broadcasts are heard from Providence. He sang The Living God. Daniel L. Phillips, who with Mrs. Phillips, returned recently from a visit to Florida, gave a brief talk, telling of his impressions upon viewing the Singing Tower, "whose 205-foot tower of steel, Georgia marble and native Florida stone, is located at Iron Mountain, the highest point in the state. At its base is a beautiful lake whose still waters reflect the glory of Florida's singing tower. From atop this majestically beautiful structure a superb carillon fills the air with golden melody, that blends with notes of birds in whose sanctuary it stands. Both tower and sanctuary are the gift of Edward W. Bok to the American people." Following the talk Mr. Phillips had to show samples of the different materials of construction. Following another solo, "You'll Get Heaps of Lickens," by Mr. Martin, there was an address by George A. Ross, republican representative from Lisbon, on Guatemala and the other Central American countries, interesting, on account, as he said, of their nearness to our own country and our lack of knowledge of these republics.

Beginning with Guatemala he followed down the coast to Salvador, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, the Canal Zone, through the Canal along the Spanish Main, across the Caribbean Sea to Cartegena, the old, old city of Colombia, South America; thence north across the Caribbean Sea again to Havana, Cuba.

The Ross family was aboard the Panama Mail Steamship company's vessel, "Ecuador," for thirty-three days.

At these ports of call the passengers had the opportunity to go ashore and at some ports trains were provided to take them hundreds of miles inland.

The first port was Champerico, Guatemala, where a train on a narrow guage railway took all who wished to go to Guatemala City, the capital.

This city has over one hundred thousand inhabitants. It has been destroyed by earthquake once or twice the last time in 1918 when one thousand people were killed and a large number injured.

After a stop of one night the tourists were taken to San Jose where the ship was boarded for Acajutla Salvador, thence to LaLibertad and LaUnion.

In Corinto, Nicaragua, the U. S. marines were glad to see people from home. At Puntavenas, Costa Rica, Mr. Ross told of the fertile coffee plantations, the most prosperous in the world. The owners of these great estates spend their vacations in London, Paris or Berlin, and are only at home in the winter months.

At Balboa Heights Mr. Ross saw a brother of James Graham of Lisbon, Robert (Bob) Graham, the postmaster at that place.

The speaker defended Ferdinand De Gesseps, the French engineer, in his failure to finish the canal. The French spent three hundred million dollars and lives untold between 1880 and 1894. At that time it had not been discovered that yellow fever was transmitted through the bite of the mosquito. Preventative remedies to cope with tropical diseases had not been developed. The graft was discovered when the U. S. bought the French supplies and it was found that there were a ton of rusty pen points and ten thousand snow shovels; a tool not necessary in that place where "snowballs melt so rapidly."

The engineer de Lesseps was condemned by his own countrymen, and died broken in mind and body in closing Mr. Ross told of the four days' sail across to Cuba, which country he believes is to a considerable extent dependent upon the patronage of the United States. A rising vote of thanks was given the speakers and to Mr Martin for the delightful program. Mrs. M. H. Bartlett assisted by her sisters Mrs. A. C. Burdick, Miss Juliette Richmond and her daughter, Edith, served sandwiches, pickles, cake, fruit, jello and punch. The meeting was again called to order and a rising vote of thanks was given the host and hostess for the pleasant evening. The meeting closed with the class song and benediction by Rev. G. F. Goodenough. Nineteen members and three visitors were present.

BLOOD TESTS ACCEPTED AS PROOF OF PATERNITY

BERLIN—(AP)—Blood tests were accepted by the Prussian supreme court as indubitable proof for determining a man's fatherhood.

With this decision a legal precedent has been established in Germany in alimony claims by unmarried mothers.

On the testimony of the experts there can be no exception to the rule that a properly applied blood test invariably furnishes proof of a person's paternal or maternal relationship to a child.

THREE NEW DWELLING HOUSES TO BE ERECTED IN NORWICH SOON

During the first week in June there were seven building permits issued by Fire Marshal Henry R. Taft for new construction work within the city limits. Included in the seven permits are three for new dwelling houses, one a two-apartment and the other two being cottage houses. The two-apartment house is to be erected on Lincoln avenue by B. F. Krieger and David Trachtenberg. A cottage house is to be built on Colt street by Homer J. Monty and another cottage house has been started on Boswell avenue by Henry G. Montie.

The total valuation of the new construction work is approximately $16,800, according to the estimates of the owners. The permits follow:

To Gerald Carty, to erect a one-car frame garage, 14x16 feet, in the rear of his home on Western avenue. The estimated cost will be $50.

To Benjamin F. Krieger and David Trachtenberg to erect a two-story apartment house on Lincoln avenue. The house will be 30x30 feet and each apartment will have seven rooms and bath. It will be heated by steam and will be modernly equipped throughout. The estimated cost is $7,500.

To Homer J. Monty to build a cottage house for himself on Colt street. The house will be 25x26 feet and will have six rooms and bath. The foundation will be of cement and the superstructure will be of frame throughout. The exterior will be finished in clapboards and shingles with composition shingles on the roof. The interior will be finished in hardwood and plaster. The estimated cost is $3,500.

To Henry G. Montie, builder, to erect a two-story frame house on Boswell avenue for himself. The house will be 26x26 feet and will have six rooms and bath. The foundation will be of cement and the exterior will be in clapboards and shingles. The interior will be finished in hard finish plaster and hard pine trim. The floors will be of oak. The estimated cost is $4,500.

To Charles G. Prodell to build a veranda on his house at 58 Fourth street. The veranda will be set on concrete piers. The estimated cost is $200.

To William Ogden to build a porch on the house at 226 Central avenue. The porch will be 7x4 feet. The estimated cost is $20.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were eight sales of real estate as compared to 12 sales for the corresponding week in 1929. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $28,512 and $53,140.

There were seven sales of real estate during the past week in New London, a decrease of eleven sales from the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $43,500 and $55,450.

NEW LONDON

Plans for a substantial addition to be made to the rear of the Savings Bank of New London, together with alterations to the interior of the present building, are nearing completion and it is expected that specifications will soon be ready for bids.

The work is to cost about $30,000. The addition will be 50 by 70 feet, two stories high, of brick, steel and concrete construction. On the ground floor there will be a garage and locker rooms, etc. Two new vaults will be installed on the main floor, on which there will also be a posting room with soundproof walls, an assembly room and offices. There will also be a mezzanine floor with lounging rooms and women's quarters. The interior of the present building will be rearranged so as to provide about 50 feet of additional counter space, the new counter layout to be U shape instead of straight across the bank as now. The plans also provide for the installation of revolving doors at the front door instead of the present arrangement.

The steel roof structure was being erected this week on the new heating plant being erected in the rear of the Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospitals by the H. Wales Lines company. The new structure, which is to cost $40,000, if of concrete, brick and steel construction with a large skylight in the roof. The basement will contain a boiler room, 30 by 40 feet, a transformer room, for electrical equipment, a pump room which is to be 11 by 20 feet and the coal bins. An underground passage is being run to the main hospital building from the basement.

The first floor will contain a garage 25 by 32 feet with plaster ceiling and concrete floor sloping toward the center. There will also be a chauffeur's room 20 by 10 feet and two toilets, lavatory and shower rooms besides a storage and garbage room.

The exterior has been ornamented with art stone coping and copper gutters and leaders. All windows have steel sash.

SHOWER STALL STEADILY GAINS IN FAVOR

The increasing popularity of the shower bath has resulted in many improvements in the operation of the fixtures as well as the development of various types of showers. All, however, may be classified under two general headings; the shower in a stall or compartment and the shower placed over a tub.

Shower stalls are made out of marble slate, steel, glass, or tile. Many tile shower stalls are equipped with a receptor or vitreous china or porcelain. Other tile stalls have a sheet of lead under the tile. All stalls are made so that they are absolutely water tight. An absolutely waterproof, polished plate glass door with ventilating grills is used on the better grade of shower stalls. Many are equipped with an electric dome light.

The standard size for a shower stall is 42 by 42 inches and 36 by 36 inches, although stalls in other dimensions may be obtained.

One of the chief advantages of the shower stall over the shower in the tub is that the stall may be equipped with side sprays. The most popular equipment for a stall consists of three sprays arranged one above the other on two sides of the stall. In addition there is an overhead shower which functions independently of the side sprays. The majority of people who use shower stalls prefer the use of the side sprays only. The top row of sprays is equipped with adjustable ball joints so that the water may be directed at any angle. Thus, persons of different heights may bathe in comfort.

The side sprays are the so-called "needle-point" sprays. This term is used because they have very small openings. The higher the pressure of water, the greater will be the force of the water issuing from the sprays. A pressure of at least 30 pounds is recommended by the manufacturers.

Striking the body with such great force, the water makes the blood rush to the surface with consequent stimulation of the blood flow. All therapeutic rooms in hospitals are equipped with sprays of this type.

Exposed metal parts for shower stalls may be obtained plated with gold, silver, chromium or nickel. There are shower stalls on the market in which not only the shower head and controls, but the polished plate glass door frame and ventilating grille as well are gold plate. The extent of the demand for gold plated bathroom fittings is believed by manufacturers of plumbing equipment to indicate a return to the old Roman luxuriousness of bathroom equipment.

In direct contrast to the needle spray is the rain head which allows a large quantity of water with little pressure to strike the body. Water pours onto the body literally in buckets full from the showerhead. Rain heads are made in sizes up to as large as 16 inches in diameter.

While younger people prefer the needle spray with water at great pressure, older people like the rain head spray. Many older people find the needle-point spray irritating. Large size shower heads, 10 inches and up are widely used at golf clubs.

RADIATOR COVERS PROVE ESSENTIAL

Back in the so called "good old days" the parlor stoves were taken down about this time of the year and stored away in the attic or cellar until cold weather came again. Today it is unnecessary, for with the aid of radiator covers the radiator is always out of sight but ready for immediate use.

Radiator covers and shields are made of fine quality furniture metal and each has a pan for humidifying water, and a hinged top. This pan canb e taken out for cleaning and the dirt found there each time is evidence of the value of these covers as dust catchers. Otherwise this dust would be carried upward by the warm air currents and would settle on the curtains and drapes, soiling them in short order.

The metal is finished to resemble wood. Hardwood reproductions are grained on by hand and the finish baked on, at high temperatures, in ovens. Flat finishes, such as enamels, are applied with equal care. There is a wide range of finishes and choice is not limited. These covers aid in creating window seats or they may be used as shelves and hold flowers or books.

GAIN AGE TINTS BY USE OF PAINT

Country homes which have an appearance of great age are always the most interesting to the casual observer. They always attract attention. About them is a peculiar and irresistable appeal. They feature a countryside much after the fashion of a lonesome pine.

Builders of such homes are coming to appreciate this and one of the first requisites imposed upon the architect is this appearance of age. For a time it sorely puzzled many in architect satisfactorily to fill the bill. But it isn't so any more.

Whitewashing or lightly painting the common brick exterior walls and chimneys proved the solution. The wall of common brick, rather heavily whitewashed, or lightly painted with a single coat of white lead or any one of half a dozen specially prepared paints, will age a century, in appearance, within a year.

Under the action of the elements, the beating of the rain, the freezing of zero weather, the blistering heat of mid-summer, this coating of paint or whitewash gradually wears away in spots. With the dulled red of the bricks peering through, the desired effect is effectively produced. Age is there, if synthetic.

Just where the practice originated is not known. A half dozen sections claim it. Doubtless though it was somewhere south, for there the whitewashed wall has long been a favorite custom. But, regardless, it works and has spread over the entire country.

One important feature is the economy in the use of common brick. It's foolish to use a more expensive one.

PECK, M'WILLIAMS CO. GETS CONTRACT FOR PENN STATE INN

The Peck, McWilliams Co., local builders, who recently completed the new Norwich inn, have started work on a similar inn for the New England Inns Corp., at Penn State college. The contract was awarded to the local concern who were asked to bid on it because of the exceptionally good work done on the local inn. The contract entails the expenditure of a half million dollars on the new building.

The inn at the Pennsylvania college will be considerably larger than the local inn, but along the same general design, in keeping with the type of building favored by the New England Inn Corp. There will be 86 rooms in the Penn State Inn, which will be fireproof construction throughout, the materials predominately being brick, concrete and hollow tile. Ground was broken about three weeks ago and the excavation work is nearly three-quarters completed. It is expected that the inn will be ready for occupancy by Christmas. A brick garage which goes with the inn has been practically finished.

Many of the workmen and heads of the various departments of the construction work who built the local inn have gone to Pennsylvania and are engaged on that contract.

Work Started On Broadway House.

Contractor P. F. Sweeney has started work on the new house to be built by Harry Diachyshyn at the corner of Broadway and Elmwood avenue. The foundation has been completed and work on the underpinning and superstructure will be started this week.

Norton Gym Well Along.

Work on the new Norton Memorial gymnasium progressed favorably the last week and the structure is almost ready for the roof. The side walls have been built up to the roof and the work of putting on the roof will be started soon. W. S. Spencer has the contract.

Iowa Gas Tax Gains

DES MOINES, Ia.—(AP)—Iowa gasoline tax collections for the first five months of 1930 showed a gain of more than $1,000,000 over the same period last year, according to Ray E. Johnson, state treasurer.

Three hundred and fifty descendants of Mary and William Denton, a Lincolnshire, England, couple, recently held a reunion at Denton, Kans.

NEW DWELLING HOUSE ON BOSWELL AVE.

The above is a picture of the new cottage house built by Henry G. Montie at 594 Boswell avenue. The house is of modern American architecture with the exterior finished in wide colonial clapboards and cedar shingles as trim. There are six rooms and bath, three rooms on the first floor and three on the second.

All the downstairs rooms have oak floors and trim while those on the second floor are finished in beech. The rooms on the first floor include the living room, dining room and kitchen. The kitchen is conveniently equipped with built-in ironing board, china closet, and linen closet. The sink is in a separate room off the kitchen.

On the second floor is the master bedroom and two smaller bedrooms and bath. The bath is in white tile and white porcelain fixtures. In the basement is the modern heating plant. The plumbing is all in brass.

Mr. Montie is starting another similar house on a lot next to the house pictured above.

$11,000,000,000 IS TOTAL ESTIMATED FOR BUILDING

On the basis of statistics compiled by the public construction division of the department, the assistant secretary of commerce has announced that approximately $7,000,000,000 worth of construction and maintenance of public works and capital expenditures by public utilities seems assured for 1930.

The present estimate for construction and maintenance of residences commercial and industrial structures and other private operations is nearly $4,000,000,000, bringing the total estimate to about $11,000,000,000 for the year.

A federal laboratory and experiment station for the study of pecan trees will be established near Austin, Texas.

AROMATIC RED CEDAR OIL PROTECTS AGAINST MOTHS

Aromatic red cedar has long been recognized as an effective weapon against moths.

Only the heartwood or darker portion of the cedar contains the oil that is of value as a protection against moth damage. To protect the public, a group of progressive manufacturers who have large investment in the business are attempting to establish grade standards for their products. It is probable that in the future the material will be grade marked as to quality.

COLONIAL HOME AMPLE AND PICTURESQUE

Among the many types of houses built every day in this country there is but one that we may truly speak of as belonging here. That is, of course, the Colonial.

All the others have been borrowed. We dabble with types from afar and neglect our own heritage.

While we generally speak of the colonial as of one distinct style, we have the New England Colonial, the Southern Colonial, the Duth Colonial and the Cape Cod houses, to speak of just a few.

The design of the house sketched follows the early American farmhouses of New England.

Farmers always have appreciated honest, solidly built structures adequate in size and appropriate in proportions.

The walls of this house are of white painted clapboards. The roof is of wood shingles in dark green and window shutters and trim are the same color.

On the first floor we have the living room to one side of the small entrance hall and dining room and kitchen to the other.

A huge fireplace occupies almost one entire side of the living room, two of the other sides have central windows and the end offers a French window leading to a porch.

Three bedrooms and two baths are in the second story.

This house could be erected for from $9,000 to $11,000.

ONE OF THE SHARPEST BREAKS OF THE YEAR IN THE STOCK MARKET YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, June 9.—(AP)—Liquidation, forced as well as professional, sent stock prices skidding today in one of the sharpest breaks of the year. The selling reached its largest proportions in the final hour as weakened margin accounts were unloaded. Sales in the last 60 minutes approximated 1,800,000 shares, swelling the total to 4,646,200, and the ticker, under this heavy burden, was nearly an hour late.

On the surface there was nothing to account for the drop of 2 to 8 points in the favorite shares, especially utilities and amusements. Those inclined to pry under the surface, however, found an undercurrent of dissatisfaction over the general business situation, especially among operators who had counted on an improvement by June, and the sentiment that since the market could hardly be expected to make much progress at this time another shake-out was inevitable.

Prominent banking interests were reported to be standing on the sidelines, picking up pivotal stocks on a scale down. Some of this support was said to have been given to United States Steel, which, nevertheless, broke to a new low for the year. It had plenty of company, for more than 50 stocks sold at their lowest 1930 levels and the price index for 90 representative shares broke nearly 4 points below the bottom touched on the May break. The rail group slumped to a new low.

The opening was lower, but short covering checked the decline for a time and the market turned dull. By mid-afternoon the bears had singled out a few stocks in which public participation had been increasing, finding in them deep air pockets. The weakness spread rapidly throughout the list, dislodging stop-loss orders as well as weakly margined accounts, and the market entered the last half hour with pronounced weakness which became more acute as large blocks, held by pools, were offered.

Selling throughout the day was most pronounced in the utilities. American Telephone dropped 4 points to within 4 of its last year's low, Detroit Edison, American Power & Light, Western Union, Laclede Gas and American & Foreign Power showed extreme losses of 6 to 9 points in the same class were Underwood, Elliott Fisher, Westinghouse, Johns Manville, Auburn Auto and Houston Oil.

The usual number of specialties broke spectacularly. J. I. Case slumped 12 3-4, finishing 31 points net lower. Peoples Gas was off 26 and American Machine Foundry 15. Vanadium, Eastman Kodak and Ingersoll Rand dropped 10 to 11. Manhattan Electrical Supply lost 5 points. The state attorney-general's office is taking steps to appoint a receiver for a brokerage house alleged to have been prominent in a recent pool in the stock.

Among the stocks selling at new lows, in addition to U. S. Steel, were Bethlehem Steel, Studebaker, Nash Motors, Hudson Motors, Checker Cab, Pullman, Baldwin Locomotive, St. Paul common and preferred, Lackawanna, Northern Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, Rock Island, Wabash, Missouri-Kansas-Texas and Columbia Graphaphone.

Grain prices were firm to higher. Wheat rallied more than a cent and corn advanced fractionally. Cotton, on the other hand, showed net losses of 12 to 18 points in the later months. Sugar was quiet.

Foreign exchanges were dull and featureless.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, June 9.—(AP)—High grade lien issues suffered today from inattention as bond trading centered in convertible and warrant issues which were in sympathy with the continued liquidation in the stock market.

The heaviest turnover was in stock privilege issues and most of those in which trading was extensive lost from a fraction to more than 2 points. Investment bonds were sluggish and dragged listlessly through the day, with prices rising or receding narrowly and with the dominating tendency slightly downward. The most constructive aspect of the market was the continued firmness of United States governments with Liberties establishing new highs for the year.

Call money continued at 3 per cent and money rates were unchanged from Saturday. Investment issues needed a stimulant to stir them from their lethargy and in its absence, drifted aimlessly, some seeking slightly lower levels and very few rising higher. Prime rails, utility and industrials lost ground with few exceptions. Florida East Coast 5s lost more than a point. Atchison, Baltimore & Ohio, Pennsylvania, Canadian National railways and Erie issues yielded fractionally under the lack of demand.

Some of the convertible issues of railroads were among the most active. Baltimore & Ohio 4 1-2s, Chicago & Northwestern 4 3-4s, St. Paul 5s, Rock Island 4 1-2s were turned over in large blocks and lost from 1-4 to 1 3-4 points. Philadelphia Reading Coal & Iron 6s dropped 2 1-8; American Telephone 4 1-2s 1 1-4, Warner Brothers 3-4 and International Telephone 1 1-8. General Theatres 6s of '40 ruled unchanged.

An extensive demand developed for some oil bonds and they proved the strongest of industrials. In contrast, American Metal 5 1-2s sagged to close to the year's low. Certainteed 6 1-2s lost 1 1-4. National Dairy 5 1-4s was the most active of the group and slightly lower. Utilities were quiet.

The appearance of the foreign list was a mixture of up and down movements. South Americans were irregular, and the principal European governments tended lower. Several German municipals and industrials were active. German Lloyd 6s moved up 1-2 point to near the year's high. Rhine Westphalia 6s and German Central Agricultural Bank 6s gained. Japan 4 1-2s were firm, their position enhanced by the strength displayed toward the close of last week. Three Liberty issues established new 1930 high marks today as banks continued their buying of governments. Liberty 3 1-2s rose to 100.23, the 4th 4 1-4s of 38-38 to 102.17 and 4th 4 1-4 registered to 102.17, all new highs. Treasury 4 1-4s registered made a spectacular advance of a point and a half on one bond.

NEW YORK, June 9.—(AP)—New financing aggregating $10,000,000 for Electric Power & Light company was undertaken today through an offering of a new issue of 100,000 no par cumulative preferred stock priced at $100.50 and accrued dividends to yield about 5.96 per cent. Proceeds of the issue will be used for general corporate purposes.

B. B. Williams, president of the Copper-Bessemmer corporation, announced that increased business volume occasioned through rapid growth of the natural gas industry had made necessary the immediate expansion of the facilities of the corporation's plants at Mt. Vernon, Ohio, and Grove City, Pa. He said the first step in the program calls for immediate installation of $250,000 in new equipment in the plants.

An extension to June 17 has been granted in the time for deposit of common stock of the Columbia Gas & Electric corporation for United corporation stock. Directors of Columbia Gas last month recommended the deposit of approximately 25 per cent of the outstanding common stock for exchange for United shares

Peter Makes Another Discovery

There's something new to learn each day;
I'm glad the world is made that way.
—Peter Rabbit.

Starnose the Mole was burrowing into the soft earth almost at Peter Rabbit's feet. Peter has always thought himself a fairly good digger, although he doesn't dig very often. However, after he had watched Starnose disappear, Peter began to think he didn't know anything about digging.

"My goodness, look at that fellow go!" said Peter. "I wouldn't have believed that any one could disappear in the earth, where there was no hole, at the rate that fellow has gone in."

Redwing the Blackbird chuckled. "Do you know what it looks like to me?" said he.

"What does it look like to you?" demanded Peter.

"It looks to me," said Redwing, "as if Starnose actually swims through the ground. Did you notice how he swept the earth back; first on one side and then on the other, with his big front feet?"

"I didn't notice that," replied Peter, "but I did notice something else just as he disappeared."

"What was that?" asked Redwing.

"His tail," replied Peter. "I always have been interested in tails and I just noticed that Starnose has a tail quite different from that of his cousin, Miner the Mole."

"I suppose you mean the Common Mole that lives up on drier ground," said Redwing.

"That's the one I mean," replied Peter. "He and Starnose look a lot alike between their noses and their tails; but they are quite different at the two ends."

"How is that?" demanded Redwing.

"Well," replied Peter, "you saw that funny nose that Starnose has. It has twenty-two queer little feelers around it. Now, Miner the Mole, who lives up on drier land, has a sharp pointed nose. He has none of those queer little feelers."

"Oh!" said Redwing. "What about the other end?"

"Did you take particular notice of the tail of Starnose?" demanded Peter.

"I cannot say that I did," replied Redwing. "What about it?"

"It was covered with hair," replied Peter.

"Well, what of that?" inquired Redwing. "If it were not covered with hair I should think it a very queer tail indeed. Most of the tails I have seen were covered with hair."

"The tail of Miner the Mole isn't," replied Peter promptly. "It's a funny little tail and it hasn't any hair on it. At least, if it has any, they are so small that they are not easily seen. I saw that tail of his once sticking out of one of his tunnels and I thought it was an earthworm. Now, Starnose has a hairy tail; so you see he is quite different at both ends from his cousin, Miner the Mole. His nose is different and his tail is different. It's a funny world, isn't it?"

"What do you mean?" asked Redwing.

"I mean," replied Peter, "it is queer how everybody is different in some way from everybody else. Sometimes I wonder how Old Mother Nature ever managed to make everybody different. I wonder where the home of Starnose is."

NORWICH SCHOOLBOYS WRITE TWO PRIZE ESSAYS UPON "KNOW YOUR CITY"

The two essays which were judged to be tied for the first prize of $10 offered to seventh and eighth grade pupils of Norwich schools by the League of Women Voters are given herewith. The assigned subject was "Know Your Town."

By Broadway School Pupil

The essay by Charles Colt, who is in the eighth grade at Broadway school, was entitled "Norwich—Past and Present" and was as follows:

The settlers of Norwich came from Saybrook, Connecticut, which had been settled in 1635 by a party of people under the leadership of John Winthrop the younger.

The project of making a settlement probably originated with John Mason whose reasons were unknown but possibly the woods abounding in game and the streams in fish and the fields whose soil was suitable for agriculture attracted him, and he inducted others to help him settle.

Mason and his followers made application to the General Court of Hartford for permission, which had to be granted, to make a settlement. The proper authority was granted on May 20, 1659 on the condition that "within ye space of three yeares they doe effect a plantation in ye place propounded," and Mason forthwith set about making preparation.

In June, 1659 a party of thirty or thirty-five men left Saybrook in boats and sailed up the sound and the Thames and Yantic rivers as far as possible, near the Yantic Falls, to arrange for transfer of the land. The section of land consisting of 31 square miles in the heart of Mohegan territory and lying chiefly between the Yantic and Shetucket rivers was bought from the Mohegan Indians represented by Uncas and his two sons Owaneco and Attawanhood for approximately $350.

Five men were left to pass the winter at what was soon to be a thriving settlement. The rest returned to Saybrook and came back the following spring with their wives, children, and personal property, when the work of settling really began.

The town was situated around and near what is now the Norwich Town Green as this flat spot could be used for pageants, military drill, and for parades. Close by was a high rocky hill upon which stood the colony's meeting house, hence the name "Meeting House Rocks." The meeting house was built on a hill because, although Norwich was never attacked, the colonists expected Indian attacks and a hill could easily be defended.

Naturally, the first buildings of the new settlement, of any new one in fact, were log houses or cabins but in New London there was a saw-mill and there were numerous experienced carpenters whose services could be procured, there. These advantages led most of the people to build houses of better finish and construction than usual in new settlements. The houses built were large, roomy, and comfortable and to prove that they were substantial many are still standing, my own home being at least 160 years old.

The larger houses were of two stories, were square, and had a huge central chimney and long sloping roof. Sometimes this roof was continued to form the roof of a lean-to shed at the rear of the house. On the first floor were a "company" room, a chamber, a kitchen, and a milk-room which we would call a pantry. The second floor held four chambers, (bed-rooms). Sometimes the second floor had only three regular chambers, with a porch chamber which was a feature of early Norwich houses. The smaller dwellings were of one story, and an attic. On the ground floor were a kitchen, and "company" room while the family slept in the attic.

The first manufacturing project of Norwich was in the form of a grist-mill that the people might grind their corn and maize, the principal grains. John Elderkin was both builder and miller. He received as compensation a tract of land and was authorized to collect a toll of one-sixteenth of the value of the grain ground.

The town of perhaps 60 people continued to grow and soon after being settled was incorporated as a township under the Connecticut Constitution, the first constitution in all history written by the people and for the people. All Connecticut townships were governed by the Hartford General Court but in 1784 when Norwich was incorporated as a city the government became independent. Whereas the United States is governed by a congress presided over by the vice-president and the states are governed by legislatures, so the city of Norwich is governed by a council consisting of the councilmen and aldermen presided over by the mayor.

As the nearby Thames river offered the most convenient means of communication with the outside world Chelsea Landing, a point at the junction of the Yantic and Shetucket rivers, and about two miles south of the origina settlement, soon began to attract the traders among the early settlers and it was not long before the town spread in that direction along trails which later became Washington street and Broadway. Along these trails and other lanes which branched off from them houses were built and now these once mere paths are the principal streets of Norwich lined with buildings devoted to many uses.

As compared with the original "nine mile square" the town of Norwich now covers 35 square miles, the remaining area having been included at different times in the surrounding townships. The present population of the town is about 30,000.

The people at first took up agriculture the products of which were their chief means of subsistence and each man raised enough to feed himself and his own family. Later however, manufacturing was started by some of the more enterprising men in the settlement. In 1770 Christopher Leffingwell set up a fulling-mill with a dye-house attached. Edmund Darrow in 1772 established a nailery where he and about six hands made and cut shingle nails from old iron hoops. Somewhat later a rope-walk was started at the present site of the Knights of Columbus building on Broadway, a bleachery in Greeneville, and a woolen mill in Yantic. The most successful of these ventures were bought out by large concerns; the Norwich Bleaching and Calendering company became a branch of the United States Finishing company and the Yantic Woolen company's mill is now a plant of the American Woolen company.

Among the other manufacturers of Norwich and its environs are the following: Another American Woolen plant in Thamesville, the International Silver plant in Thamesville, the Falls company mill at the Yantic falls, the main Thermos plant, and a J. B. Martin plant in Norwich and the plants of the Bay company and Inland Paperboard company in Versailles.

The streets of Norwich were at one time lined with trees, shade trees such as oaks, elms, and maples, but the coming of larger and faster means of "getting there" forced the widening of the streets. As a consequence many large and beautiful trees were destroyed, any one of which if able to talk could tell us more of the history of Major Mason's settlement than any historian has ever recorded or ever will. Some of the streets in the residential sections are still shaded by fine trees which help to make our city the beautiful one it is. I believe, as do many others, that there are but few cities in the northeastern part of the country to compare with the "Rose of New England."

By Wequonnoc School Pupil

The essay by Kenneth Troeger, who is in the seventh grade of Wequonnoc school, Taftville, was given the title "What You and I Ought to Know About Our Town" and was as follows:

It is hard to realize that only three hundred years ago our town was an unsettled wilderness which was inhabited by roving tribes of Indians, Mohegans, Pequots and Narragansetts all were here, at times and Uncas, the Mohegan chief, tried hard to hold his land against the others. Uncas had a fierce fight with the Narragansetts. He was almost done for, when Captain John Mason and his men from Saybrook helped Uncas by bringing food to him and his tribe.

After the war was over and Mason had seen the country of the Indians, he asked Uncas about buying a piece of land. Uncas thought of how helpful Mason had been in 1657 and sold him the land called the "Nine-Miles-Square" for $360. After the General Court had given permission for the sale and a deed was signed by Uncas and his two sons, the whites felt that the land belonged to them. This was in 1660. John Mason and his settlers thought that the best place for home lots would be where Norwich Town now is, and they began to lay out the land for homes. The name Mohegan was changed to Norwich in honor of Norwich in England. Norwich was incorporated as a township in 1635 after several villages had been laid out.

The present town of Norwich is bounded on the north by Sprague, on the east by Lisbon and Preston, on the south by Montville and on the west by Bozrah and Franklin. The villages in Norwich are Yantic, Norwich Town, Greeneville, Taftville, Occum and Falls. Norwich has always had beautiful scenery and before part of the water of the Yantic river was turned aside for manufacturing prior to going over the falls, that waterfall was one of the famous sights of the town.

Yantic or Yantuck, as the Indians called it, was a meadow land in the early days and much used for pasturage. The village did not grow up until 1820 and it is a very good manufacturing place now. Yantic is also the home of Joseph Otis who gave the money for building the Otis library.

The Falls district was given that name because it was built up, on the falls of the Yantic river. It had beautiful scenery and was visited every year by many people. There is a tradition that the Narragansetts were driven over the edge of this precipitous fall by their enemies.

Chelsea Plain is the level part of Norwich above the city where the Indians had their wigwams, and Waweekas Hill a rocky point above, which overlooked the river, was their watch-post and the place to which they went to get away from their enemies. Many arrow-heads and stone hammers have been found in this place.

Greeneville is on the Shetucket. The two great men from Greeneville were William C. Gilman and William P. Greene. There was a school established in 1832, and a Congregational church organized in 1833. It has large factories. Two are the great Shetucket cotton mill and the Chelsea paper mill. Now there are three churches, an excellent school system and a population of 3,000 or more with many different nationalities such as American, Scotch, English, Irish, Germans, Polish, etc.

Occum or Occom as they used to call it is a village containing a mill, a school and a church. Much manufacturing is done here.

Thamesville was once marshes but people have changed many acres to solid ground and there were warehouses, a shipyard, workshops and many tenements in olden times.

Laurel Hill is one of the youngest sections of Norwich. It was called Laurel Hill because it was covered with laurel. It has a public school and many beautiful homes.

Taftville is a very thrifty village with large mills called the Ponemah plant. It was named for an Indian chief. There are also two churches, a public school and a parochial school there.

Norwich has been very successful with commerce and manufacturing. Many great factories of textiles are found here today. There are also two important dyeing and bleaching establishments here. Great paper mills have been built in Greeneville and Uncasville, quite different from those that were built by Christopher Leffingwell at the Falls in 1766. This factory was a wonder to the people of that time because it was possible to get ready for the press "10 sheets of paper a minute by the watch."

Today we have a great many manufacturing plants; among them are the J. B. Martin plants, manufacturing silks and velvets; the American Thermos manufacturing vacuum bottles; the Atlantic Carton Co., manufacturers of folding boxes; the Ponemah mills, manufacturing soisette, and silks and cotton; and Adams and Manning, manufacturers of cotton cords.

Agriculture has not been as successful in our town as manufacturing, and it is easy to see why. Such rocky land was not easy to cultivate and it was much easier and it brought in more money to manufacture goods to help keep up the commerce with the West Indies and Europe. Today dairy farming, fruit raising and market gardening take up the time of some of our Norwich people. The products are used in feeding the people of the town and city to a great extent. Much of the milk is shipped to cities nearby, such as Providence and New Haven.

Norwich has a fine list of great men, the Huntingtons, Hydes, Backuses, Bushnells, Clevelands, Fitches, Rockwells, Trumbulls, Buckinghams, as well as Rev. John Gulliver, David A. Wells and John F. Slater, these and many more have helped to make Norwich a better town.

The schools of Norwich are a great help to the inhabitants. There are twenty or more public schools, four parochial schools and a Hebrew school. Within a few years three large school buildings have been put up. The last was the Samuel Huntington school which was named for one of the first inhabitants of Norwich. Before this, the Bishop school was built. It was named for Nathan Bishop who for a long time was a teacher and superintendent in our schools.

Besides our public schools we have a Free Academy for high school work. So many children want to go there that the town is talking about building a Junior high school to help the crowded condition. Then there is also a commercial school and a private school for those who want to go there.

Connected with the Academy is Slater Memorial, which helps in the education of children because it has copies of Italian and Greek art. The pupils may take regular art lessons there when they are studying at the Academy.

We also have fine libraries. One is the Otis library which contains about 2,000 books and the other is the Peck library in Slater hall.

There have been several people born in Norwich who have written histories, poems and descriptions of old places in Norwich. Some of these are Edmund Clarence Stedman who wrote a poem about Norwich, Lydia Sigourney writer for Donald Mitchell and Mary E. Perkins who described the old houses of Norwich.

Anyone who would like a home in a good old town because he likes historical old places or because he likes a busy manufacturing place, or because he enjoys grand hills, fine rivers, and a good climate, would better come to our town and see for himself that it is a good place to live in now, even better than it was in 1660, or ever has been.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Cooper Oven Thermometer Company, Pequabuck.

The history of the Cooper Oven Thermometer company, located at Pequabuck, dates back to 1885 when at Dover, N. H., the late D. G. Cooper, after six years of experimentation, patented the first thermometer ever used on American stoves. A few years later Mr. Cooper came to Pequabuck and started the manufacture of this thermometer under the name of the Cooper Oven Thermometer Co.

When Mr. Cooper's death occurred in 1907 the business was incorporated with Albert E. Whittier as its president and treasurer. Mr. Whittier still continues in this capacity, with his son, Horace R. Whittier, as vice president and general manager and George W. Priest as secretary.

The original thermometer designed by Mr. Cooper was actuated by a crude cam arrangement which operated by means of expansion and contraction of certain metals employed. This thermometer, with various improvements, continued the standard until the advent of thermostatic metal which eliminated this complicated mechanical arrangement. Today Cooper thermometers are operated by the latest metallurgical discovery, high temperature thermostatic metal. This metal, when combined with certain patented movements controlled by the company, has been responsible(coupled with the vigilant care in manufacture) for the reputation for quality which Cooper products enjoy.

One of the most interesting developments which the company has made has been a thermostatic control for electric ovens. This device is covered by patents granted to its inventor, Albert E. Whittier, and marketed through Struthers Dunn company of Philadelphia.

Today the Cooper line includes not only oven door thermometers but attractive side wall designs, industrial types, waffle iron indicators, room temperature thermometers, refrigerator thermometers and mercury thermometers for stove use.

Sales offices have been established at 230 West 24th street, New York city and Fifth and Broadway, Los Angeles, Cal. The company also enjoys a fruitful market for its products in Scandanavia, the European continent, and Australia.

Blackheads and Pimples Lasted a Year. Healed by Cuticura.

"My trouble started with blackheads on my face. Later large, red pimples formed. They festered and scaled over, and itched and burned so that I had to scratch them. Scratching caused eruptions and disfigurement. The trouble lasted about a year.

"I tried all kinds of remedies but did not meet with success. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. It helped me so I purchased more, and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Philomena F. Demetrio, 162 Cottage St., East Boston, Mass.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. H, Malden, Mass."

TREES LOSE BULK MEASUREMENTS SHOW

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Trees like human beings, can get thin.

But their loss in bulk has passed unnoticed until recently when extremely accurate instruments for measuring their girths have been available.

These measurements show what scientists name "reversible variations" especially in tree trunks. Sometimes extremely small shrinkages occur.

These are explained in a report to the American Philosophical society by Dr. Daniel T. MacDougall, director of the laboratory of plant physiology, of Carnegie Institution of Washington.

"The tensions set up in the continuous meshwork of water in the vessels and woody elements," he says, "may set up such a pull that an actual contration of the non-living elements may occur."

Palace Theatre

Diversity is the keynote of the double-feature program which will be presented at the Palace theatre tomorrow and which will be shown through Friday of this week. The attractions which are billed on this offering are "Soldiers and Women," a romantic drama with Aileen Pringle and Grant Withers, and "Clancy in Wall Street," a comedy, with Charles Murray at his best.

CHARLES MURRAY

The story of "Soldiers and Women" is woven around Brenda Ritchie, the neurotic wife of Colonel Ritchie of the Marine post at Haiti. Brenda is bored with life and decides to have a little affair with a young officer at the post. The results of this are tragic and the climax is as thrilling as the entire story, which is sensational and breathtaking.

Bigger and better and with more laughs than "The Cohens and the Kellys" and with heaps more fun than "McFadden's Flats" is "Clancy in Wall Street," which shows that even such a tragedy as the crash can have a bright side when Charles Murray is around to show it up. The picture is a riot from beginning to end. You can't afford to miss it. As an added feature, the Palace is presenting for Wednesday night only Adolfo Giron and his Lebanon Country Club orchestra, on the Palace stage, in a program of snappy and syncopated melodies.

"Courage," the stupendous comedy-drama of a mother and her brood of seven children with Belle Bennett as the mother, will be shown at the Palace for the last times today. This dramatic story has an appeal for everyone and while it is not a tear story it is one which will move the stoniest-hearted theatre-goer.

Hound Adopts Two Tiger Cubs.

Two baby tigers, now in the menagerie of Sparks circus, owe their lives to a dog, for when the little jungle cats were born several weeks ago, the mother refused to care for them, and a hound with a litter of puppies of her own was induced to add the small striped beasts to her family. The hound bestowed upon the cubs all the attention that she gave her own puppies, and the little tigers thrived under the care of their foster mother.

It is not at all unusual for the tigress in captivity to refuse to care for her first-born, and sometimes she will even kil her offspring. Franz Woska, wild animal trainer with Sparks circus, saved the lives of the new arrivals by promptly removing them from the cage of the tigress, and introducing them to Trixie, the hound, whose maternal instinct was at once appealed to when the cubs were placed in her care.

Sparks circus, with the largest group of trained tigers now being exhibited, gives afternoon and night performances in Norwich next Friday.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

Seems like magic to know that the good old "battle-wagon" the U.S.S. Mississippi, could be in two places at once, but here she is comfortably at anchor down off Ocean Beach, and also shooting her way to victory in the fleet gunnery practice on the Broadway screen. Clara Bow in "True to the Navy," her latest and peppiest comedy-romance, is responsible for the "Sippi's" presence here in Norwich, and with her happy-go-lucky crew, that little Bow girl will delight audiences at the cool Broadway for the last time with today's showings. Beginning tomorrow that lovable he-man, Richard Dix, opens a three-day engagement, with his best-liked leading lady, Lois Wilson, re-united in a merry, fast-moving comedy of high society, "Lovin' the Ladies," in which Dix is at his best as a roughneck electrician, inveigled into a pretty love-plot by some society idlers, who make a $5,000 wager that there's no such thing as love, and that any two young people, forced into one another's company for a brief period will have all the symptoms and none of the thrills of real love. Dix, being, as girls of all ages swear, "not hard to look at," and possessing plenty of what, in young ladies i called "It," is promised a sum o' money to impersonate a young society man, and deliberately force a certain flighty and flirty deb to fall seriously in love with him. He succeeds but too well, for in no time, he has all the girls of the colony running themselves ragged for a moment alone with him, and the situations in which the husky and somewhat bashful electrician finds himself are nothing short of hilarious. The surrounding program is equally joyous, making for ideal-hot-weather entertainment.

FR. LESNIAK CELEBRATES FIRST MASS SUNDAY A. M.

Rev. Joseph F. Lesniak, newly appointed pastor of the Polish National Catholic church, celebrated his first mass at the local church Sunday morning at 10.30 o'clock with a large number of parishioners and their friends attending. Rev. Fr. Lesniak was assigned to the local church by Rt. Rev. W. Gauryshowski and succeeds Rev. J. Guderski, who has been transferred to Amsterdam, N. Y.

During the mass a procession comprising little girls in white dresses and boys in white blouses and dark colored trousers marched through the aisles strewing flowers in commemoration of the first day, Whit Sunday. The choir also rendered several fine hymns. The altar was prettily decorated with palms and other flowers.

Rev. Fr. Lesniak took for the topic of his sermon, The Fruit of the Holy Spirit, stressing these three points, prayer, unity of the mind in the church and the necessity of frequent holy communion. He also spoke of the wonderful achievements which Poland has made since gaining its independence in 1920.

Following his stirring sermon Rev. Fr. Lesniak outlined a number of changes that will be made in the affairs of the church. On Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons from 4.30 to 7 o'clock special courses in the Polish language will be given the children and on Saturday afternoon from 1 to 4 a catechism class will be held. There will also be special rehearsals for the choir.

A reception was held after the church service when the parishioners were given an opportunity to meet the new pastor.

At 7.30 o'clock Sunday evening Children's Day exercises were held at the Third Baptist church and were largely attended. Rev. William J. Sly, the new pastor, was in charge. The altar was effectively trimmed with choice flowers. The program carried out was as follows:

PROVIDING WATER SUPPLY FOR BAY CO., VERSAILLES

Work on the 1,800 feet of six inch pipe line which has been under construction for the past two months, leading from the Occum mill pond to the plant of the Bay company of Versailles, is rapidly nearing completion. The construction of the 240,000-gallon steel tank located in the mill yard of the Bay company is also receiving its finishing touches. A 300-gallon p. m. pump driven by a 25 h. p. motor, both pump and motor being housed in a building at the pond end of the line, were given a try out on Friday, the equipment being satisfactory, the 240,000 gallon tank being filled in a little than a six hour run.

The new water system will give the Bay company a water supply which will meet the exacting demands of the company in its bleaching department, both in quality and quantity.

TAFTVILLE

An interesting program to be given in connection with the monthly meeting of the Lisbon Community club Wednesday evening at its clubhouse in Lisbon has been arranged by the committee in charge. NORWICH TOWN Preceding the regular service Sunday evening of the Young People's C. E. society of the Congregational church, a business meeting was held, with the president, Miss Eleanor Smith, in the chair. The topic for discussion, "Prayer in the Life of Leaders," was ably treated by Robert S. Storrs, Jr. This was a consecration meeting and the Scripture reference was in Mark and Luke.

Reception For Mission Workers

The Congregational mid-week service of conference and prayer is to be omitted this week Thursday evening. That evening, in the chapel, from eight to ten o'clock the church, under the auspices of the women's department of the League of Service, is to give a reception to its returned missionaries, Miss Gertrude S. Avery, for five and one-half years in India, who returned home in May, and Miss Ruth Beebe, of Trinity school, Athens, Alabama, who arrived at her home in Norwich Town at the week end, after an absence of about a year in the south. The reception is open to church members and members of the parish.

The offering at the Congregational church Sunday morning was for the Congregational Sunday School Extension society.

Recent week end guests of Mrs John Yetke of Wauwecus street included her sister, Mrs. Maurice McGraw and the latter's daughter, who attended Sunday morning service at the Methodist church, while in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert I. Saunders of Willimantic, Sunday afternoon conveyed to their home Mrs. Sanderson's mother, Mrs. Michael Buckley, and sister, Miss Marion Buckley, who were week end visitors at the Sanderson home.

Rev. George W. Potter, pastor of Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church, conducted service Sunday morning at nine o'clock at Norwich State hospital. He took for his theme, "Christ Is All," Colossians 3:11.

Methodist Pentecost Service.

Sunday morning in the Methodist Episcopal church a service in celebration of the 1900th anniversary of Pentecost was held. The preacher was Rev. Frederick G. Baker, pastor of the church 46 years ago. Rev. Mr. Baker took for his text Acts 2:16, "This is that" and his theme was "The Philosophy of Pentecost." "Pentecost," he said, "is the birthday of the Christian church, for it was on the day of Pentecost that the church was organized. The Christian church was born in a revival of religion. The people received a new appropriation of Divine power. The blessing of Pentecost came first to the friends and followers of Jesus Christ. Jesus had told His disciples that at Jerusalem they were to be imbued with the Holy Spirit. Pentecost opened the hearts and loosed their tongues so that they spoke in many languages. From the day of Pentecost the disciples were different men. It was of great rejoicing as 3,000 were baptized and acknowledged Jesus Christ as their Saviour."

The responsive lesson was led by the pastor, Rev. George Warren Potter, who also offered prayer. The Junior vested choir under directon of Mrs. Lewis E. Aldrich sang an anthem. The church was beatufully decorated with bouquets and baskets of sweet William, iris, swampapple blossoms and mountain laurel. The decorating was done by Virginia Ward and Florence Gemble. A specal printed souvenir calendar was given out which contained the order of service and the story of Pentecost. At the evening service the pastor preached on "The Evil Eye." Two of the Rotary Band trumpeters, Edward Jordan and Ellis Bentley, played several selections during the service.

A continuance of one week was granted, at his request, and he was allowed his liberty under bonds. Maynard was arrested Saturday evening about 7 o'clock, after he had driven his machine across the sidewalk and into a fence at the Howard D. Driscoll place, No. 159 North Main street. Officer William Ryan made the arrest.

In the city court Monday morning, John Lipsky of this city was presented on a charge of driving a machine without having liability insurance on it. At the time he was arrested it was thought that he was under 18 years of age, and would, therefore, be required by law to have liability insurance. It was learned at the court session that he is over 18 and the charge was nolled.

ANNUAL FIELD DAY BY NORTH STONINGTON SCHOOLS

The schools of North Stonington held their second annual field day last Friday at the fairgrounds there, all being well represented and about 125 children were on hand when the programme opened at 9.30. The committee in charge consisted of Miss Bertha Finch of Clark Falls school, and Miss Enea E. Zuccaner of Northwest Corner school, who was the field day chairman.

Mr. Connelly, supervisor of the North Stonington schools, acted as starter and the events were as follows:

75 yd. dash for boys; 50 yd. dash for girls; standing broad jump; running broad jump; running high jump; hop, step, and jump; accuracy baseball throw; sack race; potato race; wheelbarrow race; three-legged race.

The contestants were judged by Mrs. Reuben Cook, Mrs. Louise Pendleton and Mrs. Avis Palmer. Miss Finch and Miss Gregory were the score-keepers. The winners of each event were as follows:

Senior boys—Charles Cotrelle 27 pts; Rhodes Eccleston 16 pts; Colvin Geer 13 pts; Harold Jackson 13 pts.

Senior girls—Myrel Elias 31 pts; Ruth Crider 23 pts; Agnes Sylvia 13 pts.

Although the day was exceedingly warm, the pupils entered into the sports whole-heartedly. Sportsmanship was fine among the contestants.

Lunch being served between events, the pupils found themselves shady nooks and enjoyed their meals thoroughly after the strenuous exercise.

When the events were over, the older boys had a baseball game.

At 3 in the afternoon, the children departed in groups, having had a fine day of physical education. Besides the physical side, the field day tends to bring the schools closer together, creating a social spirit and promoting good feeling among the pupils. It is hoped by those in charge to continue the custom of having field day annually.

MAY INQUIRE FURTHER INTO THE ACTIVITIES OF CANNON

Concerning Contributions Made to the Bishop For His 1928 Anti-Smith Campaign— John Holland Has Been Directed to Obtain Additional Data On Money Given By E. C. Jameson, New York Capitalist — Lobby Committee Wants the Information On Hand In Case Cannon Should Be Recalled—Chairman Caraway Has a Plan to Deal With the Bishop Which It Is Expected He Will Propose Today.

WASHINGTON, June 10—(AP)—Further inquiry into the political activities of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., by the senate lobby committee was considered a possibility today as the investigators found themselves unable to agree on what should be done about his defiance.

Another round of conferences left the committee members as sharply divided as ever on what action should be taken as the result of the Southern Methodist bishop's refusal to answer questions about his 1928 anti-Smith activities and his abrupt departure from the committee room last Thursday.

A formal meeting of the committee has been called for tomorrow and renewed attempts will be made then to reach an agreement. A number of proposals have been advanced but each one has encountered opposition.

Support for the belief that the committee may inquire further into Cannon's political activities was seen in a trip to New York by John Holland, committee investigator to obtain additional information regarding contributions made to Cannon during the 1928 presidential campaign by E. C. Jameson, a New York capitalist.

Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, said the committee had not decided to make additional inquiries but it wanted the information in the event it should agree upon that procedure. Holland made the trip at the suggestion of Senator Blaine, republican, Wisconsin. He is expected back tomorrow.

At the same time, Walsh said he favored asking the senate for specific authority to inquire into political activities. At least two of the five committee members, however, were opposed to this plan and it was uncertain whether it would be adopted.

If the senate did grant specific authority, Cannon would have to be subpoenaed unless he appeared voluntarily. When he walked out on the committee he said he would not answer any more questions unless subpoenaed.

Chairman Caraway, who was absent in Arkansas when Cannon defied the committee, said he had evolved a plan for dealing with the bishop but he would not divulge its nature. It is expected to be proposed at the meeting tomorrow.

Jameson testified he had contributed $65,300 to Cannon for use in the 1928 anti-Smith campaign. Receipt of $17,000 was reported to congress and Cannon explained he had not reported the remainder because it was not required by law.

After refusing to tell the lobby committee what had been done with the other $48,300, he issued a statement saying it was distributed among the Virginia congressional districts.

TEN LARGEST CITIES IN ORDER OF POPULATION

WASHINGTON, June 10—(AP)—With the relative rank of those two new million-mark cities, Detroit and Los Angeles, definitely established, the 1930 rating of the ten greatest urban centers is now a certainty with a single exception.

Boston may possibly push St. Louis, which came in with only 5.7 per cent increase out of seventh place. This might not appear to be a strong probability since other large Massachusetts cities have shown small increases or slight decreases.

If Boston remains in her present place, the big ten will read, in order of population, New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, Los Angeles, Cleveland, St. Louis, Boston, Baltimore and Pittsburgh.

Though the increase rate of Los Angeles in the past ten years (115.39) was almost double that of Detroit, (67.4) she couldn't quite catch up, for Detroit also was moving at a speed spectacular among great cities.

CLUES TO THE SLAYER OF REPORTER "JAKE" LINGLE

CHICAGO, June 10—(AP)—A silk glove for the left hand and a short-barreled revolver from which the serial number had been cut away, tonight were the only tangible clues on which authorities pinned hopes for the capture of the man who yesterday shot down Alfred "Jake" Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, in a crowded pedestrian subway leading to the Illinois Central suburban station at Randolph street near the public library.

Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, had his squad scouring the city for a left-handed ex-convict, saying the man was known to the police as a killer.

The glove was found near the scene of the murder and was presumed to have been used by the assassin to prevent finger prints on the weapon, with which he fired a bullet into the back of Lingle's head. The slayer sat the pistol aside as he dashed to his escape through throngs of people in the subway and Michigan avenue.

APPEALS FROM RELOCATION OF ROAD LINES IN EAST LYME

HARTFORD, June 10—(AP)—Relocation of the boundaries of the Boston Post road in East Lyme by the state highway department has resulted in 17 appeals to the New London county superior court, each alleging the relocated road does not follow the old boundaries and takes as part of the highway property which belongs, in fact, to the appellants. The attorney-general will defend the suits. Those who have taken appeals from the new layout, a map of which was made part of the East Lyme records on March 31, are:

Lillian Barber, Alva Morgan, E. Peckham Barber, Gerald Howe Wilbur F. Newton, Benjamin J. Hislop, Chelsea M. Sharp, Michael Havrilla and wife, Ruby Parker, Sarah Morgan, John Frazier, Arnold Levine, Ella Sexton, Angelo Felosie, Ebenezer Frazier, Fleming Lougbeed, and Clarence Beebe.

INVESTIGATING FIRE WHICH EXPOSED DISTILLING PLANT

NEW YORK, June 10—(AP)—Twelve witnesses were called today before a federal grand jury investigating the fire which uncovered a huge alcohol distilling plant last Thursday in the supposedly empty upper stories of a West Side warehouse.

One of the witnesses was Lawrence Bestman, attorney, who drew up the lease for the owners of the building when it was rented to a machinery manufacturing concern which was to occupy only the ground floor.

The second of the three bodies found in the building after the fire was identified today as that of Max Schiffman, a former gunman, who used the ring name of Harry "Red" Williams.

Arthur H. Schwartz, assistant U. S. attorney, believed Schiffman had been hired to pose as the head of the liquor ring which used the warehouse as its headquarters.

One of the bodies remains unclaimed, the other having been identified as Louis Dutlick, 32.

CAROL HAS REORGANIZED THE RUMANIAN ARMY

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 10.—(AP)—Reorganization of the army today was accomplished by King Carol I, as the first important step in a program of stabilization of the affairs of Rumania.

The young king, who last week astonished the world by turning swiftly from affairs of the heart to those of his native land, today appointed Prince Nikolaus general-inspector of the water and land air forces. He appointed Generals Averescu and Presan field marshals by a special act.

The newly elevated king spent practically his whole day receiving members of the officers' corps of all branches of the service, who swore allegiance, and with matters bearing directly upon the formation of a new government.

DEMAND FOR RECORDS OF TRAFFIC IN "GINGER JAKE"

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(AP)— All records of the agriculture department regarding bootleg traffic in "ginger jake," a product misrepresented as standard Jamaica ginger extract and sold for beverage purposes, were demanded today by the senate agriculture committee after it was informed that officials considered the traffic "a prohibition problem."

Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, declared before the committee he "understood thousands of cases" of paralysis, blindness and reported deaths had resulted from drinking the extract. Wheeler said he was "told the product is going all over the country," that it is "being sold wholesale, in interstate commerce, with a standard label."

NEGOTIATING SETTLEMENT OF $20,000,000 DOHENY SUIT

LOS ANGELES, June 10—(AP)—The suit brought against Edward L. Doheny and the Pan-American Petroleum ransport company by Frank Kunkel, Cleveland, Ohio attorney and others, who seek recovery of $20,000,000 was taken off the calendar today by Federal Judge George Cosgrave. Opposing attorneys indicated a settlement was being negotiated. The suit which has been pending for some time, was to have come to trial today.

Kunkel acting for himself and other holders of Doheny oil stocks complained they had lost $20,000,000 consequent to Doheny asserted fraudulent actions in leasing naval oil reserves through former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall.

OPENING OF THE WISCONSIN REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

OSHKOSH, Wis., June 10.—(AP)—No major points of difference developed, on the convention floor at least, between the progressive faction, headed by United States Senator Robert LaFollette, Jr., and the conservative wing, led by Governor Walter J. Kohler, at the opening session of the republican convention today.

A. E. Fontaine of Green Bay, convention chairman and a conservative, attacked chain stores and chain banking, a stand which was concurred in by the LaFollette group. The suggestion under consideration would call for legislation to give the state licensing powers over absentee companies.

Save for the place on the head of the state ticket, accorded generally by observers to Governor Walter J. Kohler, bidding for the balance of the ticket was spirited. Governor Kohler, recently acquitted of charges that he spent excessive sums to secure his election, is a manufacturer of Kohler, Wis.

GUILTY OF INCITING ASSAULT UPON POLICE

NEWARK, N. J., June 10.—(AP)—After seven witnesses had been forbidden to testify because they said they didn't believe in God, a jury that deliberated half an hour today found Dozier W. Graham guilty of inciting an assault upon the police.

Graham, a Negro and communist candidate for the United States senate, was one of eight arrested last winter for shouting "Fight the police," when communist gatherings were being broken up. The only other one of the group to be tried so far was Dominick Flaiani, who was also convicted. They face sentence Monday, the maximum penalty being seven years in prison and a fine of $3,000.

Atheists were allowed to testify at Flaiani's trial but today Judge Walter Van Riper ruled otherwise, citing an 1837 precedent in support of his decision.

DISCLOSURE MADE OF COMMUNIST ACTIVITIES

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(AP)—Disclosure that the justice department had suspended its work of watching the activities of communists in this country in 1924 because of inadequacy of laws and funds was made today before the special house communists' investigating committee by J. Edgar Hoover, director of investigation of the department.

After the secret session today, Representative Hamilton Fish, republican, New York, said Hoover charged "the communists' party of America has organized a special committee to incite revolutionary activities among the Negroes and to send selected Negroes to Moscow for special communistic training for world revolution."

FOR UNIFORM LABOR AND PUBLIC WELFARE LAWS

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(AP)—Representative LaGuardia, republican, New York, today proposed a national conference to formulate uniform labor and public welfare laws to decrease unemployment distress.

The conference, under a resolution introduced by the New Yorker, would be directed to study such problems as the daily hours of service, employment of children, employment agencies and insurance, and old age pensions.

Discussing his measure in the house, LaGuardia urged it as a companion measure to the Wagner unemployment bills, upon which the house judiciary committee will open hearings tomorrow.

Step For Improvement Of Textile Industry

President Hoover Has Signed a Bill Creating the "Textile Foundation."

WASHINGTON, June 10. —(AP)— A broad step toward the development and improvement of the textile industry of the nation was taken when President Hoover signed a bill creating the "textile foundation."

The foundation, a corporate body, may accept nearly $2,000,000 from the Textile Alliance, incorporated, of New York, to expend for scientific and economic research for the benefit and development of the textile industry and its allied branches.

It will consist of the secretaries of commerce and agriculture and three persons familiar with the industry to be named by the chief executive. They will serve without compensation.

The foundation is a result of the World war. During that period, the American government found itself without sufficient importations of wool, flax, and other raw materials of the textile industry, in addition to dyes. The British government placed an embargo on numerous textile commodities and it was impossible to obtain dye from Germany.

The Textile Alliance, Inc., of New York, a non-profit organization, was organized in 1914, to protect mill owners and operators, and to prevent abuses, unjust and unlawful exactions, and deceptions in the manufacture of mill supplies. In obtaining wool and dyes during and after the war period, there accumulated profits which were not disposed of because of a treasury department effort to collect a tax on them.

A definite settlement was demanded by the officers of the alliance, and an agreement was reached whereby the federal government would begin a friendly suit against the alliance to obtain a settlement in court. No officer of the government is authorized to make such a settlement under the existing law.

The dyes were obtained far below cost through the alliance.

To keep from breaking the American dye market the alliance did not pass on this reduction in selling to American customers, thus accumulating the fund now to be disposed of.

OPENING OF ALIANO MURDER TRIAL IN HARTFORD

HARTFORD, June 10—(AP)—A severe attack by Thomas J. Spellacy, chief of counsel for the defense, on the methods used by Detective Sergeant Nicholas R. Gallicchio in investigating the slaying of Alphonso Minniti last December 4 and the manner in which he prepared the dying man's statement accusing Sebastian Aliano of his murder furnished the climax of the first day of Aliano's trial in superior court today.

Harried by repeated summons before the grand jury, twelve members of which were in the courtroom, by the serious illness of his wife, from whose hospital bed he came to the trial and weary from a sleepless night spent on his regular tour of duty on the midnight shift in the detective bureau, the Italian nevertheless was suave and smiling when he left the stand at adjournment of court at 5 p. m.

The defense, however, had not finished questioning him and he will be recalled to the stand when the trial is resumed at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

12 FIREMEN WERE OVERCOME BY SMOKE IN LOWELL, MASS.

LOWELL, Mass., June 10—(AP)—Twelve firemen were overcome by smoke and others cut by glass, three buildings were destroyed and damage estimated by property owners at $200,000 was done by a fire here tonight.

The fire started in the three-story wooden building of the Ryan Hay and Grain company. It then attacked the lumber yard of Otis Allen and Son company, and destroyed two buildings. A large supply of lumber was also destroyed.

Firemen won a hard fight to keep the flames away from a large gas supply tank of the Lowell Gas company. Aid was called from Dracut and Billerica to protect other parts of the city. The fire was in a congested lumber and tenement district and caused considerable concern.

OLD LYME, June 10.—(AP)—A Colonial house, its lines suggestive of the south, which sits on a sightly spot overlooking the Connecticut river, may be a summer resting place for Col. Charles A. and Mrs. Lindbergh.

The house, one of three on the estate of the late J. N. Brown, has been taken for the season by Mrs. E. K. Dillingham, of Texas, cousin of Mrs. Dwight C. Morrow, mother of Mrs Lindbergh. She will come here with her daughter on Saturday.

To Assert Rights For Naval Treaty Notes

Senate Foreign Relation Committee to Endeavor to Get Them From the President.

WASHINGTON, June 10—(AP)—The senate foreign relations committee is prepared to assert in a formal resolution its rights to the notes denied it by President Hoover.

Just how far the adoption of this resolution, which is generally expected by committee members on Thursday will go in the row over ratification of the London naval treaty is problematical but there were indications, tonight that some members would insist that action on the treaty be deferred until the papers have been received. The papers were exchanged among the various powers in negotiations prior to the parley.

Senator Black, democrat, Alabama, who has been counted among the supporters of the treaty proposed the resolution asserting the committee's right to the secret papers. There is more than a possibility that Mr. Hoover's refusal to give up these documents may be made the excuse of several senators in opposing prompt action on the pact.

Meanwhile, both those circulating petitions asking a delay in consideration of the treaty and those soliciting signers to one asking the members to stay here until the pact is voted upon claimed 25 signatures today.

The "young guard" republicans who started their petition proposing to keep the senate here for the treaty debate seemed willing to let the matter rest where it is, confident they have checked the move of the republican old guard "irreconcilables," led by Senators Moses, of New Hampshire, and Hale, of Maine, for postponement until next fall.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, the republican leader was signed up on the round robin of the "young guard" proposing the senate stay in session this summer until the treaty is voted upon. With his name, treaty advocates were confident they could muster a majority, if necessary.

WOULD HAVE A "RADIO ALARM CHANNEL" FOR SHIPS

NEW YORK, June 10—(AP)—O. H. Caldwell, former member of the federal radio commission, suggested tonight that vessels sending out SOS signals should have a "radio alarm channel," for their exclusive use, which would make interruption of broadcast programs unnecessary.

Alluding to the SOS that interrupted the address of former Senator Reed of Missouri Saturday night, Mr. Caldwell emphasized the point that the SOS calling wave is 600 meters, while the program broadcast band begins at 547 meters, with the result that powerful broadcast signals "spill over" and blanket faint SOS calls.

Moving of the SOS from 600 meters to either 750 meters, or some other more remote channel, was urged at the last international conference in Washington, Mr. Caldwell said, but seventy-five nations would have to ratify the change, and apparatus of thousands of ships would have to be converted to a new calling wave length.

COSMOPOLITAN BANK OF CINCINNATI CLOSED

CINCINNATI, O., June 10.—(AP)—The state banking department today closed the Cosmopolitan Bank and Trust company and its seven branches because its capital was impaired by the unsuccessful stock market gambling of A. W. Shafer, discharged district manager of the Henry L. Doherty company, New York, one of its largest depositors.

After an initial survey, examiners said Shafer was short $623,000 in his accounts with the bank. Previously the examiners disclosed Shafer had peculated practically as much more from the Doherty company, dealers in City Service stocks, and that the total defalcation would surpass $1,000,000 and might reach $1,250,000.

Official investigators simultaneously said the Doherty company was not responsible for the bank's closing and that the financial tangle resulted from Shafer's operations.

BILLY GIBSON HAS AN ESTATE OF ONLY $24,886.92

NEW YORK, June 10—(AP)—Billy Gibson, who handled hundreds of thousands of dollars as managar for Gene Tunney and Benny Leonard when both were champions of the ring, has an estate of only $24,886.92, it was disclosed today in supreme court.

Justice Lydon today signed an order of which the financial record was a part, confirming the findings of a sheriff's jury that Gibson is mentally incompetent. He is a patient in a sanitarium at Beacon, N. Y.

Grief over the death of his wife in 1928 is said to have led to his mental derangement.

SEVERAL PERSONS INJURED WHEN STEAMER AND OIL TANKER COLLIDED

BOSTON, June 10—(AP)—The steamship Fairfax of the Merchants and Miners Transportation company, carrying 71 passengers from Boston for Philadelphia and Baltimore collided in a fog tonight with an oil tanker at sea off Scituate, Mass. Several passengers were reported badly injured and the tanker, whose identity was not determined immediately, was reported sunk.

News of the accident was received at the offices of the line here but details were lacking several hours after the collision.

The steamship Gloucester of the same line and following a similar course as the Fairfax was in the vicinity at the time of the collision and went to the aid of the two ships. She reported to the offices of the company that the passengers were being transferred to her and that she would bring them back to Boston.

On the basis of the meagre reports received, ambulances, physicians and nurses were summoned to the pier and arrangements were made to transfer the injured immediately to a hospital.

An almost impenetrable, pea-soup fog blanketed the coast and it was believed hours would be required to make the trip into the harbor. From the pier here it was impossible to see more than a few feet out over the water.

The Fairfax, a steamship of 5600 gross tons was making her first trip of the season. She was under the command of Captain Archibald Brooks, and carried a crew of 70 men. She sailed from her pier here at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Fog then hung over the harbor and she moved out slowly. The point at which the collision was reported to have occurred is about 27 miles out in Massachusetts bay.

The only details of the collision were contained in the message of Captain Brooks to his superiors here. His dispatch said:

"Anchored off Scituate. Sank oil tanker. Ship badly damaged from accident. Several passengers burned. Will transfer all passengers to the Gloucester returning to Boston. Fairfax will also return as soon as possible. Have doctors and ambulance meet at pier."

While the ambulances and doctors were gathering at the pier, three women appeared and entered the offices. They said they had friends aboard the steamer but declined to give their identity.

FINAL VOTE ON TARIFF BILL IN SENATE AT 2 P. M. FRIDAY

Hour Was Set By Unanimous Agreement—Senator Watson Predicts the Measure Will Be Passed By a Very Close Vote—Democrats Would Make No Predictions—If the Senate Takes Affirmative Action the Conference Report Will Be Called Up In the House Saturday.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(AP)—The fate of the tariff bill, believed to hinge on one or two votes, will be decided in the senate on Friday at 2 p. m.

This day and hour was set by unanimous consent of all senators today after it was found most of them could be present at that time.

"I think we will win but it is very close," was the terse comment of Senator Watson, of Indiana, the republican leader.

Democrats were making no predictions, but strangely enough they were looking to Pennsylvania's two republican senators, Reed and Grundy, to help defeat the bill. Both still were in the doubtful column tonight. Reed is expected to make his position known tomorrow on the floor.

Chairman Hawley, of the house ways and means committee, announced in the house that he would call up the conference reports on the measure on Saturday if the senate takes affirmative action.

The first test will come on a motion to recommit the measure to conference. Senator Blaine, republican independent, Wisconsin, entered such a motion today with a protest that the conferees had disregarded all scientific bases in arriving at the duty on cheese.

Arguing for adoption of the conference reports, Senator Watson asserted the bill as it now stands "very nearly approximates the desire expressed by the president to have a revision of the agricultural rates and for the benefit only of those industries which have been suffering because of foreign competition."

He disputed arguments that the measure represented a general revision, contending only 34 per cent of the thousands of named commodities had been changed.

Senator McCulloch, republican, Ohio, also spoke for the bill, saying he would vote for it, however, only because of the flexible provision which would permit the president and tariff commission to correct any mistakes made by the congress.

Declaring the delay in passage of the bill had caused in some measure the business depression existing today, the Ohioan said if the bill were defeated the uncertainty would continue because there would be agitation for another tariff revision.

Several times there were cries of "vote" and at one time the senate was on the verge of a final roll call. No senator was on his feet to speak and Vice President Curtis put the question. The roll call was about to start when Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, suggested the absence of a quorum and the tensity subsided.

The time for a vote was agreed upon only after half a dozen senators suggested they had engagements which would prevent them being on hand earlier than Friday afternoon.

Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire, wanted to leave Friday to attend exercises at Dartmouth college and suggested a vote Thursday but the Friday hour determined upon met his wishes.

Senator Blaine objected to a vote tomorrow on the ground the lobby committee had scheduled a session to determine what to do about Bishop Cannon and he held that was more important than the tariff.

DRY AGENT FORCED TO RESIGN HIS FRATERNITY OFFICE

BALTIMORE, June 10.—(AP) — A national office of Gamma Eta Gamma, national legal fraternity, has been forced to resign his office which he had used in his activities as a prohibition agent, it was revealed here today by the Omicron chapter, attached to the University of Maryland.

Jonas M. Smith, high recorder-treasurer of the fraternity, resigned after the action had been demanded by Omicron chapter and the Baltimore alumni unit after he had pursuaded fraternity "brothers" to take him to two saloons, here, one of which later was raided on information he furnished, and the other was closed to avoid a similar fate.

The two local bodies threatened to withdraw unless Smith resigned.

Smith's resignation came following conferences between national officers of the fraternity and the local groups who had conducted an investigation into his activities. At the time of his resignation Smith, who is a Washington attorney in addition to his prohibition connections, was a member of the national inter-fraternity board.

OFFERED NO DEFENSE FOR SECOND DEGREE MURDER

NEWARK, N. J., June 10. — (AP) — Frank D. Crawford, retired business man who strangled his wife last April at the conclusion of an all night quarrel, today offered a plea of no defense to a charge of second degree murder.

He will be sentenced June 30. The maximum penlaty is 30 years imprisonment. The law does not set a minimum.

Crawford called police on the morning of April 13 and told them he had killed his wife. He said they had been quarrelling during the day and continued through the night. Finally, he said, she started to scream at him and he took her by the throat to silence her cries. Their 14-year-old son attempted to intrfere and was brushed aside. When he released her she was dead.

He was pale and haggard and made his plea in a low voice. He nodded his head when the judge asked him if he knew that a plea of non vult was tantamount to one of guilty.

NO IMMEDIATE SELF GOVERNMENT FOR INDIA

LONDON, June 10—(AP)—Discussion of the first volume of Sir John Simon's Indian government report today overshadowed all other developments in the Indian situation.

The Indian press did not take as kindly to the initial installment, which was a thorough analysis, as had been hoped. Hindu leaders criticized it severely. It had fewer friends among congress spokesmen than before its publication.

London newspapers paid tribute to the achievement of the Simon commission, emphasized its importance, praised the unanimity of its members and stressed a likelihood that whatever recommendations may be contained in the second and final release on June 24, the self-determination of native India remained a matter of the distant future.

The Mail and the Telegraph saw in the report no prospect of self government at short notice and nothing to comfort Indian extremists who have demanded early establishment of a dominion status.

CRUSADE IN NEW YORK AGAINST POISON LIQUOR

NEW YORK, June 10—(AP)—Dressed as down-and-outers more than 50 prohibition agents today began a crusade against places alleged to be selling wood alcohol and other poison liquor in the neighborhood of the Bowery. Prohibition Administrator Maurice Campbell led the raids.

Poison liquor has been blamed for many deaths recently among the frequenters of Bowery speakeasies.

In a drug store on the Bowery the manager was arrested by agents who charged he sold them a bottle of denatured alcohol for 25 cents. A drum and 500 bottles marked "poison—denatured alcohol" were seized. In another drug store the owner's wife was arrested for selling alcohol for 25 cents a bottle.

A bartender and another employe of an alleged speakeasy on the Bowery were arrested and agents seized a gallon of what they described as whiskey-colored alcohol.

RAIN MARRED FIRST DAY OF SHRINE CONVENTION

TORONTO, June 10—(AP)—Rain marred the grand opening program of the International Shrine convention today, causing postponement until tomorrow of the parade of the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine along Lake Shore boulevard and cancellation of a dozen other outdoor events scheduled for the day.

Because of the steady downpour thousands of delegates and visitors deserted the streets, which for the past three days have been overflowing with excitement-seeking throngs.

Burlesque, mystical rites, dramatic recitals, sword dances and side shows of all descriptions sprang up in hotel lobbies, corridors and sheltered doorways, and only a handful of Nobles, garbed in Shrine raincoats, caps and umbrellas, braved the rain for an impromptu parade through the streets.

Sorrow For C. M. Ams' Death

There was sadness in the village last week when the news of the passing of the owner, Charles M. Ams, became known. Although an invalid for a numbers of years he bore his burden with heroic fortitude and never was known to complain. For a number of years he had planned to build a handsome house on the summit of one of the hills and last year saw this project started. During the winter he made numerous trips here from his beautiful home in Pelham, N. Y., and this spring, in April, the house was completed and entirely furnished and Mr. Ams had the extreme pleasure of seeing his desire fulfilled, as he was able to enjoy two week ends in this new mansion, the only draw-back being the illness of his wife, who was unable to accompany him on these trips. On the last stay here he made plans for a housewarming to which the townspeople were to be invited when he and his wife came for the summer. Being a man with great civic pride, he assisted the town financially in building the new road to Colchester and in many other ways showed his great interest in the town in which he had invested such a large amount of his wealth. During his ill health he had the undivided attention of his devoted wife. Services were held at the home in Pelham, on Wednesday, May 28th. The body was cremated and the ashes placed in the family mausoleum in Woodlawn cemetery. Beside his wife, he leaves a son, Max, and a daughter, Mrs. Conrad Trudenbach, two grandchildren, two brothers and a sister.

DANIELSON

KILLINGLY ALUMNI HOLDS ITS ANNUAL BANQUET

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 10.— Members of the senior class of Killingly high school were guests tonight at the annual banquet of the Alumni association, held in the vestry of the Westfield Congregational church, and with upwards of 100 in attendance. Franklin D. Crosby, '22, presided as toastmaster and Herbert H. Pepler was song leader.

After the opening song number Rev. Harding W. Gaylord, pastor of the church, made the invocation. The alumni members and their guests joined in singing the K. H. S. Alumni song, written by Toastmaster Crosby and sung to the swinging rhythm of the Maine Stein song.

The menu was suggestive of outstanding figures among the alumni members and was as follows:

Marland Fruit Cup
Cleveland Celery
Olives Picked by Bodo
Radishes Raised by Bruce
Roast Chicken A La Cunneen
Flora Dressing
Brown Gravy, Gallup Style
Crosby Brand Green Peas
Young Carrots of 1929
Mashed Potatoes Au Heneault
Parker Rolls and Butter
Maynard Orange Sherbert
Demi Tasse by Greene
Warren Salted Nuts of 1930
Marjorie Mints

President Sidney P. Marland presided at the business session following the banquet and during which Principal Ernest R. Warren, an alumnus of Killingly high, and Miss Marion D. Chollar, for many years a member of the faculty of the school, but now retired from teaching, were among those responding. The address of the evening, Watcher of the Skies, was by Earl F. Wood, '11, former professor of English at Brown university and now spending the season at his country place in Brooklyn.

Reports covering the activities of the association during the past year were made by Miss Beatrice Maynard and members of this year's graduating class were introduced by Lindner Gallup, vice president of the Alumni association.

The members of the graduating class and the courses they have pursued are as follows: Classical course, Madeliene Teresa Fournier, Mildred Elizabeth Meech, Ruth Pilling Mellor; commercial course, Cecilia Ann Baranski, Anna Lillian Conklin, Florence Mae Ellison, Janet Elizabeth Kennedy, Florence Aldea Loiselle, Loretta Rosalinde Mullen, Neanette Napoleon, Gertrude Antoinette Schroll; general course, Frederic Fremont Arnold, George Woodrow Couture, Ernest Thanalius Elfgren, Alfred Sheldon Ennis, Helen Gladding Hutchins, Phyllis Irene Kenworthy, Monroe Olney Knight, Paul Allen Laurecka, Florence Edna Milliard, Herbert Moiz, Kenneth Wade Nason, Edward Nielson, Herbert Percival Parker, Robert Tyler Princeton, Eugene Parsons Shippee, Bernard Szafranski, Frank David Turner, Clarke Brayton Wood, Henry Ricewasser, Thomas Henry Ray; scientific course, Charles Samuel Dayton, Theodore Francis Hammett, Henrietta Moline Thompson.

In her annual report as visiting nurse of the Civic federation Miss Miriam Boomhower includes numbers of facts and statistics indicating the importance of the work being carried on and the beneficial effects it is having on the health of a very considerable number of persons, including pupils in the public schools.

During the year, 339 patients came under Miss Boomhower's care or observation. Of these 256 were medical patients, 21 surgical patients, 15 obstetrical cases and 28 tuberculosis patients. Her nursing visits numbered 1,299, her social service visits, 291, and her advisory visits 103, or a total of 1693 visitations of one classification or another. There were 108 paying patients, and the sum of $230.45 was received. There were 199 free patients.

In the way of relief 818 garments were given away, and also 62 pairs of shoes, 21 hats, 11 quilts or blankets, 4 carpets and rugs, 4 pillows and 2 mattresses. There was also given out in relief work quantities of cooked food, sandwiches, canned and fresh fruit, vegetables, berries, eggs, milk, dishes, books, magazines, toys, dolls, flowers, ice cream and some money, this made possible by gifts from many kind-hearted people and from various organizations.

Miss Boomhower's work in the schools was of real importance. She spent 40 half days in school rooms. Her report includes the comment that it is a pleasure to note the improved condition, in many cases, of throat and teeth. More pupils are taking pride in proper care of their teeth. Heads of school children are also being kept much cleaner.

Miss Boomhower notes that Dr. Hugh Campbell of Norwich has held monthly clinics here for the examination of those who are, or have symptoms of tuberculosis. The clinics have been attended by 108 people, 56 of whom were examined for the first time. Among these, 6 positive pulmonary cases and 3 glandular cases were found. Several have been hospitalized.

Milk is being furnished to six families in which are 24 children, and this is paid for from the Christmas Seal fund. Monthly visits are paid to the town farm. These are purely social visits, and gifts of candy, fruit, games, flowers and magazines are given to the inmates. These things are paid for from the Mary Dexter fund for that purpose.

Henceforth, baseball playing on Davis park is forbidden. This was announced today following a meeting of the warden and court of burgesses, who adjourned last evening in respect to the memory of former Warden Charles H. Bacon, dead at his home on Main street.

Many citizens have long protested or silently objected to what they consider the abuse of he park by boys playing baseball. The grass has been worn down to the bare ground and the general appearance of the southeasterly section of the park marred by the practice. The new ruling against ball playing on the park will be strictly enforced.

Another special borough meeting is scheduled for the coming week, on Tuesday evening next, to pass further on matters pertaining to sidewalks and to the bond issue authorized at a recent special borough meeting. At the coming meeting the voters will have an opportunity to express themselves and go on record as to the provisions, conditions, terms and arrangements under which the bonds shall be issued, a chief point having to do with the retirement feature.

NEW WINGS OF ST. MARY'S PROVINCIAL HOUSE DEDICATED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, June 10.—A pontifical high mass, celebrated by Rt. Rev. Maurice McAuliffe, auxiliary bishop of Hartford, at 10 o'clock this morning in the new chapel of the recently completed wing of the provincial house of the Sisters of the Holy Ghost on Church street, was the outstanding feature on an elaborate programme of events that marked the dedication of the new building.

The chapel, one of many beautiful chambers in the new religious structure, was filled to its seating capacity when Bishop McAuliffe ascended to the altar to begin the celebration of the mass. He was assisted by Rev U. O. Bellerose, pastor of St. Mary's, this city, in the capacity of assistant priest. Other officers of the mass were Rev. J. J. McCabe, pastor St. Mary's, Jewett City, deacon; Rev. John C. Mathieu, St. Joseph's church, North Grosvenordale, sub-deacon, and Rt. Rev. Monsignor Flynn of St. Patrick's church, Hartford, served as master of ceremonies.

The ceremony was one of the most elaborate of the church and the deep solemnity with which it was carried out added to the impressiveness of the mass. At the conclusion of the mass, Bishop McAuliffe imparted his blessing on the beautiful edifice. The ceremonies closed at noon with benediction of the blessed sacrament.

The chapel, in itself a work of art, was beautifully adorned for the occasion. Three altars, painted snow white, are situated at the west end. Above the center altar is a niche in which stands a life-size statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary. Off to the side of each of the smaller altars is a door leading into a sacristle, containing wardrobes for the ecclesiastical vestments of the clergymen. The architecture throughout the chapel is a type symbolical of the Roman period. The ceiling is panneled and is of white and gold in its color scheme. Religious paintings about the walls render a most beautiful effect. The woodwork and pews are of oak and walnut and the darkened color of the wood blends delightfully with the brighter colors of the ceiling and sanctuary.

The solemn consecration which took place this morning was attended by 25 mothers, representative of the various branches of the order in surrounding cities, by many of the nuns, students at the Noviate school on Church street, and by several priests from various parishes in the Hartford diocese.

The exterior of the new building in which the chapel is contained is of brick and is of re-resistive construction. It is two stories in height and its design enhances not only the beauty of the Provincial house but also the entire section of Church street which overlooks the Quinebaug river at one of its most picturesque spots.

A class of 257 boys and girls and a number of adults were received into the church this afternoon at 4 o'clock when Rt. Rev. Maurice McAuliffe, auxiliary bishop of Hartford, administered the sacrament of confirmation at impressive ceremonies held at St Mary's church. The church was filled by parents and friends of the members of the class. Bishop McAuliffe was assisted by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Flynn of St. Patrick's church, Hartford, and by a number of priests from churches in eastern Connecticut. At the conclusion of the exercises, Bishop McAuliffe addressed the class, impressing the meaning of church sacrament which the class had received.

FEDERAL TAX INCREASE?

At different times attention has been called to the need of giving more careful consideration to the financial situation if a deficit was to be avoided. It was pointed out that the tendency was to make appropriations which could not be met by the probable income, that the expected surplus was in danger of being wiped out unless a more careful check was placed upon the disposition to make appropriations. The need of keeping within budget requirements was emphasized.

Senator Watson is now calling attention to the effects of legislative action by pointing to the danger of forcing an increase in federal taxation in order to secure sufficient revenue to carry the government along.

It will be recalled that a cut was made in the income tax, involving $160,000,000, this year in order to relieve the drain upon the taxpayers in a time of unemployment. It was a cut to be effective only for a year but the hope was that it might be continued. If appropriations are pushed to the point where such a cut cannot be maintained it will have to be restored, and yet it is a reduction rather than an increase that is wanted. We have been making steady progress downward in federal taxation. It ought to be continued instead of retracing our steps and going backward to higher rates.

What prompted Senator Watson's statement was in part due to the action taken in congress by overriding the presidential veto concerning the Spanish war pension increase. It was generally recognized that a readjustment was deserved there but for political reasons it was voted in a manner which indicates trouble in connection with other legislation of a similar character. There seems to be no limit to the pension boosts for other veterans, far in excess of what the veterans and their leaders seek or desire, and Senator Watson considers is time to do some thinking of the consequences while there is time.

The purpose is to put a stop to pork barrel packing and to keep legislation within the bounds of reason and good judgment.

S O S CALLS AND RADIO

It doesn't make any difference who is occupying the air when an S O S call comes in, whether it is Amos and Andy, James A. Reed or someone else, the need of clearing the way for the prevention of the loss of life is of more importance than some programme of entertainment.

It is important, however, that S O S calls should be legitimate. The question has been raised as to whether that one Saturday night, while Mr. Reed was talking, was a bona fide call for assistance. Some have gained the idea that it was not, their suspicions having been aroused by the fact that he was directing part of his talk against the radio trust and was just entering upon that phase of it when the broadcast was stopped. The fact that efforts to locate the origin of the call have encountered slight results lends support to the claim that the shutting off of the address was due to the fact that he was dealing with the radio trust.

Where the responsibility for the situation rests is what is under inquiry. If there was actually such a call and it can be substantiated there is little ground for complaint. If it can be shown that the call was spurious it will be important to locate where the responsibility for it rests.

In order to offer every facility to vessels in distress, many interruptions are caused to radio programmes by S O S calls. It seems only the right thing to do. Only a few weeks ago, the collision of two steamers off the Jersey coast and the immediate call for help brought just such an interruption as that last Saturday night. Through the help given, both vessels were gotten to port without loss of life but, with less favorable weather conditions, or had more difficulty been experienced in getting help, the result might easily have been much different.

S O S calls should never be faked. They should not be resorted to for ulterior purposes. They are by no means a legitimate method of controlling broadcasts or preventing them. A checking up of the situation ought to demonstrate without much difficulty whether there was really an S O S call while Reed was speaking. If there was that should end all discussion.

BOTHERED BY HIS FRIENDS

Since Dwight W. Morrow opened his campaign for United States senatorial nomination in New Jersey, widespread recognition has been given to his fitness for the office. In New Jersey the chance to support him is welcomed, but as many another candidate has found out he is at the present time feeling the effects of some of his friends trying to do too much.

Hardly had Mr. Morrow's senatorial campaign been opened than he was pelted to by some of his ardent supporters as presidential timber. The reference was meant well enough and it was generally conceded that they were simply trying to point out his excellent qualifications, but it has been seized upon by his opponents in a manner which is intended to be embarrassing.

From what has been said it is easy to create the impression that Mr. Morrow has ambitions to run for the presidency, that he may be such a candidate in 1932, that he might make such a run on the strength of his declaration concerning prohibition. It is known, of course, that Mr. Morrow is a close friend of the president and that he would not seek to do anything that would embarrass the administration, and yet the position in which he has been thrust encourages speculation as to just what his intentions are. That is where his friends have made needless trouble for him. That is where his opponents in the present campaign are making most of the opportunity to create uncertainty as to what his real intentions are.

All of this could and should have been avoided. There is many a candidate for office who has been pointed to as highly desirable for some higher office without any serious expectation of such honor being conferred. The chance to indulge in the handing out of such a bouquet could not be resisted by Mr. Morrow's friends. They didn't look far enough ahead to note the consequences which are now piling up.

Mr. Morrow has deplored the use of his name in such a manner at this time. Naturally that doesn't get much attention from his adversaries. They like to keep the matter to the front for such political handicaps as it may bring to Mr. Morrow. While there is no doubt what his attitude under present circumstances is toward such talk, it is possible that he will be obliged to make quite as definite a statement concerning it as he did regarding prohibition.

19TH DISTRICT IGNORED

In the appointment of a commissioner for New London county by Governor Trumbull to fill one of the two vacancies, the 19th senatorial district has been ignored. With three commissioners and three senatorial districts in the county, justice plainly indicates that there should be a distribution of the commissionerships between the three districts. It hasn't always been so in the past. The 19th district, which is one of the large contributors to county expenses and naturally much interested in county affairs, has had no representation since the death of Commissioner Fellows. The 18th district has had a member and the 20th district has had two members.

Under the appointment which has just been made by the governor, the desirability of keeping the 20th district represented is recognized, but the 19th is passed by as if it had no legitimate claim for membership upon that board.

By the naming of a second member of the board, provision has been made after a long delay for the county board to once more function, and with the interests of the southern end of the county thoroughly provided for.

It was months ago that endorsement was given in this district to the candidacy of G. M. Charbonneau to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Commissioner Bradford. At the same time efforts to secure the appointment of citizens in both the 18th and the 20th districts were sought and the appointment of one in either of the districts would have maintained the same situation of having two commissioners in one of those districts, one in the other, and none in the 19th. By the appointment which has been made, the 19th continues to get no consideration whatever. Its just plea for representation continues to get no attention.

TRANSPORTATION CHANGES

According to a New Haven report, the daily loss of $3,000 in revenue from its passenger income on the trolleys is forcing a drastic curtailment of expenses and the laying off of many employes.

This represents a change that has been going on for a considerable time. There was the period when the suburban lines were chiefly affected, when they were being abandoned or the service curtailed. That has not only continued but the effect upon city trolley service is also being noted. Lines which are not paying to operate, indicating that the service is not demanded by a sufficient number to meet expenses, are being given up. In some instances they are being replaced by busses, but in others they are going the way of the rural lines.

The automobile has had dire effect upon electric car systems. Likewise, the demand for bus service rather than trolleys has made it necessary for the trolley company to meet public requirements and this is to be noticed in the cities as well as on the outside lines. It means that the company can eliminate the heavy overhead which goes with the maintenance of rails and wires, that what is probably better service can be provided and that the expense is less.

For a number of years it has been thoroughly understood that we could expect less trolley service rather than more. We are witnessing the establishment of new bus lines each year and it has gotten so that in many instances the only means of public transportation is the bus. The motor vehicle has not only driven the trolleys out of business, or to a much decreased business, but has done the same thing in regard to railroad service.

HER LINE

"Now, if this isn't providential!" chirped the girl in the hat that was one month ahead of next month's fashions. The rest of her was slim, rouged, reckless, powdered and up to date. Most evidently she expected a seat in the bright green roadster into which a tall and frowning young man had catapulted himself from the taxi office entrance.

"Oh, hello!" he said with gloom. "Terribly sorry, Evelyn, but—"

"I don't think I care at all about hearing the rest of it," she commented blithely, stepping in unaided. She smiled brightly up at him. "I adore this car, Ferris," she threw in for good measure. "And it's a perfectly grand day for a drive—"

"But," the young man got in determinedly, "I just can't take you anywhere. I've got to catch this prospect within the next hour because he's likely to go out of town and I—"

"He won't," the young woman said soothingly. "They never do. Either their wives telephone them that the bathroom pipe has sprung a leak or else the bank fails and they can't buy a ticket. I should think you'd love to run me out to Bertha's luncheon in Glencoe. If the girls saw me drive up with you they'd be knocked flat. She'd like it if you came to lunch, too—ten girls! Come on!"

"Listen," the young man insisted. "Be a good fellow and get out at this corner. Honest, I've got to see this man—he's due to sign up for a big policy—"

"How I wish I had lived in the days when men were chivalrous to women and thought nothing too great to sacrifice to please them!"

"So do I," the young man agreed with her heartily. "Only the men were great liars if they conveyed that impression when they had to be doing something else. I'm going to drive up to this corner and drop you. You know I'd like to drive you if I could—"

"Hear the woodwinds!" she sighed. She surveyed the curb with distaste. "Somehow this corner doesn't appeal to me at all. It would completely spoil my day if I were left here, Glencoe is only forty minutes—"

"Can't be done!"

"You are too immersed in business," she said. "If it wasn't for business, men would be much more amusing, not to say available. You can't stand here because the policeman is coming!" He started the car again.

"You are awfully funny," he told her. "What a good time you're having! Well, I'm driving straight to my man and you can sit in the car if you like, of course. You're decorative."

"Dear me, no; that wouldn't do," she objected. "It would make me late for my lunch. I'd have to take the wheel and drive on the minute you left me, Ferris! I thought you liked me. I can't imagine why you should suddenly turn so cold and brutal!" The young man leaned back and surveyed her.

"I'm going to get you out of this car, my child," he informed her, "if I have to run into a lamp-post and bust your pretty nose!"

"What language!" she breathed in shocked tones. "You don't turn here—"

"Your mistake," he informed her, swerving into a cross street. "My prospect is in that building over there. On second thought, I can leave you in the car just as well as not. How dumb I've been!" He leaned over, locked the ignition and pocketed the key.

"I must have gone to your head," the young woman admitted kindly as she watched him. She climbed out. "You're an awful egg," she told him. "But the ruthless way in which you have handled this little sequence makes me just crazy about you, Ferris!"

"Then heaven help me!" said the young man with fervor as he headed for the building. He grinned at her good-humoredly.

"I do love a shining morning face," she told him admiringly. "Come around this evening about 8.30 and we'll go somewhere."

"Anything you like," the young man agreed despairingly. "Me—I've gone down for the third time!"—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

An Open Letter

By Herbert L. Willett, Jr., Associate Director, Gorgas Memorial Institute, Washington, D. C.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

A letter recently received is one of many of similar import. So I want to answer it to all readers of the daily health articles for its deals with questions of vital importance.

It says, in part: "Being an older person, I realize the importance of looking after small beginnings of trouble, as they usually increase and make invalids of people, which is so greatly to be deplored. In almost every article we are urged to go to the "family doctor" (is there such a thing?) for examination. Do you think that doctors, kind and good as they are, are anxious to give examinations to fairly well people? I believe that there are plenty of people who would be glad to be looked over before it is too late, but they hesitate to call a doctor from an operation which is taking place. It would be a wonderful thing it seems to me, if every city although small, could have a physician whose specialty was giving general examinatitns and to whom one could go freely for that purpose." Let us consider these questions.

1. "Is there such a thing as a family doctor?" I know of many, here in Washington, D. C. In no community with which I am acquainted is it impossible to find a family doctor if one looks for him. The trouble is that too many people

(a) never call a doctor until they are ill, often critically ill, and then get a specialist;

(b) have the false idea that the all good doctors specialize and that general practitioners are likely to be second raters;

(c) as a result, have the habit of consulting specialists and then wonder why they are not willing to play the part of the general practitioner in making a health audit;

(d) try to diagnose their own ailments by following advertised remedies and fads, and have thus served notice that they do not care to know any doctors.

2. "Are doctors anxious to give examinations to fairly well people?" They are anxious to give what people demand and will pay for. So long as people demand cure and consider prevention cost wasted money, so long will doctors be forced to heed that demand, for doctors must make a living, like the rest of mankind. Many physicians are frankly skeptical about people ever becoming intelligently health-minded, and feel that they will always have to deal with sick-room emergencies. So they have trained themselves for that. A good health examination requires a new perspective and a new technique. It will be provided, by practicing physicians and emphasized by medical schools, as rapidly as it called for. We are in the pioneering age in this matter. But if we get discouraged and do not continue to demand preventive care, we will not get it, and neither will our children.

3. "People hesitate to call a doctor from an operation." Quite right. The man who operates is a specialist, and not a general practitioner. You want the latter for your family doctor. Consultations are his chief job, and you have as much right to ask and pay for some of his time to keep you well as to send in haste and require more of his time to get you well after you are sick. The health examinations can be made at a mutually convenient time, and if a doctor is so busy with sick people that he has no time to give a well man, he needs an associate in his office, or a new doctor in town.

4. "A doctor whose specialty is giving examinations". No, for you want a family doctor, one who cares for your colds and fevers and indigestion, not man who simply examines you, hands you a report, and says good-bye. The ideal to strive for is to have enough doctors who know general medicine and how to make a health audit, so that every family is on friend close terms with one of them. If such a doctor knows that he can count on your annual visit, and the sum you pay for it, he does not have to count on sick people for his livelihood, and will be only too happy to find his consultation rooms increasingly filled with healthy people rather than with physical defectives.

We get what we ask for and go after, in this world. No merchant stocks his shelves with merchandise people refuse to buy, but he heeds the call for what people want. By the ethics of the profession, doctors cannot advertise their knowledge and their abilities. So it is our task and our privilege to ask them to stock a commodity we have heretofore ignored—complete physical examinations.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 10—In those halcyon days of the Elizabethan literateurs, James Montgomery Beck, now sitting in the house from the first Pennsylvania district, might have been an essayist of note.

There is a touch about everything he writes or says that is a far cry from a mere dry-as-dust man of the law or everyday politician.

He is a lawyer, to be sure, and a noted one. He has been solicitor general of the United States. He also is an historian and a student whose cultural background is wide.

Who else "on the hill" has such national and international affiliations of culture as these:

"Corresponding member, Societe de Gens de Lettres of France; fellow of Royal Historical society of London; honorary bencher of Gray's inn, England; fellow American Philosophical society; past president and gold medalist, Pennsylvania society of New York; president Archaeological society of Washington."

That is an imposing list. And the man it honors admittedly lends cultural distinction to the house.

Decries 'Decadence'

And as lawyer and student Mr. Beck finds portents of constitutional decadence in this country. He decries a steady lapse of "constitutional morality" since that document was written.

"The portentous difference between the American people when they framed the constitution and the American people today is this: Our fathers thought in terms of abstract political rights but we today think in terms of concrete economics," is the way Beck puts it.

"The gospel of the American people today is efficiency, and to secure it they are apparently willing to sacrifice any principle that makes for the greater consideration of security.

"In nearly every controversy between the executive and congress the people sympathize with the executive, for they can visualize a single individual and make a legend of him, but the multiheaded congress makes no appeal to their imagination."

Looks Into Future

And here's a typically Beck glimpse at "where are we going?" constitutionally speaking:

"Each generation of Americans to gain some immediate practical advantage will sacrifice some remaining principle of the constitution until that noble edifice will one day become as the Parthenon, beautiful in its ruins but nevertheless a useless and deserted temple of liberty."

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

Boquete, Panama Hill Town, Where Byrd Rested.

Boquete, where Rear Admiral Byrd went for rest, relaxation and a cool breeze, is the Baguio and the Simla of Panama, a health station in the hills.

"Boquete, 4,000 feet high up in the mountains, is like a kite at the end of a 32-mile narrow gauge rail line that atretches up from the port of Pedregal," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society, "and it helps to give Chiriqui province the enviable title, 'Panama's Sanatorium.'

"To reach David, capital of Chiriqui, from which point they rode the 'Ferrocarril Nacional de Chiriqui,' up to Boquete, Rear Admiral Byrd and his party flew two hours west and a trifle south from Panama City. Chiriqui is the westernmost province of Panama, and, although only 200 miles distant as the crow flies, is two days distant by coasting steamer.

"Once arrived at lofty Boquete, the explorer found himself in the good hands of compatriots, for the chief hotel which has the whole Rio David valley for a front yard and limitless Pacific ocean for a view, is run by Americans.

"After leaving the canal zone a plane bound for David flies over broad areas of impenerable tropic forest with jungle so thick that no attempt has yet been made to link David by rail through the overgrown ravines and spurs to Panama City. But nearing David the forest clears in spots, for Chiriqui province is the richest agricultural region to Panama. Plateaus that rise in terraces from the seashore to the high peaks supply different climates at different altitudes with the result that rubber may grow on one terrace, tobacco on the next higher and coffee farther up the foothills. Rich volcano fertilized soil at every level guarantees luxuriant growth. In the higher altitudes, up in Boquete's zone, everything raised in temperate zone regions, such as the United States, can be grown.

"Immigrants, especially foreigners, have recognized Chiriqui's opportunities and are swiftly developing farms and industries. Their enterprise has already made isolated David the third most important city of Panama.

"Riding behind the oil-burning, toy locomotive puffing on the steep grades from David to Boquete, the traveler looks out on an alluring countryside where plantations alternate with forests. Giant trees rising a hundred feet or more blaze with scarlet orchids or their branches may be garlanded with mauve, yellow or white blossoms of tropical vines. In the dense oak forests of the highlands lives the brilliant colored quetzal, the bird that was sacred to the Aztecs and that is the national bird of Guatemala.

"One of the 'entertainments' which Chiriqui formerly extended to visitors was denied to Rear Admiral Byrd because the government has put a stop to grave opening. Centuries ago the higher civilization of the Aztecs and other Indians to the northwest spread into the Chiriqui region. When these early residents died they were buried with pottery, gold ornaments and other objects. Discovery that the graves held gold came comparatively recently, and in one place resulted in a gold rush on an old cemetery that covered 12 acres.

"It is estimated that a million and a quarter dollars worth of gold has been taken from the graves. As a special favor to visitors the natives would organize a search for old graves and open them. Sometimes the search was useless. Sometimes it yielded valuable finds. But a government edict has put a stop to this pastime.

"Although their accomplishments are little known, the ancient Chiriqui Indians were experts in metal working. Not only did they cast gold but they also alloyed gold with copper, made bronze with copper and tin, and covered baser metal images with a gold wash, a process now accomplished by electroplating. How they covered objects with a film of gold is still an unsolved archeological mystery."

Little Talks on Thrift

More Thrift Would Help Solve National Problem

Is thrift an antidote for crime? This is a question which quite naturally projects itself into the consideration of one of the greatest problems that ever confronted people of this nation. The fact seems to be generally recognized that crime was never as rampant as at present. Jails and prisons are overcrowded; court dockets are clogged; newspapers day after day are filled with stories of crime of all descriptions. It is indeed an appalling situation for a great civilized nation.

Without going into a long dissertation on causes and cures, it may be stated as one fact upon which all will agree that a more general adherance to thrift upon the part of the public would have an alleviating effect. It must be recognized that a considerable percentage of current crime is brought about as the direct result of extravagant habits or mismanagement of personal finances.

A leading criminologist recently analyzed the causes of crime as follows: "Rapidly changing standards of living with failure of individual adjustments, seeking of easy wealth prompted by those who degrade use of it, increasing failure of homes, schools and churches to inculcate the fundamental values of good character, seeming public emphasis on material rather than spiritual values of life," etc.

Thrift is far from a panacea. However, we cannot get away from the fact that those laudable impulses which lead a person to save his money, conserve his resources, guard his health and make advancement toward the goal of success, are the very antitheses of criminal instincts.

As a nation we seem to be in somewhat of a maze regarding methods for reducing the amount of crime. If a national drive for thrift along sound lines were made, it would be a tremendous help. There would still be crime as there always will be but the amount of it would be greatly reduced. Every citizen who can be given the inspiration of true, progressive thrift, automatically turns from the temptations and practices which so often lead to crime to a well-ordered, progressive plan of life.—By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

The Home of Starnose

'Tis well that knowledge you pursue;
But think of others when you do.
—Starnose the Mole.

Peter Rabbit did a good deal of wondering about the home of Starnose the Mole. That however, is no more than a great many people have done. Both Miner the Common Mole and Starnose, his cousin, are very secretive about their homes. They are very secretive indeed. Few people have ever seen the home of a Mole.

Farmer Brown's Boy had discovered Starnose over near the Smiling Pool. Just as Peter Rabbit had seen Starnose swimming, so had Farmer Brown's Boy. He had gotten only a glimpse of Starnose, but he had recognized him at once. Then he had found the little ridges made by Starnose when he was tunneling near the surface.

"I should like to know more about this little fellow," said Farmer Brown's Boy. "I've seen Miner the Common Mole a number of times, but this is the first time I have ever had a glimpse of Starnose. I should like to get a real good look at that funny nose of his."

Hardly were the words out of the mouth of Farmer Brown's Boy when Starnose appeared almost at his feet. Farmer Brown's Boy held his breath and stood still. Starnose came right up and smelled of one of the shoes of Farmer Brown's Boy. Then he disappeared in a little hole in the ground. Farmer Brown's Boy had his wish gratified, however. He had a splendid look at that funny little nose. Also, he saw that hairy tail and at once noticed how very different it was from the tail of Miner the Common Mole. That set him to thinking still more about Starnose.

"I'd give a good deal to find the home of Starnose," said Farmer Brown's Boy, looking up at Redwing the Blackbird. Redwing cocked his head on one side and looked very wise, as if he understood, which he didn't at all. "Yes, sir, I should like to find the home of Starnose, just to see what it is like," continued Farmer Brown's Boy. "The trouble is, I haven't the slightest idea how to get about trying to find that home. Moles are such secretive little folks. They live in the ground, so how is a fellow going to learn much about them? I suppose I could open all those tunnels that Starnose has made. But that would be an awful job. Even then I might not find his home. It may be away down deep somewhere.

Now, just a little way from where Farmer Brown's Boy was standing was a mound of rotted leaves. The leaves had gathered there and had been swept by the winds into a great pile for several years. It was what would be called a compost heap. Farmer Brown's Boy approached it presently. He had a long, sharp stick and with this he began poking this heap of old leaves. He had no particular purpose. He was just idly running his stick into the heap while he thought. Presently, it seemed to him that that stick went in very easily at a certain point. He began to dig it open. In just a few minutes he discovered a little tunnel.

Then Farmer Brown's Boy went to work in earnest. If there was a tunnel there, it meant that some one had made it; and he had a suspicion that that some one was Starnose. You see, the tunnel was just the same size as the tunnels that Starnose had made where he had pushed up the sod into little ridges So Farmer Brown's Boy carefully dug away the rotting leaves and presently he saw that this little tunnel led up from down in the ground. Yes, sir, from down in the ground this little tunnel led up into the great heap of rotted leaves.

He began to dig it open

Then Farmer Brown's Boy began digging in the other direction and after a while, right in the middle of that big heap, he found a little room. It was a very little one. In it was a neat made of rotted leaves and in this were three babies. They were funny little babies. They were very funny little babies. The first thing Farmer Brown's Boy did was to look at their noses. He was looking for the funny little feelers such as Starnose had around his nose. He saw what might be the beginning of these little feelers. Then he was sure that he had found the home of Starnose.

Four boys, from 8 to 15 years old, have made such a success of selling supplies and materials for miniature airplanes in a business started nearly two years ago that they have announced the purchase of their only competitor in Kansas City. The stock, valued at $10 when the company was organized, now is worth approximately $1,500.

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The H. C. Cook Company, Ansonia.

About 50 years ago when the Ansonia Clock company left its home state to move its plant to Brooklyn, N. Y., one of its chief toolmakers, H. C. Cook, left that company and set up a small shop for himself on Main street, Ansonia. He employed five or six hands to do machine jobbing and toolmaking for many leading manufacturers in New England.

In 1892 Chapel S. Carter, now president of The H. C. Cook company, became associated with Mr. Cook, which, in 1896 resulted in a partnership being formed, which included the Lewis I. Cook. It was in 1896 that the now famous Gem nail clipper first came on to the market. It was the first finished product which the H. C. Cook Co. had made for the world and its success marked the growth of the company, which was later incorporated in 1900.

In 1902 The H. C. Cook company located on its present site, each year showing steady increases in business, on Gems and the newer Ansonia nail clipper as well as on contract work for others. Sometime shortly before 1909 the H. C. Cook company commenced manufacturing a patented paper clip and index tab, known as the vise clip and vise index tab, for the stationery trade. Later this was followed by the vise signal, a patented metal indicator in 12 colors, for use on index cards.

These products, made exclusively by Cook under Cook patents, were sold through agents under special brands until recently when the name "Vise" was discontinued by the H. C. Cook company and only the original products were offered to the trade under the Cook label.

Other popular items have been added from time to time and the new modern plant completed in 1918 provides excellent facilities for the rapidly expanding business. The factory and main office is at Ansonia; a New York office is located at 100 Lafayette street.

The present officers are: Chapel S. Carter, president; John H. Duncan, vice president; Raymond B. Carter, secretary.

The Bentley School of Accounting and Finance

Started in 1917 with 29 students
Enrollment this year 2648 students

IT is the largest professional school in the world devoted exclusively to training men for specialized positions in accounting and finance. Men only are admitted. Students are enrolled from 18 states.

Graduation from high school required for admission.

Completion of the courses in the Day division requires two years; there are no electives.

During the past ten years our graduates have demonstrated the thoroughness of their training by the excellence of their work. The success achieved by them has been a marked aid in establishing among business men a reputation for Bentley training and a preference for Bentley graduates. Some of the country's largest corporations send representatives to the school each year to select men from our senior class to develop in their organizations.

It is one thing to know accounting principles and quite another thing to apply them as a skilled technician. At this school great emphasis is placed on perfection of technic, thoroughness, and facility in performing accounting work.

Bentley graduates are employed as office managers, cost accountants, private auditors, statisticians, credit men, comptrollers, assistant treasurers, treasurers, branch managers, general managers, teachers of accounting, and public accountants. Those under twenty-five years of age who have had no practical experience start at a salary of about $1,680 a year, and make an average advance of approximately $250 a year. A considerable number of graduates under thirty-six years of age are earning from $5,000 to $12,000 a year.

Employers who apply to us for graduates emphasize the importance of personality, ranking it second only to technical proficiency.

We are particularly interested in enrolling men of pleasing personal appearance,—commonly referred to as the "clean-cut, up-and-coming" type. Unless such a man is serious-minded and is willing to work hard to acquire his professional training, Bentley's is no place for him.

There is no school in which a more sincere effort is made to develop and maintain a fine, cordial relationship between instructors and students than at Bentley's. It is not the ordinary relationship between teacher and pupil, but an inspirational association between co-workers. Nothing counts so much as genuine humanness.

Excellent living accommodations are available in our dormitories and fraternity houses.

BECKWITH IS NAMED COUNTY COMMISSIONER

Fred A. Beckwith, first selectman of the town of East Lyme, representative of that town in the 1929 session of the general assembly and senator from the 20th or "Shoestring" district at the legislative session of 1927, was appointed Tuesday afternoon by Governor Trumbull as county commissioner for New London county. Mr. Beckwith succeeds Elisha Waterman of Lebanon, who died recently, and the appointment will be in effect until next January, when the legislature will be called upon to make a permanent selection to fill the vacancy.

With the appointment of Mr. Beckwith the county can once again transact business, and matters which have been held up since Mr. Waterman's death can now be disposed of. When Commissioner Waterman died, Charles H. Smith of Noank was left as the sole member of the board and under the law all checks, warrants and other documents must be signed by at least two members of the board.

The governor failed to make an appointment to fill the vacancy created by the recent resignation of George H. Bradford of Montville, who has succeeded the late Sidney A. Brown in the office of county sheriff, and in political circles his failure to fill this vacancy now is taken to indicate the probability that he will permit the board to function with its two members until the next session of the general assembly when the vacancy can be filled in the regular way.

The late Mr. Waterman, whom Mr. Beckwith succeeds, was also from the 20th district and Mr. Smith, the other member of the board, is from the 19th district, which includes the towns of Groton and New London.

A pageant to depict some of the striking features of the history of the country and the regiment is to be produced on the afternoon of that day, in which each of the companies in the regiment will provide a particular tableau. It is expected that the pageant will run from 1:30 to 4:30.

The tableaux are to be given by the regimental organizations as follows:

Headquarters battery, New London—Colonial service, 1739-1776.

Service battery, Danielson—Post war service, 1920-1929.

First battalion, Norwich—Petersburg, Va., June 16, 1864 to April 2, 1865.

All the presentations will be fully costumed for the period to which they apply, whether colonial, Civil war or the present day, entailing some expense upon the different companies, in order to make their parts complete.

In the Petersburg tableau, which is assigned to the First battalion of this city, the scene will show Union and rebel troops facing each other behind earthworks. One section of rebel trench manned by dummies, with live figures interspersed. Great activities on both sides. Live figures withdraw and mine under rebel trench blows up. Charge by federals.

APPROVE PLANS FOR UNITED CHURCH ADDITION

A special meeting of the membership of the United Congregational church, Tuesday evening, approved plans for an addition to the present church building and for renovations of the building in general. Since the sale of the Community house, on Church street, some time ago, the church appointed a committee to consider plans for changes at the United church building to provide for the numerous religious and social activities of the parish. This committee made its report at the meeting Tuesday evening. The recommendations, as explained at the meeting, call for a two story addition at the northeast corner of the church building, next to the Central fire station. On the first floor of the addition will be a kitchen, and on the second floor there will be accommodations for the Boy Scout activities and the primary department. Access to the addition will be by exterior and interior stairways. The plans also call for material changes in the present Sunday school room. These changes will include the enlarging of the stage and extra lavatory accommodations. The committee on renovations comprises Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, the pastor, H. F. Dawley, Walter F. Lester, Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, Robert Montgomery, Mrs. William P. Wade, Miss Edith M. Young and Mrs. Edward A. Rich.

HARD PUNCHING EXPECTED IN BOUTS AT MARTIN FIELD THIS EVENING

TONIGHT'S CARD

Main Bout—8 Rounds

Dynamite Lou Brouillard of Danielson vs. Joe Emmons of Waterbury, at 148 pounds

Three Six-Rounders

Joe Russo of Westerly vs. Joe Preston of Worcester, at 154 pounds

Young Lavigne of New London vs. Young Granado of Tampa, Fla., at 120 pounds

Ted Blanc, of Montville vs. Julio Rossi of Westerly, at 140 pounds

Two Four-Rounders

Dutchie Franks of Colchester vs. Phil Gingerella of Westerly, at 158 pounds

Bernie Corcoran of Taftville vs. King Grabb of Westerly, at 168 pounds

The above card represents 34 rounds of hectic action at Martin field this evening. The Shyma club has decided that the local fans had rather see a card of the old-fashioned rough and ready boxing than some of the high-priced clever boxers, and in view of this has matched the above boys. In looking over the army of boxers as they are matched, it would seem that every bout will be one of torrid fighting from gong to gong. The card is the heaviest that has ever been presented by the Shyma club, every bout with the exception of the Lavigne-Granado bout, is over the 140-pound class. The Lavigne-Granada tilt will be far from slow, as both boys are fast and each possesses plenty of kick in his hands.

The main go looks like a real battle on paper with the edge favoring Brouillard by virtue of his recent victory over Clyde Hull. Brouillard has been going well during the past few bouts and is the favorite to win the decision. Emmons has been going strong in the western part of the state and holds victories over Tony Travers and Eddie Moore, the latter being one of the few boys to ever beat Brouillard.

The three six-rounders should be teeming with action, especially the Preston-Russo bout. Preston is fairly clever for a heavy boy and hits with plenty of power. Russo, who has fought here on several occasions, can be counted upon to give the fans plenty of action while he's in the ring. Ted Blanc, who meets Julio Rossi in a return bout, is very confident that he can take the Westerly lad. Blanc has been working hard for this bout and is in the pink of condition and promises that he will give all he's got to win tonight.

The two four-rounders should be good appetizers and furnish plenty of action. The participants are all beginners at the game which means that both bouts will be slugging affairs from start to finish. Phil Gingerella and Dutchie Franks have come up from the amateurs and know something of the game, but Bernie Corcoran and King Grabb, son of the Westerly Tomato king, are novices with a longing for pugilistic fame.

All that remains to give the fans a perfect evening of boxing is the weather. As announced before, the women and children will be admitted to the bout for 75 cents.

Early in the tenth, Adams doubled and scored when High followed with a single over second. Showers twice held up the game before the first half of the tenth was ended.

GROVE LOSES FIRST GAME WHEN CHICAGO RALLIES

CHICAGO, June 10—(AP)—Bob "Lefty" Grove of the Philadelphia Athletics lost his first game of the season today, appearing in a relief role as the White Sox gained a 7 to 6 victory over Philadelphia in an eleven inning struggle.

Grove appeared in the tenth inning to shut off a Chicago rally which scored two runs after the Athletics appeared to have won the game with two in their half of the tenth, but in the eleventh Grove walked two men, one purposely, and Bud Clancy singled to drive in the winning run.

The champions played poorly on the defense, making four errors behind Roy Mahaffey and Jack Quinn, who preceded Grove. Chicago called on Caraway, Faber and McKain for mound duty, the latter getting credit for the victory. Al Simmons of Philadelphia and Smead Jolley of Chicago hit home runs. The score:

ST. LOUIS, June 10—(AP)—The New York Yankees made it three out of four against the Browns today by winning the final encounter of their series, 5 to 3. All the New York runs were scored off Dick Coffman in the first two innings.

Aided by the early lead, Herb Pennock, veteran southpaw, went the route for the Yankees. Although he was hit freely at times, The Yankees pounded Coffman for seven of their 12 hits, then subsided when faced by George Blaeholder and went scoreless the rest of the afternoon.

TANNERY BECOMES FAVORITE IN WASHINGTON DERBY

NEW YORK, June 10.—(AP)—Tannery, the big disappointment of the Kentucky Derby, returned to his brilliant early spring form at Belmont park today to become one of the favorites for the American Derby to be decided over the Washington park course at Chicago Saturday.

Tossed into a mile and 70-yard jaunt known as the trial purse, the big chestnut colt easily defeated five other Derby candidates, covering the distance in 1:42 on a fast track. Buck Foreman's Ned O, which ran third in the Blue Grass classic, was second, with J. Marsch's Prince Atheling, highly regarded by the betting gentry, third.

A Challenge

The champion Crushers of 1929 have organized for the 1930 season and challenge the Young Hawks for a game at the Duwell field Wednesday, June 18, at 6 p. m. If challenge is accepted answer through this paper. With Henry Pawlowski back on the team the Crushers are apt to win every game.

SHE BELIEVED IN SIGNS

She was a woman, one of the very few, who believed implicitly in signs. Also she was a driver of an automobile and to her disobedience to signs meant a discouraging argument with the law as personified by gruff-spoken blue-coated men. No officer was going to whistle at her and ask her where she learned to drive and if she couldn't read English and what did she suppose the city put up signs for, etc. No, sir, she knew her signs and she was going to obey them to the last letter on the board.

She approached an intersection where traffic was regulated by the red and green lights. She approached the intersection and the light was burning green, but she slowed down and brought her car to a halt. Machines piled up in back of her and almost immediately there was a jarring and blatant blowing of horns. The noise did not disturb her but it did disturb the siesta of the officer on the beat. Something apparently needed his attention so he decided to investigate, nobody was going to make such an unearthly noise on his beat and get away with it.

He looked out into the street, saw the woman parked in the street with traffic tied up for a block behind her. He looked at the light and it was green, so he motioned the woman to come ahead. No, siree, no cop was going to get her to commit a faux pas and then bawl her out for it. She knew her signs and she was going to abide by them, right or wrong. Finally after several minutes the green turned to red as all well-regulated signals should.

With the red showing the woman shifted in low and drove expertly around the corner. A whistle shrilled and the woman stopped as she saw the officer approaching her car. She sat up straight in her seat with that air of "I'll-tell-him-something-if-he-so-much-as-opens-his-mouth." No mere minion of the law was going to bawl her out when she had obeyed the sign to the strict letter. He'd find she was no shrinking flower of the wildwood, not her.

The officer came up to the car and very politely said, "Pardon me, madam, but would you mind telling me why you was holding up traffic when the light gave you the right of way to go ahead?"

The woman bristled in haughty dignity and sweeping the officer with a withering look replied, "On that pole over there is a sign, which if you take the trouble to read, says 'Right Turn on the Red' and I was waiting for the light to turn red before making the turn. Is that all, Officer?" Without waiting for the answer, which was slow in coming as the officer was gasping for breath, she drove off in high dudgeon.

The officer stood gazing after her and as he turned to resume his patrolling of the beat he was heard to mutter to himself, "Ain't that just like a woman? Guess the city'll have to add the words 'and green' on that sign or we'll be having some nice traffic jams."

We see where Sonnenberg won a wrestling bout on a foul last night. We didn't suppose there was such a thing as a foul in that game.

YALE USES VARIED STROKE IN PRACTICES

GALES FERRY, June 10.—(AP)—The Yale varsity paddled upstream four and a half miles this afternoon in a strong wind. On the return the stroke was varied, at times reaching a beat of 39. W. Gillespie replaced S. Gillespie as coxswain, a change which is expected to be permanent.

The freshman crew, fighting rough water, held a time trial over the two-mile course upstream.

The junior varsity and combination eights competed against each other in three runs. Two changes were made as a result. Auchincloss replaced Irving as stroke of the Jayvee boat, and Goodale took Esselstein's place at No 6 in the Jayvee. These changes are believed to be only temporary. Goodale returned to camp today after a day's absence.

Officials of the Yale Athletic association visited camp today to watch the crews go through their two daily workouts.

HARVARD CREW REORGANIZED AND HAS STIFF WORKOUT

RED TOP, June 10.—(AP)—Coach Whiteside reorganized his Harvard varsity crew today and gave it one of the hardest days of practice it has had since training began here for the Yale races.

With the boat with one exception containing the same crew that rowed against Syracuse and Cornell last month, Whiteside ordered it up the Thames for a seven-mile paddle this morning and an 11-mile paddle this afternoon. Colloredo-Manafield stroked the crew after an absence of about a week.

The junior varsity eight paddled seven miles this morning and about eight this afternoon.

Time trials were held by the freshmen and combination eights over the two-mile course. The freshmen, rowing at a beat of 30, encountered a stiff wind and had water. The combination boat rowed at a stroke of 32 and 35.

DOCTOR SAYS HAFEY'S EYES ARE IN SERIOUS CONDITION

ST. LOUIS, June 10—(AP)—Chick Hafey's condition is serious, Dr. Emmet P. North, eye specialist, who examined the St. Louis Cardinals' outfielder, said today. Hafey was ordered home from New York for examination.

Dr. North said he would not permit Hafey to return to the game without a long rest.

Hardigs Win Two Week End Games

The Hardigs won two games over the week end of last week. On Saturday they trounced the Laurel Athletics 11 to 4, and the game was nip and tuck until the sixth inning when the Hardigs scored 6 runs, to clinch the game. Eddie Orsulak twirled for the Hardigs and was in fine form after a long layoff. The game was featured by A. Gionet, who poled out 2 triples and a single in as many trips to the plate.

On Sunday they were given more opposition by the Montville Stars, but finally won out 5 to 3. Riley pitched the Sunday game and held the Stars well in hand. To date the Hardigs have won 6 games to one defeat, that being an early season game by the Shyma club of Taftville. The Hardigs have yet to taste defeat in their own town. On Wednesday at Hollyhock the Trojans will try to halt the winning streak of the Hardigs in a twi-night game. Friml will pitch for the Trojans and Orsulak for the Hardigs.

FOUR AMERICANS LISTED WILL NOT PLAY IN BRITISH OPEN TOURNEY

(By Brian Bell, Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, June 10—(AP)—When aspirants for the British Open Golf championship gather Monday at Hoylake and Wallasey for the first qualifying round, a rearrangement of the pairings will be necessary. At least four of the listed Americans, two prominent amateurs and two well-known professionals, will not be there.

Although Harrison R. Johnston, amateur champion of the United States, and George Voigt, semi-finalists in the recent British amateur championship, are named in the pairings, they are now at sea on their way home. Gene Sarazen and Tommy Armour, two former open champions of the United States, have places reserved for them in Monday's play, but Sarazen is in New York and Armour at Detroit.

Three members of the Walker Cup team will play. Bobby Jones, George Von Elm and Don Moe. Of the others, Francis Quimet is returning with Johnston and Voigt, the trio sailing Saturday night, while Roland Mackenzie and Dr. O. F. Willing returned last week.

Four professionals will carry the responsibility of defending the honors won by pros in other years in the classic British event. Jim Barnes, who has held the title, MacDonald Smith and Leo Diegel, who have just missed it, and Horton Smith who has tried the stunt but once but was sufficiently impressed to have another go at it, make up the quartet.

Qualifying rounds of 18 holes each will be played Monday and Tuesday, the entire field of 296, a record entry, playing both the Hoylake and Wallasey courses.

The championship proper will begin at Hoylake Wednesday with an 18-hole round and another to follow Thursday, after which all competitors 15 strokes or more behind the leader will retire by request, the remainder completing the championship test with 36 holes Friday.

Walter Hagen, the champion, is not defending his title but Jones, who won in 1926 and 1927, will seek to make a clean sweep of available British golf honors by adding the open to the amateur title he won last month. As he holds the United States open beyond dispute until July 12, when the 1930 competition will be completed, if no play-off is necessary, the Atlanta attorney has a chance to make a new record for himself. He has held two titles at the same time before but never three.

Not since 1890 when John Ball was the British amateur and open champion has one man held both titles.

FAVORITES COME THROUGH SECOND ROUND OF PLAY

WATERBURY, June 10—(AP)—Favorites in the 13th annual tournament of the Connecticut Women's Golf association advanced to the second round today at the Country club of Waterbury. Mrs. Thomas Hucknall of Stamford, defending champion and medalist and Mrs. Hazel P. Martelle of Hartford, runner-up in the qualifying round won by decisive margins as did Miss Marion Bennett of New Britain.

The hotly contested matches featured the championship flight. Miss Alice Warner of Greenwich shading Miss Jean Poindexter of Hartford one up. Mrs. J. B. Kirby of the Highland club, Meriden, one of the strong contenders for the crown was also pressed to eliminate Mrs. H. C. House of Farmington one up.

The feature match tomorrow will bring together Miss Marion Bennett and Miss Alice Warner with the former, a member of the American Women's team favored to remain in play.

TWO SHELLS SWAMPED IN POUGHKEEPSIE PRACTICE

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 10—(AP)—Misfortune in two guises today struck the University of Pennsylvania rowing squad here in training for the Intercollegiate Rowing Association regatta on June 26. The first was the loss of the varsity boat of Barnhart, regular No. 2 oar, and the second was the swamping of two shells during the morning workout.

Barnhart suffered a strained muscle in his back at the Childs Cup race and did not row again until yesterday. Last evening he reported to Coach Rusty Callow that the muscle had not mended and, after an examination by the trainer, it was decided that Barnhart could not row for the remainder of the season.

Shortly before noon Callow braved the extremely rough water and sent his four boats up the river. All shipped considerable water and on the way back they ran into a heavy rain squall. The freshman shell and the substitute or "Pickle" boat swamped.

Coaching launches rescued the oarsmen and took the shells in tow to the boathouse.

Up the river at Columbia, fortune smiled instead of frowning. Eddie Lozier, missing No. 2 varsity man, returned last night to the squad and will continue with the Lions to finish out the season. However, he was not given his old place in the first boat. Coach Rich Glendon sending him in to stroke the jayvee eight instead.

The Lions also were out twice today for practice.

SCHMELING WINDS UP TRAINING FOR BOUT

ENDICOTT, N. Y., June 10—(AP)—In a four round glove workout that bristled with fast fighting and hard hitting Max Schmeling today closed his training for his heavyweight fight with Jack Sharkey in the Yankee stadium ring Thursday night.

The German ripped and slashed at Charlie Berlanger, the Canadian lightheavy, for two rounds and finished with Lou Barba over a like number of rounds. A light road jaunt tomorrow will precede the trip to New York, where Schmeling expects to arrive tomorrow night.

SHARKEY LOOKS FAST IN FINAL WORKOUT

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., June 10—(AP)—Jack Sharkey completed his training today with a impressive workout that included three rounds of boxing, four of shadow fighting and calisthenics.

Immediately after his final workout, Sharkey left Orangeburg in company with his wife for New York. He may decide to pound the bags for two or three rounds in a New York gymnasium tomorrow.

RED SOX DOWN TIGERS IN LOOSE EXHIBITION

DETROIT, June 10—(AP)—In one of the poorest exhibitions offered by either team this season, the Boston Red Sox defeated the Tigers 12 to 6 today to split the series.

Detroit used four pitchers, none of them proving effective, and the rampart Red Sox slugged out 17 hits, six of them, combined with a muffed fly, netting five runs in the third. Herrings was chased in that inning with none out.

The Tigers succeeded in knocking Lisenbee from the box in the third and MacFayden finished, yielding only four hits from then on.

Detroit perpetrated four errors, all figuring in the scoring. The score:

WESTERLY

CHAMPLIN GIVEN $6,000 IN SUIT AGAINST STOKES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., June 10—A verdict of $6,000 for the plaintiff, Jeruhasa B. Champlin, of South Kingston was returned at 2:30 p. m. by a jury which since June 3rd has been hearing the action at law brought against G. Phelps Stokes of New York. Foreman Edwin Fisher of Charlestown, R. I., returned the verdict after the jury had been out about half an hour.

In the morning session Attorney C. E. Roche made the defendant's plea to the jury and was followed by Attorney John J. Dunn for the plaintiff. The noon recess was followed by Judge Fortier's charge to the jury. The above verdict was the full amount for which suit was brought to collect for services rendered by Champlin and supplies and material supplied by him in the Farm Reclamation Co. Inc., project of draining the Indian Cedar Swamp, near Wood River Junction, in the town of Charlestown on which he worked in 1921, 1922 and 1923.

Attorney George H. Gilman of Norwich who was associated with Attorney Clarence E. Roche of Westerly for the defendant, was a former secretary of the Farm Reclamation Co., Inc., also a director and testified to attending meetings of the corporation held in New York city, one of the first meetings being on Feb. 21, 1922, when Mr. Champlin came to New York as the successor of Capt. Barton Cruickshank of Westerly, former managing agent and a director of the company.

The Pawcatuck fire alarm was blown at 11 a. m. Tuesday for a fire in the home of Salvatore Sammataro, 8 Bank street, Pawcatuck, and occupied by Mrs. Lucy Longo. The fire started in the front room of the ell, in a mattress on an iron bed. Smoke issuing from the house attracted the attention of William Towers, electrician and Lewis E. Crandall, both of the South County Public Service company who rushed into the house and threw the burning mattress out of a window. Two pieces of motor apparatus of the Pawcatuck fire company, No. 1, responded to the alarm, the firemen clearing out burning rubbish and using the hose from a booster tank to put out the fire in the burning bedclothes in the yard. The damage was chiefly by smoke and the recall sounded at 11:50.

Preliminary plans for the annual Westerly Flower show were begun Monday by the committee in charge which met at the library. The Flower Show this year will be sponsored by the new local Garden club. Mrs. Ralph Segar and her committee have made plans for the show.

Coy of Elm street, and is a native of Westerly. She was graduated from Westerly high school in 1910 and in the fall of 1911 entered the service of the library.

The second annual dance was held Tuesday evening by Westerly chapter, Order of DeMolay for Boys, at Wequetequock Casino. Benvenuti's eight-piece orchestra played. The drill team of the Providence chapter, Order of DeMolay, took part in the evening's entertainment.

LEGION INTERESTED IN GOLD STAR MOTHERS

The ex-service men and the American Legion also the Vets of Foreign Wars were interested when they heard the good news that the government had made arrangements to send the Gold Star Mothers to France for the summer, so they could see the graves of their sons who fell in the great World war and whose bodies they would not remove to the United States. Those Gold Star Mothers braved the long trip across the Atlantic ocean over 3,000 miles. Some had up-to-date hats while other had the old type lids, going aboard the steamers. Almost a thousand Gold Star Mothers are in Sunny France today. It is a sad trip, but down in their hearts they are glad their loved ones went and fought for the good U. S. A.—those boys whom they had kissed 13 years ago and never returned. They are sleeping somewhere over there, with a white cross at the head of their graves, with the number of the company they were with.

The Gold Star Mothers held a parade when they landed at Paris; also General Pershing gave a talk to mothers that touched the hearts of some of the men who stood there listening. He shook the hands of the mothers in a way that brought a smile to their face and they are happy over the talk the General gave. When the drums were beating in every town in the United States on Memorial day, marching to the cemeteries all turned their eyes toward where they thought France was and bowed their heads in honor of the Gold Star Mothers who then were at the graves of their sons, also flowers were thrown overboard for those who lost their lives on the water. One old Gold Star Mother came by rail from Sunny California and went across on a steamer to pay a visit to her son's grave. From California to France is about 6,000 miles and that Gold Star Mother is about 93, the oldest one in the group and sure is some proud to be with the rest of her friends. Two mothers became ill on the way over and did not expect to live, but everyone in America is praying that they get out of it all right and reach a cemetery to see the graves of the dearest ones, who fought for the red, white and blue.

A cemetery near Pouragne, France, is about the largest one in that sunny land where 14,000 Americans heroes fell in the Meuse-Argonne battle. No doubt the Gold Star Mothers will pay a visit to that cemetery, where some of their dear ones are lying. All the American Legion posts also auxiliaries and those who have war branch posts in America are more than pleased to hear that the mothers went to France.

They fell for their country, even the great Roosevelt's son, Kermit, was killed in a airplane battle among the clouds and fell over the German's line, so the Germans buried him there. Roosevelt would not have had his son moved back to the United States, for he knows that he was well taken care of, had as good a burial as any soldier in the U. S. army. What a trip those Gold Star Mothers took over the rough sea. Many of them were dressed in black to go and take a last look at their dear ones' graves. It is a sad trip to them all and will bring back the days their dear ones spent at home with them before marching off as soldier boys. They are happy in a way, to think that their dear ones went and fought for their country, like their grandfathers did in the Civil war.

When the Gold Star Mothers return from France, sometime this summer, in every town the Gold Star Mothers came from the American Legion post of that place should give them a reception so they can tell about the sad visit. There one could meet a mother who has been across and braved the long trip; also they could tell about France, which the ex-service men did not get time to see, while fighting, could not get the time off.

Let us Americans honor the Gold Star Mothers when they return from France, show what the American Legion posts in America think of those mothers for going so far to pay a visit to the dear ones who are sleeping over there.

Fire Destroys House

A fire of an undetermined origin destroyed the two-tenement house at Pequot belonging to Peter Tryseck, local storeman, Monday at 10 p. m. The fire was discovered by Mrs. Thomas Carroll, who occupies the upper tenement, with her three small children and her husband, who had just started on his vacation Monday morning for a visit with friends in Brooklyn, N. Y. Mrs. Carroll gave an alarm after bringing the three children to safety. The fire equipment of the J. B. Martin Co. of Pequot, with their employes, responded to the call with their chemical wagon. This checked the flames till the arrival of the Quaker Hill fire department, which also fought the fire with their chemical equipment. When the flames broke out through the roof, a call was put in for the New London fire department, which sent up the crew of the Niagara company in charge of Deputy Fire Chief Edmonds. In the meantime through the efforts of the night employes of the J. B. Martin Co. and local men, the furniture of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll and Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Pont, who occupied the lower tenement, was carried outside to safety. The stock of the shoe department and shoemaker's department of the Tryseck store, which is built on to the two-tenement house, was also carried to safety. After the Niagara company hooked up its hose, the blaze was quickly subdued. The house, which was insured, was a total loss. Through the quick work of the New London department, the store was saved, outside of a little water damage.

98% of the lovely complexions you see on the screen — are cared for with Lux Toilet Soap

LAURA LA PLANTE, beloved Universal star, uses Lux Toilet Soap both in her own beautiful bathroom and in her dressing room on location. She says: "Lux Toilet Soap gives my skin the same marvelous smoothness the finest French soaps do"

THE GIRL whose skin is smooth and lovely, so that people inevitably turn to admire her, has the gift of attracting romance!

"There's amazing allure in beautiful smooth skin"—Willy Wyley, Universal director, says.

"Lovely skin is the one charm every star must have. Make-up is little help under the glare of close-up lights. The skin itself must be exquisite."

This is the conclusion of 45 leading Hollywood directors who know from long experience with motion pictures just which kind of beauty has the strongest appeal for the great public.

The charming screen stars found out long ago that by using Lux Toilet Soap they can keep their skin always smooth and soft.

Of the 521 important actresses in Hollywood, including all stars, 511 are devoted to it. Also, all the great film studios have made it the official soap for their dressing rooms.

The Broadway stage stars are equally enthusiastic about this white, delicately fragrant soap. And now, too, in France, in Germany, in England, the loveliest European screen stars are using it devotedly.

Are you using Lux Toilet Soap? You will find that it keeps your skin just as exquisitely smooth as it keeps the stars'. And how luxuriously it lathers, even in the hardest water!

You'll love it. Order several cakes—today.

(Above) MERNA KENNEDY, popular Universal star, says: "A star must guard the perfection of her skin—the slightest flaw is revealed by the pitiless close-up lights. Lux Toilet Soap keeps my skin marvelously smooth."

(Below) EVE SOUTHERN, beautiful star with Tiffany Productions, Inc., is enthusiastic about Lux Toilet Soap—just as 511 of the 521 important actresses in Hollywood are. She says: "Of course, every woman wants a lovely skin—but for a star it is essential. Lux Toilet Soap keeps my skin beautifully smooth."

(Left) PATSY RUTH MILLER, a charming star, whose skin is always exquisite, says: "I am delighted with Lux Toilet Soap. It keeps my skin petal-smooth!"

STOCK MARKET WAS STRONG AT CLOSE AFTER UNDERGOING HARD STRUGGLE

NEW YORK, June 10.—(AP) — The stock market today received a dose of that dependable tonic, short covering, which revived its spirits and sent it into a lively rally. Net gains of 3 to 10 points were made by a large number of issues that had been hardest hit by the recent liquidation.

The improvement appeared only after a hard struggle, for the bears gave in only when selling from outside sources had dried up and the list had displayed symptoms of an oversold condition. Trading, during most of the session, which was slightly more active than yesterday's, returned to the hands of the professionals, with the shorts apparently well satisfied with their profits.

Stocks sold 2 to 6 points lower in the first hour or so, regained most of the decline in a rally, slumped again and finally turned definitely upward in the afternoon. There was little bearish material in United States Steel's unfilled tonnage report, which showed a decrease of 244,993 tons in May, about a normal seasonal decline.

Coincident with this announcement, published at noon, was the weekly unofficial report of steel mill operations. This stated that the average for the entire industry was virtually the same as last week—71 per cent. The steel corporation is working at the 75 per cent level against 79 per cent two years ago and full capacity last year, which was of course an abnormal season.

There was some encouragement in the weekly statement of the reporting federal reserve member banks. Commercial loans showed the first gain in some time, and although the increase amounted to only $18,000,000, leaving the total about $700,000,000 below a year ago, the interruption of the lower trend received considerable comment. Investment holdings of banks rose $42,000,000, thus maintaining the definite move that started about two months ago.

Pressure against all groups in the forenoon brought out a large number of new lows for the year. Rails, motors and motor accessories and many specialties were weak, and Atchison, Baltimore and Ohio, St. Paul, Erie, Studebaker, Nash, Packard, Checker Cab, Glidden, Fisk Rubber first preferred, Goodrich and Firestone preferred, Bethlehem Steel, International Nickel, Simmons, Pullman, Crucible Steel and Otis Elevator, among others, broke through their previous minimums before the decline was checked.

U. S. Steel got within an eighth of yesterday's low, but was prominent leader in the upturn, finishing at 166 3-4 for a net improvement of 4 7-8. American Can managed to keep above yesterday's close all day and showed a six point net improvement. General Electric, American Tobacco B, International Harvester, Johns Manville, Standard Oil of New Jersey and National Biscuit closed 2 to 5 points higher.

Covering in the specialties effected some smart rallies. J. I. Case, which had sold as low as 213 snapped up to 237 for a net rise of 18 points. Worthington Pump gained 12, Vanadium 10, Eastman Kodak 9 and Houston Oil 8.

Amusement shares recovered broadly after meeting further pressure. Radio-Keith-Orpheum, after almost touching 30, yesterday's final quotation, rallied 5 1-4 on the day. Loew's was up 5, Paramount 4 and Warner Brothers Pictures nearly 5.

Gains of 3 to 7 points were frequent in the utility group and this range embraced American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Columbia Gas, Electric Power and Light, Standard Gas and Electric, Western Union, Stone and Webster and Peoples Gas.

Several of the rails picked up considerable strength, Missouri Pacific and St. Louis Southwestern advancing 5. New York Central about 4 and Rock Island and Chesapeake and Ohio 3.

Commodity prices were mixed. Wheat declined slightly more than a cent on the average and corn eased slightly. Cotton was steady, varying 5 points higher to 3 points net lower. Sugar was dull.

A substantial demand for the French franc, both here and in London, was a feature of the foreign exchange market. The quotation moved up nearly half a point. The Spanish peseta was heavy.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

Oh! Why Should the Spirit of Mortal Be Proud?

Oh! why should the spirit of mortal be proud?
Like a swift-fleeting meteor, a fast-flying cloud,
A flash of the lightning, a break of the wave,
He passeth from life to his rest in the grave.

The leaves of the oak and the willow shall fade,
Be scattered around, and together be laid;
As the young and the old, the low and the high,
Shall crumble to dust and together shall lie.

The infant, a mother attended and loved,
The mother, that infant's affection who proved,
The father, that mother and infant who blest,
Each, all, are away to that dwelling of rest.

The maid on whose brow, on whose cheek, in whose eye,
Shone beauty and pleasure,—her triumphs are by;
And alike from the minds of the living erased
Are the memories of mortals who loved her and praised.

The head of the king, that the sceptre hath borne;
The brow of the priest, that the mitre hath worn;
The eye of the sage, and the heart of the brave,—
Are hidden and lost in the depths of the grave.

The peasant, whose lot was to sow and to reap;
The herdsman, who climbed with his goats up the steep;
The beggar, who wandered in search of his bread,—
Have faded away like the grass that we tread.

So the multitude goes, like the flower or weed,
That withers away to let others succeed;
So the multitude comes, even those we beheld,
To repeat every tale that has often been told.

For we are the same that our fathers have been;
We see the same sights that our fathers have seen;
We drink the same stream, and we feel the same sun,
And run the same course that our fathers have run.

The thoughts we are thinking our fathers did think;
From the death we are shrinking our fathers did shrunk;
To the life we are clinging our fathers did cling,
But it speeds from us all like the bird on the wing.

They loved,—but the story we cannot unfold;
They scorned,—but the heart of the haughty is cold;
They grieved,—but no wail from their slumbers will come;
They loved,—but the tongue of their gladness is dumb.

They died, ah! they died;—we, things that are now,
That walk on the turf that lies over their brow,
And make in their dwelling a transient abode,
Meet the things that they met on their pilgrimage road.

Yea, hope and despondency, pleasure and pain,
Are mingled together in sunshine and rain;
And the smile and the tear, and the song and the dirge,
Still follow each other like surge upon surge.

'Tis the wink of an eye; 'tis the draught of a breath
From the blossom of health to the paleness of death,
From the gilded saloon to the bier and the shroud;
Oh! why should the spirit of mortal be proud?

William Knox.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

Colors often times play queer tricks with the eyes. If on a screen, of black velvet, placed at a distance of ten feet from the spectator, large letters are pasted, some blue, some red, they will not appear to be at an equal distance from the eyes. To some persons the red letters will seem nearer than the blue letters, while to other persons the contrary effect will be manifested.

To produce this effect both eyes must be employed. When one eye is closed the letters are all seen at the same distance. On opening the other eye one set of letters immediately appears to take a position in advance of the others.

The explanation offered for this effect is that a sort of stereoscopic illusion is produced in the eye itself, depending upon color. The image of a blue object is shifted by the eye toward one side, and that of a red object toward the other side.

If on looking at blue and red letters on a black background placed ten or twelve feet away you see the red letters nearer than the blue, screen off one-half of the pupil of each eye on the outside, and you will see the red letters retire behind the blue ones.

If you screen the pupils on the side toward the nose you will see the red letters advance apparently still farther ahead of the blue ones. If, on the other hand, you naturally see the blue in advance, screen the inner side of the pupils of your eyes and the red will come to the front.

Beautiful effects are produced with one eye alone when, instead of letters, red or blue rings are pasted on a background of the opposite color. Placing red rings on blue paper and using the right eye with the inner side of the pupil covered the appearance is that of circular red hillocks resting on a blue ground.

To produce this effect in its highest degree the paper must be held to the left and sloping in that direction. When the outer side of the pupil is screened the red ringe will become circular trenches in the blue paper.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

The Girl Scout Rally

Dear Uncle Jed: Saturday, the seventeenth of May, there was a Girl Scout rally in Boston and a few of the girls from my troop, including myself, went. It was a long trip, but we all enjoyed it. Several of us girls went by special bus. We left New London at a quarter of eight and returned home about ten o'clock that night.

We arrived in Boston at about half past one so we went right to the stadium. The Girl Scout shop in the gardens was open so we all purchased some little souvenir. I got a cute little flashlight and a sawing kit, because I thought they would come in handy for camp.

At two o'clock the rally started with the Girl Scouts dressed as Indians giving us the history of when the Pilgrims landed, and from then on until our time. I couldn't explain it all here because it would take up too much room, but they showed all kinds of life saving and artificial respiration. The thing that attracted me more than anything was when one Boston troop made a bridge out of logs and rope, which was really very strong, for the governor of Massachusetts and several other adults interested in the Girl Scout organization stood on it and bid us all good night.

FREDERICKA E. GRISHAM, Age 13.
New London.

Rosa Bonheur

Dear Uncle Jed: Marie Rosa Bonheur was born in Bordeaux, France, in 1822. She had lived on a farm. She with her sister and brothers loved animals.

Rosa was a poor little girl. Her father was an artist. Her mother was a music teacher.

When Rosa was eight years old she moved to Paris. Her mother died. One day she was lost and they looked down to the butcher's shop and found her. Her brothers and sister were Auguste, Jules and Juliette.

Rosa was sent to a nun's school. She was sent away to learn a trade. She learned to sew, but did not like it, for she wanted to draw.

She loved the animals and drew pictures of them.

She spent her time with her friends. She did not go out into society. She died at the age of 77 in 1899, honored and loved by all.

The most important picture painted by Rosa Bonheur is The Horse Fair, which took her one and a half years. Other pictures were Cows Plowing, A Contented Flock, A Humble Servant, A Changing Flock and Wasp.

In The West

Uuncle Jed: One day when I was in the west I thought I would like to go for a ride on my pony, so I put on my riding outfit, and went toward the prairie. Within a short distance from the ranch, I saw a gun. I thought it would be one of the cowboys guns, so I took it along with me. While I was turning back to go home, I saw a moose. I took three shots at it and killed it, then I got some cowboys and they brought it back to the ranch.

NO NAME.

Zep, A Pet Pon.

Dear Uuncle Jed: I am going to tell you about Zep, a pony. He was a nice pet. He was gentle and would not hurt anybody. Especially Clarence, his master. Every morning Clarence would brush him and comb his mane. One day, Clarence got sick. Charlie was Clarence's friend. He came over to see him.

Charlie said he would take care of Zep while he was sick. Every day Charlie came over to feed Zep. Zep began to like Charlie more and more. When Clarence got better he gave Charlie many rides on the pony. When Clarence went in the house he said Charlie is my best friend. When Charlie went in the house he said the same thing.

A Lucky Kernel of Corn

Uncle Jed: I am a kernel of corn. One morning in the first of June my owner said to his wife: "I believe the frosts are over, so I am going to plant my corn."

"I reckon you ought to if you ever expect to raise anything," said his wife.

I was on the side of the bin. Just then the wind blew me in. I told the others what I had heard. We knew most of us would see the world once more and some of us would be ground for meal.

When my owner planted his corn he cleaned the bin out and ground the poorest of us for meal. I did not know I was the best of all, so round and plump. When he took me out my heart leaped, for I thought I was doomed. Oh! I went into the bag with the seed.

I was being put into the planter when I heard the mill grinding my poor and unlucky comrades. I was planted. The rains came and I was the first to come up.

I was in a different shape then. I was tall and green. I was then hoed. After the last hoeing I was the tallest, biggest and most perfect shaped stalk in the whole field.

Generally there were two or three rains in a week, but there had not been any rain in two weeks. It went on so for weeks.

I heard the farmers say when they came to see the field that there was going to be a drought.

We all thought we were doomed. Our leaves drooped and we turned yellow. I had hoped to help someone, but I gave up all thoughts of ever doing so.

One night it began to rain and rained for three days. I grew fast. I soon had the fullest three ears of any stalk.

The fall soon came with its frosts. I was cut down. The corn on my ears was ground to make a loaf of bread for a poor man in the village. From my cobs were made syrup for the same man. I was given to the same man's cow.

A Faithful Boy

Uncle Jed: Over 50 years ago there was a great fire that burned a great part of Chicago. Hundreds of homes were swept away.

A rich lady was hurrying through the crowd of frightened people and was trying to save some of her household goods. She saw a small boy and called to him, saying:

"Take this box and do not part with it for one instant until I see you again. Take care of it, and I will reward you well."

The boy took the box and the lady turned back to save some more of her goods, if possible. All that night and the next day passed. The lady took refuge with her friends and heard nothing more of the boy or the box.

Her diamonds, a large amount of jewelry and valuable papers were in the box and she was in great distress

The Newfoundland Dog

Uncle Jed: The Newfoundland dog is sometimes called a wolf dog. Everybody loves the great, shaggy Newfoundland because this noble dog is fond of saving human lives. He cannot run long on the ground, or his feet will become sore, but he is a wonderful swimmer. For this reason his feet are slightly webbed, like those of a duck. He is so strong that he has often carried ropes through the rough waves from a sinking ship to the shore, and in this way saved many people.

Once in a large bay a little terrier fell from the wharf into the water. People standing about were sorry for him, but did not know how to save him. Suddenly a beautiful large Newfoundland dog caught sight of the terrier and jumped into the water, grasped the little dog by the neck with his teeth, then swam about looking for a place to land. Finally he sighted a low place and thither he swam till he reached the land.

The people were delighted and ran to meet the dog. The Newfoundland, giving two or three proud barks, laid down his burden upon the wet banks.

Two Eagles

Uncle Jed: A man working on a farm one day saw an eagle fluttering over a barnyard, no doubt meaning sooner or later to swoop down in search of prey. He determined to save his chickens and fetching his gun fired at the would-be robber, but he only succeeded in hurting its wings. Instead of falling to the ground the eagle flapped about in the air in a helpless sort of way uttering loud cries of pain.

The man was just going to fire again when he noticed another eagle coming up in the distance. It was evidently the mate of the one he had wounded, for it came straight to its rescue. Seeing that the first eagle could not fly away itself the newcomer seized its wounded mate with beak and claws and half carrying it helped it to reach the mountain side where he put it down, as he thought, in a safe place.

For a whole week the men on the farm saw the other eagle day after day carrying food to the disabled bird. It would have been quite easy to have killed both birds during this time, but the farmer forbade his man to molest them in any way because he was pleased at the affection and courage the one had shown on behalf of the other.

After a time the wounded eagle got well and they both flew away.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, June 10.—(AP)—Enlarged estimates of a 1930 domestic winter wheat production, together with new wheat arriving at Kansas City, did much to pull wheat values down today. Unsettlement of the New York stock market counted further as a bearish influence, and so too did scantiness of fresh export demand for wheat. Current advices said recent rains had increased the probable yield of new wheat in the southwest as much as 10,000,000 to 15,000,000 bushels.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous 7-8c1 3-8c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1-4@1-3c off, oats unchanged to 1c down and provisions at 7c@15c decline.

Provisions sympathized with downturns in the value of holdings.

COLUMBIA

Word has been received by friends in town of the death at Easton, Pa., Saturday of Thomas Sprague McGlaulin, 78, a former resident of Columbia. Mr. McGlaulin was born in Providence, R. I., and lived there as a young man. He lived in Columbia for eight years in the Pine street district. He had been in poor health for several years, but had been growing worse since March. He leaves his widow and daughter, Mrs. Royal Pierce of Easton, at whose home he died. The funeral was last Tuesday in Easton, and burial was also in Easton. Mrs. McGlaulin is a sister of the late Samuel B. West, who lived in Columbia for many years.

ERIC KIND IS HELD AT NEW LONDON FOR VIOLATING IMMIGRATION LAW

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 10—Another violator of the immigration law was arrested today when State Police Officer Arthur Kathe apprehended Eric Kind, employed by the Portland Trawling company, Groton. Kind was locked up at police headquarters and will be held a prisoner pending an immigration officer coming to New London and taking charge of the man. Kind is one of several, who have been employed by the Groton company and, it is claimed, obtained unlawful entry into this country.

CITY COUNCIL CONSIDERS THREE URGENT MATTERS

The city council, sitting as a committee this evening, considered three important matters, but did not dispose of them. The question of the sale of the Allen Hook and Ladder company house to Charles Smiddy was under consideration, but decision was deferred until such time as the city manager makes a report on a proposed plan for the consolidation of two fire companies under one roof. It has long been suggested that the Niagara company and the Hooks have the same service station, and there has been talk of erecting a combination house to accommodate both companies. It has been suggested that such a house as is needed might be erected on the site of the Colt street schoolhouse. That is a central location, but the firemen do not take to the idea. The city manager will report to the council soon, it is understood and then something definite may be decided on.

The proposal to extend Gardner avenue to the westward was also considered, but not decided. Silas Maxson, Jr., desired to develop that section and to extend the street, but there is objection. Mrs. Weaver claims that part of her land is necessary for the proposed extension. She was represented at the hearing by Attorney Frank L. McGuire and he strenuously objected. Judge Waller appeared for Mr. Maxson and gave a clear idea of what it was proposed to do. The matter impressed the committee at one that necessitated an accurate definition of the property lines, the court to decide what they were and then the parties interested should come to the council asking for the extension of the avenue. This matter went to the director of law for an opinion.

The board of school visitors invited the members of the council to meet them this evening to consider the transfer of pupils of the School of Commerce to Williams Memorial Institute for instruction. The council has voted not to make any appropriation for the maintenance of the School of Commerce. This the school board objects to and asks that the commerce school be continued. The meeting this evening was an executive session. It is understood that the board of school visitors represented that the pupils cannot get the same instruction at Williams for the same expense that has been given them in the School of Commerce.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the drivers' licenses of Charles F. Hall, submarine base and John Smith, 28 Hill street.

Nicholas E. Jensen, 41 George street, Providence, was charged in the police court this morning with violation of the state traffic law in failing to stop at an automatic danger signal, Crystal avenue and Main street. He failed to appear in court and his bond of $15 was forfeited.

But one case of intoxication tonight awaits hearing in the police court tomorrow.

Mischievous youths last night destroyed electric lights on the Shaw's cove foot-bridge. Officer George Bruhns was informed of the destruction of the lights, by being pelted with stones.

William H. Denison, 495 Montauk avenue, reported to the police this forenoon that his Pontiac automobile had been stolen. While the police were making a search for the auto, it was found by the owner abandoned on Ocean avenue.

Frank and Anna DeGastena have sold a house and lot on Colt street to Mary Belotsky.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, June 10—Keith C. Nelson, 6 Essex street, Deep River, a former resident of New London, was in the police court today charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in driving while under the influence of liquor. He paid $100 and costs. Nelson, who is a painter, came to New London yesterday, but he handled the brand of "paint" that is not used on a brush. CLARK'S FALLS DRIVER PENALIZED $50 AND COSTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, June 10—Albert Lawrence of Clark's Falls appeared in a special session of Third District court Tuesday afternoon before Judge Oliver H. Williams. He was all strapped up and had to be assisted to his feet. His court agraignment followed his being picked up by a state trooper from the Hope Valley barracks following an automobile accident on the Nooseneck Hill road, four miles from Wyoming, about 12:30 a. m. Monday. His automobile collided with a New York car and was badly smashed, the driver speeding away. Investigation by the state police showed Lawrence's car to have been four feet over the center line. Lawrence's arraignment was on two counts, reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident. The latter count was dropped, but he was found guilty on the reckless driving charge and was fined $50 and costs.

ANNONCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

An intriguing moon, a sumptuous couch in a gorgeous garden, exotic perfume carefully sprayed all about, langorous music from a muted violin, and two young people, lured into the "atmosphere" by a scheming host—well, what would happen to you, if you were a he-man of thirty, with $2,500 dangling in front of you as a reward for making love in that setting to the most beautiful girl you'd ever seen? But when that girl multiplied into two, then three, then four, and finally gave way to your host's fiancee, all five of them in a highly amorous mood, induced by the combination of the moon and her allies, once more we ask what would you do? That's the problem that faced Richard Dix in "Lovin' the Ladies," opening at the Broadway, when as Peter Darby, a poor but honest electrician, more or less a roughneck, unversed in the small talk and by play of high society, and lured into the love test by a couple of young spots who wagered $5,000 that all that was necessary to create passionate love, was properly staged "atmosphere" and any two young people selected at random. Dix, although well versed in screen love, has his hands full with lovely Lois Wilson, riotous Rita LaRoy, vivacious Virginia Sale, sister of "Specialist" Sale, and racy Renee Macready, and as the somewhat bashful electrician suddenly catapulted into a maze of soft white arms and luscious red lips, develops a case of blood pressure that bodes him no good. The accompanying program includes a howling burlesque on the old "melierdrama," entitled "More Sinned Against Than Usual," Rogers and Hart, well known vaudevillians and composers in "Makers of Melody," a unique revuette, a Paramount song cartoon "I'm Afraid to Go Home in the Dark," reviving old time melodies that will compel you to sing with the characters, and the latest Fox movietone news, showing the landing of the Graf Zeppelin in this country, the fatal six-machine mix-up in the Indianapolis races on Memorial day, and other timely headline shots.

The Nelsons are very proud of their family traditions, and boast that, unlike many other so-called family acts, every member of the troupe is of their own blood, born a Nelson, reared a Nelson, and that each of the four daughters, and the son, Paul, was cradled in a circus trunk.

The Nelson Family has been a name to conjure with for fifty years in the circus world, the act having been founded half a century ago, and in all the years that have followed, it has maintained its reputation of being the world's greatest acrobatic act.

A colorful church wedding and a gorgeous ballet embrace a part of the action in "Such Men are Dangerous," Fox Movietone all talking drama based on Elinor Glyn's widely read magazine story, which is closing tonight at the Breed theatre. Warner Baxter and Catherine Dale Owen are co-featured in the leading roles and the supporting cast includes Hedda Hopper, Claude Allister, Albert Conti and Bela Lugosi.

"The 3 Sisters," coming tomorrow to the Breed theatre, is a dramatic narrative of life in a little Italian village during the World war. Louise Dresser, Tom Patricola, Kenneth MacKenna, Joyce Compton and June Collyer are the co-featured players with Miss McPhail in the picture.

Paul Sloane, who directed "Hearts in Dixie," made this as his second Fox all talking film. The story is an original by George Brooks and Marion Orth, with the scenario and dialog by James K. McGuinness and George Brooks.

Bond Electric Corp.

The intelligence and deductive ability of the nation has increased during the past several years, if solutions of picture and cross-word puzzles may be taken as an indication, according to a study just completed by the picture puzzle committee of the Bond Electric corporation of Jersey City, N. J. The company has just completed a picture puzzle contest which attracted more than 350,000 answers. Wayne F. Koppes, architectural designer of Cleveland Heights, O., won first prize of $2,000 for the best solutions to the six puzzles offered by the company.

Bert C. McGilvay, 16-year-old high school student of Council Bluffs, Ia., won second prize of $1,000 and Floy W. Lash of San Francisco, third prize of $500. Prizes ranging from $100 to $5 were awarded 1,062 additional contestants. The picture puzzles each represented a particular quality of the various products of the Bond Electric Corp., such as radio batteries, tubes and flashlights.

High school students, as a class, displayed greater deductive ability than any other group of contestants, according to the committee. A comparative study of answers received in last year's contest with those received this year showed a greater percentage of almost correct answers in the 1930 contest. Award of prizes will take place in the various cities where the prize winners reside, about June 11.

Palace Theatre

A double feature bill which is both dramatic and comic will be presented today, tomorrow and Friday at the Palace theatre with the showing of "Soldiers and Women," a gripping production with Aileen Pringle and Grant Withers as the leads and "Clancy in Wall Street," which features Charles Murray at his best.

"Soldiers and Women" is the story of the neurotic wife of a colonel stationed at the marine base at Haiti who is bored and decides to break the monotony with a trifling love affair involving one of the officers at the base. The officer, however, is deeply involved in another affair with the wife of a captain and repulses her avowal.

If you like hilarious comedy do not fail to see "Clancy in Wall Street," which beats anything along this line. It is the story of how funny even such tragic events as the crash may become with a person like Charles Murray to expose the lighter side. Murray as Clancy starts out as a plumber but when the boom comes along he invests his savings in Atlas Pipe. The stock soars and with it Clancy's profits. He moves his family into a luxurious new home, entertains lavishly, struts about pompously and calls in his former partner to fix a leaky pipe. But as everyone knows there is a crash and Atlas Pipe is not exempt nor is the newly rich Clancy. The situations are too funny to disclose. Come and see it for yourself. It is better than "McFadden's Flats" and "The Cohens and the Kelleys." It is a sure cure for the blues or a grouch.

If you haven't cast your ballot in the Popularity contest, this is the time to do it. As you know the winner is to be given a trip to Atlantic City and the second prize is a gold season pass to the Palace. Surely, both are worth winning and if you know a nice girl who ought to have a vacation, boost her as much as possible. Don't wait until it is too late and spend the rest of your life regretting that you were so slow.

GREENEVILLE

FINE RECEPTION FOR NEW PASTOR OF THIRD BAPTIST

A large and enthusiastic group gathered at the Third Baptist church last evening to give a formal recognition and reception to the new pastor, Rev. William J. Sly, Ph. D., who has already won the hearts of the members of the church and congregation since his coming among them a month ago.

Dr. Sly is well known in Connecticut from the fact that he was director of religious education for the Baptist churches of Connecticut a few years ago. From here he was called to Philadelphia to have charge of the religious education work for new Americans with the American Baptist Publication society, but his new work often called him back to this state.

For the past few years he has been

professor of religious education at Linfield college in Oregon. He is now connected with the Education Extension Service, Inc., of Ithaca, N. Y., in teaching and administration, and in September will, in addition to his church duties here, continue his work of teaching and organizing classes of business men in self-improvement along the line of public speaking and civic leadership in cities in New England. This will occupy him three days a week, leaving him the other days for his church duties here and preaching on Sundays.

Dr. Sly has had four pastorates before this, in Kansas City, Springfield, Ohio; Garfield Park, Chicago, Ill. and in Delta, Colorado, where he was compelled to go on account of his health. With his wide experience in the pastorate, religious education and teaching and the enthusiastic cooperation he has already inspired by his preaching and leadership in the few weeks he has been here, presages a bright and prosperous future for the church.

At the reception last night addresses of welcome were made by members of the church, H. I. Peckham for the deacons, W. A. Lund for the trustees, Miss Dorothy Conklin for the young people, Henry Sebastian for the church school, Clayton Gallup for the Boy Scouts, Mrs. Elmer Mulkin for the homes, Mrs. H. I. Peckham for the women, Miss Hill for the Children's Crusade. Addresses of congratulation to the church and pastor were made by Dr. David A. Pitt of Central Baptist, Rev. Percy Kilmister of First Baptist, Dr. George Warren Potter of First M. E., Dr. Joseph Cooper of Trinity M. E., Rev. E. J. Norris, rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal, Rev. Charles H. Ricketts of Greeneville Congregational.

In the receiving line were: W. A. Lund, Dorris Lund, Deacon and Mrs. H. I. Peckham, Deacon and Mrs. E. Mulkin, Deacon and Mrs. Henry Sebastian, Mr. and Mrs. C. Wunderlick, Dorothy Conklin, Harold Kinne, Mrs. George Howard and the pastor. Mrs. Sly was unable to be present due to her absence in New York city, attending her sister, Miss Augusta S. Taintor, a teacher in Columbia university, who has been seriously ill.

Dr. Sly is the author of the book, "World Stories Retold," which has found much interest among young people. He has also written a religious drama, "Promoted" which will be presented by the young people of the church the last Sunday of this month.

In the musical programme were a selection by the junior choir and a vocal number by Mrs. Alice Cousins.

Babies Baptized

The following babies were baptized at Greeneville Congregational church Sunday morning, by the pastor: Dan Robinson Blake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger L. Blake; Janet Brittin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Brittin; Carl Henry Fleming, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Fleming; Dorothy Louise Grover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royal E. Grover; Marilyn Ruth Kramer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Kramer; James Morgan Miner, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Miner; Lyle Kimball Moulton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred K. Moulton; Levina Ellen McAvoy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McAvoy; Jane Marie Whitehead, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl B. Whitehead.

Another beautiful feature of the service was the presentation of a small old-fashioned bouquet to each of the 32 members of the cradle roll.

THE LATE J. H. LARRABEE HAD MOST USEFUL CAREER

Norwich friends have received notices in regard to the death and funeral of J. Holland Larrabee, who is remembered by many when, during his residence here in Norwich, he was an active member of the Second Congregational church serving as deacon, also as superintendent of the Sunday school. Mr. Larrabee came to Norwich about 1895 and left in 1911 to live in Newburyport, Mass. While in Norwich he was an expert watchmaker with the jewelry firm of H. R. Woodward.

As already noted in The Bulletin, Mr. Larrabee died in Newburyport May 17th, following a long illness. He was born in Gardner, Me., Sept. 26th, 1868. From Gardner he came to Norwich. After leaving this city he studied optometry in Boston, locating in Newburyport about 20 years ago. There he became prominent in many civic and welfare lines, organized the first troop of Boy Scouts, was recording secretary of the Y. M. C. A., a deacon in the Central Congregational church, treasurer of Newburyport Homeopathic hospital, and recording secretary of the Rotary club. He was made a Mason while residing in Gardner.

The funeral services were held at his residence, 16 Lafayette street, the service being read by Rev. Glenn Tilley Morse, of All Saints' Episcopal church, West Newbury. Burial was in Belleville cemetery. He leaves his widow, who was E. Maude Smith, of Newburyport, a daughter Helen P. Larrabee, a sister, Miss Edith Larrabee of Gardner, Me., and two brothers, Edgar, of Gardner and Austin P. Larrabee, of Yankton, South Dakota. He was known here in Norwich as public spirited and generous hearted in all his relationships.

Graduates At Northfield

In the class of 92 students graduating last Saturday at Northfield seminary, the largest class in the history of the school, were Elinor Harrington of this city, Florence Adams of Colchester and Grace C. Carter of South Lyme.

TAFTVILLE

EIGHTEEN ORGANIZATIONS IN FOURTH CELEBRATION

Representatives of 18 clubs and societies met in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building Monday evening to discuss preliminary plans for an old time celebration of Fourth of July in the village this year. No definite plans were laid, but a committee comprised of a representative of each organization was appointed, this committee, to which additional names will later be added, to have charge of the celebration.

The gathering left the meeting with the understanding that each club and society will hold a special meeting during the week with the purpose of outlining some sort of programme, the nature of which will be reported back at another meeting of all organizations next Monday evening. At the meeting Monday evening several were of the opinion that a horrible parade would be a good attraction, this to be given the night before the Fourth, while others wanted a parade with floats on the Fourth.

What kind of celebration and the time it will be held will be thrashed out at the meeting next Monday evening, when additional organizations, merchants and other individuals are expected to join in with the American Legion post, sponsors, to devise a suitable programme. Several organizations not being represented at the first meeting have made known their intentions of attending the next meeting. Paul Benoit, commander of the post, presided at the session Monday evening, when the following committee was appointed:

Henry Pepin, Army and Navy club; Ernest Phaneuf Shyma club; Mr. Blanchette, Ponemah Wheel club; Mr. Rondeau, St. Louis society; Henry Phaneuf, St. John's society; Mr. Durant, Artesians; Patrick Fogarty, Foresters; Archie Molleur, Ponemah mills; Herman Fontaine, Pinochle club; Mr. Benac, Business Men's association; Mr. Boileau, Lafayette club; Connie Pepin, American Legion; Joseph Dugas, Knights of Columbus; Mr. Matthew, Property Owners association; Edmund Proulx, Union St. John society; Mr. Burelle, Naturalization club; Mr. Gauvin, Firemen; Joseph Nevins, Hibernians.

Miss Blanche Molleur, of Hartford spent the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archie J. Molleur and family of Providence street.

At the morning service of the Taftville Congregational church on Sunday, the offertory solo was sung by Miss Mildred Troeger.

John Meyer of New Haven is passing several days at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Meyer of Providence street.

Miss Frances H. O'Connell of Hartford has been visiting Mrs. Earle M. Wood of North Third avenue.

Direct steamship service carrying both passengers and freight between Houston, Tex., and Mexican ports has been inaugurated.

BRINGS $15,000 DAMAGE SUIT ON BREACH OF PROMISE ALLEGATION

Attachments have been filed against the Taftville public market and the bank account of Alfred Proulx, 28, in a suit for alleged breach of promise brought against him by Miss Mary E. Williams, who is employed as a bookkeeper for a Norwich automobile agency, and asks $15,000 damages, according to the papers drawn in the suit by her attorney G. C. Morgan.

It is charged in the complaint that on Jan. 1, 1928 Proulx had offered to marry Miss Williams and that the offer had been made at various times and places since then, but he now refuses to carry out his promise, when requested to do so.

It is also claimed that Proulx has within a week made plans for a secret wedding with Agnes Pothier of Taftville as a marriage license was taken out at the town clerk's office at Norwich on June 2, a waiver of the usual five day notice having been secured.

On the license it was indicated that the wedding was to be performed by Rev. F. R. H. Des Sureault of Taftville who left on a trip to Canada on Sunday and has not yet made a return of the license to the town clerk's office.

RESERVES DECISION IN SUIT OVER BEATING

Judge Allyn L. Brown reserved decision in the superior court here Tuesday afternoon after hearing trial of the suit brought against John Coman by Athony Francis Cook of this city for $4,000 damages for the injuries received by Cook in a beating Coman gave him on May 23, 1929.

Both men were employes of the Robert Gair company at Montville at the time. Attorney Josiah Greenstein appeared for Cook and Attorney G. C. Morgan for Coman.

Dr. John Suplicki of this city, who was called to the mill to attend Cook, testified that he found the man unconscious at the time and he described the injuries Cook received.

Cook, who is 29, and lives on York avenue, testified that he thought the sum he owed Coman was about $2 and he was attacked by Coman after the latter asked him to pay the loan.

When Cook said he hadn't the money Coman replied, "I'll have to take it out of you." Cook claimed he was knocked down in the washroom and beaten so badly that he couldn't eat or sleep when he got home and the next day he called Dr. Suplicki and then went to the hospital, where he remained for about a week. Cook said he didn't put a hand on Coman, and he was out of work for two months. He had been getting $32 a week at the Gair company, but the doctor told him the work was too heavy for him after the beating and he got work at a Norwich theatre, where he now gets $15 a week.

Wm. Kodena, also an employe at the Gair plant, gave corroborative testimony regarding the fight, after which Attorney Greenstein said the plaintiff rested.

Coman, who is 20 years old, was called to the stand by Attorney Morgan and testified that he had loaned Cook $6 in all on two different occasions to buy liquor and Cook had paid $2.50 back. He told of making the demand and admitted punching Cook in the face and body, but denied that he knocked Cook down or into a machine.

Bernard S. Smith, also an employe at the Gair paper mill, testified to seeing the attack and said all the injuries he could see upon Cook was a cut on the chin.

The attorneys submitted the case without argument and Judge Brown reserved decision.

MOTORING PUBLIC HELPED BY NEW HAVEN CLUB

Immediate public recognition and acceptance of the service of volunteer road patrolmen instituted by the Automobile club of New Haven county has been reported to Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel, upon whose recommendation the plan is being tried in the United States for the first time. In the first three days of duty the patrolmen assisted more than 500 motorists, in addition to giving help in accident cases, directing heavy volumes of traffic, recovering stolen and lost property, and preventing and reporting serious violations of the law.

Ten men have been assigned to the service and are on duty on Saturdays, Sundays and other busy traffic days. They are stationed at intersections in New Haven county where accidents have occurred with the greatest frequency and for which police direction is not available. Patrol houses have been erected at these locations, each containing a telephone and emergency equipment.

T. A. B. MINSTRELS GIVE UNCAS-ON-THAMES PROGRAMME

The welfare committee of Norwich lodge, No. 430, B. P. O. Elks, made its monthly visitation to Uncas-on-Thames Tuesday evening and again provided the patients with a bit of cheer. It was given in the form of a minstrel show presented by the T. A. B. society, who made such a creditable showing in its first appearance here. Thirty members of the cast appeared to good advantage.

There were also brief addresses by First Selectman William S. Murray, chairman of the recreation commission, and William J. Fitzgerald. In addition to members of the Elks committee there were also several members of the lodge present. Refreshments were served.

Waffle Supper For May Club

Mrs. J. Harlow Bogue entertained the members of the May club at a waffle supper Tuesday evening at her home on Bliss place and a very enjoyable evening was spent. There were ten present. During the meeting plans were discussed for later outings.

ANTZIS DIVORCE SUIT IS HEARD UNCONTESTED

The divorce suit of Samuel A. Antzis of this city, against his wife, Helen Feinberg Antzis, was partially heard in the superior court here Tuesday before Judge Allyn L. Brown, having been placed on the calendar as a contested case but no defense was put in, although Attorney Edwin W. Higgins, counsel for Mrs. Antzis, was in court for a while. Mrs. Antzis was not in court nor were any witnesses for the defense. Attorney G. C. Morgan appeared for Antzis, and after the testimony of several witnesses had been taken the case was continued so that another witness might be called later.

Dr. Louis T. Cassidy, who had attended Mrs. Antzis when she was a patient at the Backus hospital in March, gave his testimony in Judge Brown's room in the presence of the judge, Attorney Morgan and the court stenographer, after the doctor had declined to answer the lawyer's question in court as to what was the matter with Mrs. Antzis. Judge Brown instructed the doctor that he would have to testify and this evidence was taken in the judge's room.

Antzis Gives Testimony

According to the testimony of Antzis, he and his wife were married in New York city, in June, 1923, later coming to live on a farm in Montville. He told of leaving her a number of times, which he said was because of the way she abused him. He also told of coming home one morning about 1 o'clock from the Frink dairy, with his brother Michael, and finding a man in her room. He had never seen her out riding with other men, but people had told him about it, he said. He testified to one time when Mrs. Antzis and Mrs. Minnie Rodgers of Talman street went to Albany, N. Y., with Val Luppert, a former supernumerary policeman. The witness said he learned about this trip from the husband of Mrs. Rodgers. When Antzis heard that his wife was in the hospital and he called Dr. Cassidy who said it was a cold Mrs. Antzis had.

Judge Asks Questions

Judge Brown gave Antzis a searching questioning in the course of which he brought out that Mrs. Antzis had sued Mrs. Rose Beckley Frink for alienation of affections, but had lost the suit. It was further brought out that Antzis is now hiring Mrs. Frink as a bookkeeper in the dairy business and is paying her $20 a week. His dairy, the Star Dairy, at New London, has a Norwich office, which is at 272 Main street with Thomas H. Beckley, the father of Mrs. Frink, as manager. In reply to a question from Judge Brown, Antzis said that his association with Mrs. Frink had been proper in every way and Antzis denied that there had been any agreement made in any way by himself or by any one for him in regard to paying her in case a divorce were granted. Asked why the case had been listed as contested but was uncontested, Antzis said he thought it was because the matter of the doctor and hospital was brought up, which his wife hadn't expected.

Albert Rodgers of 111 Talman street testified that his wife had left him two days after the trip to Albany with Mrs. Antzis and Val Luppert and he hasn't seen her since. He now has an application for divorce pending.

Michael Antzis testified to seeing the man in Mrs. Antzis room, and Arthur J. Disco, a supernumerary policeman, told of seeing Mrs. Antzis and her sister out riding with Albert Rodgers, a son of a former witness.

After a game period, Miss Hyde and her assistants served punch, cake, fancy wafers and candy. The Hyde home was decorated with peonies, iris, sweet William and other

Hartford Clergyman Officiated

Because of faulty information given to The Bulletin, it was incorrectly stated in the account of the funeral of Miss Lena Wheeler Lewis, which was held Sunday afternoon at her home in Ledyard, that H. I. Pettis was the officiating clergyman. It should have been Rev. E. E. Osborne of Hartford. Mr. Pettis was one of the bearers.

Oyster production from North Carolina bottoms for the 1929-30 season totalled 472,468 bushels.

46 DEATHS BY FIRE AND WATER IN COLLISION OF STEAMERS

The Pinthis Sank to the Bottom 20 Minutes After the Collision Off Scituate, Mass., Carrying With Her All Her Crew of 19—14 Members of the Fairfax Crew and 11 Men and Women Passengers Jumped to Death When Panic Stricken By Fire—One Woman Was Fatally Burned and Five Others Probably Fatally—The Stricken Vessel and the Remainder of Her 140 Passengers and Crew Were Saved By Quick Thinking and Heroism.

BOSTON, June 11.—(AP)—Dull red flames on the Atlantic tonight burned a memorial across a murky sky to the tragedy of the steamers Fairfax and Pinthis which sent 46 men and women to death by fire and water a few minutes after the ships collided.

Last night in a heavy fog the Merchants and Miners liner Fairfax, bearing a holiday crowd of 71 to Norfolk and Baltimore, crashed without warning into the Fall River oil tanker Pinthis in Massachusetts bay, off Scituate, Mass.

In a minute, blazing oil erupted from the tanker and showered the Fairfax and the sea around. The Pinthis, fatally stricken, sank to the bottom in 20 minutes, carrying with her all her crew of 19, leaving the Fairfax aflame from stem to stern in a flaming sea.

The sea still blazed tonight where 14 members of the Fairfax crew, mostly Negroes, and 11 men and women passengers had jumped panic-stricken to death by fire because they feared that very fate aboard the liner.

A score of persons aboard the Fairfax were burned, one of them fatally, and five others probably fatally but the stricken vessel and the remainder of the 140 passengers and crew both were saved by quick thinking and heroism on the part of most and in spite of the unreasoning fright of a few.

The Gloucester, another M. and M. liner, which took off the passengers early this morning, came into port a few hours before the Fairfax, like a wounded animal, crept slowly back with the sea licking the wound in her starboard bow and reaching for the marks of fire along her side.

They carried the burned men, women and children from the Gloucester to waiting ambulances and then the other passengers followed bringing with them tales of the tragedy.

Panic threatened in the first moments but officers and men set to work quieting the milling crowd on deck and fighting the fire. Some passengers and especially several naval officers who happened to be aboard aided in the work.

The fire shot into staterooms and along the upper decks, burning the davits of the port side boats so that they could not be lowered and melting the wireless antennae so that no message could be sent for aid immediately.

A boat on the starboard side was lowered from the upper deck and held in readiness. It was impossible to lower it in the flaming sea and attempt any rescue of those who had jumped, however, and an examination of the watertight compartments showed that the gaping hole torn in the liner's bow was not dangerous.

There was no time to scan the inferno in which the Pinthis disappeared as the women were gathered together out of the way of the fire, the boat taken below and the fire extinguished. There was a man, however, probably a marine, who cast himself into the frightful sea in a vain effort to save a woman who leaped over the rails. Ralph Howes of Belmont saw him leap and thought he might have been pulled out afterward.

Two other marines and John Popp, chief radio operator aboard the U. S. S. Childs scaled the mast to repair the broken and burned antennae. Working in the black smoke and fog and lighted only by the red glare of burning oil, they made the delicate adjustments and repairs necessary.

Thus the outside world was enabled to learn the first meagre details of the tragedy as the call for help to the Gloucester went out over the air.

Lieutenant John C. Marsh of Dorchester, on his way to a post at the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis, paid tribute to Captain Archibald Brooks, veteran skipper of the Fairfax, and his crew, for their work in saving the Fairfax and most of those aboard her.

Captain Brooks, when the danger was past, went below and visited each of the injured, speaking quietly and reassuringly to each one and telling them that aid from the Gloucester was coming soon.

The older boat, which started from Boston three hours later, also for Norfolk, appeared out of the reddish fog before midnight. Strained white faces along the rails watched anxiously as the delicate process of maneuvering alongside consumed an hour. Another hour was taken up in transferring all except a few of the passengers.

Then the Gloucester, which twice before in her 30 off years was involved in sea accidents and now was playing the part of saviour, nosed around and moved slowly back to Boston, followed later by the Fairfax and leaving behind a still fiery sea.

Back on the dock in Boston there was tense anxiety. Rarely had so little been known about a major sea disaster for so long. It was known that several had been burned aboard the Fairfax x x x ambulances had been ordered and doctors and nurses were in the crowd and it was known that a tanker had been sunk.

What happened to the tanker's crew, who they were and what the lost ships name was remained hidden until later in the day by that same fog which caused the crash. Only when the first survivors were landed in the semi-darkness of early morning was there any idea of how many had died out there in the darkness.

The Pinthis was in flames before the wireless could chatter out her call signals and an SOS. The Shell Eastern Petroleum Products company which operates her, tried in vain to get in touch with her after the accident and observers agreed it was she which sank.

As the Fairfax passengers continued to tell their brief stories today there was one discordant note in the praise given the crew. Signalman George Farrell and Quartermaster Edward Cullen of the U. S. Navy, said they saw a group of ten Negro stewards rush a boat in the first panic, pushing women and children aside.

Investigation of the disaster was started simultaneously by United States and local inspectors as well as by company officials.

The number of fatalities was increased to 46 with the death in the Carney hospital of South Boston of Mrs. Ida Berkowitz, 22, of this city. Robert, 14 month old son of Mrs Berkowitz was still at the hospital. The mother carried the child almost unscathed through the flames which claimed her own life.

SIX INDICTED FOR SALE OF INTOXICATING LIQUOR

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP) — Six persons were indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of sale of intoxicating liquor and 31 others were arraigned today in commissioner's court in the government's drive against sellers of "smoke," or denatured alcohol, which in the past month has taken 32 lives.

Vigorous prosecution was promised by the federal attorney under the Jones law which provides a penalty of five years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine.

Most of the dead were unemployed, a part of that floating population that calls Bowery flop houses home and buys its liquor at five, ten and fifteen cents a shot. Little attention was paid when the first few bodies were found huddled in doorways along the Street of Lost Hopes and it was not until last week when they began to fall in growing numbers that police and federal agents took action.

Two of the defendants named in the indictments are women.

$500,000 FIRE DAMAGE AT TEXAS REFINING PLANT

PORT ARTHUR, Tex., June 11—(AP)—Fire believed to have originated in an agitator caused damage estimated at at least $500,000 to the Texas company refining plant here this afternoon and burned 12 men, several perhaps fatally.

The fire started about 4:30 p. m., after an explosion which shook houses within a radius of a mile from the plant.

Several minor explosions followed the major one at 30 to 40-minute intervals. The flames rose to a height of 250 feet and with the huge clouds of black smoke which boiled from the fire could be seen for miles.

While the fire was believed under control tonight sporadic sheets of flame still could be seen leaping high into the air.

BROOKHART FIGHTING MACNIDER NOMINATION

WASHINGTON, June 11—(AP)—Opposition which may prevent a vote being taken at this session upon the nomination of Hanford MacNider of Iowa as minister to Canada was announced today by Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa.

Brookhart wrote the senate foreign relations committee that the Iowa republican leader was "personally offensive" to him. The committee put the nomination before the senate today "without recommendation."

Senator Steck, democrat, Iowa, immediately gave notice he would support MacNider, who was a former assistant secretary of war in the Coolidge administration.

GRENOBLE, France, June 11—(AP)—Eric Jackson of Fall River, Mass., was killed today as he was returning by motor truck to Grenoble from La Berade, in the Alps. The truck was driving through the mountains in a hard storm when a huge stone rolled down the mountainside and on to the rear end of the machine. Several other occupants were crushed to death.

TO PERSIST ON RIGHTS TO LONDON NAVAL NOTES

WASHINGTON, June 11.— (AP) — Agreement was reached today by the senate foreign relations sub-committee on a resolution asserting the committee's rights to the London naval notes which have been denied the committee by President Hoover.

The resolution will be presented tomorrow and its adoption has been forecast by both advocates and opponents of the treaty. What effect the resolution will have on the pact itself is uncertain.

Senator Shipstead, farmer-labor, Minnesota, who has been counted among the opponents of the treaty, announced today he would be unwilling to act on the treaty until all the papers relating to it are in the committee. However, Chairman Borah, of the foreign relations committee, who helped redraft the resolution of Senator Black, democrat, Alabama, asserting the committee's rights to the papers, said he believed the dispute would have little ultimate effect on the outcome of the treaty debate.

Senators Black and Moses, republican, New Hampshire, worked with Senator Borah in drafting the resolution answering the blunt refusal of President Hoover.

SAW ARMED MEN ON CAPONE MIAMI GROUNDS

MIAMI, Fla., June 11.—(AP)— The Miami Beach resident of "Scarface" Al Capone was described as a virtual armed camp today by Edward Robinson, state witness in proceedings instituted by State Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne to padlock the Capone home.

Robinson, whose home is close to the Capone residence on Palm Island, exclusive residential area, testified that he had seen men walking about the Capone grounds with pistols in their pockets or strapped to their hips. He also mentioned the police guard that has been stationed at the grilled entrance to the Capone home by the city of Miami Beach.

The Chicago gangster, named with his wife as defendant in the Hawthorne petition, appeared perturbed at Robinson's testimony.

He discussed plans for a half million dollar bond issue to be used for rehabilitation of farm lands and extension of a practical rural school system.

"We must create a situation, either industrial or commercial, whereby the Porto Rican may make for himself and his family a comfortable wage," Governor Roosevelt said.

Sen. Committee Not To Coerce Cannon

Members Have Agreed Not to Question His 1928 Anti-Smith Activities.

WASHINGTON, June 11.— (AP) — Definite agreement not to compel Bishop James Cannon, Jr., to answer questions about his 1928 anti-Smith activities was reached late today by the senate lobby committee.

The decision was agreed upon during informal conferences among members of the committee and will be announced officially at a meeting tomorrow attended by the southern Methodist churchman.

It was considered improbable that any action would be taken as the result of the bishop's defiance of the committee last week when he repeatedly refused to answer questions about his political activities and walked out on his investigators.

The committee agreed earlier in the day to pass upon its authority to investigate political activities before taking any action against the bishop. The agreement was entered into at the request of Cannon, who appeared unexpectedly at a committee meeting and assured the investigators he had intended no discourtesy in walking out.

Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, contended to the last that the committee had not exceeded its authority in inquiring into Cannon's political activities. He advocated asking the senate for specific authority to investigate political activities, but did not receive the necessary support from other members.

Members of the committee said it had been proposed to call C. Bascom Slemp, former secretary to President Coolidge, and now republican national committeeman for Virginia, to testify concerning contributions of $65,300 made to Cannon by E. C. Jameson, New York capitalist. It was understood, however, that this proposal also had been overruled.

Slemp is reported to have brought Cannon and Jameson together during the 1928 campaign but the bishop testified he did not recall whether the Virginian first introduced him to the New Yorker.

GREEN PLACES NATION'S UNEMPLOYED AT 3,609,000

WASHINGTON, June 11.— (AP) — Placing the total of the nation's unemployed at 3,609,000 last month, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, told the house judiciary committee today he thought it "inconceivable" that congress should adjourn without a "gesture" for relief.

Green appeared before the committee to give his "unqualified support" to the two Wagner bills to provide for establishment of a national employment system and the advance planning of public works. Miss Frances Perkins, of Albany, N. Y., head of the New York state industrial department, likewise urged approval of the bills.

"Unemployment still remains at as high a level as last January—20 per cent—only two per cent less than the peak," Green said. "Progress in employment is highly unsatisfactory.

"In both previous years, 1928 and 1922, the situation was clearing rapidly by May and at least 27 per cent of those out of work in January were back at their jobs again. The improvement this year from April to May was very slight. Reports from trade unions show that there are still as many out of work as in January."

TWO TRAGIC DEATHS RESULT OF JEALOUSY

THOMPSONVILLE, June 11.—(AP)—Angelo Santinello was fatally wounded and his wife seriously injured today in a shooting and knifing attack made on them by Calogero Compretto, 48, who later shot himself to death.

Infatuation for Mrs. Santinello, police believed, caused Compretto to attack the couple during a fit of jealousy.

Santinello died at a Springfield, Mass., hospital, shortly after being admitted with his wife, who was expected to recover.

Compretto, who was married and the father of several children, went to the Santinello home at noon. Mr. and Mrs. Santinello were in a basement room at the time.

Mrs. Santinello told police that Compretto first attacked her with a knife, inflicting seven wounds, and then stabbed and shot her husband. Neighbors, attracted by the shots and screams, found the assailant's body lying on the floor of the dining room, a revolver by his side.

FIVE-YEAR SENTENCE FOR ACCOMPLICE OF AGOFSKY

SALEM, Mass., June 11.—(AP)—Peter Bolitsky, 20, of Lawrence, alleged accomplice of Joseph Agofsky of Fairfield, Conn., who was fatally shot in Nashua while attempting to escape arrest Monday, was sentenced to five years in the Concord reformatory by Judge David Dillon here today. Bolitsky was convicted of larceny, breaking and entering, and receiving stolen goods. He was arrested in Lawrence April 15, while police were looking for Agofsky, and at that time admitted the latter had been staying at his house, where stolen goods later were found.

The President-Elect Of Brazil Welcomed

Received Presidential Salute of Guns at Governors Island.

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP)—Delayed hours by a fog that kept his ship from entering the harbor, Julio Prestes, president-elect of the United States of Brazil, arrived late today and almost immediately left for Washington.

Dr. Prestes, with his son and several aides, came on the steam Almirante Jacequay, under escort of two United States and two Brazilian cruisers. At Quarantine the visitors were transferred to the city tug Macom and brought up the bay to receive a presidential salute of 21 guns at Governors Island.

Although it was just after office hours when the Macom docked at the Battery, enough workers had stayed in the tall towers of lower Broadway to hurl a dense paper snowstorm down on the procession that passed between sidewalks jammed with home-goers.

At City hall, Dr. Prestes was greeted warmly by Mayor James J. Walker, who laughingly ceded him "the tardiness championship," which the mayor said he himself had held without serious competition for years. A special train left for Washington with the Prestes party just an hour after the Macom had landed.

Dr. Prestes was not able to give an interview on the Macom, for he speaks no English, but he had distributed a typewritten statement in which he said his visit had no purpose other than to return the pre-inaugural visit President Hoover paid to Brazil.

"The development of our friendship," the statement continued in regard to the two nations, "widens continuously, not only as regards our economic intercourse, but also in the commerce of ideas and in the effort of our two countries in favor of pan-Americanism."

Dr. Prestes, who will become president of Brazil in November, was greeted at Quarantine by the Brazilian ambassador and consul general, by representatives of the army and navy, and by George Akerson, secretary to Mr. Hoover, as representative of the president.

MILITARY AND CIVIC HONORS FOR PRESTES

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP)—Dr. Julol Prestes, president elect of Brazil, was greeted tonight with full military and civil honors on arriving here at 9:23 p. m., from New York.

WATSON CONFIDENT SENATE WILL PASS THE TARIFF BILL

WASHINGTON, June 11—(AP)—The opinion that Secretary Mellon favors the tariff bill was expressed in the senate today by Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, after Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, had characterized as "idle talk" rumors that Senators Reed and Grundy, Pennsylvania, republicans, might vote against the measure.

Responding to a speech by Harrison in which the Mississippian twitted the republicans for not challenging the reports regarding the attitude of the three Pennsylvanians, Senator Smoot said the treasury secretary "denies the statement that was made yesterday in the press."

"Then he is for it?" asked Harrison.

"He is for it. I should judge from the statement that has been issued today," Smoot replied. He did not say what statement he had in mind but he emphasized privately later that it was authentic.

The measure will come up for a final vote Friday at 2 p. m.

Off the floor Senator Watson, of Indiana, the republican leader, said, "We will pass the bill." He took into account that the Reed and Grundy votes still were doubtful.

WISCONSIN REPUBLICANS RENOMINATE GOV. KOHLER

OSHKOSH, Wis., June 11—(AP)—Platform departures from accepted political "regularity" were adopted today by conservative republicans of Wisconsin, in state convention here.

Taking up a favorite issue of their rivals in the Lafollette progressive faction, delegates voted unanimously to include a plank which calls for strict regulation of chain stores and chain banks. A vigorous condemnation of chain institutions was voiced.

Sharing interest with this addition to conservative political tenets was the omission of a plank pledging support to the national republican administration. Heretofore, this clause has been included, the conservatives assuming the position of the administration faction in Wisconsin. There was a brief word of commendation for the efforts of President Hoover in the direction of farm relief.

The attitude of the president on prohibition was understood to have caused delegates to pass by the usual pledge of support. NINE CHICAGO GANGSTERS WERE ARRESTED ON TRAIN

Were On Train En Route From Trenton N. J., to New York City—Arrests Were Made By Brooklyn Homicide Squad and Penn. Railroad Dectectives — Gangsters Had 24 New Traveling Bags—Pistols Were Found In Some of the Bags—In Chicago Special Police Squads Have Been Ordered to Invade the Haunts of Hoodlums and to "Get Your Men."

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP)—The Brooklyn homicide squad, aided by Pennsylvania railroad detectives, today arrested nine men they called Chicago gangsters for questioning in connection with the slaying of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, Chicago reporter.

They were arrested on a train en route from Trenton, N. J., to New York city and brought to Brooklyn police headquarters in taxicabs. They carried 24 new traveling bags and police said they found pistols in some of the bags.

Fingerprints were taken and sent to Chicago by airplane for identification.

Police said they believed the men were part of a general exodus from Chicago of underworld characters fleeing because of aroused public opinion.

Police said their prisoners declared they were coming to New York to attend the Sharkey-Schmeling fight and that several more of their friends were expected.

Most of those arrested laughed, apparently regarding the matter as a joke. Police, cooperating with railroad police, said they expected to arrest at least six more men by midnight.

Names of those arrested could not immediately be learned.

Police later announced the names of seven of the men arrested as follows:

Paul Ricca, 33; Dennis Cooney, 42; Jack Guzik, 44; Salvatore Labardo, 35; Joseph Smith, 28, and Edward Vogel, 33, all of Chicago, and Edward Morrison, 31, no address.

Jack Guzik, also known as Jack Cusik, was said by police to be the right hand man of Al Capone, and Edward Vogel was said to be the brother of "Big George" Vogel, alleged Chicago gangster.

NEARLY 250 HOODLUMS ARRESTED IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, June 11—(AP)—Nearly 250 alleged hoodlums had been rounded up by midnight as special "strong-arm" police squads slashed into underworld haunts bent on ridding Chicago "for all time" of criminals.

WAR TO THE DEATH ON GANGSTERS IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, June 11.—(AP)—A police board of strategy, flailed by press and city council, today began a war to the death with gangsters.

Six lieutenants with special squads picked for bravery under fire were armed with shotguns and tear bombs and dispatched with the order:

"Get your men. Don't wait for them to walk the streets. Go into their hangouts. Don't take any chances. Be ready for battle."

Detective Chief John Stege and his aides listed 100 hoodlums to be arrested, and hoped from among them to glean some clue to the killer of "Jake" Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, shot to death in a Michigan boulevard tunnel Monday.

Two men appeared voluntarily before the squads went out—Sam Hunt, whose photograph witnesses of the slaying picked out as resembling the assassin, and Ralph Pierce, gangster suspect. Each promised an alibi, but each was held.

Harry Ditchburne, assistant state's attorney, was closeted with Stege through the afternoon forming plans for examination of the incoming harvest of hoodlums—just such a harvest as has taken place three or four times in the last year. Thousands of vagrants and gun-toters and habitues of brothels, gambling joints and saloons were gathered into the net early this year in a city-wide roundup, most of them going free, a few being booked and a handful fined or sentenced to jail.

But this time Stege set his jaw grimly and, facing hostile aldermen promised his six picked squads would sweep up gangland in six hours.

"We'll show results," he said.

Front page editorials and public critics demanded that the police heads "deliver or quit."

Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago crime commission, said the police were "running around in circles."

"The inefficiency of the police," said Loesch, "is matched only by the efficiency of these gang killers. If Commissioner Russell and Deputy Commissioner Stege cannot begin to handle the situation it is time that they go. . . . Their inefficiency is due to the corrupt political control of the department by the city hall."

The Daily News editorially demanded that the "vicious administrative system" must go, and asserted that Russell and Stege had failed despite their opportunity to break up "the criminal gangs that infest the city and make the streets hideous with bleeding corpses. Their methods no longer inspire public confidence."

Russell replied with a statement attributing the epidemic of killings to the ever-heightening strife for bootleg liquor profits, calling the prohibition law the source of trouble and declaring the situation not local but national. His own administration, he asserted, has cooperated with prohibition officers and harassed hoodlums more than his predecessors.

ACCUSED SAYS SHOOTING OF MINNITI WAS ACCIDENTAL

HARTFORD, June 11—(AP)—After a day in which the defense followed up the attack it opened Tuesday on Detective Sergeant Nicholas S. Gallicchio and in effect put him on trial for the methods he allegedly pursued in investigating the case, Sebastiano Aliano, east side chain store speakeasy operator, took the stand in superior court late this afternoon to defend himself on the charge of murdering Alphonse Minniti, his 23 year old rival, last December 4.

Thomas J. Spellacy, chief of counsel for Aliano, with whom Gallicchio was once closely allied in democratic politics, developed this line through most of the session, beginning with a searching examination the first thing in the morning when Gallicchio took the stand to resume the testimony he had started the day before. This feature of the trial almost overshadowed the chief issue until Aliano was called to tell his story and even that was interspersed with accusations against the detective sergeant.

Questioned by Abraham S. Fisch, of Brooklyn, N. Y., through whom he arranged his surrender to County Detective Edward J. Hickey, a week after the homicide, Aliano declared that the shooting of Minniti was accidental, the gun he had drawn when Minniti threatened him having gone off in a struggle. Minniti had come to Hartford a month before from Brooklyn, N. Y., where Aliano said he had learned through mutual friends that Minniti "killed persons for a living."

WELL KNOWN WILLINGTON HILL MAN COMMITS SUICIDE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, June 11—Rushing madly from his bed and out of the house with the shout, "Goodbye, everybody!" George H. Wraight, 42, widely known Willington Hill poultryman, snatched a shotgun out of a shanty some 100 yards from his home and practically blew his head off.

The dramatic suicide of the man, which took place about 7 o'clock this morning, was performed within sight of members of the family who had rushed after him from the home but were unable to reach him in time to thwart his act. While the grief-stricken wife and children mourned over the body, news of the death of the poultryman spread quickly throughout the village and surrounding territory, casting a profound spell of sorrow among the many friends and acquaintances of the family.

Dr. F. B. Converse of West Willington, medical examiner, viewed the remains and gave permission for their removal by a Stafford undertaker. The man was clad only in pajamas at the time and the only reason ascribed to his suicide was that he may have been drinking. He had conducted a large poultry business in the town for about 15 years having pens of about 1,000 White Leghorns. He was prominent as a member of the Willimantic Poultry association through which he was one of the outstanding exhibitors of high-bred poultry. His poultry farm had frequently been the scene of demonstrations on that industry. He was secretary of the local poultry association.

He was born in Kent, England, September 7, 1887, a son of George R. and Louisa Darby Wraight. Besides his wife he leaves five children: Ethel, Nelson, Frank, Lucy and Thomas Wraight; his parents, who reside in Winsted; two brothers Edward and Ernest Wraight of Rockville; four sisters, Mrs. Lilly Goodenow of Long Island, Mrs. Mabel Sproston, Mrs. Lucy Barnard and Miss Daisy Wraight of Winsted.

Juneitis

I've got Juneitis—got it bad!
Baddest case I ever had!
Git up in th' mornin' bless
With a night of soothin' rest;
Tell myself I'm goin' to do
Work that's lagged th' Summer through;
All I've got, at set of sun,
Is some fancy loafin' done.

Git a boat an' drift away—
Naw, you don't want that today!
What you want is lemonade
Mixed with drowsin' in th' shade.
Do you? Well, you mebbe don't—
Still, you'll never say you won't.
Fact is, when you're June all through
You don't know just what to do.

Funny what June's symptoms is—
It's some kind of rheumatix
Makes you limp in mind an' soul,
Though your feet an' body's whole.
Makes you feel a driftin' boat
Would be just th' antidote
Sure to cure you right offhand
Of your loathin' fer th' land.

Yep, I've got Juneitis sure—
Too blamed tired to hunt a cure;
All I want is just to be Left alone to loaf with me.
Down th' river, up th' shore,
Let me loll an' loaf an' snore.
Yep, I've got Juneitis—bad!
Crazy-tired an' crazy-glad.

—William Herschall, in Indianapolis News.

The Guerdon Of The Sun

Of all the fonts from which man's heart has drawn
Some essence of the majesty of earth,
Some intimation of the human worth,
I reckon first the sunset and the dawn.

For those were fires whose splendor smote his clay
With witness of a light beyond the clod;
Enshrined, he made of radiance a god,
And found his benediction in the day.

And all his eager hands have found to do,
And all his tireless hope and love unite,
In some wise take their symbol from the light,
Our very heaven based on heaven's blue.

Tilth beyond tilth, he waits upon the sun,
The first to goad, the last to calm his breast,
With dawns that like a clarion break his rest,
And after-glows that crown his labor done,

—George Sterling.

THE MASSACHUSETTS BAY DISASTER

Another tragedy of the sea, more horrible than others in some respects, that must be attributed to fog was that which occurred off the Massachusetts coast resulting in the loss of nine score lives and one vessel. From all indications these vessels must have had little warning of the presence of the other, or else the measures to prevent a collision were grossly inadequate. It doesn't appear from the reports that they had received warning by wireless or by whistles, but the inquiry which will follow will disclose such one-sided story as the officers of the passenger vessels can support. What the officers of the tanker were doing must remain a secret, since none from that vessel appears to have been saved.

Bad as the collision of any vessels at sea in the fog is, the situation was made worse by the fact that the tanker carried a cargo of gasoline, the explosion of which and the burning of this it spread over the sea and about the ships added to the terror of the sad affair. There was peril enough without having fire of such a character added to it. Not only did it mean the doom of the tanker and those aboard but it surrounded the passenger vessel with unusual conditions. Crippled by the crash, the wounded ship found it impossible to render aid by the use of its radio. It could not tell of its plight to those ready to help. It could not lower its lifeboats. It was as helpless as in the days before wireless. It was a case of doing the best to meet a double emergency. That some in their frenzy jumped overboard indicated the hopelessness of the situation. That the loss of life was so large, in view of the fact that those who jumped would have been saved had they remained on the ship, can be realized now that it is all over, but it was a situation where cool judgment could not be expected from everyone. Those who were not there have little upon which to declare what they might have done under similar conditions.

The time may come when more effective means of navigating ships in the fog may be provided. Such cases, nevertheless, emphasize the fact that they cannot come any too soon, but if tragedies are necessary to bring it nothing more frightful could be asked. The disaster in Massachusetts bay plainly cries out for prevention.

CHICAGO'S MURDERS

Conditions in Chicago have been bad for a long time. The gangsters have been doing about as they pleased. Then they found it would be for their interests to get rid of a certain person and there was little hesitation in proceeding to take his life deliberately and in cold blood. He would be shot down like a dog and thrown by the wayside.

This is a condition which has prevailed for a long time. There has been reason that as long as one gangster was doing away with another there was no loss to the city, but it was, nevertheless, such an utter disregard for the law that it called for correction, the punishment of the guilty and the end of such lawlessness.

Chicago has made efforts to end the situation but without results. Certain grand stand efforts are started and then forgotten, but with the shooting down of a well-known Chicago newspaperman, inferentially because he knew too much about the gangsters and their game, large rewards are offered for the conviction of the guilty and the city has given new recognition to the need of a real clean-up.

Gangdom in the Windy city have gotten to the point where the gangsters act as if they were working under protection. They hesitate at nothing. They are, in fact, challenging Chicago to put a stop to it and unless it does it might as well throw up its hands and admit its inability or disinclination to establish control.

With 22 killings by gangsters in a period of ten days, Chicago has sufficient reason to sit up and take notice. It presents a situation that not only calls for thorough concentration on the part of the authorities but an insistence upon the part of the people of that city that the much talked of change take place. It is impossible for public sentiment to restrain itself or to refuse to bring to bear every possible influence to successfully oppose the dangerous gangster activity.

Some time ago it was broadcast that Chicago didn't like the publicity it was getting from the crime committed there. It can be fully understood, but how much has Chicago done in the meantime to change the conditions?

THE NEW ALTITUDE RECORD

The higher the fewer is an old wise-crack. It is, nevertheless, true of those who set out for altitude records. They find little traffic congestion in the upper regions. They seek to get where no other has been. Many times they fail. Occasionally they succeed. Just at the present time, Lieutenant Soucek has the distinction of having reached a higher altitude in any kind of a vehicle than anyone else. He has reached a height of more than 43,000 feet above the earth, outdistancing the previous record held by a German aviator.

The attainment of this honor simply means a new target to shoot at. In fact, Lieutenant Soucek believes that he can beat it and is planning to try without waiting for someone else to accomplish it. It is a performance that means no special advantage at the present time but it serves to demonstrate the climbing ability of the machine he uses, the ability of the engine to function in such thin air and likewise the ability of the individual to maintain his senses where oxygen is so much needed and has to be carried with him.

Rising to great heights, like attaining great speed, calls for plenty of courage and skillful operation of a heavier-than-air machine upon which no slight strain is placed. It has resulted in death, but that is the chance that is taken, though fewer probably lose their lives in that manner than in trying to establish new speed records on terra firma.

Between fliers of different nations there is a keen rivalry for the distinction of being the holder of the altitude record by various types of flying machines. They have gone far and away beyond any mountain peak, and they are calling for machines and devices that will make it possible for them to keep going. There is no telling where they will be ready to quit, no real mark at which they will be satisfied. They are engaged in a competition which indicates that the sky is the limit and, as long as they are ready to try, they will be able to arouse interest in their efforts and get recognition over a widespread area for their accomplishments. High flying calls for better machines and better flying devices and all make their contributions to aviation.

WILLIMANTIC'S COMING REUNION

Willimantic is going to have a community reunion next week. It is going to bring back home as many of the old timers as possible. They are going to make it an occasion worth while for all concerned. It is going to be a big time for those in Willimantic and it will be a happy week for those back on a visit. There will be much to look over, much to talk about, much for real rejoicing.

There is something about these affairs that is much like the reunion of a large family. They do not take place as often as they should but when they do there is an eagerness to participate which is common to humanity.

There were the days when Old Home week was a popular method of accomplishing much the same thing and those who have gone through such affairs are never able to forget them and always anxious for the next.

From any community, be it large or small, there are always many who have gone for various reasons to take up their abode somewhere else. That doesn't mean that they have or that they can forget the old home town, the delightful friendships they made there, the lasting attachments that were established. Memories of earlier days are lived over and over but there isn't quite the same satisfaction in so doing, or even in frequent correspondence with relatives and friends, as comes with an occasional return to the place that was once home. Especially when it is known that many others from classes, or clubs, or organizations are likely to be there for the renewal of old acquaintanceships.

Willimantic has had other reunions. It is planning to make the one next week its best and it is certaintly providing attractions which should draw former Willimantic residents from far and near. It believes that old acquaintances should not be forgotten and it is taking an excellent way of showing it.

STRONGER HEADLIGHTS

Whether Pennsylvania is working for better or worse conditions will be disclosed by the putting into operation of the new order of the commissioner of motor vehicles, who has declared that 32-candlepower bulbs can be used in automobile headlights.

At the present time the limit is 21 and as has been the situation quite generally there are those who insist that the lights are not bright enough and there are others who mantain that they are too bright. The demand for more light, like that for more speed, is apparently going to be gratified.

In extending the candlepower, the commissioner is careful to point out the importance of keeping the headlights properly focused. That is unquestionably the point on which too many auto drivers fail. It is possible to have a strong headlight which will be advantageous to the driver and not detrimental to other drivers, provided the lights are focused to the ground instead of our or up into the air. It is also possible to have weaker headlights which will cause just as much bother to the other drivers if they are not focused that the rays will be sent downward.

With the stronger headlights the highway situation will become anything but safe and pleasant unless careful attention is given to the focusing problem. Lights which glare or which shoot into the eyes of the oncoming driver create dangerous conditions. They shut off the highway for traffic in the opposite direction and when that is done there is no telling what will happen. Except for a bit of good luck, something is sure to, and if Pennsylvania has not been giving attention to the proper focusing of auto headlights its work will certainly begin with the use of stronger bulbs.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Cannon defiance has been heard around the country.

The man on the corner says: In the pursuit of happiness is everybody happy?

The chief complaint about getting knee deep into June is that it isn't possible to remain that way.

Of course, King Carol couldn't expect and isn't finding everything a path of roses in his new job.

The primary failure of Simmons doesn't indicate that North Carolina thought much of his coalition efforts.

When Senator Caraway declared he made a fool of himself, he may have been surprised he didn't start an argument.

A DATE FOR THE DANCE

It really is important in a college girl's life to be appointed chairman of the committee on arrangements, and so when the honor was bestowed on me I exerted my utmost powers in performing the immediate duty of this trust, which was the issuing of bids for the hop. I labored for hours and made an absolute slave of myself to this purpose when I should have been studying and devoting my time to class work, but now it seems that my drastic efforts are thoroughly unappreciated. It grieves me when I think of the ill will that my good intentions created, but I suppose I shall have to harden myself against the girls' accusations, rise above mere personal grief, and be a martyr to my cause.

If anybody believes that dating twenty-five girls for a hop is an easy job, just let her try it. In this particular case the object of all my trouble was San Whitney. My plan was to feel out each girl's preference in the matter of an escort and arrange the bid accordingly. I think there is nothing more unpleasant than being dragged about a dance with a fellow one does not care for, but this little advent of mine into the field of philanthropy certainly taught me the futility of considering some people's feelings.

"With whom would you like to be dated for the hop?" I asked Clarissa Wiseman over an ice-cream soda.

Clarissa twitted the tail of her huge fox scarf in one of those pitiful attempts at being coy. "There's San Whitney," she suggested. "Not that I ever had a date with him, but you know San's one of those nice big brotherly fellows—always carries my books over to zoology for me, and is so attentive in little ways that a girl adores. Yesterday he offered to lend me his own zoology notebook, said he'd do anything for his little sister. He calls me that all the time. I think he is more or less waiting for an excuse to make a date and a bid to the hop would probably break the ice."

I always hate to see a girl deceived unnecessarily, and so I thought it was my duty to disillusion her immediately. "San Whitney seems to be strong on zoology," I replied. "Already he's succeeded in making monkeys out of scads of girls by calling them 'Sister.'"

"Just what do you mean by that?" cried Clarissa with her face turning as many colors as a summer sunset.

I made allowances for her manners because I knew the poor thing was naturally embarrassed. However, I finally persuaded her to choose a nice quiet boy in the sophomore class for an escort, but when we parted I had a faint suspicion that she bore me a secret malice.

If Clarissa had ben the sole example of such injustice, I'd gladly pass the matter by and forget it, but out of the twenty-five girls that I confidentially interviewed eighteen wanted to be dated with San Whitney.

Imagine my arguing eighteen girls out of such a notion. By the time I finished the job, my nerves were a total wreck, and then another problem confronted me. What should be done with San? It would never never do for the club to neglect him altogether. I was perfectly sure of that fact, but I had argued the other girls out of the notion of going with him and so I decided to take him myself.

I am more or less seasoned in men's ways anyhow, and am not easily affected by their compliments. But would you believe it, after the bids were issued, and the girls found out that San was to be my escort, there was practically a revolution in the club. The president demanded my resignation from the chairmanship of the committee on arrangements, and now eighteen girls refuse to speak to me.

It is some solace for me to think that I have a new heliotrope evening gown trimmed in silver lace and silver slippers with rhinestone buckles to wear to the hop. I hope that San likes purple, and I do hope he realizes by some sixth sense or hidden power just how foolish all these other girls have been acting about him.—Exchange.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 11—Quite a long time ago, when that tall, slender, white-haired and silent Vermonter, Porter Hinman Dale, was a young chap, he had two years' training under a Shakespearean scholar and actor, James Murdoch.

Whether there blossomed in the breast of young Dale hopes of a theatrical career, or whether he was even then organizing for a foray into politics does not appear.

If he was supposed to have been inoculated with the germ of oratorical ambition by Mr. Murdoch, the operation was a notable failure.

Record Of Silence

Looking it up, out of curiosity, the Bystander found Representative Dale recorded in the index of three consecutive sessions of congress—back in busy times of the 66th and 67th—as speaking just seven times in all. There were pages of bills and other matters ascribed to him, but mighty little conversation.

In the special session of the present congress, laden now with committee chairmanship responsibilities, Senator Dale talked only four times and then on the same subject, the census.

All of which leads up to the fact that Senator Dale talks only when he has something to say. And when finally a revised retirement bill, vital to the nearly half million folks who work for Uncle Sam under the civil service rules, was worked through its complicated and controversial course into President Hoover's hands, Dale broke his habit of silence.

Likes Civil Service

He did a masterly job of explanation of the bill to the senate. And he revealed, also, that he has been plugging for that sort of federal legislation for all his Washington life, the whole twenty years of it.

Then, for about the first time the Bystander can discover, the senator seems to have harked back to Murdoch's teachings.

"We have worked long for this system, hoped and believed that it could be made to pay a liberal retirement and also become self supporting," he said. "We had to fight many battle and rise from repeated reverses.

"The retirement system has come to be like an old friend to me. He has been faithful in all we have required of him. Now we ask him to perform old duties in a new way.

"Nothing has ever come to me here (in Washington) that is of more pleasure than my experience with civil service matters, especially with retirement legislation."

Which was quite loquacious for a normally silent Vermonter.

YOUR HEALTH

The Prevention Of Heart Diseases In Children

By James M. Anders, M. D.
Philadelphia.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

At the outset I wish to stress the fact that heart diseases are on the increase. There are so available measures that will surely prevent them, but both the medical profession and the public can carry out certain known preventive means that will bring about a lessening of the number of deaths from this cause. These means differ when dealing with children from those applicable in adults.

In children the principal causes of heart diseases are acute rheumatism, St. Vitus' dance, and tonsillitis. Rheumatism is often preceded by, or associated with, tonsillitis. The so-called growing pains of childhood are often of rheumatic nature and lay the foundation for heart disease. These should therefore receive appropriate medical care with the certainty that in this way a number of cases of heart disease will be avoided. Children subject to tonsillitis or harboring infected tonsils should have their tonsils removed and thereby prevent a certain number of cases of acute rheumatism which, during childhood, starts up heart lesions from which recovery is rare. Nothing short of complete removal of the tonsils, however, is effective. If stumps are allowed to remain they often become infected, with effects similar to those of infected whole tonsils. Certain acute infections of childhood may be followed by chronic incurable heart disease. When such infections as acute rheumatism, typhoid fever, diphtheria, scarlet fever and tonsillitis become complicated with a cardiac lesion, the lining membrane of the valves and cavities of the heart become acutely inflamed.

It little sufferers thus afflicted are given absolute rest in bed long enough, a considerable percentage of them will escape the incurable chronic heart disease that otherwise inevitably follows. The amount of rest necessary varies with the condition of the heart and that can be judged of only by the physician. The child may therefore fully recover, if wisely treated. Unfortunately, these rheumatic attacks often recur, and with each attack the heart may sustain further damage. If rheumatic pains recur after recovery in your child, send for the physician at once. Again, if your child has had rheumatism and then does not gain in weight, is pale, has a poor appetite, and fever, he may be starting a fresh attack, or may even at this time have serious heart trouble. From efforts to prevent heart disease much more is to be expected during childhood than during adult life.

Children whose hearts are already damaged present the same problems as to their general health as other children. In them it is especially important, however, to build up natural resistance to infection, so as to prevent further damage to a diseased heart.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Appeal For Fresh Air Funds

Mr. Editor: At this season of the year, may I add my voice to that of others in our cities everywhere, who are appreciating each year more keenly the spiritual, as well as the physical, need of children and grown-ups for the out-of-doors.

Many a little depleted, sun-starved child of our crowded tenements has never been beyond the cobble-stone streets of his own neighborhood. In spite of this fact, he may grow up to some sort of stature. Physically, he may, somehow, weather privation and poor living conditions and, in all outward respects, reach manhood's estate.

But what of his spiritual outlook? What of the mental health of an individual who has never come close to the out-of-doors, nor had a chance to live near to nature, or to get any idea of the bigness of the world and its beauty?

Even if this out-door experience can come but once a year to a growing boy, or once or twice in his childhood, the mind and the soul are richer for its memories.

It is such out-door experiences which, for 35 years now, the New York Protestant Episcopal City Mission society has been providing for hundreds of mothers and children each summer through its "fresh air" program.

This year our society has room available in its nine fresh air units for 1,700 vacationers. It is possible for us to send these people, if generous donors can help us to the extent of $36,000. There will be needed $87.50 to send a family of five for two weeks, $17.50 secures a two-weeks' outing for one worn-out mother or a frail child, $8.75 is the amount needed to give one week of happy days to some youngster whose only playground otherwise is the city streets. These items do not include certain overhead expenses incurred by the society, which it is able to meet through its own resources. They do represent, however, the contributions which we must secure from generous friends in order to make our fresh air camps and homes available to all of the 1,700 boys and girls and their mothers on our waiting lists, for whom we have room.

Checks should be made to Eugene W. Stetson, treasurer, and mailed to 38 Bleecker street, New York.

May your own vacations be the happier for having helped some little city-bound child or mother to find this happy respite from the long strain of the summer's heat.

WILLIAM T. MANNING,
Bishop of New York.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

Iceland Had Renaissance Before Europe.

While other countries are celebrating centennials, Iceland, scorning such youth, is preparing for the observance in June of the one-thousandth anniversary of the organization of its popular assembly. Popular misconceptions of Iceland are pointed out in a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Iceland's name naturally suggests to the prospective visitor that he will find a frozen waste," says the bulletin. "And when his map shows this island to lie across the very threshold of the Artic ocean, hard by the glacial coast of Greenland, and 300 miles farther north than bleak Labador, he is almost prepared to come upon a land of polar bears and of fur-clad folk living in snow igloos.

"Iceland is libeled both by nomenclature and maps. On many charts the most popular physical fact in its life does not appear. Up from the south flows the warm Gulf stream to enfold the island and work the magic of whisking it, in effect, nearly a thousand miles toward the equator; so that its climate is not that of the polar regions, but of southern Canada or northern United States.

"On Iceland's coasts are thriving towns with buildings of stone, gabled roofs and church steeples, busy streets and electric lights. In the streets are men and women garbed much as are the inhabitants of Copenhagen and Glasgow, Ottawa and Minneapolis. One's eyes tell him that here is the same civilization that Europe and America know.

"And immaterial factors proclaim the truth still more unmistakably than do material things. Here, in this far northern land, a worthy national literature and stable national institutions were developed when much of Europe was floundering in the dark ages. Here the lampy of a Nordic renaissance burned and lighted its own region before the beacon of the Latin Renaissance was held afoit to light the way for the world. This northern light has never failed. Today the literacy rate is higher in Iceland than in many countries of Europe.

"It is true that physically Iceland's best foot is forward. Its most pleasant aspect is its fringe of coast. Inland it is in nowise a pretty country, though the distinction may be made that it possesses much scenery of beauty—a weird, magnificent beauty coupled with desolation; for, though Iceland is not the icy waste that distant popular fancy would make it, it fared less fortunately at the hands of another of nature's great forces, fire. The land is actively volcanic, and in the interior, on every hand, are the evidences of great fiery outbursts of the past. To tourists it presents none of those scenes which have made other lands popular; no forests, no rich meadows, no properous appearing farms with beautiful gardens.

"In spite of adverse conditions, in spite of earthquakes and volcanoes, and the absence of luxuries, the Icelanders cling to their land with fierce pride. They have a national life which is different from that of any other land in the world.

"They feel strongly their one-time glory and value highly the culture and civilization that they built practically without outside help and in which the Iceland of today has its roots. Not only have they long ranked among the most literate people in the world, but they possess a broad knowledge and excellent taste in literature.

"The people of Iceland have a great literature of their own in the old sagas, and many of their modern poets are especially gifted. Their folk songs are popular throughout the country and rank with the best of any nation."

SOUTH RENEWS BATTLE AGAINST CATTLE TICK

WASHINGTON—(AP)— Warm days has brought hundreds of dipping vats and thousands of gallons of arsenical "dip" into use in the south as stockmen renew the tick-destroying baths which free their cattle of the fever-bearing parasite.

Texas has added eight new counties and parts of two others to its eradication area. Florida has added six new counties and parts of two others.

Mississippi has 17 counties remaining in fever-tick quarantine and Arkansas 20. The former hopes to be tick-free by the end of 1930.

Arkansas expects to eliminate the pest from five additional counties. The Louisiana legislature, which convenes this spring, will be asked to spur an eradication program that now is marking time.

Forty North Carolina high schools have started development of miniature forests.

NORWICH PUBLIC SCHOOL ORCHESTRA

NORWICH PUBLIC SCHOOL ORCHESTRA MAKES FIRST PUBLIC APPEARANCE

Development of musical ability, along instrumental lines, among the pupils of the public schools of Norwich was demonstrated in a pleasing way Wednesday evening at Slater hall when the public school orchestra made its first public appearance in a concert programme.

There were something over 100 pupils in the violin, cornet, banjo, and fife and drum corps groups, practically all of whom had had no acquaintance with any musical instrument up to seven months ago when their instruction was begun under the auspices of the Connecticut Institute of Music, with Walter W. Lang and William J. Malone as the local instructors, and the performance which the young musicians gave was very creditable alike to the players and their instructors.

An audience that nearly filled the hall gave enthusiastic applause for the programme, which was opened by the violin ensemble, whose selections were: Twinkling Stars (Albert Harvey), Boston Beauty March (George Lewis), Glendale Waltz (Albert Harvey), Revery (Pabst), School Days (John F. Barth).

These were followed by the cornet duets, for which the numbers were Lily Dale, Duncan Gray and Fountain of Youth, concluding with a cornet solo, Way Down Upon the Suwanee River, by Eileen Greiner.

An interlude of much interest was provided by several solo dances by pupils of Miss Helena Crandall, which were done with professional grace and skill. These were the following: Christmas Time, Betty McKeag; Daisies, Elizabeth Ann McWilliams; Tin Soldier and Rag Doll, Jean Blackburn and Helen Taft; The Tap Tap Tiller Girls, Betty Bamber, Carolyn Hamill, Betty McKeag, Vivian Bolduc.

The banjo ensemble gave a spirited rendering of the following selections: Boston Beauty March (George Lewis), Pagani Waltz (Walter Kaye Bauer), Aloha Oe (Zahr Myron Bickford), Woodlawn Two Step (J. E. Agnew), and there was a well-rendered solo by Richard Brown.

Three more pretty dance numbers, all in appropriate costume as the others had been, were given as follows: Dorothy (toe dance), Theresa Fumignaro; Gavotte, Betty Spaulding; Waltz Clog, Betty Bamber, Carolyn Hamill, Betty McKeag, Vivian Bolduc.

School Superintendent E. J. Graham spoke briefly of the way this instruction in instrumental music had been made possible for the public school pupils this year and called attention to the very creditable performance they had given, considering the short time in which they had been music pupils. He said he hoped it would be possible for the instruction to be continued next year.

The fife and bugle corps appeared as the last group. They had uniforms of blue sweaters, white hats and long white trousers, and their numbers included Yankee Doodle, Auld Lang Syne, a solo, Yankee Doodle, by Raymond Congdon, and Taps by the buglers.

The programme concluded with Star Spangled Banner.

LEBANON COUNTRY CLUB ORCHESTRA MAKES HIT

Adolfo Garon and his Lebanon Country Club orchestra, who are vacationing here for the summer, were warmly welcomed Wednesday evening when they appeared at the Palace theatre. Their program of song and dance numbers was an added feature at the theatre for the evening. About 9:30 o'clock Manager R. B. Hamilton introduced Mr. Garon and his orchestra. Their program opened with a specialty number after which Miss Jewel Gauthier entertained with a specially song and dance number, Have a Little Faith In Me, by the orchestra, featuring Dave Gray, vocalist, proved one of the feature numbers of the program. Mr. Garon appeared in a one hand piano selection and then entertained by playing three popular numbers at the same time with both hands. Following an interpretation by the dancer and singer, Miss Gauthier, came the finale, a special arrangement.

The orchestra which has made a tour of eastern cities for the Publix chain and has also played the Keith circuit, will be guest artists for the summer at the Lebanon Country club, formerly known as Schiller's Country club.

LUTHERAN LADIES' AID HELD MONTHLY MEETING

The Ladies' Aid of the First Evangelical Lutheran church held its monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon with 35 in attendance. The secretary, Mrs. William Budzek, read a letter of thanks from Southbury Home for the Aged for help received recently. A trip by bus is planned to Southbury on August 27, but no formal action was taken by the society because the sewing circle and the Southbury Guild are planning this outing, and will invite others.

Mrs. C. Zemke was presented with a gift on her trip to Germany. A gift of $5.00 was received from Mrs. Paul Winkel, who also gave a fine library table to the church. A vote of thanks was given Mrs. J. Liepold for the gift of a cookstove. Also Mrs. H. Retkowske, Mrs. H. Schutz and Mrs. A. Sabrowski were thanked for donations made to the Aid. It was planned to hold a strawberry social with an entertainment to be given by the Luther league. A large and up-to-date kitchen cabinet was installed in the church basement and paid for by the Ladies' Aid. Wm. Budzek and August Sabenske donated their time and labor.

Mrs. A. Grodotzke presided as the president, Mrs. Elizabeth Thumm, was ill.

17 EAST LYME APPEALS OVER ROAD LOCATIONS

Relocation of the boundaries of the Boston Post road in East Lyme by the state highway department has resulted in 17 appeals to the New London county superior court, each alleging the relocated road does not follow the old boundaries and takes as part of the highway property which belong, in fact, to the appellants. The attorney general will defend the suits. Those who have taken appeals from the new layout, a map of which was made part of the East Lyme records on March 31, are: Lillian Barber, Alva Morgan, E. Peckham Barber, Gerald Howe, Wilbur F. Newton, Benjamin J. Hislop, Chelsea M. Sharp, Michael Hayrilla and wife, Ruby Parker, Sarah Morgan, John Frazier, Arnold Levine, Ella Sexton, Angelo Filosie, Ebenezer Frazier, Fleming Lougheed, and Clarence Beebe.

A. H. CHASE RETIRES FROM ACTIVE BUSINESS LIFE

The retirement from active business of Albert H. Chase was announced Wednesday. Herbert W. Cary has purchased Mr Chase's holdings in the Eaton-Chase Co., and through the purchase has obtained the controlling interest in the business. Mr. Cary, who is an incorporator of the store, has served as secretary and treasurer of the company for a number of years.

For 42 years Mr. Chase has been connected with the Eaton-Chase Co., the oldest hardware company in New England, since the business was established on Commerce street in 1764 by the Breed family. A number of years ago Amos W. Prentice, Mr. Chase's father-in-law, became associated with the concern and for some time it was known as the A. W. Prentice Co.

When Mr. Prentice retired, January 1, 1889, the first name became the Eaton-Chase Co., Luther S. Eaton, an associate of Mr. Prentice entering into partnership with Mr. Chase. In January, 1902, the store was moved to its present location on Main street and six years later became incorporated. The original officers of the firm after its incorporation were: Albert H. Chase, president; F. W. Cary, secretary; H. B. Cary, treasurer. After the death of F. W. Cary, his brother, H. B. Cary became secretary and treasurer and E. A. Tracy was elected a vice president. The store occupies six floors and deals in all kinds of hardware.

CONNECTICUT CO. LAYOFF WITHOUT EFFECT LOCALLY

Employes of the Connecticut company in this city and at New London have not been affected by the layoff orders from the New Haven office which resulted in a number of workers in that city being given temporary leaves of absence without pay to decrease losses being experienced by the company.

Because of unfavorable conditions trackmen, linemen and shopmen of the company, working here and at New London and vicinity, went on a five-day week April 1, last. No changes in the arrangements which went into effect then have been made.

This was made for him by Mrs. William E. Hinckley of Willimantic, who with her husband, son and grandson spent the evening with him. Other evening visitors were his nephews, William and Warren Kneeland and their wives, also Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shekleton of Hartford. Mr. Kneeland received other tokens besides a shower of greeting cards and letters of congratulations from friends and relatives in Hartford, Columbia, Lebanon, Danielson, East Hampton, Willimantic, Hebron, South Norwalk, Chester, Vernon, Missouri and California.

Three children were born to them, Miss Lucy May Kneeland whose death occurred in Nov. 1905, and twin daughters, Mrs. Frank S. Shekleton and the late Mrs. Everett H. Bosworth.

Mrs. Kneeland's death occurred April 21, 1923. Since the death of his daughter, Mrs. Everett H. Bosworth at Vernon Center in Dec. 1927, Mr. Kneeland has made his permanent home with his daughter, Mrs. Frank Shekleton at 87 Caya avenue, West Hartford.

SHIFTING OF NORTH POLE STUDIED IN MARYLAND

WASHINGTON —(AP)— In seeking an answer as to why the top of the earth shifts its position, the U. S. coast and geodetic survey will establish an observatory station at Gaithersburg, Md.

It will aid three others in compiling data to find out why the north pole "wanders from home," says Dr. William Bowie, geodesy chief of the survey.

It has not been determined whether this movement results from the earth's change of position in space, or whether the theoretical position of the pole changes within the earth.

FRESH AIR AND EXERCISE REMEDY FOR SPRING FEVER

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — (AP) — Spring fever is not a malady, says Ross L. Laybourn, head of the Missouri health laboratories.

It is the result of poor ventilation, insufficient exercise, air and sunlight during the winter months, he says.

Rather than a cure for "spring fever," the health official suggests this preventive: Eat plenty of fresh vegetables during the winter, take exercise daily in the fresh air and sunlight, and keep homes and offices properly ventilated.

SOVIET USES CAT-TAILS IN MANUFACTURE OF FELT

MOSCOW—(AP)— An assertion that cat-tails can be substituted for fine wool in making felt is made by the Soviet Felt Trust.

At a certain period of immaturity the cat-tail material is said to make an excellent substitute. The wool used in making a pair of overshoes here is rated as costing 85 cents, while enough cat-tail to do the same work costs half a cent.

Soviet technicians say "felt containing 60 per cent of cat-tail is softer, light and of much better quality than felt made of wool alone."

IF YOU DON'T LIKE JAZZ IT MAY BE YOUR EARS

GUNNISON, Colo.—(AP)—A possible reason why some persons dislike jazz is found in hearing peculiarities discovered by E. Russell Wightman.

He says in a report to the southwestern division of the American Association for the Advancement of Science that there is a large variation in the high notes which can be heard by different individuals.

Some persons can hear nothing higher than 4,000 vibrations a second, while others hear 50,000 vibrations.

FANS CLAMORING FOR TICKETS TO SHARKEY-SCHMELING FIGHT TONIGHT

(By Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, June 11—(AP)—Caught in the fever of another heavyweight championship battle, New York fussed and sputtered tonight, predicted and argued, bullied and fought for tickets—and waited restlessly for Jack Sharkey's fifteen round duel with Max Schmeling in the Yankee stadium tomorrow night.

Not since the late Tex Rickard, master of the ballyhoo, chewed his long stogies, tilted his gray fedora, swung his cane and maneuvered heavyweight controversies into unprecedented financial successes, has usually blase Manhattan gone so completely for a championship struggle.

There wasn't a seat to be bought tonight in the $13.65 and the $5 sections of the huge ball park. The ringside benches were sold out solid as far back as 40 rows in some choice sections, and loiterers were gathering around the stadium to head the seekers after the 22,000 $2 pasteboards that go on sale tomorrow morning.

From a mediocre start and ordinary interest, the international battle has mushroomed in the past few days into the biggest drawing card since Jack Dempsey, under Rickard's expert manipulation fired the imagination of the faithful and drew them in swarms to the battle fields. Only the moderate scale of prices—from $2 to $26.25 tops—has prevented tomorrow's offering from scaling dizzy financial heights.

As it is the gross gate seems certain to reach $750,000, a record beaten only by Rickard with Dempsey in the feature gladiator's role. The crowd is expected to number 70,000. At much higher prices Dempsey and Luis Firpo set the New York record for receipts at $1,188,800 in 1923 and the Man Mauler's knockout of Sharkey in 1927 drew in $1,083,000. Since then the "take" has rarely topped the $500,000 mark. Gene Tunney and Tom Heeney fought the last heavyweight championship battle here in 1928 before $460,000 worth of customers.

Around Madison Square Garden, the ticket agencies, speculators stands, even in the barber shops, the bootblack stands and wherever the men folks gathered, "Who do you like?" and "Where can I get a good seat?" were the main discussions of the day. Sharkey stock withstood nicely the hear attacks of an increasingly strong band of Schmeling fanciers and closed strong with the New England sailor still a 9 to 5 favorite. The weather bureau announced that the perfect sunny weather that followed rain storms into town today would continue on through tomorow night.

The arrival of the warriors from their training camps pitched the note of excitement still higher but the chief development of the day was the granting of a second's license to Joe Jacobs by the New York State Athletic commission. Jacobs, Schmeling's manager of choice, has languished beyond the pale in this state since he put Arthur Suslow in the pilot's role. His restoration will permit him to act as the Teuton bomber's chief second tomorrow night.

Sharkey, the American champion, was the picture of ease and confidence as he visited the Garden this morning after twenty minutes of road work in Central Park. He motored into town from Orangeburg last night, saw a show, and this afternoon watched the Giants battle the Pirates at the Polo grounds. Schmeling arrived by train from Endicott late this afternoon and was whisked away to a hideaway in the Bronx overlooking the stadium. Neither is expected to make another public appearance until the weighing in at the ball yard at 2 p. m., tomorrow.

The mask of surliness that usually hides Sharkey's real feelings before an important match was missing today. He appeared too complacent, if anything, and gaily waved three front row tickets in the face of Garden officials. Occasionally he trumped Manager Johnny Buckley with even more gusto than usual.

"This fight is a cinch," he announced. "I never felt better. It won't even be close."

Schmeling, the lean, hard young "underdog" stuck to his knitting. He expects to say it with gloves at the proper time.

Brown Beat Yale

PROVIDENCE, June 11—(AP)—The Brown baseball team nosed out Yale 1 to 0 here today, the lone run of the game coming in Brown's half of the third when Harry Rasmussen tripled and scored on completion of Dave Freedman's sacrifice. Don Bowie engaged in a pitching duel with Bill Newton and Joe Jennison, and while the Bruin twirler was wild at times, he pitched well in the pinches and his team played faultlessly behind him.

JONES SHOOTS A 71 OVER LIVERPOOL COURSE

HOYLAKE, Eng. June 11—(AP)—American contestants in the British open golf championship next week today tried out both the Royal Liverpool and Wallasey courses. The two courses, which will be used in the qualifying rounds Monday and Tuesday, are considered tests difficult enough to require the best shots in the bags of the experts.

Bobby Jones sampled the Royal Liverpool lay-out and returned a score of 71. His play he said was really bad but the round was saved by good putting.

George Von Elm, playing with Jones, did not play well and declared he did nothing "to write home about."

Leo Diegel, Horton Smith and MacDonald Smith played around the Wallasey course, Mac Smith excelling his compatriots with a score of 15.

Jones declared that he found the Royal Liverpool course in excellent shape. He will try the Wallasey course before the end of the week. A downpour of rain this morning curtailed the day's practice but proved of great benefit to the greens which had become hard and fast from the recent dry spell.

Bobby Jones today declined an invitation to play in a team match Saturday between amateurs and pros on the Blundell Island course in Lancashire to aid the benevolent fund of the Professional Golf association.

"I am sorry not to be able to aid such a worthy cause," he said, "but I have made definite plans for the week and I think I had best stick to them."

SEVERAL WORKOUTS FOR HARVARD VARSITY OARSMEN

RED TOP, June 11—(AP)—The Harvard varsity paddled upstream over the four mile course for the afternoon workout today while the junior varsity was holding a time trial over the upper two miles of the course.

The freshmen and combination crews rowed down to the bridge in two easy stretches on a part of their training for the Yale races June 20.

The morning practices for all crews consisted of long paddles and racing starts.

GIRLS TEAM AT MARTIN FIELD TONIGHT

One of the most unique baseball attractions to be staged in Norwich takes place this evening at the J. B. Martin field when the New York Girls, a baseball team composed entirely of women, plays the J. B. Martin club. Much interest has been aroused in this coming struggle between the fair sex and the mere men and it is expected that the bleachers will be jammed to capacity with women from the surrounding countryside to see how a woman can wield a bat. The women are not so much interested in the throwing part of the game as that is something they are more or less familiar with. The women are going for idea.

But just the same the New York Girls are real good ball players and it would not be surprising if they took over the locals. They have been organized for a number of years and have quite some team, in fact they have beaten a number of the strong male teams in various parts of the country. They throw and bat with almost the same speed and power as their masculine opponents and in many cases are faster on the bases.

This novel attraction comes to Norwich to give the fans something out of the ordinary in the way of the national pastime. Local fans have seen one or two women fill in for a few innings on a man's team but have never seen an entire club made up of women.

Besides the women players there is to be a woman umpire, another novelty in Norwich. We just wonder how the members of the J. B. Martin club will address this woman umpire when she makes a wrong decision. Remember your manners, boys, and act your age.

THE WOMAN UMPIRE

I see by the papers that there's going to be a woman umpire at the game between the J. B. Martin team and the New York Girls. Now isn't that going to be delightful, awfully jolly I'd say. Here it is in the last inning, the score tied and the men need a single run to win. A big handsome brute of a man is at bat, the woman arbiter gives him the once over, and goes into conference with herself.

"Now isn't he a nice looking boy. I wonder if he's married. Now it would be a shame if I called him out on a close play. Of course the rest of the girls would be crazy, the jealous things, they'd think I was trying to favor him just because he was good looking. Well, he is good looking. And he gave me a peach of a smile the last time he was on base and he didn't get the least bit sore when I called him out on that close play. I guess I better give him a break if it's close."

"Oh, my goodness he hit it and he'll be out a mile. There's the throw, wow, got him by a foot. You're out, Big Boy. No, wait a minute I'll call you safe. All right girls, play ball, I've decided he was safe. What's that? Well, hasn't a woman got a right to change her mind? Maggie Murphy, if you don't go back and play ball I'll be angry with you. And besides there's no sense in you acting like that, you know you try to knock off all the good looking boys and you never give the others a chance. Play ball, I say, and if you say another word I'll send you in to put on your make-up."

"Well, can you imagine that? After me calling him safe he gives this first base Sheba a tumble. I know she's cute but after the favor I done him by calling him safe he don't appreciate me. Now he's whispering to her, the big bum. I'll bet he's married and got seven kids. I just hope he tries to steal second, I'll call him out even if the second base girl drops the ball. Wow, that was a close one, he almost got caught off the bag. That's what you get for forgetting where you are, Big Boy. In these mixed games you bits remember you ain't in the park and it ain't moonlight."

"Wow, what a hit, looks like a home run. Now I'll bet Mary put that ball right over the pan and I know Jane called for a curve. Mary's like that if she sees a boy she likes the looks of she will pitch him only good balls. It's an awful thing when she and Jane take a liking to the same boy, they don't work together a little bit. Why a coupla days ago Mary hit a boy Jane liked and Jane went right out and started to tease the hair out. And then there's Alice out there, you oughta see how she cried the other day when a great big handsome catcher got hit with a foul tip. She's a soft-hearted kid anyway."

"Well, that homer finished it, the boy's won and I'm glad of it."

TIGERS ASSAULT FOUR YANKEE PITCHERS FOR 13 RUNS

DETROIT, June 11—(AP)—Four Yankee pitchers were ineffective against the Tigers' powerful offense today and as the result Detroit defeated New York 13 to 7.

Carroll, once of Detroit, strted against his former teammates but was driven from the mound in the fifth and was followed by Gomez, McEvoy and Johnson. The Tigers had two big innings, scoring four runs in the fifth and seven in the seventh.

Sorrell started in the box for Detroit and breezed along in fine style until the seventh when he walked four men, two of the strolls forcing in as many runs to tie the score. Uhle pitched the last two innings, holding the Yanks to one hit, which was Gehrig's fourteenth home run of the season.

Umpire Clarence (Brick) Owens was injured in the seventh, when a line drive from Harry Rice's bat struck his left leg. He was carried from the field. The score:

INDIANS TURN DOWN ATHLETICS IN GAME

CLEVELAND, June 11—(AP)—Cleveland whacked one game from the Philadelphia Athletics' lead in the American league race by battering Bob Grove into his second successive defeat here today in the series opener, 6 to 2. While the Indians were finding Grove and Shores for 12 hits, Willis Hudlin effectively scattered the Athletics' ten blows.

Cleveland had the game salted away through three single run innings, but when Shores succeeded Grove in the eighth they added three more for good measure. The score:

Schaaf Beats Loughran

PHILADELPHIA, June 11—(AP)—Ernie Schaaf, Boston sailor-boy, won the decision over Tommy Loughran, former light-heavyweight champion, in a ten round bout at the Municipal stadium tonight. Schaaf weighed 200, Loughran 189.

BROUILLARD KAYOES EMMONS IN FINAL ON FAST SHYMA BOXING CARD

Dynamite Lou Brouillard of Danielson carried plenty of the explosive for which he is named into the ring with him last night and exploded it on Joe Emmons' chin in the fourth round of the final on the Shyma card at Martin field. Emmons was outclassed from the first round and the knockout came as no surprise to the fans who anticipated it from the first.

Emmons had nothing in the way of a defense or an attack for that matter, his most potent weapon being a right hand which he occasionally slashed at Brouillard. When it landed, which was infrequent, it carried quite some sting but little damage. Emmons showed the effects of the lacing which he took Tuesday night in Springfield at the hands of Harry Burkel of Syracuse. Springfield papers say that Emmons was so tired that he was glad when the rain stopped the bout in the fifth.

An explanation is due the fans for Emmons appearing on the card after fighting only the night before. The management of the local bouts when they heard several days ago that Emmons was billed for Springfield called Commissioner Donohue and the commissioner later assured them that Emmons was not to fight in Springfield and would be available for their cards. However, Emmons did fight in Springfield and the promoters did not get wind of it until a few minutes before Emmons was due to go on. Not only that but Emmons after signing a contract for a certain amount positively refused to fight unless he was paid more and in advance besides. Rather than disappoint the crowd the promoters met Emmons demands. Emmons stands a good chance of being suspended in this state for fighting in Springfield as well as refusing to abide by his contract. A fighter of this type leaves the promoter without any protection and is a detriment to the game.

The fight itself was nothing to rave about due to this boy Emmons' condition. Brouillard had him whipped from the first and laced him about the body and head for three rounds before slipping over the knockout.

Russo Scores Technical Kayo

Joe Russo of Westerly hammered Joe Preston of Worcester into submission in the fifth round of the six round semi-final. Russo fought solely to the body and two smashing lefts to the stomach finished Preston in he fifth. Preston went down for a count of nine toward the close of the fifth round and Russo rushed in for the kill dropping him a second time. The bell saved Preston but he was unable to go out for the sixth.

Granada Outpoints Lavigne

The best bout of the evening was the six rounder between Young Lavigne of New London and Jesse Granada of Tampa, Fla., in which the southern lad walked off with the verdict. The decision was unpopular with some of the fans but it seemed to those at the ringside that it was good.

It was a fast bout with Lavigne doing most of the leading, while Granada did the sharpshooting that won the decision for him. Only once, that in the fifth round did Lavigne have a decided edge. In this frame he caught Granada with a right hook that sent the southerner sprawling in his own corner. He took no count and was up in a second to resume the battle. As the referee and most of the newspapermen scored the bout the first round was even while Granada took the second, third and fourth. Lavigne took the fifth but Granada came back strong to take the final stanza. Referee Pilkington's score sheet gave Granada 28 points and Lavigne 26.

Blanc Evens Score With Rossi

Ted Blanc evened the score with Julia Rossi of Westerly in the third six rounder. Blanc, a hard-hitting youngster, made his blows count as when he hit he hurt. Rossi was more active but did not score as heavily as the Montville lad. Rossi won one round, the second, two were even and Blanc took three. Rossi took the verdict in the first meeting of the two.

Gingerella Wins on Knockout

Dutchie Franks of Colchester stepped into the ring against Phil Gingerella of Westerly, in a four rounder and in a minute and a half was being carried out. Franks was no match for Gingerella who backed him into a corner and dropped him for a nine count. Franks tried to make a fight of it but a second later he went down again and Referee Pilkington stopped the bout.

Corcoran Wins

Bernie Corcoran of Taftville won a close decision from King Grabb, the boy from the tomato plantation in Westerly. The fight was slow it being the first time either had boxed as a professional. A left hand that slapped Grabb's head back was Corcoran's trump card.

The crowd was not as large as was expected but the card on the whole was filled with plenty of action if not science.

MAX'S MOTHER CONFIDENT HER BOY WILL WIN

BERLIN, June 11—(AP)—At least one person here is really excited about tomorrow night's heavyweight battle in New York between Max Schmeling and Jack Sharkey.

That person is Mother Schmeling. A strong, vigorous woman, she is anything but the hysterical type yet she admits the suspense is causing sleepless nights. At the same time she denies that she is worried about the outcome.

"He'll win," declared Frau Schmeling, "and supposing he doesn't—he's young. But I am expecting victory."

This sturdy German woman is tremendously proud of her son.

"The boy has done a lot for his fatherland," she said, "he's the first German to get as far as a championship bout over there."

The boxer's mother is undecided whether to follow his advice and go into seclusion outside of Berlin tomorrow until after the fight.

The bout finally reached the front pages of German newspapers today but as yet there is no indication of high feeling among the German boxer's countrymen.

What interests the German fans more than the outcome of the fight itself is the Arabian Nights atmosphere surrounding it—the half million dollar advance sale, the dizzy estimates of the final gate receipts, the prosperity of a country where apparently it is possible with one smack of a glove to get more than Aladdin ever got rubbing his lamp.

It is safe to say that all bets being laid on the fight here represent American money and differences of opinion among visitors from overseas. Germans ordinarily do not bet on prize fights, preferring horse races and lotteries. Consequently it was difficult to guess at what odds Schmeling's countrymen held his chances of beating Sharkey.

The unemployment situation in New Zealand has forced that country to adopt the dole system to aid the unemployed.

LEACH, TERRY AND OTT HELP GIANTS TO WIN

NEW YORK, June 11—(AP)—Fred Leach, Bill Terry and Mel Ott combined to give the Giants their ninth straight victory today, defeating the Pittsburgh Pirates 9 to 2.

Leach and Terry contributed three hits each off the offerings of Heinie Meine and Percy Jones while Ott drove out his thirteenth home run of the season. While his mates were banging the ball to all corners of the field for 16 hits, Carl Hubbell held the Pirates to eight scattered blows for his sixth triumph of the season.

The Giants nicked Meine for runs in each of the first, fourth and fifth innings and then fell on Jones for clusters in the seventh and eighth frames.

DANIELSON

TEACHING STAFF FOR KILLINGLY SCHOOLS NAMED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, June 11.—Supt. W. E. Parker of the schools in Killingly and Brooklyn today released a roster of the teaching staffs for the two towns for the school year that will open next September. There are no changes in the staff of grammar school teachers in Killingly from what they are at the present time. There are, however, several changes in the high school faculty.

The high school faculty for the next school year follows: Principal, Ernest R. Warren; Ethel E. Kelley, English; Elinore L. Huse, English; Flora E. Shipper, commercial department; Cora M. McCarty, commercial department; Adah A. Danielson, science; Roberta A. Horton, mathematics; Raymond E. Mitchell, history and physical education; Mary C. Pike, science and physical education; Charlotte R. Simmons, Latin and French; Walter G. Bruce, agriculture. In addition to these teachers in the senior department of the high school there are to be two teachers for the home economics department. These latter teachers are appointed and paid by the state.

The Junior high school faculty for 1930-31 is to be as follows: Alma K. Sayles, mathematics; E. Marion Dowd, history; Rebecca Hollowell, English; Ruth Prest, geography; Ethel L. Wheeler, science and mathematics.

Danielson Grammar school—Edith W. Fuller, principal; Grace M. Stanton, Emily A. Mann, Emma J. Keach, Clara M. Williams, Beatrice B. Beckett, Anna M. Hammett, Esther C. Holley.

Dayville school—Rebecca Pease, principal; Maude D. Capron, Sophia G. Burdick.

Goodyear school—Carl L. Sears, principal; Olive Boulais, Caroline E. Day, Beatrice Lindner, Laina Wiback, Alice Farrand, Agnes Jacobs.

Attawaugan school—Rena B. Morse, principal; Eileen Germaine.

Ballouville school—Marion P. Burnham, principal; S. Eloise Shelton.

East Killingly school—Annie L. Page, principal; A. Etta Mellor.

Killingly Center school—Flora E. Keech.

Valley school—Reubenna Hickey.

South Killingly school—Mildred E. Kelley.

Supervisor of Music—Miss Louise Perkins.

At the Center school in Brooklyn, Mabel M. Ennis will again be principal next year. Other teachers in this school will be Ruth M. Johnson and Bertha G. Spaulding. At the East Brooklyn school, Cora M. Loges will be principal and the other teachers there Elizabeth McGorty, Amy Wells and Ethel G. Lyon. Miss M. Louise Perkins also is supervisor of music for the schools of Brooklyn for the coming school year.

Superintendent Parker said this afternoon that the state is anxious to make greater use of the facilities of the home economics department of Killingly high school, and in addition to sending two teachers who are highly experienced here and paying their salaries is contemplating sending one or two student teachers in home economics from Storrs college to Killingly high to assist with the work and meanwhile gain valuable practical experience for themselves. Such student teachers might be changed from month to month throughout the school year.

Members of patriotic organizations here are calling attention to the fact that next Saturday is Flag day and brings the annual observance thereof. They will be appreciative, as will all patriotic citizens, of a general effort upon the part of residents of the borough to make a fitting display of the national colors.

The Goodyear team completely outclassed the Grosvenordale team in the first of the finals for the Windham County Y. M. C. A. baseball championship at Goodyear yesterday afternoon, winning 12 to 2. Grosvenordale had to replace Goyette as pitcher following an avalanche of hits by Goodyear, Lavalle replacing him, but after two innings Goodyear was bombarding Lavalle's delivery for plenty of additional hits and runs. Goodyear collected a total of 18 hits, as against 5 for Grosvenordale. The second game of the series between these two teams is scheduled to be played Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock on Grosvenordale field. In case of a Grosvenordale victory, to even the series, the last and deciding game will be played Saturday afternoon at 2:30 on the Wauregan grounds.

The report of Miss Miriam Boomhower, as visiting nurse, for the month of May shows that 17 cases were carried over from the preceding month, that 16 new cases came under treatment during the period, that 8 were discharged from nursing attention and that one died. Seventeen cases remained under care at the end of the month. During the month there were 11 paying patients and 16 free patients. Miss Boomhower made 37 nursing visits. There were 21 medical patients, 2 surgical patients, 2 tuberculosis patients and 1 obstetrical patient. Social service visits numbered 15. Money received from patients amounted to $25.15.

Relief given during the month included 29 garments, 5 pairs of shoes, 2 hats, clothing and old linen. Donors were the late Mrs. A. P. Burns, Mrs. Joseph Gaylord, Miss Ada King and three persons who are unknown. A visitor here during the month was Miss Betsey Mitchell, representing the mental hygiene department of the state department of health.

Dr. Hugh Campbell came here May 29, and conducted a chest clinic, 13 attending.

New You Tell One

Unusual hen stories have been short for some time past in Killingly, seemingly an incubator for them, but Frank McGorty of Elmville told a snake story last night that stopped the show, as the boys say in theatrical circles. Mr. McGorty was a member of a group indulging in some rather fantastic tales about one thing and another when he decided to chip in with this one: It happened over in Abington, let us say, and the scene is on a summer day with a farmer haying in a lowland area. A little distance away is a wooded hillside through which a cart path gently descends toward the field where the farmer is at work, pitchfork in hand.

Of a sudden his attention was attracted to the cartpath, down which a deadly "hoop" snake, tail in mouth, came swiftly rolling toward him. This farmer, made of stern stuff, stood his ground and when the snake came within reach, pinned it down with the fork. Mr. McGorty relates that within ten minutes the handle of the fork had turned green and the tines had swelled to the size of a man's leg.

And that's how Mr. McGorty won another championship, with all comeackers in the snake story line completely outclassed.

Three teachers in Killingly's schools—Misses Edith W. Fuller, principal of the Danielson grammar school, Rebecca Hollowell of the Junior high school teaching staff, and S. Eloise Shelton of the Ballouville school—have made plans to attend the summer school at Yale university this year.

The family of Charles H. Bacon invites those who may wish to view his body to call at the home Thursday forenoon. Funeral services for Mr. Bacon at the home Thursday at 1:30 p. m.—adv.

Now the plaint is heard in some quarters that there is too much rain comment in striking contrast to the remarks about the lack of a fortnight or more ago in Danielson.

Special coaches conveyed Killingly high school students to Rocky Point today for the school outing at the close of the year of study.

Miss Nadyne L. Klindworth of Memphis, Tenn., a classmate of Miss Madelyn Cronin of Academy street at Columbia university, is visiting with her in Danielson.

After an unusual amount of business in the town court for several weeks past, it has subsided practically to the zero point this week. There have been no cases the past two days.

Several of Danielson's honored members of the G. A. R. are in line for pension increases under a recently-passed act of congress, from $72 and $90 a month to $100 per month, a matter over which many here will rejoice.

In respect to the memory of Charles H. Bacon, dean of Danielson's business men and a former warden of the borough, business will be generally suspended here for one hour at the time of his funeral services on Thursday.

Herbert J. Barnett is among those from Danielson who will witness the world's heavyweight boxing contest between Jack Sharkey and Max Schmeling in New York Thursday evening.

An advance man for a dog and pony circus has been here seeking to arrange for a show site and permit for exhibition purposes at a later date.

The auditorium of the high school building is being attractively decorated for the Class day and graduation exercises Thursday afternoon and evening.

Chief John McFarland announced today that parking is to be forbidden on the easterly side of School street between Center and Academy streets. With cars parked, as they usually are, on both sides of this street in the area mentioned the remaining right of way for travel is narrowed to the danger point.

EAST WOODSTOCK

Wilma Taylor and Dorothy Neely were graduated from the grammar school this year. Exercises were held at Woodstock academy Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Neely, of Clinton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Neely and son, Fred, of Willimantic, called on George Neely and family Sunday. Mrs. Charles Neely, who was seriously injured in February at Abington four corners in an auto accident, has almost completely recovered her health.

August Peterson returned Saturday evening from New York, where he spent the winter with his daughter, Mrs. Eric Anderson, and family. He was accompanied here by his grandson.

Mrs. Charles Hopkins, regent of Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter, D. A. R., and Miss Gertrude Perry, of Putnam, vice-regent, attended a D. A. R. meeting in Oxford, Mass., Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Bertha H. Bannister has returned to Webster, Mass., after a visit of two weeks with relatives.

George Child, of Windsor, spent the week-end with J. E. Child and family.

NORTH STERLING

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Crowell and Miss Irene Spooner have arrived at their home here, after spending the winter months in Pasadena, Cal. Miss Spooner has improved greatly in her work as an artist and hopes to return to California to attend a finishing school this fall.

Mrs. Edward Curtis and son, Harold, and Mrs. Frank Plummer, of Danielson, were recent callers on Mr. and Mrs. Henry Crowell. Other callers at the home of Mr. Crowell were Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Pierce and family, of this place, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Williams, of Pawtucket, and B. E. Benway and family, of East Killingly.

Paul Smith, of Farmington, will return to his home this week, after spending a fortnight at the home of W. R. Spooner.

PUTNAM

GOLF CLUB PROPRIETOR IS FOUND NOT GUILTY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, June 11—Not guilty, was the decision of Justice A. R. Scranton of Woodstock, rendered in the case of the state against Aime Salvas of Harrisville who was arraigned at ten o'clock this morning in the dining-room court house at the home of Justice Scranton on eight distinct charges of violation of the liquor laws. Before the case was submitted for decision five hours had elapsed, during which former Attorney General William A. King of Willimantic, attorney for the prosecution and Judge M. H. Geissler and Irving H. Miron of this city, counsel for the defendant entertained the small court audience with one of the most interesting demonstrations of legal strategy, the like of which had never been witnessed in the home court room before.

The battle was opened at ten o'clock, the state assuming the offensive with the presentation of the various allegations against Salvas which included six charges of sale of liquor, a charge of owning and keeping with intent to sell and manufacture of intoxicating liquor. The defense scored its first direct hit when it asked the state to produce evidence of the alleged liquor sales made by Salvas. Unable to do so, six major counts against the Harrisville Country club proprietor were dropped and only two remained for the defense lawyers to concentrate their efforts on.

Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart commandant of the state police barracks at Danielson and State Officer Royal V. Scranton who conducted the raid at the golf club a week ago, were leading witnesses for the prosecution. Lieut. Urquhart related to the court the alleged confession of Salvas made after his arrest which was to the effect that he had made sales of liquor. Judge Geissler at this point entered a motion to the court claiming a nonsuit, based on the ground that the state officers in securing the confession of Salvas did not first warn him that whatever statement he made, would be used against him in court. The motion however was overruled when Lieut. Urquhart testified that he had previously warned the defendant.

Officer Scranton described the incidents occurring during the raid and of the finding of the quantity of home brew beer stored in the club house of the country club. Salvas was the only witness presented by the defense. On direct and cross examination, he denied the sale of liquor having been made by him at the well known golf links and denied other allegations of the state. He admitted ownership of the beer but inferred that he never intended to sell it.

Shortly before four o'clock the opposing attorneys submitted the case to Justice Scranton who returned the verdict of not guilty.

The liquor hearing involving Salvas attracted widespread attention through this section, where he is widely known.

E. L. BEEBE IS SPEAKER AT ROTARY MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, June 11—E. Leslie Beebe, secretary of the Putnam Rotary club and manager of the local telephone exchange was the speaker at the weekly luncheon and meeting of the club which was held at noon today at the Putnam Inn. President S. Nikoloff presided at the executive session at which the resignation of Rev. James F. English, past president, was read and accepted with regret. Rev. Mr. English is now a resident of Manchester, N. H.

"Things that affect telephone service and qualifications for good service," was the subject of Mr. Beebe's highly interesting talk. Among the things he discussed were the efforts of the telephone company to constantly increase the speed and efficiency in the discharging of service and business matters and the remarkable growth of the telephone field, locally.

Mr. Beebe pointed out that an average of 10,500 local calls and 600 toll or long distance calls are completed in the Putnam exchange during the course of a day and the average time required to handle or complete a local call is 9 seconds, a record which the employes are pooling their efforts to better. The busy hours in the exchange room of the local telephone office are from 9 until 11 o'clock in the morning and from 2 until 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Fire and other unusual and spectacular occurrences in everyday life add immensely to the number of call completed, since the telephone is the most common expedient used by the public to satisfy its curosity when such alarming instances occur.

An interesting feature of Mr. Beebe's talk was his word picture of the switchboard in the office of the exchange building. He told of its size and construction and of its potential capacity of three and one-half million connections.

He touched briefly upon the important part played by the commercial department in the telephone company, relating its numerous tasks which its agents are called upon to perform each day.

The telephone company he said, is continually at work at its paramount objective, namely: to make service more dependable. In applying the term in a local respect, Manager Beebe told of Putnam's plentiful supply of cables, instruments which greatly enhance the dependability of telephone service.

In tracing the development of telephone service in Connecticut, Mr. Beebe told of the original switchboard set up at New Haven 52 years ago and compared it to the system in use in Connecticut today, one of the finest in the country. There is in the United States today about 19 million telephones, which allow for complete interconnection with every telephone in this country and in Canada; most of Europe, Mexico, Cuba, parts of Africa and South America and the latest achievement of science enables one to communicate from the mainland by telephone with ocean liners far out at sea.

At the conclusion of his talk Mr. Beebe was greeted with a rising vote of applause by the Rotarians who listened most attentively throughout.

Visitors at today's meeting were Rotarians T. C. Leach of St. Albans, Vermont; Van Thompson and Ralph Donlon of Danielson.

SERVING MANY BUSINESSES

Experience of large fleet owners reveals the unusual reliability and economy of the new Ford

A SIGNIFICANT TRIBUTE to the value of the new Ford is found in its increasing use by Federal, state and city governments and by large industrial companies which keep careful day-by-day cost records. In most instances, the Ford has been chosen only after exhaustive tests of every factor that contributes to good performance—speed, power, safety, comfort, low cost of operation and up-keep, reliability and long life.

Prominent among the companies using the Ford are the Associated Companies of the Bell System, Armour and Company, The Borden Company, Continental Baking Corporation, Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, General Electric Company, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Kellogg Company, Knickerbocker Ice Company, Morton Salt Company, Pillsbury Flour Mills Company, The Procter & Gamble Company, and Swift & Company.

Each of these companies uses a large number of Ford cars and trucks. The Associated Companies of the Bell System use more than eight thousand.

Modern business moves at a fast pace and it needs the Ford. Daily, in countless ways and places, it helps to speed the production and delivery of the world's goods and extend the useful service of men and companies.

Constant, steady operation over many thousands of miles emphasizes the advantages of the sound design of the Ford car, its high quality of materials, and accuracy in manufacturing. Beneath its graceful lines and beautiful colors there is a high degree of mechanical excellence.

An example of the value built into the Ford is the use of more than twenty ball and roller bearings. They are hidden within the car and you may never see them. Yet they play an important part in satisfactory, economical performance. Their function is similar to the jewels of a fine watch.

Throughout the Ford chassis, a ball or roller bearing is used at every place where it is needed to reduce friction and wear and give smooth, reliable mechanical operation.

At many points, as on the transmission counter-shaft, clutch release, fan and pump shaft, and front drive shaft, these ball and roller bearings are used where less costly types of bearings might be considered adequate.

Additional instances of the high quality built into the Ford are the extensive use of steel forgings, fully enclosed four-wheel brakes, Rustless Steel, four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves, torque-tube drive, three-quarter floating rear axle, and the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield.

The Ford policy has always been to use the best possible material for each part and then, through large production, give it to the public at low cost.

ANNONCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

You remember the appealing humanity of "Hearts in Dixie." The same director, Paul Sloane, again touches the fountain head of realism and delightful portrayal of real people in "The 3 Sisters," an unusual story of northern Italy, which opens at the Breed theatre today for three days.

You'll be enthusiastic over the marvelous performance of Louise Dresser. She eclipses even her notable role in "The Goose Woman" in this memorable characterization of the Italian mother who struggles gamely against fate. Tom Patricola, one of the greatest eccentric dancers in the country; Kenneth MacKenna, a Broadway favorite; Joyce Compton, June Collyer and Addie McPhail, a trio of film beauties who play the triple title role; Clifford Saum, John Salapolis, Paul Porcasi, Sidney DeGrey . . . here is a noteworthy group of players whom you'll enjoy in this Fox Movietone all talker.

Palace Theatre

If you like thrilling drama and exhilirating comedy then do not miss the double-feature bill which will be presented at the Palace theatre for the last times today and tomorrow. "Soldiers and Women" with Aileen Pringle and Grant Withers and "Clancy in Wall Street" are the two productions which comprise the offering and make a splendid bill.

"Soldiers and Women" is the story of the neurotic wife of Colonel Ritchie stationed at the Marine base in Haiti. Bored with life and a husband who is too good to her, she becomes enamoured of a young captain who is already involved in an affair with another woman. Insanely jealous she makes love to him and is repulsed. The scene is witnessed by a man who threatens to expose her and her efforts to prevent her bringing about tragic results.

Charles Murray as Clancy, a plumber who invests his savings in Atlas Pipe at the time of the stock market boom and who moves to a luxurious home where he struts around majestically is one of the funniest characters in screen history. Atlas Pips like every other stock falls when the market crashes and all of Clancy's wealth fades like a bubble but "Clancy in Wall Street" is one of the most hilarious comedies ever presented to Norwich audiences.

This bill provides everything that a double-feature bill should provide with its tremendous and stirring drama and its rich comedy. Besides the excellent entertainment it also gives you a fine chance to cast more votes in the popularity contest. Do not fail to see it.

On Saturday the Palace will present "Ladies of Leisure" a peppy drama of night life starring Barbara Stanwyck, Lowell Sherman, Ralph Graves, Marie Provost, George Fawcett, Nancy O'Neil and Johnny Walker.

Broadway Theatre

A bothersome short circuit, resulting in a hurried night call to the village electrician, a young, handsome, and impressionable, albeit somewhat bashful youth, ended in giving Darby, the "trouble-shooter", the thrill of his life, when he was made a party to a $5,000 wager by two young society bloods, and suddenly transplanted from his tools and tape to the inner circles of Long Island society and given an opportunity to try his luck at "Lovin' the Ladies." This alluring title of Richard Dix's newest sophisticated comedy now at the cool Broadway, with Dix as the deluded electrician, captions a clever, sparkling comedy of errors, with five delightful beauties falling under the combined spell of moonlight, muted music, exotic perfumes, and the not-to-be-despised sex-appeal of Mister Dix in his immaculate evening dress and spotless sport flannels—borrowed plumage, if you will, but none the less attractive. Everything looked rosy for Peter until even the fiery French maid fell under the spell, and after he had sampled—unwillingly, of course!—some of her hectic embraces, he thought it time to quit, but again fell under the spell, this time, of his friend's fiancee, and then—fireworks! Fresh, novel and bright, with just enough plot for hot weather enjoyment. "Lovin' the Ladies" gives Dix one of the best opportunities of his career. On the same bill are Rogers & Hart, well known comedians and composers in "Makers of Melody," a novel revuette, "More Sinned Against Than Usual," a broad, roaring burlesque on the old-time "ten-twent-thirt melleirdrama," a lilting song cartoon "I'm Afraid to Go Home in the Dark," and the latest Fox movietone news.

Sparks Circus Tomorrow

Tomorrow is circus day. With the early dawn the long, all-steel trains of Sparks circus are scheduled to arrive, and by the time the average family is seated at the breakfast table, the fair grounds will be occupied by the white city of tents.

Years do not lessen the appeal of the circus, and so in the crowd that will watch in the railroad yards for the coming of the show, will be numbered men and boys of all ages, or perhaps it would be more appropriate to say boys of all ages, for the circus has a wonderful way of bringing back the light of youth to eyes grown just a bit tired in this workaday world of ours.

There will be two performances, the matinee beginning at 2, and the night show at 8, with doors opening one hour earlier, so that there may be ample time for a leisurely inspection of the menagerie, in which there are specimens of wild animal life from every clime.

Among the featured displays on the program may be mentioned the original Nelson Family, the Aerial Walters, the Guice troupe of bareback riders, starring Flora Bedini; and a sensational exhibition by the Rink Wright Duo of equilibrists.

Tickets, both general admission and reserved, will be on sale tomorrow at Alexander Candy Shop, 231 Main street, at the same price as at the grounds.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Mrs. Starnose Moves

Who has the will find a way.
And nothing can his efforts stay.
—Mother West Wind.

Farmer Brown's Boy, having examined the babies of Starnose the Mole and the nest in which he had found them in the middle of a mound of rotted leaves, began to think that he should repair the mischief he had done. But this he couldn't very well do. He put back the rotted leaves as best he could, but it wasn't a very good job and he wasn't very proud of it. He hoped that Mrs. Starnose would clear the tunnel out and make it all right again.

Now, Mrs. Starnose had been suffering as only a mother can suffer who fears that something dreadful is happening to her children. She hadn't been far away. In fact, she had been only a little way down the tunnel that led from the mound of leaves into the ground. As soon as she knew by the sound of his footsteps that Farmer Brown's Boy had gone away, Mrs. Starnose started back for her babies. She found the tunnel leading to that snug little home quite ruined. How she did dig! She couldn't dig fast enough. "Oh dear!" she kept saying to herself. "Oh dear! What shall I do if anything has happened to those babies? I am afraid something dreadful has happened."

It didn't take her very long, for the digging was easy. Perhaps you can guess how anxiously she entered that precious nest. Such a relief as it was when she found all the babies there and quite unharmed. She felt them all over with those funny little fingers on the end of her nose. Yes, sir, she felt them all over. One of them had been picked up by Farmer Brown's Boy. She got the man smell and she didn't like it. So she felt this one all over more carefully than she did the others. Despite the man smell, the baby seemed to be all right. She nursed them and then she had a very important matter to decide. What should she do?

Should she keep them in that nice home in the leaf pile? Or should she find a new home for them somewhere? It was that man smell that she could still get on one of the babies—the smell of Farmer Brown's Boy—that decided her.

"I can't stay here," she said to herself. "No, sir, I can't stay here. I would never have a minute of peace. I would always be expecting that terrible creature to return. Every time I went out to get something to eat I would be worried almost to death, fearing that something would happen to the babies while I was away. I simply have got to find a new home for my babies. Yes, sir, I have got to find a new home for them."

"I can't stay here," she said to herself.

Mrs. Starnose saw to it that the babies were comfortable; then she hurried along that tunnel out of the mound down into the ground. It wasn't a straight tunnel; there had been big roots and rocks in the way. The tunnel twisted and turned over or under the roots and around the rocks. Finally Mrs. Starnose stopped. She thought a few minutes. Then she began to dig a branch tunnel. My, how she did work! Once in a while she stopped and went back to see that the babies were quite all right. Then she returned to her work again. Her tunnel was so deep in the ground that it made no little ridge on the surface. Above ground there was nothing at all to show that there was a tunnel beneath. By and by she came to some roots. They were big, old roots—dead roots. Then Mrs. Starnose began to dig up.

Presently she had a nice little room. It was under an old dead stump. Yes, sir, that's where it was! As soon as she had her little bedroom big enough, she hurried out and brought in material for a nest, and when this suited her she went after those babies and moved them all to their new home.

"Now I won't have to worry," said she.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Connecticut Light & Power Company, Hartford.

The Connecticut Light & Power company was actually organized as The Rocky River Power company in 1905. In 1917 The Rocky River Power company acquired a number of other companies which had been in existence and at that time became known at The Connecticut Light & Power company. Those companies so acquired were supplying electric service to 26,000 consumers.

The Connecticut Light & Power company has steadfastly grown, step by step, with the construction of modern steam and hydro generating stations, high tension transmission lines, and high pressure gas mains, until today it represents the consolidation of 13 companies and renders gas and electric service to sixty-seven cities and towns in Connecticut. Its electric generating stations and gas producing plants are located at strategic points in the state, and its extensive network of high tension electric and high pressure gas lines extend north, south, east and west throughout the state. Greenwich in the southwest, Old Mystic in the southeast, Mechanicsville in the northeast and Colebrook in the northwest are some extreme points which have been brought together in one vast system, serving more than 200,000 industrial, commercial and domestic consumers and reaching a total population of approximately 800,000 people.

The generating and transmission system of The Connecticut Light and Power company is interconnected with generating and transmission facilities of other utility companies, both within the state and also through New England and eastern United States, thus reaping the benefit of diversity and guaranteeing as far as possible continuous service and continued growth of Connecticut industry.

One interesting and unique development in the generating system of The Connecticut Light & Power company is the Rocky hydro generating station, so named after the first incorporated company. This hydro station—the only one of its kind yet developed—pumps huge quantities of water from the Housatonic river into an artificial lake more than 60 miles in circumference, at a higher elevation, from whence the water is permitted to flow back through the generating station. Thus, during the wet season, when there is a surplus quantity of water, great quantities may be stored and used during the dry season, in much the same manner as one would fill his coal bin in the summertime, at a cheaper price than would be possible in the cold season.

The principal office of the company is located at Hartford, with district operating headquarters located at 11 other cities and towns within the state.

The present officers are: J. H. Roraback, Hartford, president; Irvin W. Day, Waterbury, vice president; R. H. Knowlton, Hartford, vice president; R. W. Perkins, Norwich, vice president; C. L. Campbell, Hartford, vice president, secretary and treasurer; P. R. Fleming, Hartford, assistant secretary; T. H. Blaikie, Hartford, assistant treasurer.

JEWETT CITY

MISS GERTRUDE S. AVERY IS SPEAKER AT MEETING

The Women's Missionary society of the Congregational church met at the home of Mrs. L. G. Buckingham Wednesday afternoon, guests being present from Pachaug, Lisbon and Brooklyn churches. Miss S. K. Adams, the president, presided. Miss Gertrude S. Avery of Norwich Town delightfully entertained and instructed the gathering with descriptions of her work in India from which she returned recently and where she has been in missionary work for five years. She was in native costume and demonstrated customs in greeting and eating in a charming manner. She exhibited a rice garland made by the girls for her to bring to America, and many brass utensils. She was presented a beautiful bouquet and received a rising vote of thanks. Many remember meeting a lovely Japanese girl who was a classmate of Miss Ruth Ballou and visited her here. She has returned to her native country as a teacher, and a letter was read from her asking for contributions of many articles from America for her children. Mrs. F. E. Robinson is to receive them immediately as they are to be sent Monday. Miss Ballou's kindergarten children at her school in Danielson have already sent their contributions. At the close of this profitable meeting iced tea and fancy cakes and cookies were served by Mrs. Buckingham, assisted by Mrs. F. D. Ballou.

This will be quite agreeable to those persons who feel that a day after day attendance is too tiring. These are one hundred guarantors sponsoring Chautauqua. The officers and committees are: Dr. G. H. Jennings, president; Everett Thornton, secretary; A. D. Tripp, treasurer; Uldric Jodoin and Louis Cyr, advertising; Mrs. F. E. Robinson, hospitality; Mrs. G. H. Parkhurst, there were humorous readings by Mrs. Alice Anthony, Mrs. Ella Geer and Mrs. Everett H. Hiscox. Candy was served by the hostess.

GIRL AND TAXI DRIVER FALL INTO EXCAVATIONS

NEW YORK, June 11—(AP)—A little girl and a taxicab driver fell into subway excavations beneath the Grand Concourse in two accidents six blocks apart.

The little girl, three-year-old Mary O'Reilly, was killed. The taxicab driver, slightly injured, sent for a crane to pull his taxi out of the hole.

Mary was walking with her father on Monday, pushing a baby carriage, when she stepped into an opening in the wooden planking over the Concourse at 206th street. It was a moment before her father missed her. Her body was found on the cement flooring of the subway tube, 43 feet below, at the foot of a hole which had been made in the planking to permit the lowering of concrete.

The taxicab driver, David Leibowitz, was rounding a corner at 197th street about 4:30 on Tuesday to turn off the Concourse when his cab skidded on the rain-soaked plank, plowed through a wooden guard rail and dropped 40 feet. Workmen extricated him but could not hoist his cab back up onto the Concourse.

Answered False Alarm

Pawcatuck fire alarm whistle No. 62, Liberty street, near Stillman avenue, was sounded at 4 p. m., Wednesday for a false alarm for fire as a result of which the several pieces of motor apparatus left the Liberty street headquarters in a vain endeavor to locate a blaze. A report came to the firemen that a person trying to mail a letter had caused the alarm to be sounded. Fire Chief Joseph Purtill and assistants began an investigation. The fire apparatus returned within ten minutes when the recall was blown.

FIREMEN AT FUNERAL OF GEORGE ANDERSON

Largely attended funeral services were held at 2:15 p. m., Wednesday, for George Anderson, 23, well-known Westerly fireman and a motor pump driver for the Rhode Island Steam Fire Engine Co., No. 1. The service was conducted at his home, 13 Wilford court, Pawcatuck, by Rev. Arnt L. Schoning, pastor of Broad Street Christian church. Westerly Fire Engineers, headed by Chief George E. Egger and members of the fire department in uniform, attended the services in a body and were taken by motor bus to River Bend cemetery where burial took place. The death of Mr. Anderson was attributed to overexertion in forest fire fighting several weeks ago.

Mr. Anderson was a member of Pawcatuck lodge, No. 90, A. F. and A. M., Pawcatuck lodge, No. 90, A. F. and A. M., of Pawcatuck, and Masonic committal services were conducted by the lodge with Senior Warden Thomas J. Burdick, of Norwich, acting master, in the absence of Worshipful Master Raymond L. Pendleton, who is a patient at the Naval hospital, Newport, R. I. The chaplain was P. M. Samuel Girven. The bearers were Robert D. Vennard, Leslie R. Nowell, Arthur E. Peckham, William S. Maggs, Fred H. Barker, Jr., and Ralph P. Larkin.

Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell, custodian of the state house end of Westerly town hall building, is in receipt of a letter requesting the use of the Third district courtrooms for representatives of the Rhode Island state board of public roads. George R. Wellington, chief clerk of the board, asked for the use of the rooms on Wednesdays from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m., beginning June 18 next and continuing through Aug. 27, inclusive. This is in keeping with a practice followed for several years, when a traveling crew has come to Westerly for the accommodation of the residents of Westerly and vicinity in the matter of automobile registrations, also for the purpose of giving examinations to applicants who desire operators' licenses in Rhode Island. Sheriff Mitchell has replied that the rooms are available as in past years.

A break was made for liberty and the intruder made an escape for the time being. MR. ERWIN ADAMS

Mr. Erwin Adams, of 1229 Baldwin street, Waterbury, Conn., is amplaced their names on the list of other one of the thousands who have Bon-Tone boosters. Mr. Adams states:

"For several years I was troubled with constipation, and had to be taking some kind of laxative all the time. I had a tired, logy feeling most of the time, and was more tired in the morning than when I went to bed. My appetite wasn't as good, and at times my food didn't seem to digest as it should. I tried several different kinds of medicines, but didn't seem to improve any.

"A friend of ours who had been taking Bon-Tone, recommended it to me, so I got some; and since taking six bottles of this remedy, I have got very good results. My appetite has improved; my bowels are regular; and I get up in the morning with more energy, and don't feel so tired as I did before. In fact, I feel better in every way, and will gladly recommend Bon-Tone to anyone."

There is a Bon-Tone Man in Norwich at Smith's Drug Store, to explain the merits of this wonderful spring tonic.

Bon-Tone is also for sale at all leading druggists everywhere

LITTLE STORIES OF FAST SUCCESSES [NUMBER TWO] JIMMY FOXX

"Look at those shoulders! That boy's a natural-born batting wonder."

Jimmy Foxx was just a rookie when Canny Connie Mack gave him that size-up. Four years later he was crowding the swat kings of both big leagues for the batting championship.

And just that Nature-given goodness lifted OLD GOLD from a rookie brand to a big league leader in four years' time. Naturally better tobaccos . . . free from all irritants.

OLD GOLD created an entirely new type of cigarette enjoyment. It added a new taste thrill and took out all the throat scratch. That's why its sales have eclipsed the record of three other leading brands combined, in a like period of their existence.

ONE YEAR BEFORE JIMMY FOXX JOINED THE 'A'S' HE WAS MILKING COWS IN MARYLAND. FOUR YEARS LATER HE WAS CHALLENGING THE BEST IN BOTH LEAGUES FOR THE BATTING CHAMPIONSHIP.

IN THE SUMMER OF '27 OLD GOLD WAS FIRST PUT ON SALE IN BALTIMORE. IN LESS THAN THREE MONTHS IT WAS ONE OF THE FOUR BIGGEST SELLING CIGARETTES THROUGHOUT MARYLAND

ANOTHER BEAR ONSLAUGHT BROUGHT SHARP REACTION IN STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP)—Weakness was the dominant note in the speculative markets today. On the New York stock exchange values melted away rapidly before another bear onslaught that brought out the sharpest recessions since last December, dumping scores of issues into new low ground for the year and piling up a long list of 4 to 13 point net losses, despite a late covering movement. The more prominent commodities, notably wheat, corn and cotton, declined. Foreign exchanges were rather heavy, sterling cables touching a new 1930 minimum.

The selling of stocks had some of the aspects of a rout in the last hour when the shorts pressing a technical advantage, broke through the resistance points of many leading shares, including American Can, U. S. Steel, New York Central, General Electric and American Telephone. It was apparent early in the day that the hasty retreat of the bears in yesterday's late trading had reduced the short interest, for the continuation of Tuesday's final rally was extremely feeble at today's opening and from then on the list became increasingly susceptible to operations for the decline.

Although the market is less inclined to take its cue from the day's news, those who follow outside events found little that was particularly encouraging. There was, however, a belief that the floating of the $98,250,000 American portion of the Young plan loan to Germany, which has been hanging over the financial community for several months, would prove beneficial in that, with it out of the way, bankers might take a less passive attitude toward stocks. The terms of the issue 5 1-2 per cent 35-year bonds offered at 90 had been accurately forecast in advance. A lively inquiry for the bonds was reported by members of the banking syndicate sponsoring the loan.

Until mid-afternoon, the stock market was comparatively dull, giving ground steadily but on a reduced turnover. The incessant pounding, however, were away the support and the volume in the final hour was large, piling up a total of nearly 4,500,000 shares for the day. The ticker was about 45 minutes late.

Measured by the index for 90 stocks, the net decline was 6.4 points against $3 on Monday which, with the exception of a day or two early last month had been the largest of the year. The composite for the rails went to a new 1930 low.

The short covering in the last fifteen minutes before the close was vigorous. With the tape so late, bear traders were pushed to protect their profits, and in many instances paid prices a few points higher than the actual closing quotations. Their operations were accelerated by the appearance of large supporting orders for U. S. Steel, among other leading issues.

Steel was one of the many stocks to make new lows for the year. It weathered the earlier liquidation fairly well, but finally broke to 160 1-2, closing 3 points above that figure for a net loss of $ 1-4. New minimums for the year were also touched by New York Central, Illinois Central, Erie and the St. Paul's, among the rails, by Autum, Nash and Marmon among the motors, and by International Telephone, Pullman, Lambert, General Theatres, Bethlehem Steel and Prairie Oil in the miscellaneous list.

Stocks losing 4 to 6 points net included American Telephone, American Can, American Tobacco "B", A. M. Byers, Public Service of New Jersey, Westinghouse Electric, General Electric, Johns Manville and Columbian Carbon. Specialties made their usual wide breaks, J. I. Case slumping as much as 24 points and closing 3 above the bottom. Allied Chemical Vanadium, Lambert, Air Reduction, Worthington Pump, Eastman Kodak, American Machine and Foundry and Houston Oil lost 7 to 12.

The decline in wheat ranged from 1 3-8 to 1 7-8c. The drop was stimulated by reports of beneficial rain in Canada and by disappointing export demand and cables.

Corn was off 1 to 1 3-8 on a favorable government weekly weather map and a bearish Missouri state report. Cotton lost 10 to 14 points. Sugar was quiet.

One of the features in the foreign exchange list was a drop of several points in the Spanish peseta.

Stafford Sorings

JOHN J. O'ROURKE AIDS COMMERCE CHAMBER PROJECT

The movement to organize a chamber of commerce in Stafford Springs got a good boost at a meeting of 75 representative citizens of Stafford, held at the Springs House Tuesday evening. The meeting was attended by most of the merchants and shop keepers, as well as by several manufacturers and men representing the professions. All were of the opinion that the proposed organization would prove beneficial to the social, civic and industrial life of the community. Dinner was served at 6:30. Frank A. Johnson, treasurer of the Fayban Woolen company and a former president of the Stafford Business Men's association was master of ceremonies. John J. O'Rourke, secretary of Willimantic chamber of commerce, former secretary of Norwich chamber of commerce, gave a very interesting talk on what such an organization would mean to the community, and spoke of some of the things that it might accomplish. He also warned that the organization would meet much competition in the matter of inducing new industries to locate here. He said that he would gladly give whatever assistance he could to help get the local organization going. Mr. O'Rourke has been heard in Stafford before and is always well received here. His talk Tuesday evening was very helpful and he was listened to with marked attention. Secretary Orr of the state chamber of commerce, a forceful speaker told of the many advantages which Connecticut enjoys not only for residential purposes but for social and industrial activities. He stressed the healthfulness of the climate, the good schools, and spoke a good word for the churches in this community. Temporary organization was effected for the purpose of drawing up a constitution and set of by-laws to be presented at the next meeting. It was voted to have Chairman Johnson appoint temporary officers who will act as a committee for this. Mr. Johnson appointed Anders Jacobson, president, Bernard C. Hanley, secretary and Herbert R. Wightman, treasurer.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Blanche E. Sibley

The funeral of Mrs. Blanche E. Sibley was held at the Universalist church Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. Charles H. Puffer, a former pastor officiated. The body was taken to South Windham for burial in the family lot. The bearers were Frederick Glover, Raymond Kelsey, Paul Booth and H. R. Wightman.

Parochial School Graduates

St. Edward's parish school will close Tuesday, June 17th. Diplomas of graduation will be awarded 17 pupils, 13 girls and 4 boys, after the four o'clock vesper service next Sunday afternoon. Rev. John J. Weldon will present the diplomas and deliver the address. The pupils to receive diplomas are: Wanda Cecilia Auguste, Anna Marie Bogucik, Agnes Emma Brown, Lillian Pauline Cogliovanni, Frances Marie Gladysz, Julia Cecilia Murray, Josephine Agnes Ostrowski, Anna Cecilia Rocha, Lenore Margaret Russell, Sabina Anna Rybicki, Catherine Agnes Schindler, Lillian Frances Taylor, Helen Marceline Zuraw, Joseph John Gamba, Leo John Julian, James Emilio Pellizari, Frederick Joseph Prucker.

Communion Class of 65

In St. Edward's church Sunday next at the first mass 65 boys and girls will receive first holy communion.

Mrs. Forrest V. Adams of Stafford Hollow was a recent guest of Westerly relatives.

Going to Boston

Miss Mildred Bower of the nursing staff at Johnson Memorial hospital has resigned and is at her home in Mansfield Depot where she remains for a few days before she will begin her new duties as instructor in the training school of the Massachusetts General Eye and Ear Infirmary, Boston. Miss Bower is a graduate of St. Joseph's Training School for Nurses, Willimantic.

Miss Ann Riester who is employed in Hartford is visiting at her home on Benton street.

The final examinations for the freshmen, sophomore and junior classes of Stafford high school are scheduled for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kennedy of South Manchester were recent visitors with Stafford Springs friends.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Florence Mae Dimmick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Dimmick of Stafford Hollow to Percival Partello, son of Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Partello also of Stafford Hollow.

Mrs. Nellie Wickes, Miss Gladys Cummings and Miss Minna Notbnick are on a motor trip in the White Mountains.

Rev. Clifford D. Newton, pastor of the Universalist church of Stafford Hollow has been in North Orange, Mass., called there by the death of his father, Charles S. Newton.

When Rev. H. C. Beebe was turning into his driveway in West Stafford Monday afternoon, the car which he was driving was run into by a machine operated by Henry Jarisch, Jr., of Holyoke, Mass., and was considerably damaged. Jarisch thought that Mr. Beebe was going to make a left turn and attempted to pass on the right, which is contrary to law. The Jarisch car was somewhat damaged. A report of the accident was made at the local state police barracks and Officer Stevens after making an investigation summoned the two drivers to court. It was stated in court Wednesday morning that both men had agreed to adjust the damages to their cars and the case against each driver was nolled, upon recommendation of the prosecuting attorney.

COLUMBIA

Many of the lake cottages were opened for over Memorial day and the week end and some of the owners are remaining for the summer. The cottage of the late Dr. Outerson of Hartford is open for the season.

WAUREGAN

The graduating exercises of the grammar school will be held at the hall on this (Wednesday) evening. The older grades will have a picnic to Roseland park Friday: Room 2 at Moosup pond the same day; Room 1 at Spaldings pond.

Miss Florence Leach is spending the summer at her home, awaiting the fall opening of Colby college, N. H., where she is to join the faculty.

HYBRID CORN OUTYIELDS COMMON FIELD VARIETIES

AMES, Iowa—(AP)—Tests on hundreds of Iowa farms have proven hybrid corn superior in yield to open pollinated, or common field varieties.

Joe T. Robinson, president of the Iowa Corn and Small Grain Growers' association, says hybrid corn outyielded open pollinated corn in each of the 12 sections of the state by from 8 to 18 bushels last year. It is the fifth consecutive victory for hybrid corn. The highest hybrid yielded 120 bushels an acre and the highest open pollinated variety, 116 bushels.

Nearly 24,000,000 school children yearly are carried on Ohio school buses.

The NEW Goodyear Heavy Duty Balloon

A really STUNNING TIRE you ought to see

It isn't enough to call the new Goodyear Heavy Duty Balloon an extra-mileage tire—it's an extra-style tire as well.

Once your car is shod with them, it takes on a new and smarter look; it stands proudly on a more solid and distinctive foundation.

In the first place this new Heavy Duty Balloon is bigger, handsomer, more massive; and around its sleek black side-walls runs a single identifying stripe of silver.

Then the outer rows of All-Weather blocks on both sides of the deep-cut extra-thick tread are prismed down into the side-wall, a touch as arresting as anything in modern sculpture.

The essential merit of this tire of course is in its capacity for extra mileage—it is made stronger and tougher in every part to withstand hard, fast, rocky-road driving.

Before you buy your next tire be sure you see this stunning Goodyear Heavy Duty—you owe it to yourself not to overlook its remarkable advantages.

Goodyear can give you greater tire values because Goodyear builds more than 1/4

of all the tires sold in America, the remainder being divided among some forty manufacturers. "More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind."

THE FOURTH POST-CIRCUS ROBBERY IS DISCOVERED AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, June 11.— With the exhibiting in this city yesterday of the 101 ranch and wild west show a series of robberies were perpetrated, it is believed, by crooks, following the circus from one city to another.

Pocket Picked Of $150

Michael O'Neill, 28 Ashcraft road, a retired member of the New London police department, accompanied by Sergeant William Casey of the Norwich department, went to the evening performance of the circus. When the show was concluded, and O'Neill and Casey were in the midst of the crowd on the grounds at Broad street extension, O'Neill was jostled and he felt a tugging at his trousers pocket. Reaching into his pocket, O'Neill discovered that his roll of $150 was missing. O'Neill and Casey seized two of three young men who were nearest the officers but when searched the money was not found. A search was made for the pickpocket, but he eluded capture

Cell Police Negligent

During the progress of the show, a crook went to the residence of F. W. Simmons, 208 Ledyard street, and using a skeleton key, opened the rear door. The house was ransacked and from a hall tree a pocketbook belonging to Mrs. Simmons which contained about $15, was taken. The crook went to the floor above, where Simmons and his wife were asleep. In raising a shade in one of the rooms the crook knocked a picture to the floor and as it landed, Mrs. Simmons and her husband were aroused. Both rose and the crook was locked in the room. Mrs Simmons notified the police of the presence of the crook and urged that officers be sent to the house without delay. Before the officers arrived, however, the crook smashed a screen and leaped to the ground, making his escape. Simmons went to the municipal building today and made formal complaint against the officer receiving the report of the thief being in the house. Simmons said that not only one telephone call failed to result in officers responding, but it was not for some time after the second call was sent in that an officer appeared at the house. Simmons also said that whoever answered the telephone engaged in needless and prolonged conversation and much valuable time was lost. He also said that the officers, instead of going to the house, went to Vauxhall street and that it was fully 20 minutes from the time the first call was sent in before any officers arrived. The officers were Sergeant John Courtney, Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin and Patrolmen Frank Philopena and Anthony Turello.

Ransacked Cottrell House

The second break was at the residence of Capt. A. C. Cottrell, all of the members of the family being absent from the house, which is diagonally opposite the Simmons home. The thief went to a rear window and using a jimmy, pried the window open. The crook ransacked the house thoroughly, for the contents of numerous drawers were emptied upon the floor in the search for money and valuables. A strong box which was found and which contained papers of value only to the owner, was smashed, but its contents were not disturbed. The break was discovered by the family when they returned home and reported at police headquarters.

Money And Revolvers Taken

The third robbery was at the residence of Silas Maxson, 744 Ocean avenue. The family was absent from home during the early part of the night, but when they returned the break was revealed. The only plunder obtained by the crook was a small sum of money and two .32 calibre revolvers. Entrance to the house was gained by smashing the glass of a rear window so that it could be unlocked. In entering, the thief knocked over and smashed a lamp that was on a stand close to the window.

UNDUE OFFICIOUSNESS ALLEGED BY VISITOR

Thaddeus H. Devine, 198 Connecticut avenue, was charged in the city court today with breach of the peace. The case was continued to Saturday next. He posted a bond of $25 to insure his appearance in court. Devine, who is employed in Hartford, came to New London yesterday to visit his mother. About 9 o'clock Devine went to the corner of Connecticut avenue and Broad street to await the arrival of a bus for Hartford. Several youths were standing on the corner and when Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin observed them, he ordered the entire gang to disperse. According to Devine, as he was waiting for the bus he moved but a few feet and then stopped. Martin then ordered Devine to leave the corner and to "keep moving." When Devine did not obey the command, he was arrested.

One case of intoxication was tried. The man, a resident of Providence, who was arrested on Main street yesterday by Patrolmen Lawrence Fardy and William Riordan, was given suspension of judgment.

Mrs. Clifford Kennedy 67 1-2 Montauk avenue, and Louis Wool, 65 Denison avenue, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Learned and George Whittlesey, vice presidents; secretary and treasurer, George Whittlesey; assistant secretary and treasurer, Ralph W. Mattison. The directors elected are: George B. Prest, Graham S. Bishop, Albert C. Woodruff, Nathan Belcher and Clarence W. Hungerford, the last named a resident of Hadlyme, who succeeds the late Belton A. Copp.

The annual meeting of the New London archdeaconry of the Episcopal diocese of Connecticut was held yesterday in Bishop Seabury Memorial Episcopal church, Groton.

At a meeting of Aerie, No. 504, Fraternal Order of Eagles, last night, the following officers were installed: Worthy president, Louis Schablein; worthy vice president, Louis Pelletier; secretary, James Adams; treasurer, Joseph Williams; chaplain, Russell Robinson; conductor, John W. Appleby; past worthy president, Patrick Kane; inside guard, Thomas Duffy; outside guard, Daniel Halloran. The installation ceremony was witnessed by visitors from Norwich who addressed the members during the serving of refreshments.

Mrs. Thomas Walsh, of Groton; Mrs. Thomas McGowan and infant daughter, Blackhall; Mrs. Thomas Kiley, 25 Sherman street; Henry Barnes, Mystic, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

FUNERALS

Mrs. David Peachey

The funeral of Mrs. Rose Peachey, widow of David Peachey, of Fog Plain, Waterford, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St Agnes' chapel, Niantic, and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Edwin A. Flynn. The bearers were Henry Leonard, Jr., Fred King, Joseph Morrisey and Thomas O'Connor. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Laborers today started the task of removing the float heretofore used by the ferry boat between New London and Groton. The float being dismantled the slip will also be removed.

CHAS. SYPHERS SUICIDES— STRANGLES TO DEATH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, July 11.— Charles Syphers, 73, residing at the residence of Mrs. Charles Wilcox, 21 Reed street, committed suicide during today, something he had tried before to do but was unsuccessful. Syphers, a painter by occupation, but who has worked only spasmodically of recent years, had been drinking freely yesterday and when he retired last night late he was intoxicated. During today, Syphers, procured a stout cord and tying one end around a bed post, he tied the other around his neck short for the cord was only about three feet in length. He then rolled from the bed and the length of the cord did not permit Syphers' head to reach the floor. Instead it was held several inches from the floor and caused him to strangle to death. About 5:15 this afternoon Mrs. Wilcox decided to visit the sleeping room because of Syphers not having put in an appearance. There she found Syphers lifeless. Mrs. Wilcox went to police headquarters and made a report. Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin went to the house and took charge of the body until Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman viewed it and permitted its removal to an undertaking establishment.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin L. Armstrong have returned to their residence, 33 Granite street, having spent six months at their winter home, St. Petersburg, Fla.

Mrs. Carey Congdon, 33 Grenada terrace, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Franklin Dundore, in Paoli, Penn.

Robbed Baptist Pastor

Tonight it was revealed that a fourth house was entered and robbed. Rev. J. J. Allen, pastor of the First Baptist church, notified the police that his home had been entered during his absence. Automobile Patrol Officer George Cockell went to the house finding that the crook had entered the clergyman's home during his absence from 4 until 10 o'clock and that the only plunder obtained was $5. Entrance to the house was gained by means of a skeleton key.

Early Mackeral Catches

Over 50 men and boys were on the municipal pier late this afternoon and tonight fishing for little mackerel and hundreds of the fish were taken from the water. There were many small boats in the upper harbor and from which the fishermen obtained additional catches. It is the first time in many years that mackerel have been caught in the harbor at so early a date.

Mrs. Beatrice Ashe Maher, wife of Lieut. Comdr. J. E. Maher, U. S. N., of 180 Vauxhall street, reported to the police this afternoon that while she parked her auto on Truman street, corner of Belden court, for a brief time today, some one went to the car and stole her wallet, which contained $6 and her driving license. A short time later Mrs. Maher notified the police that she had recovered the wallet, which was in the auto and had not been stolen.

Several additional violators of the city's traffic laws were arrested this afternoon and put up bonds for their appearance in the police court tomorrow. The drivers and the violations are: Max Lipps, 232 Huntington street, parking overtime on Bank street; Joseph Copp, 154 Thames street, Groton, parking overtime, Golden street; Joseph Johnson, 244 Abbott street, Waterbury, parking overtime, Bank street; Harry S. Anderson, New York, parking overtime on State street.

Two men, who were intoxicated, became involved in a fight when they attempted to settle a dispute on Main street this afternoon. The battlers were arrested by Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolmen George Perkins and Lawrence Fardy. They were locked up and will be in court tomorrow.

Ran Over Foot

M. O. Beckwith made complaint to the police this afternoon that while he was working beside a truck on Ocean avenue earlier in the day an automobile driven by Edward Koch, a plumber, residing in Waterford, ran over his foot and injured that member. Beckwith was advised to consult Prosecuting Attorney Max Foyer if he desired Koch's arrest.

FORMER NORWICH LAWYER PROPOSED WATERBURY TRIP

More than 100 lawyers of Waterbury are expected to attend the Waterbury Bar association's annual outing scheduled for the 30th inst. The attorneys will leave Waterbury early in the morning by bus for New London where they will board a steamer and go for a sail on Long Island sound. At noon the legal lights will land at Port Jefferson, N. Y., for dinner. The return trip to New London will be made in the afternoon and a bus will convey the attorneys to Waterbury. Attorney John R. Cassidy, formerly of Norwich, president of the association, proposed the trip and named a committee composed of Attorneys Theodore V. Meyer, Marcus Weisman and J. Warren Upson to make the necessary arrangements.

SERGT. SMITH BOUND OVER FOR SHOOTING OF SIMS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 11.—Detective Sergeant Nelson S Smith today was formally presented in the police court charged with manslaughter, in connection with the fatal shooting on the night of May 20th, of Gordon O. Sims by the officer. As a result of Coroner Edward G. McKay's finding of criminal responsibility, Judge Daniel M. Cronin found probable cause and bound Smith over to the next term of the superior court for trial. His bond was not increased, remaining at $2500 and was furnished by Louis Eilfenbein. Smith, who was suspended the night of the shooting, will remain absent from duty until his trial is concluded. In rendering his finding, Coroner McKay held that Smith was not justified in killing Sims, basing the fact on the ground that the crime Sims had committed was a misdemeanor, also the fact that Smith was not in defense of his life when he started shooting the second time.

When YOU WANT to put your business before the pubild, there is no medium better than through the advertising columns of The Bulletin.

After Many Failures He Discovered A Real Pile Remedy

For years he suffered with itching piles. Now and then he'd get a little relief from some salve or other—but nothing much to speak of.

Finally someone told him of Peterson's Ointment—of its powerful healing qualities which had brought such swift, blessed relief to thousands of pile sufferers.

Somewhat doubtful, he bought a box—the first application absolutely convinced him that this was the most marvelous Ointment in the world.

Why, man alive! That agonising soreness went right out of those piles—the tortuous itching stopped—before he knew it his piles were gone.

Every enterprizing druggist in America knows of the mighty healing power of Peterson's Ointment—he knows it ends piles—one 35c box will prove it.

FIT TO FIGHT or FIT TO FLOP?

When tempted to over-indulge

"Reach for a Lucky instead"

Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Avoid that future shadow* by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain that modern, ever-youthful figure. "Reach for a Lucky instead."

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Lucky Strike has an extra, secret heating process. Everyone knows that heat purifies and so 20,679 physicians say that Luckies are less irritating to your throat.

"It's toasted"

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough

*"Moderation in diet seems to me the first and great requisite of any treatment which may be counted upon as ultimately satisfactory," says Dr. Beverley Robinson in the New York Medical Journal. We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky instead," you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

WILL QUARANTINE STATE FOR JAPANESE BEETLE

Farm products quarantine on account of the Japanese beetle will be put into operation Sunday on the entire state of Connecticut. All shipments of vegetables or fruit into the state will be subject to a rigorous system of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment station and the United States department of agriculture whereby produce that originates in an infested region or passes through it, must be inspected before it may enter the Connecticut region that has fewer beetles.

Furthermore, Connecticut's own spinach, strawberries and other garden products must be approved before they are allowed to be shipped to a territory that is free of the Japanese beetle or not so heavily invaded by it. No produce will be permitted to move into the state from a more infested territory, or out of Connecticut to a less infested area, without a certificate testifying that the produce has no beetles.

Connecticut, like other infested states, is divided into two portions for the quarantine. A section on Long Island sound from Greenwich to East Haven and as far north as Hamden, lies under restriction by both state and federal agencies. Designated as "generally infested," this area must obtain certificates to ship not only to destinations less infested, but also outside its own boundaries anywhere else in Connecticut. In this southern section, the Japanese beetle has penetrated the deepest and the farthest. Added to it in this summer's quarantines of the federal government is the rest of the state, which is named "lightly infested," and placed under slightly different regulations.

The bright green-and-bronze Japanese beetle is one of the most dangerous insect pests in the United States. In New Jersey, which has probably the worst infestation in the country, farmers have suffered thousands of dollars' loss to fruit and vegetable crops. In Connecticut, the beetle has thus far been observed mostly on the lawns of New Haven, Bridgeport, Stamford, New London, Hartford and Willimantic, where it feeds on grass, rose bushes and other shrubs. It has not yet been found in the countryside; the rigorous quarantine and control measures have been devised to keep it out.

The widespread quarantine of this summer follows one less drastic. In 1929 only the shore section and parts of New London and Hartford were under restriction. During the summer the beetle spread. Willimantic, where it was never known before, was found infested, and the beetle was discovered in parts of New London and Hartford that previously were free of the pest.

Not only are vegetables inspected and certified during the summer months, when the adult beetles are flying, but nursery products that have soil attached to them must be examined the year around. Eggs are laid in the ground and grubs spend the winter in the soil.

Patrolmen are now stationed on automobile highways at Danielson, Pawcatuck, Branford, Wallingford and Cheshire to observe movements of nursery and farm products. Active inspection of automobiles will begin after July 1.

LISBON JUSTICE'S COURT HAS FIREARMS AND LIQUOR CASES

Two cases were tried before Justice of the Peace Walter Drew in the Lisbon town court Tuesday. Mike Nemcjuk of the Canterbury road, Lisbon, charged with possession of firearms, was fined $1 and costs. He was arrested by Game Warden Thomas Daniels on Tuesday and was found to have a rifle and two shotguns in his possession. Nemcjuk is an alien and according to law is not allowed to possess firearms.

The accused was also tried on a charge of violation of the liquor law, but the case was continued to Saturday. He was arrested on this charge Tuesday by Sergeant Gardner of the Danielson barracks and Aubrey Potter, Lisbon constable. They found a considerable quantity of illicit liquor at his place and seized it.

Stanley Liclowaka, also of Lisbon, and charged with violation of the liquor laws, also had his case continued to Saturday. A quantity of alleged liquor and home brew beer was seized at his place on the Preston road by the arresting officers, Sergeant Gardner and Constable Potter. The raid was made Tuesday.

While the officers were driving to Justice Drew's house with the accused their machine was crowded off the highway on the Lisbon-Newent road near Thoma's corner by an automobile operated by a Mr. Fontaine of Taftville, who was ordered to appear in Lisbon town court Saturday on a charge of reckless driving. Mr. Fontaine, it is alleged, drove his car around the sharp corner on the left side of the highway, forcing the officers' machine into the bank.

REST AND FOOD IN SUMMER CAMP SEASON

The time is near at hand for summer camps to open up for the season and already those in charge have well laid plans for the camp programme, says the weekly bulletin of the state board of health.

While nature will provide much to put the glow into the cheeks and joy into the hearts there are certain health essentials that must be provided if the bodies of those children who have lived all winter in congested areas are to be rounded out, and inches added to their height.

Two of the most important of these essentials are rest and food. While the care of large groups of children necessitates a well organized and supervised programme in which every hour of the day is accounted for, unless provision is made for a rest hour during the day, the children will return to their homes tired out instead of refreshed. Often individual children need special care and rest to prevent them from too active participation in the day's events.

Plenty of food must be provided, for nature gives one an urge to eat when one's hours are spent in the open, and the amounts normal growing children can store away are appalling!

But quantity alone is not sufficient The first concern should be the milk supply, and each child should have a quart a day, not necessarily to drink but in, on, or with the other food. Milk should come from tuberculin-tested cows, from a dairy where the strictest sanitary measures are practiced, and should if possible be pasteurized. At the camp it should be kept covered and cold.

A constant source of fresh products from a nearby farm are also essential. There should be at least two green vegetables served daily besides potatoes. One of these might well be a salad green which would provide a raw vegetable, the camp rule enforcing the eating of this green.

Fruit in variety should be liberally provided, some raw fruit several times a week if not daily, supplemented by canned or stewed fruit.

Cereals and breads might well be of the coarse grain kind as these have laxative qualities that are beneficial. The ready-to-eat cereals such as shredded wheat and the puffed cereals will give a pleasant change.

Butter is superior to all other fats due to its vitamin A content.

Meat should be added only once a day, with milk in liberal amounts.

Eggs should be served three or four times a week at least.

INTERNATIONAL SILVER HAS BIG HOTEL CONTRACT

International Silver company of Meriden, which has one of its branch factories in this city, has been awarded the contract for the silver for the new 46-story Waldorf-Astoria hotel now in course of construction in New York city.

Under this contract, the International Silver company will supply the entire silver service for the new hotel. Special and unusually attractive designs were made for the exclusive use of the hotel, and were approved by Lucius Boomer, president, prior to his departure for Europe on May 21.

This is understood to be the largest contract of its kind ever placed. Although no figures as to the amount of the contract are available, the initial order calls for considerably over 100,000 pieces of flat silver and hollowware silver. As the designs are a new departure in hotel silver service, it will be necessary for the manufacturers to make new dies for the countless items of service required.

ROAD SIGNS FOR ADVERTISING NORWICH

The Norwich chamber of commerce has preliminary plans underway for the advertising of Norwich through large road signs directing automobile tourists through this city. The plan is to place a large and attractive sign, approximately 43 by 15 feet, on the Boston Post road, in the vicinity of the Saybrook bridge, calling the attention of autoists to the direct route through Norwich to Boston and points north of this city. A similar sign east of Norwich, would direct autoists bound from Boston and Providence for points west of Norwich, through this city.

OPPONENTS OF NAVAL PACT FLAYED BY SEC'Y STIMSON

The Secretary Last Night Publicly Asked For Prompt Ratification of the Treaty By the Senate—Over a Nation-Wide Radio Hook-Up, Stimson Denounced "the Narrowness and Intolerance" of Those Opposed to the London Treaty—Declared That the Naval Conference Was One of the Great Victories of Peace.

WASHINGTON, June 12.— (AP) — Vigorously attacking "the narrowness and intolerance" of opponents of the London naval treaty, Secretary Stimson tonight publicly asked for prompt ratification by the senate of the naval limitation agreement.

The appeal by the secretary, who was chief of the American delegation to the London conference, was voiced over a coast-to-coast hook-up of the Columbia Broadcasting system in the national radio forum arranged by the Washington Star.

"This conference was one of the great victories of peace," Mr. Stimson said at the outset of his address after briefly reviewing the steps leading up to the summoning of the parley. ". . . It is the culmination of a ten-year movement towards peace between the various naval powers of the world and also a step in the vitalization of the Kellogg-Briand pact. The nations of the world had been taking definite practical steps towards a new regime of peace by the partial naval disarmament but the practical steps for disarmament were incomplete and new suspicion and irritations were growing up in consequence, and the pact was thus far a mere paper promise. Its fate was trembling in the balance.

"From this background the government of the United States under President Hoover and that of Great Britain under Prime Minister MacDonald started last year the movement to change the old dangerous conditions . . ."

Remarking that the London treaty is now pending for final ratification in the United States, Great Britain and Japan, the secretary touched on the opposition which the pact is exciting in each country.

"But the source of this opposition and the arguments which are made against it give fresh evidence of its true value and of the real basis upon which it stands. In each country the opposition comes mainly from some extremists among the professional warriors of that country while at the same time in each country civilian public opinion is giving it overwhelming support."

The secretary next pointed to what he described as "the conflict" of arguments made by the opponents of the pact in each country.

Asserting that points cited by opponents in one country as giving that nation inferiority with another were likewise cited by opponents of the other country as giving their own country inferiority.

Out of this clash of opinions, two results are clear. First, that a treaty so evenly criticized on opposite grounds by extremists in all three countries must come pretty near to the central line of fairness and justice between all three. In the case of this treaty the concessions are apparently so evenly distributed that exactly opposite results are being claimed to flow from the treaty in each of the three countries. All of these predictions of evil cannot be true; probably none of them are."

Directing his criticism of the opponents of the treaty, particularly against officers of the navy who appeared before senate committees investigating the pact, Stimson praised the attitude of Admiral William V. Pratt, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet and chief advisor to the American delegation. Pratt supported the treaty in his testimony.

"I am speaking of a tendency—the tendency of the professional military viewpoint," he said, in referring to the opposition by naval officers to the treaty.

"It is narrow. It only covers a portion of the field which must be considered in matters of national security and defense and its limitations and dangers have long been recognized by the American people. Certainly never was the necessity of breadth of view shown more clearly than in the case of the present treaty. Certainly never were the dangers of a narrow militaristic viewpoint more clearly made manifest. . . . Never was the narrowness and intolerance of militarism exhibited in a more striking light. Never was the wise foresight of our forefathers which placed the decision of such matters in different hands more clearly vindicated."

In conclusion the secretary vigorously opposed efforts to have the treaty ratification delayed until later in the year, predicting that "the bitter efforts of a single group of newspapers which is now devoting itself to defeat of the treaty" will be projected into senatorial contests to make the pact an issue during the campaigns.

"This could have no other result than to breed unfounded suspicion and ill-will," he said. "It would only tend to drag the treaty into party politics . . . It would go far to destroy the benefit and purpose of the treaty when ratified."

MONUMENT DEDICATED BY NOBLES OF MYSTIC SHRINE

TORONTO, June 12—(AP)—While airplanes hovered overhead, dropping bombs which unfurled tiny flags of the United States, Canada, Cuba and Mexico, a majestic monument to international accord between the four great nations of North America was dedicated today by the Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

A massed band of 2,200 pieces played the national anthems of the four countries and 500 chanters joined in singing "Onward Christian Soldiers" as the monument was unveiled.

Crowds stretched for blocks along the shore where the memorial, an angel holding a laurel wreath aloft, stands looking out across Lake Ontario. The ceremonies were carried to them through a network of loud speakers.

Statesmen of all the nations, using the theme of international brotherhood and world peace, addressed the throngs. Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas and Gov. Louis L. Emerson, of Illinois attended the exercise from the United States and Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state, broadcast a talk from Washington.

CLASH BETWEEN POLICE AND VOLUNTEERS IN INDIA

BOMBAY, June 12—(AP)—Police clashed with civil disobedience volunteers on two occasions here today and twelve demonstrators were injured.

The nationalists organized a parade in defiance of police orders to observe the proclamation of martial law at Shalapur just a month ago today. Police charged with their sticks to break up the demonstration and the procession moved off, apparently to disband.

A short time later the paraders entered a road forbidden to them and the constabulary made a second charge.

The demonstrators were led by Kapadia, new president of the "war council" of the nationalists in the Bombay area, and included hundreds of women dressed in saffron colored roses.

Prior to the formation of the main parade a number of small columns converged from various points. Some of the demonstrators were Moslems.

SENATOR HEFLIN ATTACKS SMITH AND RASKOB

WASHINGTON, June 12—(AP)—An attempt to obtain a senate investigation was threatened today by Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, if the "Tammany group" attempted to spend much money in working for his defeat for reelection.

"Nothing would do me more good," he said, "than to put a few Raskob agents in jail."

Heflin assailed Alfred E. Smith, democratic nominee, for president in 1928, and John J. Raskob, the chairman of the democratic national committee.

Referring to the recent North Carolina primary which resulted in the defeat of Senator Simmons, the Alabamian described the North Carolinian as the "greatest living democrat in the south."

INQUIRY INTO COLLISION OF FAIRFAX AND PINTHIS

BOSTON, June 12—(AP)—The circumstances surrounding the mystery call for help sent from the liner Fairfax immediately after her collision with the tanker Pinthis last Tuesday night but never received by any other station were explored at length today at the opening of the federal inquiry into the disaster which to date has cost 47 lives.

Three Fairfax officers including Captain Archibald Brooks testified concerning the SOS. The captain told of having ordered it sent. Eugene W. Neff, assistant radio operator, who rushed from his cabin to the bridge at the impact, swore he had received it from Brooks. J. W. Cewekin, chief operator, told Captain Charles M. Lyons and Inspector John Stewart, United States steamboat inspectors who are conducting the hearing, that he sent it. In addition, Neff said, he heard Gewekin send the message.

Whether the radio antennae was actually in working order when the message was supposedly dispatched, neither Gewekin nor Neff could say. They testified that a minute or two after the message had apparently cleared the antennae was put out of commission by the fierce fire which raged alongside the port side of the ship.

There were 100 of the agents, some from New Jersey and the rest brought from New York and Pennsylvania, in four-man squads they went swiftly about their business in civilian clothes and with automatics strapped about their waists. Each squad had a leader who had his orders direct from Dwight Avis, recently brought from Detroit river smuggling duty to become this state's prohibition director.

Among the places raided were many which sprang into popularity after coming to Hoboken of nights became smart among novelty-seeking New Yorkers; the Continental and Grand hotels, Kelly's, the Clam Broth House, Ye Olde Chop House and others.

In almost every bar raided in the waterfront region quantities of liquor were seized and one or more persons arrested.

Soviet Govt. Design Is Revolution In The U.S.

President of A. F. of L. Tells of Activities of American Communist Party, Directed From Moscow.

WASHINGTON, June 12.— (AP) — William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, told the house communist investigating committee today the soviet government was trying to bring a revolution in the United States by centering activities of the American communist party on the masses.

Green named organizations which, he said, had been formed by Moscow representatives under direction of soviet officials "to accomplish the overthrow of the so-called capitalist government in the United States."

In order to bring about the destruction of the American government the communist leaders in Russia felt, he said, that the American Federation of Labor would have to be overthrown and controlled.

To accomplish this, he said, "there have been organized in this country the workers (communist) party of America, the Trade Union Educational league, the Trade Union Unity league, the pioneer youth movement, and the American Negro labor congress, directed from Moscow and thoroughly allied with the communists' international and the red international of trade unions."

Efforts were being made, he said, by the communists to split the affiliated organizations of the American Federation of Labor, but, he added, "we have been able to cope with them."

The American Federation of Labor, he continued, "is uncompromisingly opposed to communism and to the communistic philosophy."

E. F. McGrady, a member of the federation's legislative committee, Assistant Secretaries of Labor Robe Carl White and W. W. Husband, and George J. Harris, assistant commissioner of immigration, are to testify tomorrow.

Representative Fish, republican, New York, chairman of the committee, announced it would open hearings in New York probably July 5 or 6. In that connection, Representative Perkins, republican, New Jersey, acting chairman of the house accounts committee, introduced a resolution to provide $25,000 for the expenses of the committee.

NEWSPAPERS TO PURSUE THE SLAYERS OF LINGLE

CHICAGO, June 12.—(AP)—With an aroused populace demanding results Chicago newspapers moved tonight to take over active leadership in tracking down the assassin of Alfred "Jake" Lingle and purging the city of criminals. Scarcely had Lingle been buried when Charles F. Rathbun of Tribune counsel, was made assistant state's attorney to handle the investigation.

Pat Roche, former ace of the federal narcotic forces and now chief investigator for the state's attorney's office, will head the investigators, while Rathbun will have complete charge of the legal phases.

The action came close on the heels of a meeting of representatives of seven leading newspapers which adopted a resolution pledging their organizations and resources to the cleaning up of "gang, police, official and any other public viciousness."

"Considering the causes and the connotations of the unbelievable total of one hundred gang murders in little more than a year and acting in accord and unison," the resolution said, "we pledge our organizations and our resources to the clean up of gang, police, official and any other public viciousness wherever it may appear, in order that corruption and the resulting gang activities may be brought to an end, and thereby restoring to the citizens of Chicago civic decency and security of life and property."

MARINES TESTIFY COMRADE FIRED THE FATAL SHOTS

TOMS RIVER, N. J., June 12.—(AP)—Madison Chappel and Claude Carmichael, U. S. marines, testified today that Lester Underdown, another marine, fired two or three shots into the house where Robert Evans and Albert Duffy were killed the night of May 15.

Chappel testified that Underdown approached him on May 15, the day of the slayings, and offered him $100 to help "bump off a couple of guys." He said he, Underdown and Carmichael went to the Evans home, each armed with service rifles.

Underdown went to the door of the house and called Mrs. Evans. A man came to the door and shut it in his face. Carmichael went to the side of the house with Underdown, while the latter fired two shots. Carmichael then fired one shot, saying, "I got him in the arm." Underdown then went into the house, and came out with a broken rifle, remarking that Duffy "was a tough one."

Chappel continued that Mrs. Evans kissed Underdown and said "it was a good job, and I'm glad it's over with."

Tariff Bill Advocates Expect 2 Vote Margin

Senators Reed and Grundy Come Out For the Bill On the Eve of the Final Showdown.

WASHINGTON, June 12.— (AP) — Senators Reed and Grundy, republicans, of Pennsylvania, came out today for the tariff bill on the eve of the final showdown on the legislation in the senate and dispelled all fears in the minds of republican leaders that the measure might fail.

Proponents of the measure look for passage tomorrow by two votes and for house approval on Saturday.

Senator Reed, in a 20-minute speech, told an intensely expectant senate that he would vote for the conference report because he believed agitation for another bill would continue if the Hawley-Smoot measure failed and American business was in no condition "to stand that."

Senator Grundy listened attentively to his colleague's speech, and a few minutes later, off the floor, he told newspapermen he would follow Reed in supporting the bill.

The accession of the two Pennsylvania votes cast a perceptible wave of relief over the republican side of the chamber.

The spectacle of the two Pennsylvania senators withholding decision on a republican tariff measure was unusual, but Reed and Grundy had not told a single colleague how they stood.

Reed said he had been inclined to vote against the bill but reached the conclusion that it would be wrong "because American industry is entitled to be relieved of the agitation that has been going on now for nearly two years; because American business has stood about all of us that it can stand; because it is almost better that tariff agitation be ended than that it be ended right."

He added he did not approve of its agricultural rates, thought many of the industrial levies were too low, and preferred existing administrative provisions to those of the bill, but regarded the measure worked out by the conferees as a decided improvement over the house or senate bill.

Reed followed Senator Norris, republican, independent, Nebraska, who characterized the revision as "protection run perfectly mad."

Dr. Prestes left the Brazilian embassy for Mount Vernon immediately after a luncheon given him by the ambassador.

Laying a wreath on the tomb of George Washington while his followers stood at attention, Dr. Prestes was told that General Washington had expressed the wish for simplicity in all ceremonies.

"It is simplicity that provokes emotions," he replied.

CASE OF BISHOP CANNON TO BE PLACED BEFORE SENATE

Lobby Committee By a Vote of 4 to 1 Agreed Not to Require the Bishop to Answer Questions—Later the Committee Decided to Place Before the Senate a Transcript of the Examination of the Churchman—Senator Blaine Contends That When the Report Is Made to the Senate the Vice President Is Required By Law to Submit the Fact to the District Attorney, and That the Latter Is Required By Law to Lay the Matter Before a Grand Jury.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(AP)—The dramatic controversy between Bishop James Cannon, Jr., and the senate lobby committee was officially ended today when the investigators agreed they would not compel him to answer questions about his 1928 anti-Smith activities and voted to submit a report to the senate.

By a four to one vote the committee agreed not to require the bishop to answer questions, and later, during a two-hour session behind closed doors, decided to submit to the senate a transcript of the examination of the churchman.

Senator Blaine, republican, Wisconsin, contended that when the report is made to the senate the vice president is required by law to submit to the district attorney the fact that Cannon refused to answer questions and that the district attorney is required to lay the matter before a grand jury.

A directly opposite view was taken, however, by Chairman Caraway, who explained the committee had ruled it had no power to ask the questions and, therefore, the Southern Methodist churchman was not legally required to answer.

Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, expressed the opinion that nothing could be done until someone raised the question in the senate as to the relevancy of the questions asked Cannon.

Two proposals for further action against the bishop were voted down at the executive session. A motion by Senator Walsh to ask the senate for specific authority to inquire into political activities was defeated three to two while a proposal by Senator Blaine to cite the bishop to the senate for possible contempt proceedings received only one vote.

Walsh and Blaine favored the first proposal while Blaine cast the only vote for his motion.

After agreeing to take no further action against the bishop the committee adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of the committee that it should not insist on answers to questions propounded to Bishop James Cannon, Jr., and the transcript of the whole record be laid before the senate."

Blaine voted against deciding not to insist on answers to questions but approved presenting the record to the senate. Senator Robinson, republican, Indiana, voted for the first part of the resolution and against the other portion. The other three members approved the entire resolution.

Senator Walsh explained, however, that he assented only because of the doubt raised as to the authority of the committee to go into political activities.

Chairman Caraway said the committee's decision would not prevent any individual member from offering resolutions in the senate to seek further action against the bishop.

Meeting this morning with Bishop Cannon present, the committee informed him of its decision reached late yesterday not to compel him to answer the questions to which he objected. The bishop received the information in silence, and made only two minor statements during the hearing.

Caraway and Robinson contended the activities of the bishop did not involve lobbying in any manner and therefore the committee did not have authority to question him. Borah, who was absent, was understood to agree with them.

Vigorous opposition to the decision not to compel answers was voiced by Blaine, who contended the investigators had asked other witnesses about their political activities, but he fought a lone battle.

Whether the lobby committee will hold further sessions has not been determined. It adjourned today subject to the call of Chairman Caraway.

COM. SUPPORTS JOHNSON'S CLAIM FOR NAVAL PAPERS

WASHINGTON, June 12.— (AP) — Taking back to President Hoover today, the senate foreign relations committee adopted a resolution asserting its right to the papers relating to the London naval conference which he denied it.

After going on record as challenging the president's blunt refusal to give up the notes exchanged among the powers prior to the London parley, the committee was prepared to resume consideration of the treaty itself.

No new demand was made upon Mr. Hoover for the London notes and his declination to turn them over was regarded as final, but by a vote of 10 to 7 the committee went on record as supporting the right of Senator Johnson, republican, California, to ask for the papers and the right of the committee to have them.

Three committee members were absent.

CAROL PROCLAIMS HELEN QUEEN OF RUMANIA

BUCHAREST, June 12—(AP)—Queen Mother Marie returned from Germany tonight to find that her son, the new King Carol II, had proclaimed his divorced wife Queen Helen of Rumania.

Carol's decree followed his statement earlier in the day that he considered his divorced wife "already queen of Rumania" but he later made an official proclamation. The king's view was that on the death of his father, King Ferdinand, he, as Crown Prince Carol, automatically became king by right. His wife, since they were not then divorced, became queen in the same manner.

While Princess Helen has been standing off from a reconciliation since the return of Carol as king Sunday, she was reported today to be satisfied with the plans to crown her as queen.

ALIANO SENTENCED 10 TO 15 YEARS FOR MANSLAUGHTER

HARTFORD, June 12.—(AP)—Convicted of manslaughter by three judges in superior court, Sebastiano N. Aliano today was sentenced to state's prison for a term of 10 to 15 years for a slaying which precipitated investigation by a special grand jury into liquor traffic and alleged police corruption in Hartford county.

Aliano, proprietor of a chain of east side speakeasies, was indicted for first degree murder in the slaying on Dec. 4 of Alphonse Minniti, rival speakeasy operator, and went on trial last Tuesday. During the trial, which was attended by members of the special grand jury conducting the liquor inquiry, Aliano asserted that he shot Minniti in self-defense.

The judges presiding in the case, Judge John Richard Booth, Judge Carl Foster and Judge Frederick M. Peasley, pronounced judgment on Aliano after they had decided to dispense with arguments by opposing counsel. Judge Booth, presiding, said that arguments would be unnecessary since the case was clear in the minds of himself and his associates.

The judges retired for about 15 minutes to consider the sentence after pronouncing judgment and after arguments on the sentence were made by Hugh M. Alcorn, state's attorney, and Thomas J. Spellacy, defense counsel.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska—(AP)—A Carl Ben Eielson memorial building of aeronautical engineering is to be erected on the campus of the Alaska college of agriculture and school of mines.

It will perpetuate the memory of the flier as the "father of Alaskan aviation." Representatives of 14 fraternal and civic organizations of Fairbanks have agreed to approve the project.

Eielson was killed last November while attempting to fly from Teller, Alaska, to North Cape, Siberia.

CANADA PROHIBITS FLYING NEAR R-100 ON VISIT

OTTAWA —(AP)— Strict regulations controlling heavier-than-air craft during the visit of the dirigible R-100 to Canada have been laid down by J. A. Wilson, controller of the civil aviation.

While the big ship is under way, no aircraft will be allowed to approach nearer than two miles. During the mooring of the dirigible at St. Hubert airport, no other aircraft will be allowed within three miles.

PLANE USED IN WAR TO WIPE OUT CROWS

ALLIANCE, Neb. —(AP)— An airplane is being used in a war on crows in Pierce county near here.

A. A. Risser of Norfolk, Neb., has arranged with a number of hunters, armed with shotguns, to assemble in a large grove. Risser then flies around the grove in circles, herding thousands of the crows into it.

The birds are so confused by the noise of the plane motor that they will not leave the shelter of the grove despite the gun fire. The result is a wholesale slaughter of the pests.

Kentucky has one automobile to every nine persons.

OLD CONFEDERATE COIN REMINDER OF WAR DAYS

BATON ROUGE, La.—(AP)—A unique reminder of the Confederacy's frustrated efforts to turn out specie during the Civil war came to light here when three of Uncle Sam's "orphan coins" were dug up on the battlefield of Vicksburg, Miss.

The coins closely resemble the regulation half-dollar. On the back is a tiny "o" familiar in the south as the New Orleans mint mark, while on the face is the legend, "United States of America"—but the date is 1861, and Louisiana had seceded from the union late in 1860.

With the New Orleans mint taken over "in trust" at the outset of the war, plans were laid for making gold and silver coins for the Confederacy. A die was made, but the engraving was too high, and after four coins had been struck, the die split and broke.

Apparently problems of war were too presing to permit a renewal of the effort and with only a small amount of bullion on hand, it is believed the forces in charge of the mint used the federal dies to make it into half dollars.

New Cattle Grub Ends

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Application of derris and cube (coo-bay) powder at 15-intervals has proved effective against cattle grubs. Cube is the root of a South American plant in which the poisonous principle is rotenone, the same as in the derris root.

UNIVERSITY OF ROCHESTER ADOPTS NEW STUDY PLAN

ROCHESTER, N. Y. — (AP) — The University of Rochester will adopt a new policy of education when it occupies its new $10,000,000 College for Men next fall.

The new system of independent study will involve, for juniors and seniors, elimination of many classes and abolition of the old fashioned examinations.

For under-classmen it will mean increased freedom in attending classes and concentration in a chosen field.

Students will study independently under immediate direction of members of the faculty.

A unique orientation course in natural science has been instituted. It is a survey of the whole field of science, with emphasis upon present day problems and methods.

Hungarian Movies Lose Money

WASHINGTON—(AP)— Many Hungarian cinemas are closing because exhibitors say they are losing money, according to department of commerce reports. Ninety per cent of the gross receipts is absorbed by various duties and like expenditures.

TARIFF ACTION TODAY

After an effort lasting a year and a half, the senate is going to make a decision today upon the tariff bill. The revision has been of such a character and under such methods as to long since tire the country. It has not contributed to the confidence of industry or the people and, to great extent, because of the delays and the obstructions that have been placed in the way of action.

Although the predictions are that the bill will be approved by the senate by a narrow margin, there is a marked difference of opinion. Those who have been instrumental in putting certain changes in the bill for the advantage of their own particular locality are among those who are going to offer their vote in opposition to its passage because they think other localities ought not to have received as favorable treatment as they have. They have, in other words, taken a selfish attitude. They could see no fairness in anything that involved other parts of the country. Many who sought tariff benefits for agriculture and got them could not see the desirability of giving any consideration to deserving industries. They have not been willing to consider the country as a whole, but have been insistent upon sectional benefits.

The tariff bill will probably not be held up by anyone as a perfect one. None is likely to reach that stage. It has raised protests, even as it stands. Views in regard to the height of the tariff wall have changed in some instances because of the desire for increased foreign business and the fact that some handicaps are expected because other countries will seek to offset the advantages which are sought. While some think certain rates too high, others feel the tariff not high enough. Under the provisions of the bill there will be the opportunity for correcting conditions which are found to be unjust after a study is made by the tariff commission. Though there are protests against the bill, there are equally ardent supporters, confidence being felt that on trial it will work out advantageously.

The action by the senate today doesn't necessarily dispose of the bill, barring the fact that it should be turned down. However, it is in the senate where the real opposition prevails and approval by the senate will quickly be followed by favorable action by the house.

DISCOURAGE HITCH HIKING

States and organizations have been waging a stiff campaign against the practice of hitch hiking or the begging of automobile rides for long and short distances. It has been brought about as the need is recognized of protecting both those seeking the rides and those who give them. Cases in large number have occurred where felonious and other assaults have followed the begging of a ride. Further than that, it has been shown that drivers of autos are responsible for those they take in and if an accident occurs liability rests with them.

Additional support is given to the effort to break up this practice by the action of the National Association of Travelers' Aid societies which adopted a resolution placing it in active opposition to indiscriminate hitch hiking. As part of its work this widely known organization will make a study of the problems which develop from the begging of rides and set forth for the enlightenment of parents as well as youths the dangers that exist. It is an effort which will give the investigators plenty to do.

Those who do much driving have long since become acquainted with the many along the highways who are seeking rides. Some will post themselves in the highways with grips and wait until they find a sympathetic driver willing to take them in. Others are out for a lark and in groups of twos and threes will point in the direction they desire to be taken, and all of them do not take refusals kindly.

There is another class that considers the auto driver the proper prey for hold-ups and a response to their pleas for a lift results in a loss of funds, possibly the car, and there have been cases where drivers have been seriously injured and shot in return for their readiness to respond to an appeal for a ride.

However much an auto driver may be disposed to be of assistance, the experiences of so many of them have been such as to warn others to refrain from seeing or yielding to appeals from strangers. It is no longer regarded as being hard-hearted, but simply acting wisely for their own protection. It is for the protection of youth that the Travelers' Aid societies are striving.

GOOD-WILL VISITS

When President Hoover decided, after being elected, to make a circle of Central and South American republics his purpose was to get in touch with those governments and establish better relations. His trip was the first of its kind and it made a deep impression upon the whole of the western hemisphere.

Since then it has been returned by the president of Mexico and now President-elect Prestes of Brazil is in this country, bringing a message of good-will from that large South American republic. He gives recognition to the fine example set by President Hoover and is desirous of showing that he is equally desirous of a thorough understanding between the countries. There has been no indication that anything to the contrary prevails but his purpose is to see that it is firmly established on his part as he is about to take over the reins of the Brazilian government. Just such visits can be expected to sidetrack any suspicions, eliminate doubts and dissipate fears.

This country thus welcomes the Brazilian president-elect. That he will have an opportunity to know more of this country and its officials through personal contact is assured and the benefits of it can be expected to be felt throughout his administration. As he comes to arrange no plans, to make no deals. He recognizes the desirability of returning the visit of President Hoover, and in that there is reason for gratification both on the part of this country and Brazil.

The nations of the western hemisphere should be in close and friendly relations. Actual contacts through such visits are particularly helpful. It wouldn't have been a bad idea if the practice had been started years ago. If that had been the case, the nations of this hemisphere would have understood each other far better. It will by no means too late when President Hoover conceived the idea and put it into practice. In various ways recognition has been given to this by many of the nations visited, while further evidence is to be found in the visits which are to be made by other presidents-elect of Latin-American republics within a short time. Thus it is being made evident that good-will expressions are not all on one side.

DR. WORK'S RESIGNATION

Surprise was created by the announced resignation of Dr. George A. Works as president of the Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs. This was because he had held the office for less than a year and because he came with such fine recommendations and background that much was expected from his administration.

In connection with his resignation, Dr. Works has indicated that it was influenced in part by the resignation of Dr. A. B. Meredith as commissioner of education in Connecticut and because he believed the institution was not doing the work that it should do for the education of the youth of the state. Instead of devoting its efforts to agricultural training, he favors broadening its scope and making it possible for it to give a good general education at the college to several times the number to which it is now limited.

There there seems to be an unfortunate attitude on the part of Dr. Works if he is convinced of that need and believes that the Connecticut Agricultural college should enter into competition with the half dozen long-established and widely recognized institutions of higher learning in Connecticut, he should have remained and backed his convictions, convinced the state that such a policy was required. Evidently he was not prepared to put forth his best endeavors under the policies by which it has been believed the college at Storrs should be maintained.

In offering his resignation, Dr. Works has expressed certain views as the result of his less than a year at the institution which deal with his own experiences in part and apparently to a certain degree with the experiences of others. The indications are that too much weight has been attached to the fact that Dr. Meredith advanced certain ideas which have not been adopted and he feels, whether justified or not, that his efforts might encounter no more favorable results. It cannot be felt that such necessarily follows.

SCHMELING'S VICTORY

In a manner that was not expected by those who had indicated their confidence in the boxing ability of Max Schmeling, he got the decision over Jack Sharkey on a foul in the fourth round. It was a heart-breaking result for the American fighter and his supporters, not solely because he lost, but because from the very beginning superior boxing had been done by Sharkey.

From such an exhibition as had been given during the period of the fight the Sharkey fans had reason to anticipate a favorable decision for their idol. It was a contest subject to rules and when Sharkey transgressed there was nothing else to do but to award the decision to the German boxer. It was not what could be accepted as a decision on merit. Sharkey penalized himself and threw away what appeared to be, up to that time, his fight. But the American boxer has previously displayed a weakness for fouling and his loss of the fight with Scott in the south by that means should have more than placed him on his guard against a repetition.

Schmeling was not without friends in the contest against Sharkey. There were those who had been impressed by his method of boxing and his personality. They had hoped and believed that he would win through superior boxing. It is always the desire that the better man should win in any sporting event but it will always be a question for argument as to what would have happened had the contest gone on without the foul. The exhibition was one which can hardly convince that the winner of the decision would have secured it otherwise. To the Sharkey adherents it is, of course, a bitter disappointment, since everything pointed to the fact that he had the fight within his grasp.

POOR RICHARD

"It's a shame," cried Barbara Hewitt, screwing up her pretty face into an expression of disgust, "when we need money so badly, with the final payment on the bungalow almost due! Why couldn't Aunt Agatha have left Dick $2,000 instead of willing all her money to a museum? Charity even in the matter of wills begins at home."

"Babby," as her husband called her, addressed no one in particular when she made this statement, as she happened to be alone. Richard Hewitt had received notice the previous afternoon of his great-aunt's death. And he had received word that she had disposed of the home that had been in the Hewitt name also 200 years, including all its furnishings save one article that she had bequeathed to her grandnephew.

The one exception was a mahogany escritoire and contents. With this in mind, Babby continued to herself: "We have all the furniture we need. If it were Chippendale or Heppelwhite, or any famous make, we might sell it, but it isn't. I remember seeing it when Dick and I were there on our wedding trip; large, solid, substantial, but not worth at most over $100 or $200. I know Dick is very disappointed, so I'm not going to mention it again, though there is nothing to prevent me from thinking what I please. Poor Dick! Poor Richard!" she laughed a bit grimly.

In spite of the fact that Babby was light-hearted and happy by nature, when Dick had read the lawyer's letter to her the night before she had given voice to dismay in very decided accents.

In due time the desk arrived; there was $6 to pay and Babby was obliged to subtract this sum from her Christmas fund. It was Saturday and she had just spent the last penny of her weekly allowance. She and Richard were watching every penny in order not to fall in arears on the bungalow payments, and it seemed like adding insult to injury. "Why couldn't the executor or trustee or whatever he is have paid the freight and taken the amount from Aunt Agatha's estate?" she wondered.

She called in the handy man of the neighborhood, and when he had uncrated the desk she had him put it against the west wall of the living room. Later, while rubbing it with polish, she exclaimed: "Perhaps there is a secret drawer with money in it! All the old escritoires I ever rean about had secret compartments." Hastily throwing aside the dust cloth, Babby began a thorough search. The search was rewarded. She discovered three small drawers behind some larger ones that could be removed by pressing a spring underneath; but the secret drawers were as empty as a drum. In fact, the desk contained nothing at all but a carefully tied up package of old almanacs.

"It's rather a handsome piece of furniture," she remarked that evening to Dick, determined to make the most of it. "And I found three secret drawers, but there was nothing in them!" Dick went over to the desk and opened it.

"Here is a bunch of almanacs," said he, taking up the package and untying the string. "Why, they are 'Poor Richards!' " he exclaimed in surprise.

"I noticed the title, "observed Babby, "but I fancy they are just reprints."

"They are in an excellent state of preservation," said Dick. "However, they look genuine. You knew those old Yankees took care of their possessions, even almanacs." Babby now joined her husband and began examining one of the books. "Would you live at ease, do what you ought and not what you please,' " she read. "There is no mistaking Ben's maxims. Here is another, 'Blame-all and Praise-all are two blockheads.' "

"I might take them downtown tomorrow to my friend Franks, the dealer in first editions," said Dick. "He'll tell me what they are worth."

The next evening Babby was at the window when Dick swung round the corner in unusually buoyant manner. She reached the door just as he was bounding up the steps two at a time.

"Good news!" he cried excitedly. "They are genuine Poor Richards, all right, complete from the first issue to the last. Franks has a wealthy customer who has been trying for years to get a set and these are in such prime condition he has agreed to pay $3,000 for them."

"Dick," exclaimed Babby, "to think that I actually called you Poor Richard!"—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dry and Will Stay Dry

Mr. Editor: Every little while I hear someone allude to the "straw vote" of the Literary Digest as though it was of great importance. It looks to me as a slick business ruse to gain subscribers. If I am not mistaken, it was only subscribers of the Literary Digest that were extended a ballot and those zealous ones pro and con who were anxious to subscribe in order to vote. The A. P. is hunting the world over and endeavoring to reach the moon and Mars to find criminal and rebellious news because there is a thrill to it, and it's the thrill that sells the paper and rebellion against the dry law might come under that category.

At our last presidential election the candidate who espoused the cause of the wets was defeated as no candidate was ever defeated before, and wet and wet alone was what defeated him. Surely our congress is not showing a great amount of love, admiration or respect for the president. In the primaries the drys are victorious in every part of the nation except that where the people come from abroad to escape the conditions of the country they fled from, and yet insist upon bringing all those debasing conditions and customs with them and force them upon a people who have made this the best country on earth.

The nation as a whole is dry and will stay dry. If there are intoxicants, and some get drunk, there is a whole front page of every issue of our daily papers telling of murders, burglaries, highway robberies and all kinds of crime, which no doubt will continue a side show 'til the devil is dead or imprisoned. Come on, let us help to "chain" him! And no one shouts that all these good laws should be repealed because people break them.

Jobs

Mr. Editor: With a state central committeeman also holding down the jobs of assistant registrar of voters, compensation commissioner, county treasurer and checker of the state insane, are we now going to be soon regaled with a chairman of the town committee holding both deputy internal revenue collector, water supervisor and county commissioner. The Sherman anti-monopoly law should be invoked, for loyal republicans will more loudly exclaim—"Oh! Lord, how long?" When the chairman of the town committee reaches his goal there will be three republican males holding down 11 political offices and receiving their emoluments. More jobs should be created. The average is now better than three in one. Pile them up.

The Prevention of Heart Diseases in Adults

By James M. Anders, M. D., Philadelphia.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Yesterday we considered prevention of heart diseases in children. Today let us speak of the same question among adults. Many of the cases occurring during middle and advanced life begin with hardening of the blood vessels or arteries—a condition with which both organic diseases of the heart and of the kidneys are commonly associated. In order to be able to prevent such diseases we should know definitely what are the precise causes if the sclerosis or hardening of the arteries, including those of the heart.

For example, heredity has a place among the contributing factors. Persons in whom heredity plays a part often develop the disease in middle life because they are born with blood vessels of poor quality, ill suited to the wear and tear of life. Age has its influence, for we find that hardening of the blood vessels is a usual accompaniment of advancing years. Sex also affects the distribution of cases, for if all forms of the disease are considered, there is no doubt that men are more commonly affected, than women, because men are more exposed to conditions that tend to produce it. The exigencies and strains of modern business, social and professional life are in no small measure responsible for the increasing occurrence of hardened vessel walls. Among other potent causes should be stressed over-eating and intemperate habits of life; muscular overwork; syphilis. The infections fevers of adult life, such as the pneumonias, typhoid fever, acute rheumatism, tuberculosis and rarely scarlet fever, may produce arterial changes, or hardening of the vessels. Let it be understood that all of these causes operate either by throwing a strain upon the normal arterial wall, or upon an abnormally weak vessel wall.

Thus the causes of hardened blood vessels are numerous, but much can be accomplished in the way of preventing disaster. When a person inherits arteries which offer little resistance to strain of any sort, a quiet, temperate and orderly life must be adopted and adhered to if he would escape early oncoming hardening of the blood vessels of the heart. In many of these cases a preventive influence may be exerted by aiding the elimination from the system of waste products by gentle purgation and the systematic use of water, say one glass on rising and two to three hours after each meal. A focus of infection such as an abscessed tooth or diseased tonsils may cause disease of the heart in adults of middle life; hence it is a good rule to search for foci of infection and to eliminate them. Persons given to over-eating often show high blood pressure. In such individuals a rearrangement and restriction of the diet will greatly retard the slowly ensuing hardening of the arteries and organic heart lesion by lowering the pressure in the blood vessels. In cases where adults suffer from some infection, the period of convalescence must be given special attention and the most important element of treatment here is absolute rest, so as to prevent an acute lesion of the heart, which sometimes develops as a complication, from merging into a chronic incurable one.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 12—Once a senator takes the parliamentary bit in his teeth and launches a single-handed filibuster to prevent action or to induce a compromise, there is little his colleagues can do about it. They only hope his endurance will soon crumple.

And when a stout-bodied, experienced and wily legislator like McKellar of Tennessee does the job, such hopes are faint indeed.

Launched against ship subsidy proposals, McKellar is on familiar ground. He never lacks for material. Probably he could talk about that a week at a stretch without exhausting his objections.

"I recall one occasion when I spoke eight hours and 23 minutes to kill what I deemed an infamous subsidy bill, and it died that night," McKellar said. "No wonder—that was enough to kill it. I admit it, but it killed it."

Word Pictures

So when McKellar locked horns with Copeland of New York and Ransdell of Louisiana, over certain features of a merchant marine bill, about the time senators were thinking most of coming primary campaigns and the desirability of early adjournment, there were groans in the cloakrooms.

The particular issues of the battle seemed local. But incidental to time-killing strategy, McKellar drew three word pictures of men he knows or has known in public life.

Two of them were the senators LaFollette, father and son, the son happening to be temporary presiding officer of the senate at the moment and doubtless a pleased listener. The other was that often assailed official, Comptroller General McCarl.

Here is LaFollette senior as McKellar saw him in retrospect:

"... one of the ablest and one of the strongest and one of the best members that this body has ever had, as courageous a man as I have ever known, afraid of nothing, always for the right and against the wrong..."

High Praise

And here is young LaFollette, sitting now in his father's seat, through those same democratic, Tennessee eyes:

"... made of the same splendid fiber that his distinguished father was made of..."

And McCarl:

"... one of the most accomplished officers of the government, barring none; ... one of the most conscientious, upright, keenest, ablest men we have connected with the government; ... He has done more to keep government powers in line with law and with the constitution than perhaps any other man in the country..."

And these, mind, were democratic, not republican remarks.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

Sovietized Caviar for America.

Caviar for America is one of the most recent products to be complete sovietized, according to reports from Moscow.

Preserved sturgeon eggs, popularly known as caviar, continue to be one of the most valuable products of the soviet fisheries which have now been merged into one big, national, government controlled trust.

"The United States imported 300 tons of Russian caviar last year, for which Americans paid more than $600,000," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society from its headquarters in Washington, D. C.

"All of it was sold through the Amtorg, which is the soviet government's trading corporation in New York city. The caviar trade has been pushed vigorously because the soviet government needs that $600,000 and much more money to pay for the tons of cotton, the tractors, the electrical machinery and other commodities which the government purchases in large quantities in the United States.

"Huge, sluggish sturgeon that are helping the U. S. S. R., to buy southern cotton, inhabit the mouths of the Volga, the Caspian and the Black Sea and various other rivers running into these seas. They are the largest of fresh water fish. Authenticated, true, scientifically accepted fish stories from the Volga report that sturgeon have been caught that measured 25 feet in length and weighed 3,000 pounds.

"Only female sturgeon are highly valuable because it is the fish eggs which fishermen chiefly seek. Enormous quantities of roe are found in a single fish; the egg mass may account for one-third the entire weight.

"To catch the fish the fishermen drive stakes and set their nets in the form of large weirs, like eel weirs on a big scale. Bouncing bobbers warn the fisherman that a sturgeon swimming up-river to spawn has entered his trap.

"Having made his catch the fisherman sails through the dismal reaches of the lower Volga to Astrakan, the caviar capital. Practically all the caviar that comes to the United States is packed in this island city 72 feet below sea level. The Caspian sea into which the Volga drains is 85 feet below sea level.

"Once the catch has been brought to the wharf the sturgeon is immediately cut open and the roe emptied into a sieve through which the eggs fall. The sturgeon eggs are submerged for a few minutes in a brine, which acts as a preservative, and then packed in barrels for shipment abroad. Bulk shipments are usually put up in the small cans that decorate delicatessen shelves, after the caviar arrives in New York.

"Sturgeon, like sharks, are very old fish in the history of the world. Their armored backs and sides make them a survival in the waters such as the armored, clumsy, rhinoceros is on land. In place of scales the sturgeon has cartilaginous plates for a coat, some plates being capped with spikes. His mouth, like the shark's, is underslung, but, unlike the shark's, is toothless.

"Another product of the sturgeon is isinglass, which is the gelatinous walls of the swimming bladder. Many fishes yield isinglass but the best qualities come from sturgeon. Isinglass is used to clarify wines and beers; to makes jellies jell; to give luster to silk; to add to Spanish licorice, lamp black and water to make an India ink; to make 'court plaster'; and, when dissolved in alcohol to make a hard, durable glue used to cement diamonds and repair broken glass and pottery.

"Although caviar has been a prized and expensive table delicacy certainly as far back as the days of Shakespeare who made Hamlet say, "'Twas caviar to the general,' wealthy America is not the chief importer of Astrakan caviar. Greece annually surpasses the United States in her importations of the roe.

"The United States itself used to export caviar but that was in the days when sturgeon were still plentiful in the Great Lakes and were found in considerable numbers in the rivers of the Atlantic and Pacific coast. Over-fishing has seriously depleted our sturgeon fishery.

"Caviar is but one item in the soviet's extensive fisheries, which, although the nation is short on ice-free seacoasts, are estimated to be the third most valuable in the world. Russians used to consume large quantities of fish because of the numerous church fast days. The Baltic is rich in fish; the White Sea and the Murman coast are the home of cod, and many other fish in addition to seal herds which are hunted annually; the numerous lakes yield their annual quota; the fishery resources of the Siberian rivers have been scarcely tapped, while the salmon streams of the Pacific coast have not been exploited nearly as effectively nor as scientifically as the Alaskan salmon streams."

Stories That Recall Others

Affection.

A howl of pain and indigation came from the backyard when four-year-old Sonny and his little sister were playing.

"What is sister crying about?" asked mother.

"Ye gods," exclaimed James, who had just returned from seeing Sunny Side Up, "what an idea for a song!"

Mrs. McKay Wants Other Stomach Sufferers To Try New Remedy

MRS. ROBERT McKAY

Mrs. Robert McKay of 6 Belden court, New London, Conn., states: "With my stomach constantly upset, I felt miserable most of the time. No matter what I ate, it would not digest properly, but would ferment in my stomach, and gas would form. This gas made me deathly ill, and was constantly pressing up in the pit of my stomach; and at times I'd belch quantities of it. I was troubled by a sickening feeling that would make me feel like throwing up; and through it all, I became quite nervous and upset. I had tried many things, but it seemed that I would have to continue to suffer, as nothing helped.

"Then several weeks ago I went to Starr Bros., and got two bottles of Bon-Tone. By the end of the very first week I started to notice that I wasn't feeling nearly so badly as I usually did. I continued with this medicine; and today, after having taken four bottles, I am feeling so fine that I am giving the Bon-Tone man this testimonial in the hope that it will be the means of many others regaining their health. I am so much better that it seems too good to be true. My stomach is doing its work as it should, and my bowels are regular. I have no more gas, either; and that sickening feeling is no more. I am in fact feeling fine all over. There is no other reason for this but Bon-Tone; and I hope that you will try it, too—it is simply wonderful!"

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Carpenter Manufacturing Co., Norwich

Unique among the manufacturers of Connecticut is The Carpenter Manufacturing company of Norwich.

This concern, established by Clarence E. Carpenter and his brother, Charles B. Carpenter, in 1910 and incorporated in 1913, was the pioneer in its line of tinsel cords and tinsel ribbons put up for tying Christmas presents and other gifts throughout the year.

Its products are sold throughout the United States and their possessions; in Canada, England, Australia and other foreign countries.

It is the only industry of its kind in Connecticut putting out this diversified line to the retail trade. Besides the tinsel products they manufacture a line of shade and picture cords and assessories—a line in which C. E. Carpenter has been interested for over 40 years. Their trademark "Everbrite" is known from coast to coast and their slogan "Tie up with Everbrite" is also of national scope, they being noted for the quality and originality of their products.

It is a growing industry and has increased its capital stock four times since its organization.

The present officers are: Charles B. Carpenter, president; Clarence E. Carpenter, treasurer; Ellis H. Thayer, secretary, and general manager; Harold E. Carpenter, assistant secretary.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall or Liggett Drug Store.

Radox Brings Foot Comfort To America

Nothing Like It Ever Sold by Druggists Before

CORNS — CALLOUSES — BURNING FEET

Now you can buy Radox in America at any up to date drug store. Lee and Osgood is selling dozens of packages a day.

Three or 4 baths according to directions and your corns and callouses are gone, your tired burning aching feet are changed to strong vigorous ones and bear this in mind —

If Radox doesn't do as advertised —money back.

Getting a corn out needs only a few Radox footbaths. In the last few years millions of packets of Radox have been sold to corn sufferers. Here is a typical letter:—

"My wife had a very bad corn for several years on the ball of the foot, and four small ones on the toes, also hard skin which was very painful. After a few soakings in a Radox footbath the hard skin began to peel off, and the corns came right out after a week. It is a pleasure for her to walk now." E. S.
1st November, 1929.

Radox contains four different Salts. One banishes odor, one is antiseptic, one softens the water, and one releases oxygen which carries the softening salts right to the roots of corns which are thus loosened so that they can be lifted out bodily. Only Radox contains this fourfold combination.

Dependable Treatment for Constipation

Millions of people have welcomed a new discovery of modern science that assures a safe dependable treatment for constipation. It is no longer necessary to shift laxatives or to suffer irregular, uncomfortable bowel action.

Science now knows that the success of any laxative depends on uniform internal distribution—that unless it is thoroughly and evenly distributed throughout the intestinal tract irregular and unsatisfactory action will result.

This explains the success of the modern chewing gum laxative known as Feen-a-mint. As you chew this delicious gum, the tasteless laxative it contains is mixed with the saliva and carried to the intestinal tract evenly, smoothly, without shock to the system.

Because of its thorough distribution you will find Feen-a-mint effective in milder doses than ordinary laxatives. With the proper dosage it is not necessary to increase the amount of Feen-a-mint you take nor to switch to another laxative for a change. Feen-a-mint is harmless and contains no habit-forming drugs. Truly the health laxative. Ask for a package at any drug store.—Adv.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Orrin E. Blackstone

After illness of about a year, the death of Mrs. Minnie L. Blackstone, widow of Orrin E. Blackstone, occurred a little before 9 o'clock Thursday evening at her home, No. 48 Eighth street.

Mrs. Blackstone was born in Germany in 1864, coming to this country in early life, and had been a resident of the Greeneville section of the city for over 40 years. She was married in Norwich in 1887 to Orrin E. Blackstone, his death occurring in 1921.

For a number of years Mrs. Blackstone had been a member of the First Spiritual union. Her strong interest was in her home where she gave loving care and attention for the best interests of all in the household. She is survived by three children, Miss Hadie L. Blackstone of this city; Helen, wife of Albert Gebrath of Bayonne, N. J., and Bruce Blackstone of Bosrah. She also leaves three grandchildren, and a brother, Louis Schroeder of Leonards Bridge.

AUTOMOBILE DEMOLISHED IN CRASH WITH TROLLEY

As the result of an auto-trolley crash at Taft's station Wednesday night, Howard W. Holmes of the New London turnpike, Norwich Town, very fortunately escaped serious injury. The sedan he was driving ran head-on into a south-bound trolley car, due in Franklin square at 10:15 o'clock. The trolley car had just been brought to a stop by Motorman William Denker when the sedan, a Ford, crashed into it.

The automobile was practically demolished. Holmes was taken to a nearby house where his injuries were treated. He had a cut on the forehead and other slight injuries. Traffic was tied up for a time because of the accident. The state police are investigating the crash.

The warm days just before the rain pushed the mountain laurel forward so that some blossoms are about open.

Quick Pile Relief

No Salves or Cutting

Pile sufferers can only get quick, safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—bad blood circulation in the lower bowel. Cutting and salves can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, succeeds, because it removes this blood congestion and strengthens the affected parts.

HEM-ROID tablets as sold by druggists everywhere, have such a wonderful record for quick and lasting relief, that Lee and Osgood always sell them with guarantee of money-back if they do not end all Pile suffering.

NORWICH STATE LEADER IN TELEPHONE INCREASE

With a net increase of 120 telephones during the month of May, bringing the total increase for the first five months of the current year to 213, which is considerably above the quota for this exchange, the Norwich exchange area now has well over 7,000 telephones, the largest number in the history of the exchange.

Not all of the cities of the state have shown the same high percentage of increase that has been recorded by Norwich during the current year. As an index to business conditions in a community, telephone development is considered quite reliable and the statement of Manager Henry S. Lyon issued Thursday tends to show that in this locality at least there is no serious business recession.

That is true also of other exchanges in the New London district. The New London exchange, for example, has passed the 10,000 mark in the number of its telephones and seven of the exchanges throughout the New London district have exceeded the net increase which was expected of them for the five months period.

The net increase in Norwich is one of the largest proportionately, shown by any exchange in the state.

At the end of May there were 327,212 telephones in service in the Southern New England system. During May the net gain for the entire system was 2,083 telephones while during the five months of this year the net increase totals 6,499 telephones.

The opening of the shore places annually causes an increase in the number of telephones in this section of the state and there appears to be little, if any, falling off in this class of business this year.

Edmund Proulx gave bond for $3,000 for his son, Alfred Proulx, when the Taftville Public market was attached last Saturday by Deputy Sheriff Oscar H. Main in a breach of promise suit brought against Alfred Proulx by Miss Mary E. Williams of this city.

COMFORT CIRCLE PICNIC HELD AT GALES FERRY

On Wednesday, with all cares and worries laid aside for the day, Comfort circle, King's Daughters, enjoyed their annual picnic at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher G. Allen at Gales Ferry.

After a year's work of kind and thoughtful deeds for others, they gathered amid a riotous, glorious setting of laurel, never prettier than now. It was a merry group which sat down at noon to a bountiful menu of baked beans, salads, cold meat, rolls, cake, coffee, and ice cream. This was served by the committee in the lovely porch dining room.

There was golfing and mountain-climbing for the strenuous-minded; lounging seats for intimate chats for those desiring rest. The children were thoughtfully provided with hammocks, see-saws and a cart and were entertained by Master Horace and Miss Margaret Lee Allen.

Members stayed until late and enjoyed the wonderful sunset and were joined by their husbands for supper. An added pleasure was in having Dr. J. H. Allen with them for the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Allen are ideal hosts. Guest comfort and pleasure were ever uppermost in their minds.

CONNECTICUT SHIPPERS WILL HAVE HEARING

Connecticut shippers will now have an opportunity to present their views on the Sound Lines case in their own state subsequent to the Boston hearing, June 16, according to a recent communication from George B. McGinty, secretary of the interstate commerce commission, received by Governor Trumbull. This hearing has been assigned to Connecticut as a direct result of petitions filed with the commission during the past 60 days by Chairman Higgins of the public utilities commission, mayors of the larger cities affected, chambers of commerce, manufacturers' associations and other interested parties. Due to the uncertainty of the time required to complete the Boston hearing, Secretary McGinty will not set a definite date until all testimony has been received in Boston. Authorities on the case believe that the Connecticut hearing will occur about July 15.

Connecticut witnesses in the case, who had previously planned to give testimony in Boston, will now have an opportunity to secure additional data for presentation at the Connecticut hearing.

CIRCUS FEATURES FOR CHILDREN AND SANATORIUM

For two Norwich groups the coming of Sparks' circus here today (Friday) will be made a special entertainment event through the work of the welfare committee of Norwich lodge of Elks.

These are the county home children and the patients at Uncas-on-Thames. The 60 to 65 children at the county home will be taken to the circus in the afternoon in automobiles supplied by members of the lodge and will have just the kind of a joyful day which only the circus means in the life of a child.

Between the afternoon and evening performances of the circus an entertainment will be provided for the sanatorium by a group of the circus clowns who will go to Uncas-on-Thames. Sparks has about 20 clowns with the circus and a contingent from these will provide for the programme at the sanatorium.

D. J. McCORMICK HAS NEW YORK TRAFFIC PLAN

Daniel J. McCormick, who was formerly an automobile salesman in this city, has evolved what he terms a scientific traffic regulation plan for New York city which was published in a New York Sunday newspaper. Without structural changes, but merely by installing properly timed traffic lights at each intersection, he claims that both motor and pedestrian traffic can be satisfactorily controlled.

TRINITY WESLEYAN GUILD HOLDS ANNUAL ELECTION

The Wesleyan guild of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church held its annual meeting Thursday afternoon, with the vice-president, Mrs. John Phillips, presiding for the regular business session.

The report of the nominating committee was accepted and officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. John Phillips; vice-president, Mrs. Charles Browning; secretary, Mrs. Tyler D. Guy; treasurer, Miss Edith A. Fellows; chairmen—domestic department, Mrs. H. J. Bradford; parsonage, Mrs. Wilbur E. Baldwin; ways and means, Mrs. Eugene Boyens; flower, Miss Hannah Haglund; membership, Miss Bessie Boardman; missions, Mrs. Joseph Cooper; hospital, Mrs. Louis H. Geer and Mrs. Mary Thompson.

Announcement was made of the picnic at Gardner lake on Wednesday, June 25, when the guild is to be the guest of Mrs. John A. Morgan.

One of the interesting parts of the meeting was the reading of a long letter from Gladys Thompson Jameson, wife of Dr. Jameson, who is in the mission field at Jaffna, Manipay, Ceylon. Mrs. Jameson is a graduate of Norwich Free Academy and of Simmons college, Boston. She is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Thompson of 50 Freeman avenue and the late Rev. John Thompson, who for 40 years was in the New England Southern conference. Seven years ago last Christmas Dr. and Mrs. Jameson sailed from New London for the mission field in Ceylon.

In her letter, which was written April 14, Mrs. Jameson speaks of the "furlough" which she and the doctor are expecting and which will enable them to come home to the United States with their three children, probably reaching here by next Christmas.

Letter from Ceylon

In the letter Mrs. Jameson gives a vivid description of one of the native religious festivals, as follows:

"Just at present there is a big temple 'tedavalar' going on—almost across the road from us. It's a big Hindu festival which lasts 18 days. Each night a different group of people furnish the 'show.' They have drums and singing and fireworks and burn camphor and incense. They decorate the god and goddess with garlands of flower buds and worship them off and on the whole night. The din from the drums and shouts of the people keeps up the entire time the performance lasts. It begins at 9 p. m. and continues till 4, 5 or 6 a. m., depending upon the amount of money paid the drummers by the patrons of the 'show.' The noise, together with the hot nights, is rather disturbing. Yesterday was the biggest day of the festival. When the god comes out on his throne and is carried once around the temple the din was dreadful. It sounded like the roar of drums and a small cannonade. A day at the county fair is a small rival to this. The crowd was dense and our compound was packed with cars, rickshaws and bullock carts and carriages. One man had the audacity to park on our tennis court. The women measured their lengths in bows going once around the temple, the men rolled along the road in the dirt and dust, some coming from long distances. Yesterday the doctor was rushing to see a patient but couldn't get through as traffic was blocked by a roller who lay exhausted and didn't budge even for the honks of motor horns and signals from people and carriages which were stopped for a quarter of a mile.

"Today I saw a man 'caryadie.' He danced in the road with a yoke over his neck. It had a bunch of peacock feathers at each of the four corners; then it had on top a tall cone of glittering red and gold paper like a dancing feathery Christmas tree. The man had his cheeks pierced with silver spears; his tongue was pierced with a silver cobra; from his chest were three silver chains which were fastened in with hooks and went up to the silver cobra in his mouth. His back was pierced with many hooks, perhaps 40, from them hung strings which were eventually twisted and braided to form one coil of rope about the thickness of one's thumb. That was held by a man who danced about with a light fantastic step—all the while holding as taut as possible the rope which led from the hooks in the poor self-torturer's back. It was a grotesque, pitiful sight to me. It had probably been done in fulfilment of a vow or to reward special merit of adoration for his god."

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Announcements have been received from Mrs. Thomas Leake Parsons of the marriage of her daughter, Katherine Scarsdale, and Dr. John George Atwood Raynor, Saturday, June 7th, at Pohick Church, Virginia. Dr. and Mrs. Raynor will be at home after the first of July at Norwich Inn. Dr. Raynor came to Norwich to succeed the late Dr. Witter Kinney Tingley.

Mrs. William H. Dawley of Lincoln avenue attended the meeting in Hartford of the executive committee of the Whiton Family association, when plans were perfected for the annual reunion at the old homestead on Westfield Hill, August 23rd.

Accompanying Mrs. James H. Whitney, Mrs. Herbert R. Kind, Mrs. Florence F. Ford and Mrs. Walter A. Bussey motored to Windsor Tuesday for the D. A. R. meeting at the Ellsworth Memorial.

At Norwich Inn Thursday, when the Thursday bridge club and guests met for luncheon and cards, the prizes were won by Mrs. Robert H. Montgomery, Mrs. Clarence E. Barber and Miss Burlingame.

Dr. and Mrs. Arnaud J. LaPierre, of Elm avenue, who have reached Scotland in their tour abroad, are to sail for home from Southampton June 19th on the Leviathan.

Miss Ruth E. Cruckshank, a student at Lasell seminary, Auburndale, Mass., is at her home, 121 Broadway for the summer vacation.

Miss Sue L Gallup was among members of Faith Trumbull chapter attending the conference of the D. A. R. at Windsor Tuesday.

Miss Grace Benjamin, Miss Julia E. Brewer and Miss Emma J. Dawber were motor visitors in Hartford Wednesday.

Lions Postpone Meeting

There was no meeting of the Norwich Lions club Thursday noon, owing to the absence from the city of President Charles W. Cassidy and a number of the other members of the club. President Cassidy is in Washington. The next meeting will be held at the Wauregan hotel next Thursday.

Colonial Club Pinochle

Ten tables were in play Thursday night in pinochle at the Colonial club. Those taking the prizes were: Mrs. Herring, 7510; Mrs. Farrell, 7410; Mrs. Brown, 7150, and Mr. Lafferty, 7560; Mr. Beetham, 7040; Mr. Morse, 7020.

DR. WORKS RESIGNS PRESIDENCY AT STORRS

STORRS, Conn., June 12.—(AP)—Charging that the political organization of the state was one which would not permit a realization in the near future of his policies, Dr. George Allan Works today resigned as president of Connecticut Agricultural college.

His resignation, coming less than a year after his inauguration as head of the college, will become effective at the close of the college year. Next September, Dr. Works will become professor of education at the University of Chicago, the institution from which he came to Connecticut.

Dr. Works' statement of the policies which he favored for the college was supported by Dr. Albert E. Meredith, state commissioner of education, who said that "the state of Connecticut wants more then a 'dirt farm college.'"

The resignation statement by Dr. Works was as follows:

DR. GEORGE A. WORKS

"With deep regret and only after careful consideration have I decided to resign the presidency of the Connecticut Agricultural college. The primary considerations that have led me to make this decision are the possibilities that I see in the position that I have been offered at the University of Chicago. There are, however, other elements in the situation that have contributed to the decision.

"The suport given me by the trustees.

"The support given me by the trustees could be desired. They are men and women devoted to the welfare of the institution, but during the past year I have learned that they do not have the degree of freedom in determining the policies of the college that I believe to be essential for a governing board to possess. The trustees should have a larger measure of autonomy in determining fiscal policies, which in turn influence educational policies, than the present financial organization of the state's government gives them.

"Further, the year spent in the study of educational conditions has convinced me that so far as higher education is concerned the greatest need of the state is a larger opportunity for the young men and women to obtain general education. The colleges should in accordance with the legislation providing for its establishment carry forward its work in agriculture and engineering with vigor. However, this is not sufficient. Its offerings in the field of humanities and the social sciences should be materially strengthened to the end that a larger proportion of the young people of the state may be able to obtain a good general education at the college. Believing this as completely as I do I would not be honest to my convictions if I did not consistently work to bring the condition to pass by which the scope of the college would be materially increased. I believe the people of the state would accept this view when the facts were before them but in my opinion the political organization of the state is not such that this end can be realized in the immediate future.

"The college has been built on a fundamentally sound basis and there is no doubt but what ultimately the trustees will be given the freedom and the funds necessary for an institution that shall more completely meet the needs of the state than is possible at present, but this possibility does not appear likely of realization in the near future."

JUDGMENT AGAINST USER OF CAVE MAN STUFF

Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court handed down judgment for $1,150 and costs in favor of Anthony Cook of York avenue, this city, against John Coman of Ledyard on account of a beating Coman gave Cook when both were employes of the Robert Gair company.

Judge Brown in his memorandum of decision says:

In this action for damages for assault and battery there is no substantial conflict between the evidence offered by the plaintiff and that offered by the defendant. It discloses in substance that on May 23, 1929, at the plant of the Robert Gair company in Montville where the parties were fellow employes, the defendant demanded the repayment of a loan of four or five dollars, claimed made to the plaintiff several months before, which the plaintiff stated he was unable to pay. Thereupon the defendant remarked: "I will take it out of your hide then." In pursuance of this program, as the plaintiff was faced away from him, the defendant (Coman) with his fist hit him a smashing blow on the chin, followed it up with a terrific blow on the lower left chest, and after pursuing him to the overseer's office, again hit him in the face. The plaintiff at no time struck or attempted to strike the defendant.

In consequence of the blows so struck, the plaintiff suffered intense pain, was unable to eat or sleep until noon of the next day when a doctor was called and found him unconscious, bleeding at the mouth, apparently from an internal hemorrhage, and in a critical condition. He was taken to the hospital and was attended by the doctor there for a week and later at his home until July 16, 1929. He was not sufficiently recovered to have been able to resume his regular work until four months after the assault, although he undertook lighter work on or about Aug. 1, 1929, which he has since continued.

The plaintiff's cash outlay in consequence of his injuries is $39.60 for his hospital bill and $60 to the doctor. His loss of wages comprised of nine weeks while unable to work at all, at $39.60 per week, or $356.40, and nine weeks at $29.60 while he was able to earn but $10 per week or $266.40, totals $622.80. I find that fair compensation for the plaintiff's other elements of damage including pain and suffering, in addition to these items aggregating $722.40, is sufficient to bring the total to which the plaintiff is entitled to $1150.

The difficulty with this defendant is that he was born in few centuries too late to render acceptable his cave man theory of a right to exact satisfaction from the hide of his debtor. Even his magnanimous offer, in response to the overseer's query as to whether he hadn't possibly "taken more than $4 worth out of the plaintiff," by the vicious beating administered—to pay the doctor's bill for sewing up the plaintiff's chin, if he had, does not quite square the defendant's conduct with the advanced 20th century theory of our existing law.

Judgment may be entered for the plaintiff to recover of the defendant $1,150 damages and his costs.

Attorney Josiah Greenstein was counsel for Cook while Attorney George Curtis Morgan of New London appeared for Coman.

Mother of Four Babies

"Although I am only 22 years old, I have four babies to care for. Before my first baby was born my mother urged me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was so terribly weak. I had to lie down four or five times a day. After three bottles I could feel a great improvement. I still take the Vegetable Compound whenever I need it for it gives me strength to be a good mother to my family."—Mrs. Vern L. Dennings, 510 Johnson Street, Saginaw, Michigan.

SCHMELING WINS HEAVYWEIGHT CROWN WHEN SHARKEY FOULS HIM IN FOURTH

Sharkey Had Schmeling Whipped Until the Low Blow At the End of the Fourth Round—Referee Admits Not Seeing the Blow But Takes Word of One Judge—Crowd In Uproar As Bout Comes to Unsatisfactory Ending.

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, June 13—(AP)—In a sudden and bewildering finish, Max Schmeling was proclaimed the victor over Jack Sharkey tonight on a foul in the last few seconds of the fourth round of a 15 round match that failed dismally in its object of crowning an undisputed heavyweight champion of the world.

The black-haired young German, after being on the verge of a knockout in the third round from as vicious a two-fisted attack as Sharkey ever let loose, Schmeling crumpled up against the ropes and fell writhing in agony to the floor from a left hook that landed fully two inches below the belt and in the left groin.

Amid scenes of the wildest confusion and uproar, as the managers, seconds and handlers clambered into the ring, Referee Jimmy Crowley dashed from one side of the ring to the other in quest of a decision on a blow he admitted not seeing. The bell rang for the end of the fourth round, Schmeling was carried, limp and groaning to his corner, and several minutes elapsed before Crowley finally reached his verdict in the German's favor.

One Judge Sees Blow

The final blow, unquestionably a low one, was landed directly in front of one of the judges, Harold Barnes, and on his unhesitating testimony that Schmeling had been fouled, Crowley made his decision to the accompaniment of wild scenes within the ring as well as from without. The other judge, Charles F. Matthison, concurred in the verdict although he also was deprived of a full view of the abrupt finish.

It was a stunning disappointment to the big crowd, estimated at nearly 80,000 that had come to see a new heavyweight king crowned as successor to the retired Gene Tunney. It had cheered Sharkey as he battered his youthful foeman into a state of grogginess in the third round and appeared satisfied that the American would go on to demonstrate his mastery.

Probably no more than a few hundred spectators actually saw the low blow struck and so close together were the fighters on one side of the ring, up against the ropes at the time, that barely a quarter of the assembled 500 experts had anything approaching an unobstructed view of the deciding punch.

Under the circumstances, there was a spectacular outburst of disapproval upon the part of the crowd, which booed the principals, the referee and everything connected with the proceedings as Schmeling, still in apparent agony, was carried bodily from the ring and to his dressing room.

Sharkey Excited

Sharkey, again in the midst of a chaotic scene reminiscent down to details of his unsatisfactory bout with Phil Scott at Miami, found himself this time the victim, rather than the beneficiary of his own wildness. Although he manifested no display of tears, he paced up and down in his excitement as the referee was seeking a verdict. As it was given he closed his eyes and slumped in his corner but refused to say a word as he was led in dejection from the ring.

The upshot of this crowning fiasco to a long-drawn heavyweight elimination process, spread over two years since Tunney's retirement, was an apparently majority opinion among experts as well as fans that no heavyweight championship could be awarded upon the outcome.

Schmeling, though the winner and in no way to blame for the ending, nevertheless was a thoroughly beaten young man so far as points were concerned when he suddenly sank to the canvas.

May Not Get Title

The dust-covered championship emblem, known as the Tunney-Muldoon trophy, is not likely to be awarded to Schmeling or any one else for sometime to come, if the opinion of one of its donors, Mr. Tunney himself, is influential. While declining to commit himself or to speak for the committee in charge of the trophy, Tunney made it clear he considered no champion emerged from the night's main event.

Once again, therefore, it seems that the heavyweight championship has gone on the rocks of disappointment and ineffectiveness on the part of its crew. The Boston sailor, picked to carry it safely into port for good old Uncle Sam, draped symbolically with the American flag as he entered the ring and fighting at the outset what seemed one of his best fights, wound up discredited once more. Sharkey, it seems, has not yet shaken the jinx that pursued him when he fought Dempsey in 1927, failed again in 1928 to establish himself a contender and almost cut his 1930 campaign short in Miami, only to lay him low tonight—on a wild throw in the vicinity of second base, over which the ring was pitched in the big ball park.

Schmeling, for the time being, has whatever laurels belong to the winner but they seemed few and far between. The German youngster, bidding for world honors in only his sixth fight in America, fought gamely against a more experienced rival.

But his victory was an accident, on the basis of what happened in the ring.

Doctor Substantiates Claim

There was no doubt about Schmeling being badly hurt. He was still in bad shape in his dressing room a half hour after the bout and the examination of the official boxing commission physician, Dr. William Walker, disclosed a "definite spasm in the left scrotum." This, the doctor said, indicated Max had been hit a powerful blow in that region.

Up to the foul blow, adding a fresh chapter to controversial ring literature, the only exciting moments of the fight were crowded into the third round as Sharkey, with cool mastery had vicious thrusts, punched Schmeling all over the ring. The young German kept his feet under a heavy volley of rights to the head, lefts to the jaw and ribs, but was badly hurt, groggy and on the verge of a knockout.

Schmeling Badly Beaten

They had sparred for the first two rounds with little to choose, as Schmeling boxed so close to even terms with his heavier and more experienced opponent, but the American got loose in the third as though intent on a quick finish. Solidly he pounded Schmeling with his powerful right. Twice, as the German gamely rushed in, Sharkey ripped left hooks to the body that almost lifted Max off the floor as they doubled him up in pain. At the same time, the American showed a healthy respect for Schmeling's right and fought with cool wariness, seemingly confident he could finish the German when he chose.

Ice and smelling salts were applied furiously in the German's corner before he came out for the fourth round. Max was wary but he rallied gallantly and stung Sharkey with a right to the head. The American took no chances but quickly regained command as he cuffed and outboxed the German. It was as they swung into a clinch that Sharkey delivered the left-hand blow. Intended for the mid-section but falling inches short of its mark and in distinctly foul territory.

For a few moments, as confusion swept the ring, it appeared Schmelling was to be counted out. The bell for the end of the round sounded, however, and Crowley began his confused search for a verdict as both managers shouted demands and defiance. So great was the confusion that the timekeeper lost track of his watch and no official could say exactly how much longer the fourth round had to go when the final blow landed. The concensus was that the round had less than ten seconds to go.

The fight, biggest boxing extravanza New York has had in two years, drew a dazzling gathering of notables to the ringside, while via the National Broadcasting company's elaborate international hookup, the ringside disorder was broadcast to millions.

Gate of $740,000.

On the basis of a paid attendance in excess of 70,000, the promoters of the bout, held for the benefit of the Children's Milk Fund, drew a "gate" estimated at $740,000 making it the sixth largest in fight history and the third largest in New York city. Only the Dempsey-Firpo and Dempsey-Sharkey bouts exceeded this figure here.

SCHMELING SORRY BOUT ENDED WITH A FOUL

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, June 12—(AP)—Max Schmeling was a sick and none too happy fighter as he lay on a rubbing table in his dressing room tonight and regretted that he won from Jack Sharkey on a foul.

Schmeling's groin was packed in cracked ice and he appeared sick as Dr. William Walker, of the New York State Athletic commission, completed his examination.

"I hate to win like that," Max said as his handlers lifted him up and rubbed him with alcohol. The only marks on the German were slight swellings of both eye brows, mute indications of the punches Sharkey threw into the German's head for three and a fraction rounds only to lose on a foul in the fourth.

Just Feeling Sharkey Out

"For three rounds," continued Max. "I let Sharkey punch so I could find out what he had. He could not hurt me. He is not so good a fighter as I thought. I could feel him change in the fourth. He looked different to me and I knew then I would beat him. I had planned to see what he had for six rounds because I know that he is best then and after that not so good.

"You say I looked badly hurt in the second and third rounds. That is strange. I feel good all the time. Sharkey could not hurt me. I look around when he hit me in the third and I see every one watching. I am not dazed.

"In the third round Sharkey swung low but I caught the punch on my right glove. I said to Sharkey: 'Be careful, Jack'. He did not answer me. That is funny, I think to myself, this fellow they told me talks all the time in the ring."

When Sharkey crossed the ring to Schmeling in the delirious moments that followed the incapacitating blow and just before the decision was announced, Max told the American that he was anxious to fight again.

"I am very sorry to win this way," he told Sharkey. "I will give revenge," he said in his broken English. We fight again, yes."

Sharkey's grumbled reply was lost to posterity.

Sharkey Has Little to Say

The Boston sailor marched into his dressing room, brushing aside the condolences tossed his way enroute by policemen and common citizens. Once in the room, he smacked one hand into the other, glowered about the assembly, and said softly:

"I would rather have lost every other fight I ever fought than this one tonight."

He stared blankly around the room, went to his locker, sat down on a bench before it and held his head in his hands. Then a horde of newspapermen swept in on him.

"What have you to say Jack?" they demanded.

His eyes filled with tears, he shook his head.

"You've got to say something," they insisted.

"Well," he said quitely, "I don't think much of Schmeling's ability as a fighter. I was playing along with him and I was positive I could have knocked him out any time I wanted to. It was just like a game of tag and he was 'it'."

Sharkey then turned to his manager, Johnny Buckley, and mildly asked:

"Couldn't you have done something?"

The perspiring Buckley hoarsely shouted:

"Jack I done everything I could do. What was there to do?"

They left it at that. Sharkey hopes to talk with Madison Square Garden officials tomorrow in an effort to get another chance at Schmeling in September.

Hardigs Still Winning

The Hardigs A. C. added another victory to their credit by defeating the Trojans 15 to 4 Wednesday night at Hollyhock Island. Eddie Orzulak pitching in his old time form, pitched one of the best games this season, striking out eight men in the first three innings. Orzulak is training to become a "pug", but it looks like he hits the ball harder than he hits the dummy. Riley, Eddie's mate on the mound, is also hitting the ball hard. The Hardigs have signed Fred Debarros, a crack first sacker. The Hardigs are without a game Sunday. They would like to hear from B. S. A. C. or Jewett City Reds.

Specials Win

The Hickory Specials defeated the Gillmore Sluggers by the score of 14 to 6. The fine catching was done by Chet and pitching by Pat. The fielding fatures were by Henry and Tony and Stanley.

MANY FAST BOATS ENTERED FOR RACES SUNDAY

Considerable interest is being shown in the coming outboard races which are to be held at Kitemaug under the auspices of the Chelsea Boat club on June 15. The committee has had an opportunity in the past few days to examine several of the new boats which are entered in the races. These boats have not been previously seen on the river. The original models of these were tried out last fall and proved to be very fast. The new boats are considered an improvement over the originals and the preliminary trials have proven them very fast and seaworthy. Weather permitting, spectators should have an opportunity of seeing some really fast outboards, driven by local drivers that will hold their own against anything else in the state.

Last year there was some dissatisfaction among the drivers on account of large boats churning up the water during the races and making it difficult for the drivers but this will be overcome this year as the committee has the cooperation of the coast guard at New London, who will send a patrol boat to Kitemaug on Sunday to see that the course is kept free and open for the various events.

The club house this year will be open to spectators and will be in charge of a caterer, who will have light lunches, soft drinks and ice cream, and make every effort to make the people feel at home, and spend an enjoyable day. Arrangements have been made to furnish ample parking space free of charge.

The marathon race, which will start later in the afternoon, probably around 4:30, will start at Kitemaug, run to a point off the Robert Gair Paper company at Montville, and turn and run around a buoy which will be situated in the harbor at Norwich in the vicinity of Chappell's wharf. The start of the races will be as near 1 o'clock as it is possible to make them.

POWERMEN EASILY TAKE GAME FROM BOXMAKERS

The Eastern Connecticut Power Co. easily defeated the Robertson Paper Box Co. Thursday evening at the Gair diamond at Uncasville by the score of 10 to 3. In winning the Powermen went into the lead again in the Montville twilight league. Killeen, Dugas and Friars led the Powermen in hitting, Killeen hitting safely twice, Dugas getting a single and double and Friars made two singles. Nortoski garned a homer for the Powermen.

McELROY TO PITCH FOR VELVETMEN ON SUNDAY

The J. B. Martin ball club has secured McElroy of Providence to pitch for them against the New London Kaceys on Sunday. Walter Lindner, who was injured in last Sunday's game, will be unable to pitch for at least two weeks as he is suffering from a wrenched knee.

Hardigs Defeat Trojans

Scoring 11 runs in the first inning, the Hardigs defeated the Trojans in a twilight game at Hollyhock diamond on Wednesday night, 15 to 4. The Hardigs scored 16 hits, 10 of these in the first inning. The Trojans seemed to have lost their early season stride and proved to be no match for the snappy Hardigs. Freddy Debarros proved to be the feature of the game, collecting 4 hits out of as many tries. He scored 5 of his team's runs and poled a triple with the bases filled. Eddie Orzulak won his second victory within a week. He allowed the Trojan 4 scattered hits and fanned 9.

The Hardigs wish to book games with any fast amateur team, preferably the Jewett City H. N. S, or the Jewett City Reds, the Baltic S. A. C., Norwich Cubs, or the Montville Legion team for Sunday at Hollyhock diamond. Answer through this paper.

Fay Beats Hoffman

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, June 12.—(AP)—In the semi-final of the Sharkey-Schmeling heavyweight show, staged after the main bout, Al Fay of Charleroix, Pennsylvania, pounded out a victory over George Hoffman of New York in ten mauling rounds. Fay gained the decision in a fight that found both cut and bleeding at the finish. The winner weighed 132 1-2 and Hoffman 132.

Montville Vs. N. L. Bankers

The Montville Independents, this (Friday) evening, will play the Bankers, of the New London league, in their first encounter this season.

What an ending for a championship bout!

And what an empty honor it is for Max Schmeling to be known as the world's heavyweight champion.

In the eyes of the big majority of fight fans, Max Schmeling is no more the champion of the heavyweight class than Benny Leonard.

Schmeling was outclassed and a badly beaten boy at the end of the third round and Jack Sharkey is the real champion, although he don't wear the crown.

The new champion claimed that he was just seeing how much Sharkey could do in six rounds and then was going out to beat him. Oh, yeah?

Well, if that was Schmeling's idea of ring strategy it sure is a heroic as well as unique way of winning a fight. The chances are that if it had gone six rounds the only way Schmeling would have of knowing what Sharkey could do would be to read it in the papers next day.

Sharkey claims he was just playing with Schmeling. Oh, my, what a rough playmate you are, Jack. That's not my idea of play at all.

But, confidentially, I think both of them are passing out the old baloney. Max couldn't help himself and Jack wasn't fooling.

But my sympathy goes out to Billy Moore, Barney Keenan, Charlie Conradi and Doc Sussler, who paid six dollars and some cents per round to see the fiasco.

Well, it insures another bout between Schmeling and Sharkey, perhaps. But will the crowd come to see them again? Sure they will, that's the great American sight fans.

What a great chance for Schmeling to make a grandstand play and come right out and say that he wont take the title even if it's given to him. What copy that would make for the sports writers!
